They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Another Alumni Loyalty Fund scholarship has been awarded, another young high school graduate, the sixth, will enter the University of Kentucky this fall on a $2,800 scholarship, and another annual giving program to foster these scholarships is under way.

Last year the alumni of the University contributed $3,479.50 to the Loyalty Fund. This sum was a little more than the $2,800 required for one scholarship, but it is not enough to permit us to expand our program and to offer more than one of these fine scholarships annually.

ANOTHER YEAR HAS BEGUN, ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY HAS BEEN OFFERED TO YOU TO DIG A LITTLE DEEPER IN 1953-54 in order that more young Kentuckians may attend the University through Alumni-Fund sponsorship. Stretch your purse, your heart and your loyalty a little more, and make another, bigger investment this year in the future of Kentucky.

Alexander Bonnyman Dies At Home In Knoxville, Tenn.

Alexander Bonnyman, president of the Blue Diamond Coal Company of Knoxville, Tenn., one of the South's great business leaders and one of the University's most loyal sons, died April 15 at his home in Knoxville.

A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, Mr. Bonnyman came to the United States with his parents and an older sister when he was two. On coming to this country his parents, George and Sarah Toner Bonnyman, settled in Lexington, Ky. with their two children and young Alexander was graduated from high school there and later entered the University of Kentucky. In 1950 his alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Majoring in engineering, young Bonnyman completed his course in 1888, when he joined the engineering staff of the C. & O. Railroad on what is now the eastern Ky. division of the L. & N. There he pushed construction of that line into the Kentucky coal fields.

In 1892 he began a six-year connection with the Central of Georgia Railroad and in 1899 he became superintendent of construction for the Atlantic and Birmingham Railroad and built 300 miles of railway. Upon completion of this assignment he became operations superintendent.

In 1905, at the age of 37 he was appointed chief engineer for that line and acquired large holdings in coal and iron fields in the Birmingham district. He married Miss Frances Berry, of Rome, Ga. in 1906.

The Bonnyman's had two sons and two daughters. Both sons saw service in World War II and the elder son, the late Lt. Alexander (Sandy) Bonnyman, Jr., died a hero's death at Tarawa in 1943. He was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. The younger son, Gordon, was wounded while fighting in Burma as a member of Merrill's Marauders. Since his father's death he has been elected president of the Blue Diamond Coal Company.

From 1906 to 1912 Mr. Bonnyman was general manager of operations for the railroad with headquarters in Atlanta, but he went to Knoxville in 1912 as president and general manager of the Campbell Coal Mining Co. During the next ten years he headed several coal companies which, in 1927, consolidated into the Blue Diamond Coal Company.

In 1946 Mr. Bonnyman gave to his alma mater a set of 25 carollonic bells for Memorial Hall in memory of his son. A personal friend of the late President James K. Patterson, he served as chairman of the Patterson Memorial Committee to raise funds for a memorial statute on the campus.

Other gifts to his alma mater have included a portrait of President H. L. Donovan, a portrait of Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, and a gift from his company of several scholarships to help sons of his company employees.

A Roman Catholic, several years ago the Pope named him a member of the Association of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta in the United States of America. He was affiliated with numerous professional, social and religious groups, and of the Knoxville Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Margot McKeon, New York City and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, Montreal, Canada, his son, Gordon, and ten grandchildren. Funeral services were held at the church and burial followed in Highland Memorial cemetery.

STUDENTS NAMED TO ALUMNI GROUP

Lawrence Riddle, of Buechel, Ky., a graduate of the University in the class of 1953, and Barbara Baldwin, of Louisville, who will be a 1954 graduate, were chosen by the executive board of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association to serve as honorary members of the board for the 1953-54 school year.

The purpose of inviting a recent graduate and a senior student to serve on the board is to acquaint graduating seniors and recent graduates with the work of the association, and to promote active interest in the association among the young alumni.

UK Kernel Editor Wins Scholarship

Merrill McCord '53, of Hopkinsville, 1952-53 editor of the Kentucky Kernel, student newspaper, and an outstanding student in the School of Journalism, has been named recipient of the $2,000 Charles Samuel Jackson, Jr. fellowship for graduate journalistic study at Stanford University. The fellowship is for the 1953-54 academic year.

Young McCord is the recipient of the highest of three grants offered by the University to students all over the country.

While an undergraduate Merrill was president of the Henry Watterson Press Club, a member of the Student Board of Publications; Scabbard and Blade, military honorary, and Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Dawson, Hardwick, To Head Alumni in '53-'54

Beam, Hillenmeyer, Myers Also Named

R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield, Ky., civil engineer, president of the R. R. Dawson Bridge Company and retiring vice president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, has been named president of the alumni governing body for 1953-54. T. H. Hardwick, '29, Lexington hotel executive, is the new vice president of the group.

New members of the executive committee, named for three-year terms are: Mrs. T. Jere Beam (Lucy Kavanaugh), '22, of Louisville; Robert H. Hillenmeyer, '43, Lexington, and J. Carlisle Myers, Jr., '48, also of Lexington.

Announcement of the result of the mail balloting by active members of the association was made by W. H. Townsend, Lexington, retiring president, at the annual banquet and meeting of the Alumni Association held June 4 in the Student Union.

Speaker at the banquet was Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the University's department of history and 1929 graduate of the University, who built his address around the activities of the students and faculties from 1903 until 1928 the dates of the 50th and 25th reunions. His subject was, "From Bustles to Bathtub Gin."

Mr. Townsend presided at the dinner and at the annual meeting, and greetings from the administration were extended to returning alumni by Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, UK vice president. Invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. Robert W. Estill, '49, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church at Middlesboro, Ky., and a musical program was presented by the University quartet.

Fifteen classes came back for reunions on June 4, with the class of 1903 celebrating its golden anniversary and the class of 1928 its silver jubilee. Others returning were: 1907; 1910, '11, '12 and '13; 1929, '30, '31 and '32, and 1949, '50, '51 and '52.

On June 3 the class of 1907, which returns biennially for a reunion, held a dinner at the Lafayette hotel at which 28 were present including class members and their wives.

Thursday, June 4, all returning alumni registered at 9:30 a.m. in the Alumni Association offices, following which visitors were conducted on tours of the various colleges and departments. At noon that day a picnic was held for all reuners, their guests, faculty and friends, on the east concourse of Memorial Coliseum, and a large and enthusiastic group attended.

The only feature at the informal picnic was the presentation of the Alma Magna Mater award to the senior student who, in the judgment of the organization's membership, had contributed the most unselfish service to the University during his undergraduate days. Mr. R. R. Dawson presided at the brief ceremonies, and introduced Jay Wallace, Carrollton, Ky., senior and president of Alma Magna Mater who in turn presented the silver trophy to Henry Coleman Durham, graduating senior from Greensburg, Ky.

Additional tours were conducted in the afternoon, following which returning alumni were guests of the President and Mrs. H. L. Donovan at a reception in the gardens of Maxwell Place. The alumni banquet closed the day's reunion activities.

All during commencement week the Alumni Association was host to faculty, students and alumni at coke and coffee hours in the Music Room of the Student Union.

Jesse W. Tapp, Palo Alto, Calif., distinguished Kentucky alumnus and vice president of the Bank of America, was the commencement luncheon speaker on Friday.

Friday night's commencement, to the alumni at least, was highlighted by the presentation of honorary Doctor of Laws degrees to six prominent men, two of whom, Mr. Tapp and Maj. Gen. Hugh M. Milton, II, of Washington, D. C. are graduates of the University. In addition, golden jubilee certificates

Alma Magna Mater Gives 'Unselfish' Senior Award

Henry Durham of Greensburg, a senior in the University of Kentucky's College of Commerce, on June 4 was presented the UK Alma Magna Mater award, given each year to an outstanding University senior.

The presentation was made at a surprise ceremony conducted at the UK alumni picnic in Memorial Coliseum. This year's award was in the form of an engraved silver plate.

Alma Magna Mater is a campus organization composed of sons and daughters of UK alumni and former students. Jay Wallace of Carrollton, president of Alma Magna Mater, awarded the plate to Durham at the ceremony.

Wallace said basis for the award is "outstanding and unselfish service to the University by a member of the senior class."

A graduate of Kentucky Military Institute, Durham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Durham, Greensburg. He is a member of the UK Student Government Association's Judicial Committee, campus YMCA, Patterson Literary Society, the UK 240 Committee, Pitkin Club and Sigma Chi, social fraternity.

Faculty advisor for Alma Magna Mater is Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, emeritus professor of journalism.

W. C. SMITH NAMED TO STANDARD OIL BOARD

William C. Smith, '27, of Louisville, formerly of Lexington, has been elected a director of Standard Oil Company (Kentucky) to fill a recent vacancy. He was also named assistant to the president.

Mr. Smith joined Standard Oil in 1931 as a salesman in Lexington and became the company's agent there in 1932. He was made a marketing assistant in 1950 and later was appointed executive assistant.

He holds the LL.B. degree from the University.

HENRY COLEMAN DURHAM accepts "Unselfish Senior" award from Jay Wallace, '53, of Carrollton, while Alumni President R. R. Dawson looks on.

UK Graduate to Work in Liberia

Dr. Alton M. Harvill, Jr., B.S. '39, M.S. '49, formerly of Princeton, Ky., now a botanist at the University of Alabama, left the U. S. for Liberia in West Africa last May, to do research for the Firestone plantation laboratories in Harbel.

Dr. Harvill was selected by the company for his knowledge of plant pathology, and plant breeding. The Firestone research department is trying to better the present natural-rubber and insure raw material for the future by improving the rubber tree through scientific study and selective breeding.

One of the nation's foremost authorities on arctic mosses, Dr. Harvill was in Alaska as a bacteriologist and biochemist in the Army Medical Corps in World War II. He has published "A Phytogeographic Study of Alaskan Mosses" a paper on the flora of Attu Island in the Aleutians, and other works on arctic plants.

Dr. Harvill went to the University of Alabama from the University of Michigan where he received his Ph.D. degree in botany.

R. D. McIntyre Is Honored by ODK

Prof. R. D. McIntyre of the College of Commerce was honored by Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership society, at its national convention in Roanoke, Va., last April, when he was presented the society's Distinguished Service Key.

Professor McIntyre is the ninth man in the history of ODK to receive this recognition.

