Kampus
Kernels

The other day an English professor of Creighton University attempted, with the gestures of an orator, to impress his students with the idea of higher learning, encouraging them to study hard and make higher grades.

"You are now entered into a college career and are the flower of the nation," he stated. "Imagine one bright, what-amounting and exclaiming: 'Yes, blooming idiots.'"

"Well, my favorite fountain pen is still listed in the lost column and so far, no one has come forward to claim the reward. It happens that the pen is valued because it was a gift, and you know what they say about a guilty conscience. The name is on the barrel: Marvin Wachs."

There will be a meeting of Lamp and Cross Monday at 7:15 p. m. at the Phi Sigma Kappa house. All members please attend.

Q Signals Serve Daily in Messages Radioed to Australia and Germany

Regular Conversations Held with Foreign Countries Over U.K.'s W9JL

It seems hardly possible that such an important development in communication as this station should have been located right under the nose of so many of us without coming into more popular notice. Since radio was first under way, experiments have been carried on in the electrical laboratory of the Engineering college, and for nearly five years a short-wave station has been maintained. Many important projects in the radio line have been carried on successfully by Kentucky students. Only last year a microphone, which won national recognition, was developed by two senior engineers.

Station W9JL is owned partly by Prof. L. G. Watkins, who has sponsored the developments in radio at the University, and partly by the University. Professor Watkins has furnished a great many parts and has expended a great deal of time and energy on the station, and it is through his efforts that it has gained its present prominence.

There are only four licensed stations in the United States which hold interest in practically every station in electrical engineering. The station is licensed by the Federal Radio Commission as an amateur station, being carried on for personal interest and without pecuniary aim. It is a 1,000 watt station, which is the most powerful station of its kind in the world.

The station is licensed by the Federal Radio Commission as an amateur station, being carried on for personal interest and without pecuniary aim. It is a 1,000 watt station, which is the most powerful station of its kind in the world.

Almost daily, conversations are held with stations in distant corners of the world, particularly Australia. You might wonder how conversations are carried on with the French, the Chinese, or any other people that speak a different language from our own.

This is done through the use of International Q Signals, in which certain letters stand for a whole series of questions and answers. Licensed operators must be familiar with the Q signals. The International code is used entirely in place of the Morse code.

Dean Anderson and Professor Watkins extend an invitation to the public to visit the station, either through curiosity or the desire to send a message to some far-off friend. The station is very interesting to any one who is in the station room, hear the key clicking and know that the message is being sent through ether from some far distant corner of the globe.

Another
of Those
Corrections

When a copyeditor on any newspaper is pushed, he is likely to commit errors. Even a Kernel copyeditor. That explanation isn't long enough to be considered an excuse for our inadvertent error in stating that Dr. James Patterson was president of the Alumni association from 1869 until 1910. We wish to correct that statement which appeared in Tuesday's Kernel. Doctor Patterson was president of the University during that period.

CONSTITUTION OF
FRATS ACCEPTED

Few Groups Without Ratifying Vote. Leaders Expect New Rules To Be Agreed to Within Week

FEW CHANGES MADE
The proposed constitution of the new inter-fraternity council which was submitted to member fraternities on the campus during the week for ratification has been approved by the majority of the social organizations and a final agreement is expected within the next few days.

At the last meeting of the council which was held Monday at the Phi Delta Theta house, a few changes were made in the original constitution, the most important of which were the addition of the powers of the executive board. The council might override a veto by the executive board if there were not more than two dissenting votes when the vetoed motion was referred to the council. Other changes in the original constitution pertained to detailed matters which will be finally passed upon by the members of the council.

World Fellowship
Representatives
To Meet Monday
Representatives from the World Fellowship committees of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of the University met at 2 p. m. Monday, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in the basement of the Administration building, for the formulation of tentative plans for the entertainment of conferences with Dr. A. Visser't Hooft, editor of The Student World, and a leader in the World Student Christian Federation.

Dr. Visser't Hooft, who has accepted an invitation to visit the University, Sunday, March 19, can be the state of Kentucky for one day only. For that reason, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of the University are planning to send delegations to Lexington to take advantage of this rare opportunity of a conference with Dr. Visser't Hooft. Plans suggested by the planning committee of the Y. W. C. A. Members of the committee were Lucy Jean Anderson, Joan Carigan (acting), and Augusta Roberts.

SECOND MEETING AT 4

This is Max Montor of whom one critic said, "...has been termed the German interpreter of Goethe without make-up, simply through characterization and with a voice marvellously accurate in German. He is a whole theatrical company in one person."

According to listeners he speaks excellent English, without a trace of an accent, and at the same time speaks German as his native tongue.

Prof. L. L. Dantzler, head of the English department, who with the cooperation of Dean C. R. Melcher of the College of Arts and Sciences, Mr. Montor to the University urges students to attend both lectures.

