An Extract from the Bath Chronicles

Now it came to pass in the fourth year of Franklin the ruler of all the land even on the first day of the third month that Joshua the King called his privy counsellor and said Up! Away to my servants and say unto them all that I command you Gather them together in the Borders of all the land and cause to be read in their hearing the writing which I shall give thee And this is the writing which thou shalt cause to be read in the ears of all the people

Proclamation

Joshua the King unto the inhabitants of the land of Bath

Know ye all ye people old men & children young men and maidens even all ye that dwell in the land to inhabit it from the Borders of the land of Montgomery even unto the great river that runneth north & from the Bearer waters even unto the creek called little Great Know ye all ye people of every tribe and kindred that I am King that I sit on the throne of Thomas the great who aforetime was King but who hath basely left the Realm and that now I watch over my people and give ear unto this my proclamation Hearken to my words when I say unto you that the time draweth nigh in which ye shall choose from among you to fill sundry offices in your land Be obedient to my words bow down at my commands yea bow the knee in great suppleness even to the least of my behests for ye know that my wisdom is great and my power is mighty Know all ye rabble that dwell upon the waters of state and ye rapscallions that hide yourselves among the bushes with reed canes that if ye disobey my mandates and turn a deaf ear to my commands that I will go unto my brother Surnamed Jack who is deputy under robert the duke and will cause him to dispossess you of your lands So that ye even your little ones shall cry for bread and ye of the green pastures and pleasant brooks

Proclamation

Joshua the King unto the inhabitants of the land of Bath & children Know ye all ye people old men & children young men & maidens even all ye that dwell in the land to inhabit it from the borders of the land of Montgomery even unto the great river that runeth to the north and from the Bearer waters even unto the creek called little flat Know ye all ye people of every tribe and kindred that I the King that sit on the throne of Thomas the great who aforetime was King but who hath basely left the realm and that now I watch over my people and give ear unto this my proclamation Hearken to my words when I say unto you that the time draweth nigh in the which ye shall choose from among you to fill sundry offices in your land Be obedient to my words bow down at my commands yea bow the knee in great suppleness even to the least of my behest for ye know that my wisdom is great and my power is mighty Know all ye rabble that dwell upon the waters of Slate and ye rapscallions that hide yourselves among the bushes with yea beards that if ye disobey my mandates and turn a deaf ear to my commands that I will go unto my brothers Sumanus Peck and who is Deputy under Robert the duke and will cause him to dispossess you of your lands so that ye even ye your wives and little ones shall cry for bread & ye of the green pastures and pleasant brooks remember ye treatment with which I treated James of Cork and the banishment with which I banished Peter the Sore ye are even a banishment to a far country Give not ear unto those that wildly cry the country is free & I will vote as seemeth good unto me All those who thus cry are as the foolish ones Hath it not been so of old that the people had kings and counsellors did they not say to one go and he went to another come and he came Do this and lo it was done Hath it not been for lo these many years that

Contemptuously called wire pullers composed their ends by fair means or by foul Thus it has been in days That are past & Think ye that I will now Surrender my crown Verrily I say unto you nay Now there be those That I have chosen that is to Say William the Son of Henry The elder to be tax gatherer & John the Scribe Son of John elders to be Scribe. And now I will Show you the wisdom of This Are not theses The Stations in which the Sheckles are gotten And is not power in their hands yea verrily this my Soul knoweth right well Know ye not that the royal family loseth the gliter of the Sheckels and that the eyes of Harry glistens as he sees talents of gold Know ye not that for all This Harry the younger is recorder to all the land and John has been Scribe for six & thirty years And of my Sons know ye not that Henry and George will gather taxes under William whom I have chosen for is he not thine mothers brother & Penrose my Son Shall be Scribe in Seven year for is he not now Deputy under John his mothers cousin