During the past 22 years Professor McIntyre has served the society as a province deputy, chairman of the scholarship committee, chairman of the ritual committee, council member-at-large, and since 1939 has served as national treasurer. At the Roanoke convention he was elevated to the vice presidency.

The University of Kentucky faculty member has been affiliated with Nu Circle at the University of Kentucky since 1928.

More than 250 delegates from 77 colleges and universities attending the national convention in Roanoke.

UK Honors Six Nationally Known Men; Two Are Grads

Milton, Tapp, Get Honorary Degrees

Six men who have distinguished themselves nationally in their fields, including two University of Kentucky graduates, received honorary doctor-of-laws degrees at the 86th annual commencement exercises held on Friday, June 5.

The two alumni honored were Maj. Gen. Hugh Maglone Milton, II, B.S.M.E. '19, M.E. '22, of Washington, D. C., educator, engineer, field-staff officer and military-reserve specialist, and Jesse W. Tapp, '20, of Palo Alto, Calif., executive vice president of the Bank of America.

The other four receiving the honorary degrees were: Dr. Arthur A. Hauck, president of the University of Maine and president of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, who delivered the University's 1953 commencement address; Marvin Bertie Holifield, of Frankfort, assistant state attorney general for the past 25 years; Monsignor Charles Ambrose Towell, pastor of St. Boniface church, Ludlow, Ky., diocesan director of hospitals for the Catholic diocese of Covington and president of the U. S. Catholic Hospital Association; and William Maxwell Reed, Louisville corporation executive, eminent author-

Three Awarded Sullivan Medallions At University

Two 1953 University of Kentucky graduates, Miss Ruth Ann Maggard, Lexington, and Jess Lewis Gardner, Hodgenville, were awarded Sullivan Medallions at the school's 86th commencement program June 5 in Memorial Coliseum.

Mrs. Mary Belknap Gray, Louisville, former social worker and chief organizer of "Friends of Kentucky Libraries," also received a Sullivan Medallion, an award presented annually to Kentucky's "outstanding citizen of the year" and to two graduating students.

The Sullivan awards were established in 1925 by the New York Southern Society in memory of Algernon Sydney Sullivan, noted New York lawyer of the post-Civil War period.

A native of Louisville, Mrs. Gray returned to that city in 1946. She has been active in church, welfare and educational improvement since then. After becoming concerned over the absence of public library facilities for more than three-fourths of the people of Kentucky, she reorganized the citizens group called "Friends of Kentucky Libraries."

Miss Maggard and Gardner, were graduated from the College of Education and the College of Arts and Sciences, respectively.

Miss Maggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Maggard, received a degree in elementary education. She is a member of Kappa Delta social sorority, president of both Mortar Board and the YWCA, member of the Pitkin Club, Wesley Foundation and Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary society.

To Continue Study

Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gardner, Hodgenville, received his AB degree in history and plans to continue graduate study in this field. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, president of both Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's leadership society, and the Inter-fraternity Council, and member of Student Government Association, Lances, Keys and Lamp and Cross.

DR. MERL BAKER TO DIRECT FOUNDATION

Dr. Merl Baker, UK graduate with the B.S. degree in mechanical engineering, and associate professor of mechanical engineering at the University, has been appointed director of the UK Kentucky Research Foundation on a half-time basis.

The selection of Dr. Baker for the post marks the first time that the Foundation has had a director.

A native of Trigg county, Dr. Baker holds the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue University. He became a member of the UK faculty in 1948.

Dr. Baker's appointment became effective last May, and the foundation has opened an office in the Administration building.

Thomas P. Lewis, senior law student from Ashland, has been named editor of the Kentucky Law Journal for the summer and fall terms.

Robert Raible '21, Gets S.T.D. Degree

The Rev. Robert Raible, '21, of Dallas, Texas, formerly of Louisville, immediate past president of the national Unitarian Ministers' Association, and pastor of the First Unitarian Church in Dallas, received the honorary S.T.D. degree from the Starr School for the Ministry in Berkeley, Calif. last June.

Following his graduation from the University of Kentucky, Mr. Raible took graduate work at the Harvard Divinity School, Harvard University, and the University of Chicago. He entered the Unitarian ministry in 1925 and has served churches in Cambridge, Mass., Peterborough, N. H., Greenfield, Mass. and Dallas, Texas, where he has been minister since 1942.

The Reverend Mr. Raible served as regional director for the Southwestern Unitarian Conference for several years and was president of the national Unitarian Ministers' Association for four years.

He is an officer and a member of the board of directors of the University of Kentucky Alumni Club of Dallas.

JESS L. GARDNER, of Hodgenville, and Ruth Anne Maggard, of Lexington, 1953 Sullivan Medallion winners.

Homecoming With Tennessee On Nov. 21

Spring Athletes Honored in Fayette

Athletes representing eight University of Kentucky spring and winter sports teams were feted by the Fayette County Alumni Association of the University in a public sports banquet on May 28.

The inaugural of the spring sports banquet was planned to honor participants in UK sports other than football and basketball, Mrs. Hampton Adams, president of the alumni chapter, said. However, since the annual basketball banquet was not held this year, the cage team also was invited to the affair held at the Boiling Springs Country Club in Lexington.

Lettermen in baseball, track, swimming, fencing, tennis and golf were announced and presented with their K sweaters by their respective coaches. Also, awards went to members of the Pershing Rifles squad and the Wildcat basketballers were publicly cited for their performances in several public intrasquad games during the past winter while suspended from inter-collegiate competition.

Basketball Coach Adolph Rupp was the main speaker on the program. University Vice President Leo M. Chamberlain also brought greetings and All-America cager Cliff Hagan delivered the invocation.

TRIANGLE OPEN HOUSE

Alumnus members of the Triangle fraternity who plan to return for the homecoming football game with Tennessee on Nov. 21, are cordially invited to the buffet supper which the active chapter will give for their alumni members, immediately following the game.

Frank Ramsey, three times All-SEC baseball player, led UK batters during the last season.

CO-CAPTAINS Ray Correll, Somerset, and Tommy Adkins, Corbin, will lead the Wildcats in the 1953 football season.

Battle for Keg to Feature Big Game

Tennessee, Kentucky's traditional rival, will furnish expatriated alumni and those close to home a logical excuse to come back to the campus for football homecoming on November 21.

Because the game has been set for 1:30 p.m. the annual brunch, to be held in the ballroom of the Student Union that day, will be held from 11 a.m. to one p.m. in order to give everyone time to eat and reach the stadium by kick-off time.

Registration of returning alumni will be held that morning in the Coliseum, the Student Union and in the lobbies of the Lafayette, Phoenix, and Kentuckian hotels and at the Campbell House.

No tickets will be sold for the lunch, but it is urged that all alumni and their friends who plan to come, notify the Alumni Office, Room 124, Student Union, so that estimate may be made of the number who plan to participate.

The day will close with the annual free dance in the ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel from 8:30 to 12 that evening, at which an orchestra will supply music for dancing. All returning alumni and their friends will be guests of the Alumni Association on this occasion.

1941 ALUMNAE WINS ART CONTEST PRIZE

Mrs. Beryl Kenney Bengel, '41, a teacher in grade 4 of Lugo School at Lynwood, Calif., is listed in the June 1953 issue of The Instructor Magazine, as one of eight contestants winning $25 in prizes in a contest for the best example of pupils' creative work in art and handcraft, accompanied by teachers' lesson plans.

Mrs. Bengel's home address is 10924 Alexander St., Lynwood.

DELTA HOMECOMING PARTY

Delta Tau Delta fraternity will have a buffet supper for its alumni at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, November 21, at the chapter house, 1410 Audubon Avenue, following the homecoming game.

Kentucky Faces Formidable Schedule In 1953

By KEN KUHN,
Sports Publicity Office

A casual glance down the schedule of formidable opponents slated to face University of Kentucky's 63rd gridiron edition in 1953 lends the impression that the inexperienced Wildcats of Coach Paul Bryant will indulge in one of their toughest schedules of the post-bowl era in U.K. football.

Included on the '53 card, which opens at home Sept. 19, are no less than six outstanding aggregations which finished the 1952 season ranked among the top 25 teams in the nation by the Associated Press poll—Ole Miss, Tennessee, Florida, Rice, Mississippi State, and Villanova, and three of the outfits are Southeastern Conference powerhouses which saw action in major post-season bowl games last New Year's Day.

Add such toughies as the Texas Aggies and the Bayou Bengals of LSU to this list and the slate looks to be more than the young Wildcats can cope with unless they get "real hungry" for victory, as headmaster Bryant points out in asserting his faith in the potential performance of the squad.

On the optimistic side of the ledger, believers in good omens conjure up a couple of interesting points that might aid the Bryantmen in their quest for a good season. First of all, the superstitious recall that the year Kentucky won its first and only Southeastern Conference crown (1950) it played its first five home games under the lights. The connection is evident since the 1953 schedule calls for the initial quartet of home tilts as after-dark encounters.

Secondly, those looking through rose-colored glasses suggest that the Wildcats have always enjoyed good years when led by co-captains, as they will be this season when a couple of native-born Kentuckians, Tommy Adkins of Corbin and Ray Correll of Somerset, act as field leaders. For instance, the 1950 and 1951 clubs annexed Sugar and Cotton Bowl championships under the leadership of Bob Gain and Wilbur (Shorty) Jamerson, and Babe Parilli and Doug Moseley, respectively.

Stretching their arguments dangerously near to the point of self-delusion, the superstitious optimists will thumb the pages of the record book and show disbelievers evidence that U. of K. has had surprisingly good luck in seasons that they faced two or more bowl teams. In witness thereof, the record shows that the Wildcats engaged two opponents in the 1949 season who had gone a-bowling the previous New Year's and came out with a 9-3 mark for the season, including their first invitation to a major bowl (Orange). And, in the 1951 campaign, Kentucky posted one of its greatest records—11 wins against a single loss, including the memorable Sugar Bowl triumph over national champion Oklahoma—despite the fact that the schedule included no less than three bowl teams (Texas, Miami, and Tennessee).

Coach Bryant is hardly counting on such omens to pull the inexperienced U.K. eleven up by its bootstraps in the coming campaign. However, he has often intimated that he can become a firm believer in anything that will contribute improved morale and a greater desire on the part of the boys to come out on top when the chips are down.