Professor Dantzler said, "It is unusual to have the opportunity of hearing one of the most beautiful lyric poems in the world recited by such an interpreter, and when the opportunity is given advantage should be taken of it. And even though the program is in German, it will be worth while attending the latter lecture if only to hear the beauty of the poem in its native tongue."

Though in my heart is pain—

Jig-Saw Puzzle
Craze Defended
The jig-saw puzzle craze, like
the old cross-word puzzle mania, has taken hold and seems to be with us to stay. True, many neo-philes have already deserted the cause, but there are many of the steady die hards who are bringing plans and getting practice for the day when they can afford to search for the puzzle of puzzles, a five foot square with a thousand and one pieces.

It is not so terribly educational,
the fact does develop one's appreciation of color, size, and shape, and in this way sharpens the value of the acumen of mind and applies it to his or her everyday life, some material good may result. In any event, which is a better way to spend an evening than to sit in a dark corner and feel sorry for one's self.

Harvard Prof Plans
Cure for Depression
Alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last week were introduced by Dr. Walter B. Cannon, professor of psychology at Harvard University, to his new plan, "Biocracy," as a substitute for Technology in curing the ills of the world.

"Biocracy," he said, "would apply to body politics the simple biological laws of the human body."
"Civilization is in a mess," he said. "Nothing could be more critically stupid than the existing situation with grain elevators bulging while thousands of people starve in bread lines; with growers of cotton and wool unable to dispose of their stocks while children are suffering from nakedness; with factories idle while men willing to work in them are shut from their doors."
The professor then drew an analogy of the human body and the body politics, and suggested the biological basis for a solution of financial, economic, industrial and governmental problems.

Students Do More Work - Tarkington

Princeton, N. J.—College students of today work 20 years as hard as students of 40 years ago when he was at Princeton, undergraduate, South Tarkington, one of America's best known present-day authors, said in an article written for the Daily Princetonian last week. Tarkington was graduated with the Princeton class of '93.

"The Princeton student of today," he said, "works 20 times as much as we did when we were in college and when we came back to Princeton in after-years it almost seems as if he works too much. I think probably we were happier, praver and more cheerful than the undergraduates of today, but this was because we were lazier. We enjoyed ourselves more."

"Princeton men today have a much sadder attitude toward things than we did, and the undergraduates are much more widely read.
The alumni of recent years regard Princeton as synonymous with the thought of hard work."

Rare Meteorites Are On Display In U. K. Museum

Berkeley, Calif.—The last of his race to speak his own language is Ralph Moore, full-blooded Yaqui Indian, residing in Round Valley, Mendocino county.

For 20 years Dr. A. L. Kroeber, chairman of the University of California anthropology department has been studying Moore and his language.

Evidence seems to point to the conclusion that the Yaqui are survival of an ancient people, says Doctor Kroeber. Nothing similar to the Yaqui language is in existence, he declares.

Kroeber, who is an authority on western Indians and their languages, has been recording the Yaqui language from Moore for many years.
He describes Moore as a well-built, stouky Indian of unusual intelligence. He is married to a woman of the Wailaki tribe and has two children.

FROM OTHER CAMPUSES
University of Pittsburgh—Prof.
George Carver says, "It is plain slovenliness which man says 'I me' for 'I' is, and then insists popular usage makes the expression correct." He believes, however, that slang and colloquial expressions are feeders of a language.

Swathmore College—Students who fall asleep in the library are warned; after three warnings, they must pay a fine.

Ohio State University—Mutilated and stolen books cost the university library $1,000 yearly.

Oklahoma City College—Football men work their way through college by serving on the city fire department.

University of Michigan—More than 20 University students use airplanes as a means of transportation to and from home over holidays.

University of Oregon—Student interest in the depression and in books about it is so great that the library of the University of Oregon recently opened a new shelf to meet the popular demand. This "depression shelf" contains all the late books which deal with the paramount economic problems of today.

Wellesley College—A professor at the college believes that modern women are more serious-minded than their sisters of former generations.

Iowa State University—A reading survey, compiled by the English department shows that women on the campus preferred books while men favored magazines.

rain, and snow—what is there to argue about during leisure hours?

Washington's birthday anniversary has come and gone (or is it CAME and WENT?). The newspapers, magazines, and radio recounted his life's history from birth to death; some of us listened reverently, read carefully, and gave serious thought to George. It was a holiday for some persons, who are lucky enough to have work; for others not so fortunate, it was just another Sunday. Well, that's that.

Oh, yes. Spring holidays—or Easter vacation—call them what you will, are but a little over two months in the offing! According to what the little gray book says, they are a friend. The friend is curiously settled) and will begin after classes on Wednesday, April 12, and end on Tuesday, April 18. Something for you to think about, anyhow.

