Comrades of Battery A.

Dear friends: I would be happy to be with you, but will be content to have it otherwise. When I turn my thoughts on the past and think of the years of my young life that I passed in old Indiana I feel almost as if I was away from home, and the few years I spent with you amidst the environments of war, away from my little family, seems almost the longest part of my life. We were there but a very, very short time in comparison with the rest of our lives, but what ties of friendship! Is there anything like it? I know of none. Michigan has