Edward H. Ray, Jr., '49, of Lexington, received the doctor of medicine degree from Tulane University at commencement exercises there last June.

Portrait of Dean Taylor Presented

A portrait of the late Dr. William Septimus Taylor, '12, dean of the University of Kentucky College of Education until his death, was presented to the college on April 24 by Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education society.

Painted by William P. Welsh, well-known portrait painter and native of Lexington, the work is 44 inches high and 32 inches wide and is framed in a four-inch Gilbert Stuart frame.

Principal address at the presentation program was delivered by the Hon. Harper Gatton, of Louisville and Madisonville, executive vice president of the Kentucky State Chamber of Commerce, member of the University board of trustees and long-time friend of the late dean.

The University School Girls' Choir opened the program and presented two selections under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Stallings. Invocation was offered by the late dean's pastor, the Rev. T. C. Ecton. Frisby D. Smith, Lexington, president of Kappa Delta Pi made the presentation; and Dr. Carsie Hammonds, acting dean of the College of Education accepted the portrait.

Dean Taylor assisted in the organization of the University's Alpha Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta Pi. At the time the group was formed, Dr. Taylor was a member of the Columbia University chapter. He was counselor for the chapter for four years and from the time of forming until his death he held office in the chapter.

Murphree Given 1953 Research Medal

Beam, Wallace, See Award Presented

Eger V. Murphree, B.S. '20, M.S. '21, D. Sc. '49, president of the Standard Oil Development Company, was presented with the Industrial Research Institute's 1953 Medal on April 14 at a dinner given in his honor at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Present to witness the presentation were two former University of Kentucky schoolmates and fraternity brothers, T. Jere Beam, of Louisville, vice president in charge of production of the James B. Beam Distilling Co. at Clermont, Ky., and Earl D. Wallace, of Lexington and New York, who recently resigned as vice president of Standard Oil of Ohio to become associated with Dillon, Read and Co. of New York as their oil and gas consultant. Also present were Mrs. Beam, the former Lucy Kavanaugh, '22, and Mrs. Wallace, the former Jane Gregory, also a UK alumna.

The medal was presented to Dr. Murphree "For skillful and inspiring leadership of an industrial group which made contributions of vital importance to our nation at war and peace, and for soundness of technical judgment and broadness of horizon which served well not only his organization but his country."

In 1950 Dr. Murphree was honored by the American section of the Society of Chemical Industry when he received the Perkin Medal for outstanding work in applied chemistry for that year.

Under his leadership, the Standard Oil Development Company has developed many nationally important projects such as production of high octane gasoline by the fluid catalytic cracking process, synthetic toluene and butyl rubber. During World War II, Dr. Murphree served as a member of the Office of Scientific Research and Development S-1 Executive Committee, a group instrumental in the establishment of the Manhattan Project. Presently, he is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Atomic Energy Commission.

It was said that it was Murphree, "who had the persuasive ability, when anyone doubted that the atom bomb could be made, of making him see the feasibility of the entire program."

While an undergraduate at the University of Kentucky Dr. Murphree was an outstanding student, an All-Southern tackle on the Wildcat football team and a leader in campus affairs. He holds the doctorate degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in addition to his honorary doctorate from his alma mater.

Oil, Gas Men Back Minerals Building at UK

Members of the Kentucky Oil and Gas Association, in annual convention in Lexington last June, unanimously recommended the building of a mineral resources building at the University of Kentucky.

The group passed a resolution "approving and endorsing wholeheartedly," the proposed building for the College of Engineering and pledging its efforts to bring about the completion of the structure.

W. E. Wrather, honorary D.Sc. '50, a native Kentuckian who has been director of the U. S. Geological Survey since 1943, has been reappointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Wrather is from Brandenburg, Ky.

The resolution cited the great service the University has given to the state of Kentucky and called special attention to the "superlative service" the College of Engineering has given to the state's industries, particularly the oil and gas industry "by assisting in the research and education program" of the association.

George P. Ellison, of Owensboro, was reelected president of the association at a business meeting of the group. Mrs. Ellison, the former Annabel Murphy of Ashland, is an alumna of the University of Kentucky.

Robert Stilz '38, Elected Head Of Bank Of Commerce

Robert C. Stilz, B.S. '38, LL.B. '41, of Lexington, at the age of 34 has been elected president of Lexington's Bank of Commerce.

A native of Lexington and a graduate of University High School, it is believed that Mr. Stilz is one of the youngest bank presidents in the country.

He was admitted to the Kentucky State Bar in 1940 and has practiced law in Lexington since that time as a member of the firm of Buckley, Stilz and Rouse. He was named vice president of the Bank of Commerce in 1947 and served in that capacity until his recent promotion to the presidency.

His wife, whom he married in 1941, is the former Mildred Kash of the class of 1940. They have three children, Henry Alvin, II, Robert Coleman and William Kash Stilz.

Mr. Stilz is a member of the Broadway Christian Church, the Fayette County Bar Association, the Kentucky

State Bar Association the Lexington Club and the Lexington Country Club.

Ky. Athletes Enrolled In Difficult Courses Of Study

By KEN KUHN
Sports Publicity Office

Back in the olden days of college athletics, a few critics developed a "battle cry" that is still resounding around the nation's campus today wherever members of the de-emphasis sect gather.

The cry, which is generally unfounded in fact, is essentially: "Brains and Brawn Do Not Mix."

While it is a fact admitted by most athletics authorities that a few brawny collegians do not display average intelligence when it comes to book learning, it also is an established and proven axiom that "a few rotten apples don't spoil the barrel." A very large majority, often a higher percentage than in the general student body, of modern-day college athletes are doing better than satisfactory work in difficult, highly professionalized study programs.

A recent survey of the major fields of study for University of Kentucky athletes enrolled during 1952-53 discloses the interesting point that the sports participant is studying subjects just as difficult or more difficult than the average non-athlete enrollee.

The greatest number, a total of 50, were majoring in Commerce with specialization in such fields as business administration, economics, business-management, commerce-law, industrial administration, and marketing and advertising.

Claiming the next highest interest are Physical Education, Engineering, Agriculture and Education with between 20 and 30 athlete-students each

MRS. STOUT GETS HEALTH-WORK AWARD

Mrs. Florence O. Stout, professor emeritus of physical education at the University of Kentucky, has been given an award for meritorious service in the field of health, physical education and recreation by the Kentucky Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Mrs. Stout is director of medical gymnastics for posture defects for the Appalachian School of Nursing at the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Mrs. Stout was the first woman to become a full professor at the University and became the school's dean of women in 1908. She retired as a professor in 1946.

among those majoring in their curricula. Many critics ridicule the field of Physical Education as too easy, but the facts of a modern-day, professionalized physical education program turn the skepticism aside. Students in this field are given intensive training in virtually every phase of recreational activities, they must develop leadership and are required to put into practice many of the principles learned before a degree is awarded. Thus the Physical Education major, who will become a teacher of the subject or coach after graduation, undergoes just as thorough training as that given students in other fields generally considered more professionalized.

A further examination of the survey shows that other major subjects being studied by athletes are as follows: Geology, Radio Arts, Journalism, Political Science, Zoology, Industrial Chemistry, Chemistry, Art, English, Law, Economics, Anthropology, Geography, and Psychology.

One of the biggest arguments in favor of a major athletic program is that it affords an opportunity for advanced study to a very large number of boys who otherwise would never have been able to attend a university because of financial or other reasons. And it is justifying to note that athletes are not only studying a wide variety of professional courses, but are taking subjects just as difficult as the average student and doing better than average work in their studies for the most part.

George Roberts '99, Writes Two Papers

By C. A. Lewis

In the 10 years since he retired as head of the agronomy department of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station and College of Agriculture and Home Economics, Prof. George Roberts has written two publications that are notable contributions to the agriculture of the state.

One is called "Suggestions on Erosion Control" and the other "The Potash Problem in Kentucky Agriculture." The circulation of the two circulars has been around 128,000 copies. Reprints were obtained by the Vocational Agriculture Department for use by men in the Veterans Farm Training Program. Now the University is planning to have the potash circular reprinted.

Prof. Roberts' suggestions on erosion control are a major contribution to soil conservation. Cashing in on his 50 or 60 years in soils and crop work, he deals effectively with terraces and contour cultivation, erosion control by vegetative cover, short rotations, conservation of farm byproducts, and other phases of programs to keep the precious soil from washing away.

"Everyone," says Prof. Roberts, "should have a vital interest in soil conservation because all are affected by the condition of the soils of the nation. . . . Cheap food today at the cost of soil exhaustion will mean not only high-cost food tomorrow, but malnutrition and inefficiency also."

Concerning potash, Prof. Roberts notes that potassium is one of the mineral elements which crops require in large amounts. For instance, 50 bushels of corn, including stalks, contain about 50 pounds of potash, as does also a ton of alfalfa hay. Burley tobacco takes even more potash out of the soil. For high yields, all crops must have plenty of potash. Included in the circular is a review of a large number of Kentucky experiments which reveal just how important is potash.

Frank D. Peterson, UK comptroller and alumnus, received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Georgetown (Ky.) College at its commencement exercises last May.

F. P. Williams Named Head Of S. S. Kresge Company

Franklin P. Williams

J. B. Faulconer '39, To Announce Sales

J. B. Faulconer, a journalism graduate in the 1939 class and well-known sports commentator served as announcer for the Breeders' Sales Company's thoroughbred auctions which were held at Keeneland July 27-30.

The Sales Company announced last spring that it had obtained the services of Mr. Faulconer for its auctions.

A native of Lexington, Faulconer joined radio station WLAP in 1940, shortly after his graduation, and broadcast all athletic contests for that station prior to entering the Army in 1941.

After his military service, during which he attained the rank of lieutenant colonel in the infantry where he was decorated with the Legion of Merit and Bronze Star, he returned to WLAP. Mr. Faulconer's Army tour of duty included the Pacific theater. He now is sports director of WLAP.

He has been a regular at Keeneland during the past seven years, broadcasting the featured race daily.