Whether (whatever it or that) has come to the attention of The Keyholder through conversation with a friend. The friend is curiously to know if Wheatcroft is a new arrival. If it is, do you gangle it or throw back your head and laugh? He has been told that a Kaydene named Logan can describe the Yaqui language in five feet, one and three-quarters inches tall and weighs one hundred-one pounds in feet.

When she came back, she had accumulated such activities as Gulgulkey, Strollers, Owens, Chi Delta Phi, Eta Sigma Phi, Phi Delta, Kentuckian staff, and Kernal staff, and her beloved sisters said, "Well done, little girl." They said little girl because she is five feet, one and three-quarters inches tall and
feet.

For the first time in months, the "Dog-Ear" said nothing about football, basketball, or exams. It said HOLIDAY, just like that, but that was in Tuesday's paper. Hope you can withstand the shock.

The chainstores, like all other cigarette vendors, have suddenly forgotten their price of 10 cents per pack for all heretofore. It is now 15 cents each or two packs for 25 cents. That business which brother to the national weather bureau; neither crowd can make up correct." He believes, however, that
feeders of a language.

Why not take all this imaginary "Sports dirt" and fill some of the holes in the campus roadways? The Keyholder was unfortunate enough today to run over an automobile that had carelessly rolled into one of the small pits near "Breck" hall.

Save that extra 15 cents until Saturday, March 18, you certainly will have a Kampus Kat and it'll be a real good one! Ads have been run to sell! Yop, it's a surprise; just hold that change and wait for the March Kat.

Receives 13 Tickets
In As Many Months
New York.—After being ticketed 13 times in as many months for traffic law violations, Mrs. Alice Sarkis, one of New York's few women taxicab chauffeurs, says she is sick and tired of what she says is persecution and plans to quit.
Mrs. Sarkis claims to be a descendant of Pocahontas.

She says she has been harried so much with traffic tickets that she is going back to the Mataponi reservation in Virginia where, she asserts, her father, Chief Costello presides over a remnant of the once powerful Algonquian.

She says she will find fishing back in Virginia not so hard on the nerves as New York traffic policemen.

In the spring a married man's fancy turns to the little garden just outside the house.

FAMILIAR FACES

Somewhat, we won't say who, asked us if we wouldn't please, please, find out something about Jane Ann Matthews as a very special favor, so we are now prepared to make our report on our findings—well, at least part of our findings.

We found that, like most other people, she was born a child; she started wrong by being born a girl when her fond parents had hoped for a son and heir... they had even picked out his (her) name, John Richard Matthews (the middle name should be pronounced RYE-kerd).

This poor little girl who had started life under such big difficulties, grew (in spite of everything) and increased in stature, in beauty and in favor with men, in increasing proportion as named.

When she grew up and came to the University, she forever and unalterably joined her fortunes with those of Kappa Delta sorority, which was sent out into the cold, cruel campus to seek her activities, and was told not to come back without them.

They are both independent as to fraternal affiliations, and both belong to Pitkin club. They are seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences, and are associate editors of The Kernel. Each of them has worked on the Lexington Leader for about two years. Pinkie is president of the Catholic club, and Scotty is permanent program chairman of it; Scotty is publicity chairman on the senior cabinet of the Y. M. C.
A. and Pinkie is vice-president.

Pinkie is a student representative on the Athletic Council, Kernel representative on the Men's Student Council, has started a column called "Much Ado," and is beginning to develop a poetical twist of late—he just entered the poetry contest, and you should see his entry!

College Co-eds Tell Mothers All

New York.—The secret is out. Mothers in all the college girls' confidante. The boy who murmurs sweet things into his companion's ear may rest assured that his honeyed words will be relayed back to

In the study of "Problems of Freshman College Girls," released at Columbia university, Dr. Eugene Andrus Leonard reports 66 per cent of the co-eds interviewed at Syracuse university talk over their love affairs with their mothers.

The survey also indicated, although Doctor Leonard deems it unlikely, that "31 per cent of the girls interviewed have had no love affairs."

Craze Defended
The jig-saw puzzle craze, like
the old cross-word puzzle mania,
one pieces.

It is not so terribly educational,
the fact does develop one's appreciation of color, size, and shape,
corner and feel sorry for one's self.

Alumni of the Massachusetts In-
non, professor of psychology at Harvard University, to his new plan,
the world.

"Biocracy," he said, "would apply
said. "Nothing could be more criti-
from nakedness; with factories idle
are shut from their doors."
The professor then drew an anal-
cial, economic, industrial and governmental problems.

PLAYERS TO STOP HERE
The University will entertain 10 students from Caney Creek, known as the "Crusaders," tonight. These students are on their way to Louisville, where they will give a series of plays portraying the life of Caney Creek.

Exams! Exams! Collegiate publications are full of talk of them.
One senior at Massachusetts State, the story goes, was so surprised upon finding his name among those exempted from the final exams that he photographed the list to show his parents.