Prominent in civic affairs, Mr. Faulconer was chosen in 1947 as the outstanding young man in Kentucky by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Franklin P. Williams, alumnus of the University of Kentucky and a native of Frankfort, Ky., has been elected president and general manager of the S. S. Kresge Co., with headquarters in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Williams attended the University from 1911 to 1915 when he dropped out of school and accepted a job in the stockroom of the S. S. Kresge store in Louisville. He became floorman, then assistant manager of that store, and was appointed to the management of his first store in Burlington, Iowa. Next he managed the Kresge store in Bloomington, Ill., and in 1920 was appointed to superintendent of store, a supervisory position which he filled for eight years.

In 1928 Mr. Williams was named manager of the Louisville store in which he had begun his career as stockman. After five years in Louisville he was appointed to manage the Kresge store in downtown State Street, Chicago, and in 1942 went to Detroit to manage the company's largest store. He held this position for four years, following which he was moved to the company's main headquarters in Detroit as director of sales. In 1947 he was named a board director and made vice president in charge of merchandising. He continued as merchandising vice president until his elevation to the presidency.

Active in civic and charitable groups, Mr. Williams is treasurer of the Detroit Convention and Tourist Bureau and on the advisory board of the Salvation Army. He is a member of the Detroit Rotary and Economics Clubs.

In 1916 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Gaus of Louisville.

Need Of Medical School At University Is Cited

For a long time there has been talk about a medical school at the University. Talk has progressed to serious study and it now seems likely that these studies will eventually lead to action.

The talk began in the prosperous '20's when there was money and when many medical schools were building fine new plants. In 1928 President McVey asked that some studies be made and that he be kept informed of needs in the state and of the possibilities of establishing a school at the University. The financial condition of the state was not strong at that time and it was thought the only resources would be from private fortunes. In the fall of 1929 a prospective donor wanted to build a medical school at the University but the great depression, followed soon by his death, ended all thought of building a school at that time. The great depression followed by World War II was not an appropriate time for such an undertaking. But the delay has allowed the need to accumulate into a rather acute deficit of physicians in the state.

In 1946 the state's finances were strong, and though the Hill-Burton bill for federal aid to medical institutions had not yet been passed, that year afforded the first real opportunity for establishing a medical school at the University. In 1948 the state's finances were strong and there was available Hill-Burton federal aid. But conditions were not favorable and the University did not move.

In 1951, Dr. Sam Overstreet as president of Kentucky State Medical Association asked Dr's. Anderson and Manlove of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association to come to the state, study the situation and recommend action. In their report their first recommendation was the establishment of a medical school at the University of Kentucky. If this was not feasible they recommended the expansion of the University of Louisville medical school. The council of the Kentucky State

Medical Association endorsed the second recommendation for the expansion of the school at Louisville.

In December 1951 at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky, President Donovan recommended the establishment of a medical school at the University and definitely placed the University on record as favoring such a policy.

During the 1952 Legislature a joint resolution was passed authorizing the Legislative Research Commission in cooperation with the University of Kentucky to study the proposal to establish a medical school at the University of Kentucky. These studies are in progress and it is believed inevitable that they will lead to the establishment of a medical school at the University of Kentucky.

The basic facts, the heart of the medical problem in the state, are three in number. First, there are not enough physicians in the state. Since 1910 the state has lost without replacement, more than 1300 physicians and has gained about $\frac{3}{4}$ million people. She is now 1500 physicians below the national average and may well be 2000 below by 1965. In the second place the state does not have medical schools to meet the needs of the state. The one school has classes of 100 students and the state's share of the nation's 1st year class in 1952 would have been 144 students. In addition there is a deficit to be made up. Third, there is a necessary lag before remedies can become effective. Started now, there will be time for building and education and training for the first class. It will be about 1965 before they are in practice.

How many physicians should the state have? The nation has one physician for every 730 people and is increasing her number of physicians. Kentucky has about one physician per 1200 people and is losing physicians. Students of medical service doubt there can be adequate medical service with fewer than one physician per 1000 people. If our goal is one per thousand and our population is 3,309,000 in 1965, then the goal would be 3309 physicians. To reach this objective, beginning in 1965 and continuing to 1980-85, there should be added to the profession annually 180 physicians and the state is graduating only 100 physicians. These needs by categories annually are:

1. To replace loss	100
2. For increase of population ..	20
3. To reduce deficit	60
Total	180

Three solutions have been proposed namely:

T. R. BRYANT HONORED FOR 4-H CLUB WORK

Thomson R. Bryant, B.S. '08, M.S. '32, for many years assistant director of Agricultural Extension and more recently associate dean of the University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, was honored at the closing program of the 30th annual 4-H Club Week last June for his contribution to the 4-H movement in the state.

Mr. Bryant was awarded a plaque by J. W. Whitehouse, state club leader, who said that more than a half-million boys and girls had been enrolled in 4-H Club work since Mr. Bryant became assistant director of the extension division and then associate dean of the college. Mr. Bryant was the third man to receive the plaque.

Mr. Bryant wrote the first educational circular for 4-H members, followed it with many more publications and otherwise helped to guide and direct all phases of extension work. His influence has not been limited to Kentucky as his knowledge of extension work and his assistance in agricultural education were found useful in many states and by the federal government.

AG DEAN DOESN'T WANT MISS. POST

Dean Frank J. Welch of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics requested last May that his name be withdrawn from consideration for the presidency of Mississippi State College.

The UK dean said he felt that since he had been at Kentucky only two years he did not think it fair "to leave at this time," and that "he was very happily situated and thoroughly enjoying his work" at Kentucky.

Dean Welch came to UK July 1, 1951 from Mississippi State College where he had served as dean of the School of Agriculture there and director of the experiment station. He had been a member of that school's staff for more than 15 years before coming to Kentucky.

Last June Dean Welch was named by Secretary of Agriculture Benson to the Agricultural Research Policy Committee. The group advises the Secretary and aids in farm research.

Don Whitehead Gets Second Pulitzer Reporting Prize

DON WHITEHEAD

A success story which could better be reported by the facile pen and brilliant mind of the principal character himself, is the story of Kentucky's Don Whitehead, newsman, war correspondent and raconteur, who, for the second time in three year's has won the Pulitzer Prize in the field of reporting.

Whitehead, formerly of Harlan, Ky., started his career in newspaper work on the Harlan Daily Enterprise. With the Associated Press since 1935, he won the first Pulitzer Prize two years ago for his coverage of the Korean War, sharing it with five other correspondents.

He was singled out for solo honors this year for his 4,400-word story, "The Great Deception," a description of President Eisenhower's secret flight to Korea before his inauguration.

Don has distinguished himself many times in the field of reporting, and upon his return from his job as front-line correspondent for the AP in World War II, was awarded an honorary degree by the University of Kentucky.

a grant from the Social Services Research Council to do research on a book "The Cultural History of the Old South."

Dr. Eaton's grant was for the past summer, and gave him the opportunity to travel to various manuscript collections for his research.

Dr. Hegeman and Dr. Moore will engage in special study during the coming school year. Dr. Hegeman plans to make a study of the life and influence of Albrecht von Haller, Swiss poet-scientist of the 18th Century for which work he will go to Switzerland. Dr. Moore will spend part of his time at Harvard University auditing courses in medieval philosophy and history. The rest of his time will be spent reading on medieval philosophy and civilization.

Dr. Eaton, a member of the UK faculty since 1946, was a visiting professor at the University of Manchester, England, in 1951-52.

DON ROBINSON, '49 GETS FELLOWSHIP

Don Robinson, '49, of Lexington, bursar-recorder for the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, was awarded a $400 Walgreen fellowship for summer study in Chicago.

The award was awarded Robinson by the Economic Foundation in conjunction with the Walgreen Drug Co. It covers six weeks study at a special school at the Walgreen office in Chicago.

The chief purpose of the study is to acquaint college instructors with modern business procedures. Mr. Robinson was one of 12 fellowship winners representing pharmaceutical institutions. The school was scheduled to run from June 21 to August 7.

Three UK Profs to Do Special Study

Dr. Daniel V. Hegeman, professor of modern foreign languages and Dr. Arthur K. Moore, associate professor of English have been granted Ford Foundation fellowships for the 1953-54 academic year and Dr. Clement W. Eaton, professor of history has received

ALUMNUS

Frankfort Boy Is Scholarship Winner

George Hannon, a senior at Good Shepherd High School, Frankfort, has been awarded a four-year all-expense scholarship of $2,800 to the University of Kentucky by the Kentucky Research Foundation from funds donated by alumni of the University to the Loyalty Fund.

Announcement of the scholarship award was made May 23 by Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president of the University.

The scholarship winner, son of Mrs. Mattie H. Hannon of Frankfort, was graduated from Good Shepherd High School in May. Selection of a student for the award was based on scholastic ability, character, personality and extra-curricular activities. A need for financial assistance also must be demonstrated.

Applicants for the scholarship award must be nominated by an individual member of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, an organized alumni club or a Kentucky high school principal.

This year's winner plans to enter the University's College of Engineering next fall. He hopes to major in either civil or electrical engineering.

Hannon is president of his school's chapter of Catholic Students Mission Crusade and has served during the past year as assistant editor of the school newspaper. Other activities include membership in the Frankfort Sportsman's Club.

Needs Of Medical

1. Expand the Louisville school classes of 100 to 125.
2. Send students to southern schools on southern regional plan at $1500 per year.
3. Build school at the University of Kentucky.

The first proposal is inadequate. Additions of 125 physicians annually would, for a time, about hold the physician population ratio constant but would not make up any of the deficit. The second proposal to send needed students, beyond the present Louisville capacity, to southern schools is not possible. In the first place there are not enough places in southern schools for southern students and in the second place it is doubted the state could be relied on through the years, to spend the nearly 1/2 million dollars annually on the needed 80 students under such an arrangement. The third proposal to build a school at the University of Kentucky is the only real assurance that this problem will be solved in 30 years.

The profession and the state should arrive at a long range policy toward the medical problems that have accumulated through the half century. It will take the best efforts of two full sized medical schools for the next 30 years to reach reasonable solutions. Since it is inevitable that the University will enter the picture, delay would be unfortunate.

The people of the state would like to have a medical service in keeping with their other services and their way of living. In the last 20 years their per capita income has more than doubled and is now increasing 2 1/2 times faster than that of the nation. The standard of living in Kentucky today is something new in history. Never before World War II did the nation have a per capita income equal to that of the state today. The institutions of the country were built on less.

Alumnus, 37, Runs Ky. Goodrich Plant

Thomas B. Nantz, 37-year-old graduate of the University of Kentucky, who received his B.S. in industrial chemistry in 1937, was the subject of a feature story by another alumnus, Harry Bolser, head of the Courier Journal West Ky. Bureau, which appeared in that paper last April.

Mr. Nantz, a native Kentuckian from Daviess county, is manager of the B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's $5,000,000 vinyl-chloride-monomer plant near Calvert City, Ky., and, according to his fellow-alumnus, is at 37, one of the veterans of the B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company family.

Mr. Bolser's story states that Mr. Nantz accepted a job with Goodrich immediately upon his graduation and "his rise in the chemical firm has been rapid. He served as a chemical foreman before being promoted to technical-service manager and later to plant manager."

From Akron, Mr. Nantz went to the plant at Texarkana, Tex., and worked in the company's Louisville synthetic rubber plant from 1942 to 1950 when he was assigned to Institute, W. Va. There, according to Mr. Bolser's report, "he reactivated the largest synthetic-rubber plant in the world. It is government-owned but operated by Goodrich Chemical."

When Goodrich decided to move into the south's newest chemical center near Calvert City, Ky., Nantz was picked to manage the plant and he moved there from the Institute operation.

Mrs. Nantz is the former Mary Halley Kerr, a UK alumna from Lexington. They have two daughters.

Lois May Taylor, a junior home economics student from Ashland, Ky., is one of five Kentucky boys and girls selected as International Farm Youth Exchange students this year. She is spending the summer in Ireland.

Eugene Grisson, UK instructor in art, was awarded the first prize in the graphics division of the 26th annual Kentucky and Southern Indiana Art Exhibition, held last April at the J. B. Speed Museum in Louisville.

Distinguished Alumna Retires

By Marguerite McLaughlin '03

Margaret Ingels, an alumna of the College of Engineering, University of Kentucky and a life member of the Alumni Association, who has brought honor and distinction to her Alma Mater and her native state of Kentucky, has returned to Lexington to make her home with her sisters Mrs. D. H. Peak and Miss Belle Ingels. Her brother Mr. Ben C. Ingels, associate in the consulting engineering firm of Proctor and Ingels also resides in Lexington.

Since graduation in 1916 she has been associated with the Carrier Engineering Company being for the greater part of the time in the home office in Syracuse. Her requirements ran the gamut of designing, testing, research, writing and estimating and her time from 1950 to 1952 was devoted to writing a biography of Dr. Willis Haviland Carrier and his part in the development of Air Conditioning industry of which Dr. Carrier became known as "the Father." Under the title of "Willis Haviland Carrier Father of Air Conditioning" Miss Ingels wrote the book.

It is hard for one to know just how to begin an article on a person who, since childhood, has possessed those qualities of willingness to try and determination to continue in the pursuit of difficult tasks which had at the same time the charm and worthwhileness of a magnificent adventure namely the development of a great industry. She who had entered as the first of her sex on a field previously staffed by men and entered it on the College level has competed there successfully.

May I say a bit about her book? Although I was asked to write about a personality who had returned to her native State after an absence of almost thirty-five years, I know that Margaret Ingels will go down in that history of which she has already spoken as "Petticoats and Slide Rules" and that she will be recognized for her brilliance and practical understanding of requirements with such greats in the world of air conditioning as Dr. Carrier and that staunch and unselfish fellow alumnus, the late Irvine Lyle also a Kentuckian, and I know that this her latest work will stamp her again as a woman of rare talents and foresight.

One hundred and one pages were printed to tell the story of "Willis Haviland Carrier Father of Air Conditioning" and there are 70 pages of Chronological table of events which led to Modern Air Conditioning. It will take a short evening to read this superior composition but it took the biographer more than three years in research and compiling. We appreciate the binding and jacket of our University blue color. A lovely picture of Dr. Carrier is shown just before the foreword which was written by Mr. Cloud Wampler now president of the Carrier Corporation. Mr. Wampler refers to Dr. Carrier as a "genius whose talents lay in the field of science and invention rather than in operation and finance". Miss Ingels' book proves exactly that statement. A layman would consider reading a book on any phase of engineering with hesitation or even fear but that would be a sad attitude in this case for Miss Ingels has written with simplicity and dignity. Her devotion to her subject is shown in every line and to her technical background of understanding she adds clarity of thought very rare in many authors. Read the book fellow alumni and see for yourself.

On September 4, 1952, Miss Ingels was presented as the speaker before the Western Society of Engineers and took for her subject "Petticoats and Slide Rules". She was introduced as the Engineering Editor, Carrier Corporation. Although necessarily she had to eliminate the names of many women pioneers and trail blazers she did confine her data to records in this country beginning with the first in 1886 through 1921. Miss Ingels registered herself very briefly as joining the procession of engineers in petticoats in 1916. Her pioneering of course was the first in air conditioning.

On November 8 of last year Miss Ingels received from the officers and Board of Directors of the Carrier Corporation a silver service and the tray bears the inscription; "To Margaret Ingels, loyal associate, distinguished engineer and biographer of Willis Haviland Carrier with deep affection of the officers and board of directors of Carrier Corporation."

'Shorty' Jamerson Named Morehead State Grid Coach

Wilbur R. "Shorty" Jamerson, of Henderson, 1951 graduate and co-captain with Bob Gain of Ky.'s 1951 Sugar Bowl football champions, has been appointed head football coach at Morehead State College.

Since his graduation he has served for two years as an Air Force lieutenant at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. and last winter quarterbacked the Bolling service team to the national service championship. He was one of Kentucky's all-time back-field stars.

At Morehead the new coach will be stepping into the post held for 17 years by Ellis Johnson, also a UK graduate and former grid great. Johnson recently asked to be relieved of his football assignment so he could concentrate on basketball. Jamerson will also coach the Breckinridge Training School basketball team.

"Shorty" was a four-letter man at Barret Manual Training School in Henderson and was captain and all-state halfback his senior year.

In his senior year at Kentucky the Wildcats won ten out of eleven games, their only loss being to Tennessee, then went on to win the Sugar Bowl classic over Oklahoma's national champions.

Distinguished Alum

The first woman mechanical engineer in the field of air temperature, Miss Ingles joined the Carrier Engineering Corporation in 1917 after she received her B.M.E. degree from the College of Engineering at the University of Kentucky. She received her M.E. degree from U.K. in 1920. At Carrier Engineering Corporation she worked under the late J. Irvine Lyle, a native Kentuckian, and the late Dr. Carrier.

In 1921, when the late Dean F. Paul Anderson took a leave of absence from

W. R. "Shorty" Jamerson

U. K. to direct the Pittsburgh Laboratory conducted by the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers at the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Miss Ingles left Carrier to be a member of the staff. As her former employers served as advisors for research projects at the laboratory, her association with Mr. Lyle and Dr. Carrier continued. She was associated with the Pittsburgh project until 1927 when she embarked on a two-year assignment of field tests for the New York Commission on School Ventilation.

Returning to Carrier in 1929, Miss Ingles was associated with the publicity department of the Carrier-Lyle Corporation until 1930. In that year, following the merger of several companies to form Carrier Corporation, Miss Ingles was in the price and date department until 1937, then in the advertising and publicity department until 1948, and since that time, until her retirement Dec. 1, was engineering editor in the public relations department.

Col. Ellis Heads 44th Bomb Wing

Col. Frank W. Ellis, '46, formerly of California, Ky., an air veteran of World War II who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, assumed command of the 44th Bomb Wing at Lake Charles, La., last May.

Colonel Ellis will launch the wing on its new B-47 training program.

Immediately after his new assignment was made, Colonel Ellis left for Wichita AFB, Kan. to enter the B-47 Combat Crew Training School.

The UK graduate entered flying training in 1941. After B-24 transition training he went to Europe as a group operations officer for the 8th Air Force. During this tour he racked up 26 combat missions for 200 combat flying hours flying B-17's. Upon his return to the states he served as commanding officer of air base units at Jackson, Miss. and Colorado Springs, Colo. Later, as CO of the 301st Bomb Group at Smokey Hill AFB, Kan. led the group in several TDY's to England.

Assigned to Hq. SAC, it was under his direction that SAC's aggressive Flying Safety Division was formed and won wide acclaim for reducing the number of major accidents within the command.

Besides the Distinguished Flying Cross Colonel Ellis holds the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the ETO theater ribbon with four battle stars and other awards.

Howard Dene Southwood, '48, and Mrs. Southwood, the former Mildred Crawford, '46, have just returned to Lexington after a year's residence in Denmark where Mr. Southwood completed a study of adult education programs in the Scandinavian countries, under a Fulbright grant.

Prof. John Kuiper, head of the department of Philosophy, has been elected president of Lexington's Torch Club.

Miss Noi Peers, Pine Bluff, Ark., senior, has been named editor of the Kentucky Kernel, campus newspaper, for the 1953-54 school year.

H. H. Rice, '04, New State Society Head

Col. Heber Holbrook Rice, '04, of Washington, D. C., executive director of the Federal Bar Association, has been elected president of the Conference of State Societies.

A native of West Virginia, Colonel Rice is a graduate, cum laude, from the University of Kentucky, and received his bachelor of laws degree from Harvard University and an honorary Doctor of Laws from Athens College. Colonel Rice also was the original secretary-general of the United Nations League of Lawyers and has served as special assistant to the Attorney General.

A former president of the West Virginia Society, he also is a member of the Maryland and Kentucky Societies.

SHOUSE NAMED TO TOP INDUSTRY JOB

James D. Shouse, of Cincinnati, native Kentuckian who is chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation, has been named to a top industry job as chief executive officer of AVCO Manufacturing Corporation plants (Crosley Division) in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee and Illinois.

Mr. Shouse received an honorary degree from the University of Kentucky in 1949 for his contribution to the cultural development of the Ohio Valley.

Information of Mr. Shouse's new assignment was sent to the Alumni Office by Tom Diskin, 1950 UK graduate who has recently accepted a position with WLW-TV, Cincinnati.

According to Mr. Diskin, AVCO is the parent organization, owning the Crosley Broadcasting Corp., which consists of WLW radio and television, plus WLW-C (Columbus) and WLW-D (Dayton) as well as a recently purchased TV outlet in Atlanta, now called WLW-A. The organization also owns Radio WINS in New York City.

Edwin R. Denney, '31, of Mt. Vernon, Ky., was nominated by President Eisenhower last June to be United States attorney for Eastern Kentucky.

UK Vice President In Pakistan, India

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, University of Kentucky vice president, left July 1 for Pakistan and India, where he will spend four months visiting schools and colleges and lecturing to student and faculty groups during the summer and early fall.

Dr. Chamberlain undertook the mission at the request of the International Information Administration of the Department of State, and his appointment is in recognition of his outstanding ability and leadership in American Education.

The University administrator planned to spend three of the four months in Pakistan and India serving the State Department, and as he returns, to visit a number of places in Europe.

PROFS. DANTZLER, FARQUHAR, FETED

Eighty-five years of combined service to the University of Kentucky won recognition for two veteran members of the University's department of English last spring.

Dr. L. L. Dantzler, former head of the department and Prof. E. F. Farquhar, who was placed on a change of work assignment in February of this year, were honored at a dinner given by about 35 friends and associates.

Announcement was made at the dinner that an award fund for University students has been established in the name of both professors. The fund, set up through gifts from friends and former students, will be used to present annual awards for the best contribution to the UK literary magazine, "Stylus."

Dr. Dantzler joined the UK faculty in 1921 and three years later was appointed head of the English department, a post he held until given a change of work assignment in 1947. Prof. Farquhar became associated with the University in 1909.

Robert J. Buck, M.A. '50, of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, a graduate student now at the University of Cincinnati, has won a $2,000 fellowship for study in Greece offered by the American School of Classical Studies in Athens.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain

KY. RAIL OFFICIAL IS '39 GRADUATE

L. Duncan Stokes, '39, formerly of Monticello, Ky., has been named assistant general freight agent for the Southern Railway in Louisville.

Mr. Stokes has served in various capacities for the Southern in New York City, New Orleans, Nashville, Cincinnati and Greenville, S. C., his last assignment. While a resident of New York City he served as president of the Kentucky Alumni of Greater New York.

His wife is the former Mary Ann Collins of Richmond, Ky. They have three children.

Thomas R. Underwood, Jr., '50, and Gerald Robin Griffin, '51, both of Lexington, were admitted to the practice of law in the U. S. District Court in Lexington, last May. They were introduced by Harry B. Miller, Jr., '48. All three men are sons of UK alumni.

James Reed Holland, of Fulton, UK graduate student, has been awarded a scholarship for foreign study at the University of Sheffield, England through the Fulbright Educational Exchange Program. The scholarship will enable Holland to study metallurgical engineering there during the academic year 1953-54.

Annual Report To The Alumni

MINUTES OF THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE UK ALUMNI ASSOCIATION JUNE 4, 1953

The annual meeting of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association was held June 4, 1953 in conjunction with the annual alumni banquet in the Student Union Ballroom.

W. H. Townsend, president of the Association presided.

Mr. H. D. Palmore moved that the minutes of the May meeting, and the minutes of the annual meeting, May, 1952, be approved as published, seconded by B. A. Shively, the motion carried.

The annual report of the secretary was presented by the executive secretary, Helen G. King as follows:

Mr. President and members of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association:

Good business methods direct that at the end of each fiscal year an inventory and audit be made of the year's business—that a report of income and expenditures be made and that an estimate be given of accomplishments or failures, so that the stockholders may know what to expect in the way of dividends.

Each of you is a stockholder in the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, each of you holds a stake in its future and each of you is partly responsible for its success or its failure, so, tonight I am going to review, briefly, the result of the year's work, and give you also a brief summary of the development of the Association since I have served as your secretary.

Seven years ago President Donovan conferred with the officers and members of the Executive Board of your Association and decided that to be really effective the Association should have a full-time secretary and volunteered that the University would partially subsidize the Association with the idea of putting it on its feet and ultimately assisting it to become self-sustaining. This was done, and in July 1946 I became your full-time secretary.

Although the Alumni Association had been founded in 1889, it had been kept in existence through a long period of years only through the efforts and loyalty of a comparatively small group of men and women who were determined that it should not die. In July 1946, Miss Margie McLaughlin, who had served capably and graciously as war-time alumni secretary during World War II and, previous to that, during World War I, and through whose efforts, in large part the Association had survived, turned over an accumulated surplus of $4,000 in bonds, representing life memberships in the Association. At that time the membership totaled approximately 1,800.

In the past seven years the Association's accumulated total in savings and life memberships has reached $24,400, and in addition membership has more than doubled. The Association has also spent $1,046.71 this year from its cash account in the purchase of more adequate office files and in the repair and re-upholstering of office furniture.

The August 1946 ALUMNUS reported that there were 12 organized alumni clubs in Kentucky at that time and three metropolitan clubs. Today there are 100 active, organized clubs in Kentucky and 17 metropolitan clubs, with others in prospect.

In 1947 the Alumni Loyalty Fund annual giving program, for the purpose of establishing annual four-year all-expense scholarships at $2,800 per scholarship, for incoming freshmen students, was inaugurated, and since that time you, the members of this Association, under the leadership of fine Association presidents and Loyalty Fund chairmen, have contributed an accumulated total of more than $26,000 to the Kentucky Research Foundation and have granted six of these scholarships.

During the current year we have had 3,720 active members, 117 more than last year, have collected $3,479.50 for the Loyalty Fund and have organized metropolitan clubs in Charleston, W. Va., Nashville, Tenn., and Williamson, W. Va., with others under way in Los Angeles and St. Louis.

In the past seven years we have also inaugurated the annual "Alumnus of the Year" award, given each fall between halves of the homecoming game; the Golden Jubilee certificates for the 50-year class; given financial assistance and direction to Alma Magna Mater, the organization of University children; established exam week coffee hours for faculty and students; broadened our homecoming and reunion programs; undertaken to finance, together with the Athletics Association, a spring sports party for athletes under the sponsorship of the Fayette County Alumni Club which held its initial banquet last Thursday, and have carried out a program of personal visitations to clubs which has grown annually.

This past fall President Donovan, realizing the importance of these personal visits to high schools and alumni clubs, called together a group of faculty members from which group 29 men volunteered to work with Dr. Hambleton Tapp, assistant to President Donovan, and with me, in the visitation of Kentucky high schools and alumni clubs with the result that 248 high schools were visited and approximately 50 alumni clubs as well as a number of civic luncheon clubs.

President Donovan, Dr. Tapp, the members of the University administration, and the Department of Public Relations have been interested, cooperative and encouraging and we who are on the Executive Board are deeply grateful and appreciative for their many contributions to the work of the Association.

I would be derelict in my duty if I did not point out to you what we who have worked with him know, that your Alumni Association president, Mr. William H. Townsend, has not only given days and weeks of his time, freely and graciously, to the affairs of the Alumni Association as well as to the problems of the University, but, in addition, has made many trips this year to Kentucky alumni clubs to speak before them and give them the inspiration of his courage, his leadership and his loyalty. Truly, Mr. Townsend has spent himself tirelessly and unselfishly in the interests of his Alma Mater.

The members of the Alumni Executive Board, representing all sections of the state meet monthly in Lexington, to assist in directing the work of the Association, and they too, deserve the appreciation and commendation of this entire Association, as do the members of the Alumni Office staff, who in addition to regular assignments have cut 19,000 permanent class plates.

As reported to you at the annual meeting last May, the year 1953 saw the inauguration of the plan of giving one year's free membership to each graduating senior. The January, June and August class of 1953 will be the first to benefit from this gift. This plan was made possible by the generosity of the Board of Trustees in allotting to the Alumni Association 50¢ per capita from student activities fees. We hope that it will encourage continuing memberships from these graduates.

The Executive Committee of your Association, at the request of the Athletics Board, has designated the Tennessee game on November 21st as homecoming next fall.

Your Executive Board has named a graduating senior and a 1953-54 senior to serve as honorary members on the board next year. They are Lawrence Riddle, Buechel, Ky., and Barbara Baldwin, Louisville, Ky.

Now, you have heard the report from the credit side of the ledger, let's look at the debit side.

Our membership has increased, it is true, but only 117 over last year. We can never fulfill our destiny, we can never come to the point of offering complete and adequate service to our Alma Mater until we relieve it of the burden of partially carrying the expenses of our Association. I am challenging you tonight to get to work, and I would like to see started here, this evening, a chain membership plan, whereby every alumnus in this room would solemnly pledge himself to enroll two new members of the Association in 1953-54. If such a chain effort could stem from this assembly, with each new enrollee, in turn, selling two others, it would not be long before Kentucky would have 10,000 active alumni enrolled on its roster, and that is not too much to hope for or to expect.

Our loyalty fund collections passed the sum needed to establish one new scholarship; but how can we fulfill our stated ambition of granting more than one scholarship annually if we do not give in increasingly larger numbers to this fund? Let us not be content with the status quo; let us, everyone, dedicate ourselves to these two objectives and promise one another, here tonight, that we will not fail in 1953-54.

One more challenge, please, and then I will close. Since I have been your secretary I have watched your return each year with increasing enthusiasm and affection. I have noted the difficulty with which some older alumni get from one function to another; coming, in many instances, from outlying motels from which transportation is a problem. I know that there are many of you who, if called upon, would be happy to do something tangible to make the return of these senior members of the Alumni Association more convenient and more comfortable.

With that thought in mind I presented to the Alumni Executive Board and to the University Administration, more than a year ago a suggestion that this Association look forward to the time when we might erect an Alumni-Faculty house on this campus, one which would provide a limited number of rooms for returning alumni, dining facilities for faculty and alumni, club rooms for both and offices for the Alumni Association. This idea has got as far as a preliminary sketch of plans for such a building, and I believe that now is the time to initiate a campaign for funds with which to build it.

Such a building has been erected on the campuses of many other universities. It is one that is urgently needed here. As you know, the faculty club is inadequate and antiquated, and a building, such as we suggest, would solve their needs and serve to bring the faculty and alumni close together.

Let's not wait until next year. Let the year 1953-54 be the year of decision. It will take the combined efforts and contributions of every alumnus in the land. It will have to be a campaign organized by cities, counties and districts. It will be a job for every one of you—but with enough determination, enough courage, and enough work, the job can be done. It is a challenge to your imagination and to your loyalty—are you equal to that challenge?

Respectfully submitted,
Helen G. King
Executive Secretary

Mr. Palmore moved that the secretary's report be filed as published. Seconded by Mrs. Hampton Adams, the motion carried.

Mr. Shively then presented the treasurer's annual report as follows:

June 3, 1953

Executive Committee
U. of K. Alumni Association
University of Kentucky
Lexington, Kentucky
Gentlemen:

I have examined the balance sheet of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, a corporation, as of May 31, 1953 and the related statement of income and expense for the year then ended. The examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and related statement of income and expense present fairly the financial position of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association at May 31, 1953, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,
Oliver Clay Maupin, Jr.

Mr. Shively moved that the annual report of the treasurer be accepted as published. Seconded by Mr. Dawson, the motion carried.

T. H. Hardwick, chairman of the Loyalty Fund Campaign reported that a total of $3,479.50 was collected during the year 1952-53 for the Scholarship Fund. Mr. Hardwick also reported that George Hannon, Frankfort, Ky. was the 1953 scholarship recipient.

Mr. Townsend announced the following as new officers of the Alumni Association:

President—R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield
Vice-President—T. H. Hardwick, Lexington

Executive Committee Members—Mrs. T. Jere Beam, Louisville; Robert Hillenmeyer, Lexington; J. Carlisle Myers, Jr., Lexington.

Miss King brought up the question of granting a life membership to a person having less than one semester's work at the University, and who is not eligible for one according to the constitution, but whose family has demonstrated outstanding loyalty to the University. Mr. Palmore moved that the Association make an exception in the case cited and grant the membership. Seconded by Mr. Hillenmeyer, the motion carried.

Mr. Townsend introduced Mr. Dawson who greeted the alumni, guests and members of the Executive Committee and thanked them for honoring him, after which he named the following two committees to nominate three persons each for the alumnus member of the Board of Trustees:

- (1) B. A. Shively, Chairman
Ralph Angelucci
Forrest Mercer
- (2) T. H. Hardwick, Chairman
Doug Parrish
Homer Baker

Mr. Dawson urged the two committees to be ready to report at the mid-summer meeting of the Executive Committee.

Mr. Townsend expressed his thanks to the Alumni, Executive Committee, Administrative Staff and friends of the University for their support and loyalty

J. W. Thorn Retires After 36 Years

J. W. Thorn, '07, of Midland, Texas, has retired after 36 years of service with the Texas Electric Service Company, in the commercial, engineering and meter departments. Prior to that he was with the Beaumont, Texas Electric Light and Power Co. for four and one-half years as meter engineer and commercial manager.

His first four and one-half years after graduation from the University were spent with the General Electric Co. in the testing department in Schenectady, N. Y. and Pittsfield, Mass. and in Texas as meter and transformer specialist in the commercial department.

Mr. Thorn and his wife, the former Miss Minnie Mae Lee of Bonham, Texas will continue to make their home at 311 Crestview Road, Midland.

William H. Allen, II, '49, of Lexington, received the doctor of medicine degree from the University of Rochester last June.

while he was president of the Alumni Association.

The meeting was adjourned on motion, after which Mr. Townsend introduced Dr. Thomas D. Clark, Head of the University of Kentucky History Department, who delivered the principal address.

Respectfully submitted,

Ann McMillen
Office Secretary

J. W. Thorn

Owen Floyd Cammack, M.A. '40, assistant superintendent of Lexington schools, has been named president-elect of the Eastern State College Alumni Association to serve in 1954-55. He was graduated from Eastern in 1936.

OBITUARIES

DR. R. HAYNES BARR, 51, president of the Kentucky State Medical Association and Owensboro, Ky. civic leader, died at the Owensboro-Daviess County Hospital on May 5. He was stricken with a heart attack a few days previously. Dr. Barr was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1923 and the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1927. A native of Owensboro, he was a graduate of Owensboro High School.

After internship in two Philadelphia hospitals, Dr. Barr returned to Owensboro and practiced there with his father until he was called to the Army in 1940. He became surgeon of the Fourth Infantry Division and was responsible for all medical care and evacuation in the invasion of Normandy. For this won a battlefield promotion to colonel. Later he was Seventh Corps surgeon in Europe and had a part of forming a medical pattern for the Army of Occupation. His military awards included the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster and French Croix de Guerre.

In recent years he had served as president of the Owensboro Chamber of Commerce, president of the Daviess County Medical Society and chairman of the Owensboro-Daviess County Board of Health. He had headed the 1,800-member Kentucky State Medical Society since last October. He was a member of the medical staffs of two hospitals in Owensboro, served six years on that city's Board of Education and was a director of the Kentucky Rural Medical Scholarship Fund and of Kentucky Physicians Mutual, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield agency. He was on a five-doctor committee this spring to advise the Legislative Research Commission on the question of setting up a medical school at the University of Kentucky.

A member of Delta Chi social fraternity, Alpha Sigma Chi Medical fraternity, and Phi Chi medical fraternity, Dr. Barr was a Knight Templar, a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Helen Koehler of Philadelphia. Funeral services and burial were held in Owensboro.

MRS. MARY COLVIN COCHRAN, 48, of Louisville and Washington, D. C., died suddenly in Washington last April. She had held a position in the capital city for several years. Mrs. Cochran was an alumna of the University of Kentucky. A daughter of the late Dr. George Colvin, who at the time of his death was president of the University of Louisville, Mrs. Cochran is survived by two sons, Pfc. William D. Cochran, U. S. Army, and Colvin Cochran, now a student at Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Funeral services were held from the home of her aunt, Mrs. Dudley Tapp, in Springfield, Ky., and burial followed in the Springfield cemetery.

DR. CHARLES CORNELIUS DEWITT, 76-year-old physician of Louisville, died last April at Norton Memorial Infirmary in that city.

A native of Owensboro, Dr. DeWitt was a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy. He moved to Louisville from Owensboro in 1914 and opened a drug-store there. About the same time he began the study of medicine at the University of Louisville from which school he received his medical degree in 1917. He opened offices there after serving with the Army in World War I. He was a member of the Southern and Kentucky State Medical Associations and of Parkland Lodge of Masons.

Survivors include his wife; one son, a daughter and one sister. Funeral services were held at Pearson's Funeral Home and burial followed in Resthaven Memorial Park, Louisville.

DR. DON WILDER, 48, public health officer in Owsley, Carter, Lawrence and Breathitt counties, for the past 18 years, died at St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, last April, as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was educated in Owsley county and Frankfort, Ky. schools, and attended the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville. He was a member of Phi Beta Pi and Alpha Omega Alpha medical societies. He also held membership in Lodge 939, F and AM, and the Booneville chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Survivors include his wife, a daughter, two brothers, and three sisters. Funeral services were held at the Booneville Presbyterian church, and burial followed in the Brandenburg cemetery.

HENRY H. NACHAND, a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy in 1891 and a resident of Louisville, died last May at his home.

Survivors include his wife and a number of nieces and nephews. Funeral services and burial were held in Louisville.

EDWARD L. ALLEN, 63, of Prestonsburg, former state representative and one of Prestonsburg's best known lawyers, died at his home last May.

A graduate of Valparaiso University, he received his law degree from the University of Kentucky and was admitted to the bar in his home county in 1917. He was elected the following year and served one term in the House. Mr. Allen was a former president of the Prestonsburg Bar Association and served frequently as a special judge.

Funeral services and burial were held in Prestonsburg.

J. WHITE GUYN, 69, of Lexington, former city engineer, died at the Good Samaritan hospital last April after a long illness.

A native of Woodford county, Mr. Guyn was educated in Lexington public schools and was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1904. He was named assistant city engineer of Lexington in 1908 and city engineer in 1912. As a municipal engineer he served longer than any other engineer in the south with a similar position. He served as a consulting engineer in the paving of all streets in Mt. Sterling, Bavenna and Olive Hill, as well as many in Paris and Frankfort.

He coached the UK football team for four seasons; was a former member of the board of the Family Welfare Society and a member of Central Christian church.

Mr. Guyn was a member of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers and at a meeting last spring was made an honorary life member. He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity the Odd Fellows and the JOUAM. He was a former member of the Lexington Optimist Club. Survivors include his wife; a daughter, a son, and one brother.

N. ISABEL SCHMIDT, 88, retired Lexington public school teacher and former principal of old Morton Junior High School, died last April at the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Miss Schmidt retired in 1934 after serving in the Lexington schools for over 49 years.

During her public school career Miss Schmidt had also served as principal at Davidson and Jefferson Davis Schools, having helped to organize the latter. She also had taught at Lexington Senior High and then at Henry Clay.

Miss Schmidt was a native of Lexington, and was educated in private schools and at the University of Kentucky.

Following her retirement she was active in the work of the First Presbyterian Church and in the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky. Survivors include three cousins.

Funeral services were held at the W. R. Milward mortuary chapel, the Rev. Jesse Herrmann officiating, and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

WILLIAM CLAY WALKER, 31, of Lexington, former University of Kentucky student, died at his home last May.

Survivors include his brother J. Rice Walker, Jr., a graduate of the University, and his father, J. Rice Walker, Sr.

Funeral services were conducted at Kerr Brothers Funeral Home, by the Rev. Gentry A. Shelton, and burial followed in Hillcrest Memorial Park.

MRS. BERNICE BEISTEL HAYS, 51-year-old housemother of the Alpha Zeta Delta sorority, died suddenly last April as the result of a heart attack. Funeral services were conducted at the W. R. Milward mortuary chapel, and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

MRS. LILLIAN WATTS BRYANT, of Lexington, wife of Thomson R. Bryant, '08, associate dean of the University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, died last May at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington. Mrs. Bryant is survived by her husband and four children, Mrs. Eleanor Smith Clay, W. C. Smith, Thomson R. Bryant, Jr., and Mrs. Scoville Bryant Scott, all alumni of the University. Funeral services were held at the W. R. Milward mortuary chapel, with the Rev. F. Russell Purdy officiating, and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

HARRY W. ENNIS, 76, of Bowling Green, three-time state representative from Warren county and a former University student, died at his home last June following a heart attack.

A native of Warren county, Mr. Ennis had served as city engineer for two terms and later as an oil inspector for Warren county. Survivors include his wife and two daughters.

Funeral services were held at the Gerard Funeral Home and burial followed in Fairview cemetery, Bowling Green.

'53 CO-ED GRADUATE GETS $1,200 GRANT

Mary Ordell Ray, of Bypro, Floyd County, Kentucky, who was graduated with honors from the University in June, has been awarded a $1,200 grant from the John Hay Whitney Foundation to defray her expenses when she enters the University of Louisville School of Medicine in September.

Miss Ray plans to become a general practitioner and hopes to go back to her native Floyd county some day to practice.

Two years ago Miss Ray transferred to the University from Caney Junior College on a scholarship. She is one of 11 children and Miss Ray, 21, is the second-oldest child. She has maintained a 2.9 average while at the University.

J. W. TAPP SPEAKS AT COMMENCEMENT LUNCH

Jesse W. Tapp, of Palo Alto, Calif., distinguished alumnus of the University and vice president of the Bank of America, was the speaker at the annual commencement luncheon held at the University during June week finals.

The nationally known banker and farm economist discussed the role of the country bank in America and commented on the nation's general economy.

In reviewing recent economic developments, the speaker cautioned his listeners against "over-sureness in this time of swift changes." He also declared that America "must not overdo experimentation."

Mr. Tapp, who received the honorary LL.D. degree from his Alma Mater

Col. Frank O. Alexander, 1926 graduate of the University, recently was transferred to the Far East. A graduate of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, he has been a surgeon with the U. S. Army Hospital at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. He entered the army in 1933 and served in the ETO in World War II. He holds the Bronze Star medal.

Former Student Is Promoted To Major

Arnold Siler, son of W. R. Siler, Harlan, Ky., was recently promoted to Army major while serving in Germany with the 28th Infantry Division.

Major Siler, whose wife, Lena Mae, and two daughters are with him in Germany, is adjutant of the 108th Field Artillery Battalion. He arrived in Europe in July 1952.

A former student at the University of Kentucky, Major Siler has been in the Army since 1935.

He wears the Good Conduct Medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern Theater Medal, the World War II Victory Medal and the Army of Occupation Medal for duty in Germany.

The 28th Infantry Division is now stationed in southern Germany where it is receiving intensive field training as part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Army.

Former Student Now In Army In Korea

Second Lt. Stanley H. Jones Jr., son of Mrs. Hannah C. Jones, Elizabethtown, Ky., recently arrived in Korea for duty with the 45th Infantry Division.

Lieutenant Jones formerly served with the 23d Armored Engineer Battalion at Fort Knox, Ky.

A 1949 graduate of Fort Knox High School, he attended the University of Kentucky in Lexington before entering the Army in March 1951.

The 45th Infantry Division, originally an Oklahoma National Guard unit, has been in Korea since December 1951. It has participated in numerous heavy combat actions including the battle for "T-Bone Hill" last summer.

Alumnus Completes Course At Belvoir

Army Capt. Ernest E. Lane Jr., whose parents live in Sweeden, Ky., recently completed the 39-week Engineer Officer Advanced Course at the Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Captain Lane received his commission upon graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1945. His decorations include the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon, American Theater Campaign Ribbon and the World War II Victory Medal.

The Sweeden captain, whose wife, Eloise, lives with him at Fort Belvoir, is a former student at the University of Kentucky and a member of the Triangle Fraternity.

The engineer course provides officers advanced training in engineer command and staff duties and affords familiarization with the functions of Engineer Civil Works Divisions.

New Chemistry Equipment Designed To Speed Up U. K. Research

The department of chemistry has recently installed $14,000 worth of new equipment which will speed up important research under way in the department. In fact, the new apparatus will enable one chemist to complete in 15 minutes specialized work that previously had required one week's time on the part of two scientists.

The new units have been placed in operation and are ready for use by faculty and students during this year's summer session.

Principal item installed is an instrument called a 1.5 meter grating spectograph. Auxiliary units are available for use with the spectograph.

The spectograph is significant mainly because it will assist U. of K. chemists in basic research and analytical work.

The spectrograph is an extremely sensitive instrument used to detect the presence of minute quantities of elements in a substance. During operation of the instrument an electrical discharge of any desired type is generated and directed to a graphite electrode. A small crater in the top of this electrode contains the sample which is vaporized by the discharge.

Wave lengths of light peculiar to the elements contained in the sample are emitted, spread out, and focused on a film. After the film is developed, experienced spectrographers are able to identify the elements and to determine the amount present.

Dr. Ellwood M. Hammaker, the department's chief spectrographer, offered a course this summer in use of the new equipment.

Aubrey S. Bradshaw, A.B. '34, M.A. '44, a member of the faculty of Transylvania College until last June, has accepted a position as associate professor of zoology at Ohio Wesleyan University. He has been a member of the Transylvania faculty since 1935. He is now completing work on his Ph.D. degree at Cornell University.

Hill Named Head Of Engineering Group

The Milwaukee chapter of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers elected N. Edward Hill president at their May meeting. Mr. Hill's term of office is for the 1953 to 1953 season.

Mr. Hill is the manager of product engineering at the L. J. Mueller Furnace Company, 2005 West Oklahoma Avenue, Milwaukee 15, Wisconsin, manufacturers of Mueller Climatrol heating and air conditioning equipment. The company is one of the oldest and largest manufacturers in the industry.

Born in Calvert City, Kentucky, Hill graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1931 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering. Since then, he has been associated with the design and engineering of heating and air conditioning equipment.

In 1941, Mr. Hill was appointed chief mechanical designer of the TNT plant at the Kentucky Ordnance works. He left there in 1942 to take a position as Chief designer in the L. J. Mueller Furnace Company. He has been the manager of product engineering since 1952.

L. B. Davis New G-E Dept. Head

L. Berkeley Davis, of Owensboro, has been appointed general manager of the newly-created Receiving Tube Sub-Department of the General Electric Tube Department, with headquarters at Owensboro.

The Tube Department is one of four product divisions of the G-E Electronics Division. Its operations encompass eight manufacturing plants and three warehouses in seven states.

Mr. Davis is a native of Lewisport, Ky. and receiving his engineering edu-

Lt. Col. Tom Cassady At Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Lt. Col. Thomas C. Cassady, the son of Mrs. John A. Cassady, 746 N. 25th Street, East St. Louis, Ill., has been assigned to duty at Ft. McPherson, Ga., as assistant to the Third Army Special Services Officer.

Col. Cassady will assist in the Special Services program throughout the Third Army, which covers the seven southeastern states and Fort Campbell, Ky. The Third Army is commanded by Lieutenant General A. R. Bolling, who has pointed out that Third Army's primary purpose is the training of troops.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky in the class of 1934, Col. Cassady starred in football, baseball and track. Before entering the Army early in 1941, Col. Cassady was a recreation director for the State of Illinois and also served in the Welfare Department for Southern Illinois in 1939 and 1940.

He is a member of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Amvets, all of East St. Louis. He is also a member of the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky, and while at the University, he was a member of the P.K.A. Fraternity, and the ODK.

During World War II, Col. Cassady saw service in the Aleutians, in Italy, in Southern France and in Germany. He participated in the invasion of Southern France.

At the University of Kentucky. In 1934 he joined the Ken-Rad Tube and Lamp Corp., in Owensboro as an engineer, and after several production engineering assignments was made plant manager of the Ken-Rad Transmitting Tube plant during the war. BEAR FACTS

By Paul "Bear" Bryant
UK Football Coach

NO MATTER WHAT the weather, come snow (as is the case more often than not on game days) or come shine, the mere mention of a Tennessee-Kentucky football game always arouses a lively discussion.

For the benefit of the grandstand strategist's off-season planning on the subject of best ways to beat the Vols, I offer this week a scouting report on the "Colossus to the South."

First, it should be realized by one and all that the "change in administration" from General Neyland to his capable assistant, Harvey Robinson, will in no way have any adverse effects on the efficiency of the Tennessee football machine. The new man in the driver's seat, a Vol quarterback of the early thirties and Neyland's chief assistant since 1946, is not new to the Tennessee system. Robinson has said he plans no basic changes, but reportedly he will strive to improve the passing game to put it on a par with their dangerously potent ground attack.

The VOLUNTEERS actually may not be four and five deep in experienced hands at every position for the coming campaign since their losses included a few top players, such as linemen Doug Atkins, John Michaels and Frank Holohan. But the key to their personnel situation, which wasn't hurt much by the abolishment of the two platoon system, is in the admission by Robinson that "the big factors in the success of the 1952 team were the exceptional strength of our defensive unit and the performances by several different men in the key tailback position. . . ."

A host of good, experienced tailbacks plus the best pair of ends in the conference (Franklin and Rotroff) and the best linebacker (Barbish) should make the single wing go in the traditional Tennessee style. And reports also reveal that Coach Robinson spent better than 60 percent of spring practice time polishing that tailback-powered offense, apparently considering the defensive situation well under control.

With the advantage of extra practice as they prepared for their Cotton Bowl engagement last New Year's Day and a cleverly-arranged '53 schedule, the Vols are going to be tough to beat. They will very definitely improve as the intricate timing vital to the single wing process is perfected and the season progresses to the homecoming clash with UK.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY:

The responsibilities which devolve upon the President of the Alumni Association are great and I deeply appreciate the honor which you have conferred upon me by electing me President for the coming year. I feel that to succeed persons of Judge Denny's, Senator Cox's and Judge Townsend's ability will make the task more difficult for a person, like myself, who is not adept at the art of public speaking.

The growth of the University during the past years is due largely to the loyalty and steadfast devotion of the members of the Alumni Association, both those who reside within the state and the non-resident alumni groups. As the University grows, so should the Alumni Association grow. Our Alumni Association should have at least twice its present membership. If each alumnus would make it a special duty to obtain at least one new member this goal would be reached and toward this end let us work during the months to come.

I would also like to see a campaign by every alumnus to get our Kentucky youth to attend the University and if that can be done we will have the best University in the country both scholastically and with our athletic teams for our professors and our coaches are tops in their field. Let's check our High School graduates and sell them on the best University in the country.

Sincerely,

R. R. DAWSON, President

University of Kentucky Alumni Association
