SELECTIONS FOR '18 KERNEL STAFF MADE

Miss Eliza Piggott To Be
Managing Editor
Next Year

TAKES CHARGE TODAY

Last Issue of Year Edited Entirely By New Members

Members of the 1917-18 Kernel staff were appointed last week by Wayne Cottingham, the recently-elected editor, and the new staff had charge of this issue of the paper. Each selection was carefully made and it is the opinion of the present management that the staff represents the best newspaper talent in the University. Many of the new members have been connected with the Kernel this year and are experienced in this work.

Miss Eliza Piggott, "co-editor" of the paper this year and a newspaper woman of far more than ordinary ability, will be managing editor next year and will have charge of the entire news force. Besides her work on the Kernel, Miss Piggott was a contributor to the Kentuckian and her work on both publications has been highly satisfactory. This is the second time in the history of the Kernel that a co-ed has held this position, the other case being Miss Anita Crabbe, managing editor last year.

"Squirrel Food," which has become one of the best features of the paper in the last two years under the management of William Shinnick and J. Franklin Corn, will be handled by Miss Eliza Spurrier and Harry Cottrell. Miss Spurrier was "squirrel food" editor of the Co-ed issue this year, while Mr. Cottrell has contributed to this column all along.

Miss Mildred Graham will again write the Y. W. C. A. stories, as she has efficiently done this year. Miss Graham was managing editor of the Girls' Issue of the Kernel and her ability as a news-getter and her characteristic style in writing has made her one of the most valuable members of the staff.

Miss Martha Buckman will take the place of Miss Piggott as "co-editor." Miss Buckman is a new addition to the Kernel staff, but has had considerable journalistic experience and

EXAMINATIONS BEGIN SATURDAY, MAY 26

Final examinations will begin Saturday, May 26, extending thru the following Friday, June 1. The schedules are now being prepared by the deans of the departments and will be posted on the campus as soon as possible. The same system of examinations will be used as formerly—Monday, Wednesday and Friday classes coming in the morning, and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday classes in the afternoon.

UNIV. STUDENTS OFF TO TRAINING CAMPS

Fourteen Have Already
More Await Call

TRAINING IS BEGUN

The bugle has sounded from the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, and fourteen students and former students of the University, have answered its call. Twenty-six more, accepted by the examining board, are awaiting orders to report.

The men receiving orders left Lexington Monday afternoon and arrived at the camp early the following morning, where they were immediately assigned to their respective posts. They at once began a three months' training, fitting themselves for officers in the large army of the Government.

The men who have left for the camp are: George W. Gardner, J. C. Ringo, John S. Sherwood, W. F. H. Schneider, Thomas R. Nunan, Herbert Graham, Harry W. Farmer, Prestley T. Atkins, Homer L. Reid, James M. Morris, Robert G. Poindexter, M. M. Montgomery, Charles T. Corn, Jr., and Joseph E. Torrence.

Those who have been accepted and are awaiting orders are: Lawrence J. Heyman, Perry Cassidy, J. B. Tabre, W. L. Logan, J. Morris Scott, Thomas L. Creechmore, E. R. McGuffey, Robert G. Duncan, L. I. Longworth, Samuel H. Brown, Oliver K. McAdams, Henry C. Simpson, Herbert Felix, R. W. Goozman, C. R. Lisbany, Wayne Haffey, E. R. Likens, Fred O. Mayes, Lloyd T. Wheeler, E. P. Hatter, J. Franklin Corn, Frank Heick, Earl Grabfelder, Emery L. Frazier, John R. Marsh and William Shinnick.

After a three-months' training 10,000 officers, with the rank of second lieutenant, will be chosen. Those who are selected will be on the reserve list for five years, receiving $1,700 a year during the war. After the end of the war they will attend summer camp two weeks each year until the end of that time, receiving pay at the same rate as during war.

While at the camp the soldiers will receive no pay, although an act is now before Congress to allow them compensation at the rate of $100 per month.

Although a number were accepted who were not called to report to camp, it is that they will likely be called to camps to be held later on.

KENTUCKIAN NOTICE!

All Kentuckians which are uncollected for by Saturday noon will be sold, regardless of whether the first payment has been made or not. Business Manager C. R. Smith is of the opinion that plenty of time has been given those who want an annual to get one, and after 12 o'clock Saturday, the books will be sold to those who come after them first.

DEAN MASSIE SPEAKS IN CHAPEL TUESDAY

Believes Boys Should Not Leave School Until Twenty-One

ADDRESS PRACTICAL

"I believe that boys in school under twenty-one ought to stay there," said Dean Robert K. Massie, of Christ Church, in a talk before the students in chapel Tuesday. Dean Massie said that he was supported in this belief by one of the leading educators of the day, John R. Mott.

"Every duty you have to do is either changed or intensified by the great conflict," the speaker continued. "You live in an age of change. It is going to affect you young women. You will have increased opportunities and new temptations. It is going to affect you boys. It is going to affect us all."

Dean Massie took as his theme, "a private duty and a national asset," which is self-mastery. He urged that this self-mastery be exerted in everything that we do. He said we could help much by creating the right attitude toward the war. "Don't talk about it all the time," he said. "But don't forget it, either."

The duty of every man now, according to Dean Massie, is to find his "job" and do it. The only slacker is the man who does his duty nowhere. "You are here in the University now," he said, "because your job is here. Those of you who are engineers should stay until your job is finished. The engineer is the empire builder of the future, but there is no demand for poorly trained engineers."

"The farmer has a right to hold the crop, which he has created, for a high price. The middle-man, who buys this crop, has no right to hold it. He has created nothing and is a traitor to his country if he does so."

In conclusion Dean Massie quoted from the Battle Hymn of the Republic, and said: "Do your job that God's truth may march on."

MANY IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR CAMPUS

Juniors To Erect Drinking
Fountain During Summer

TREES TO BE SET OUT

Extensive improvements will be made on the campus this summer, including the erection of a drinking fountain, money for which has been given by the Junior class, planting of fifty evergreens, donated by the D. Hill Nursery Company, of Dundee, Illinois, an arboretum, numerous flower beds and crushed rock sidewalks. A large floral "K" diagram is now being made in the library court, between the library and main building, and a new driveway will probably be constructed which will connect the new chemistry building with the agriculture building.

The co-operation of the students is needed for the preservation of the paths on the campus. The drinking fountain, specifications for which are being made, will likely be located between the north end of the main building and the armory. The arboretum will contain all varieties of trees of the Middle West and it is expected to be quite attractive. In addition to this, shrubbery is to be planted and flower beds constructed.

The quarry is to be made into a wild-flower garden and fernery. Fern roots are being sent in by different members of the botany class. Crushed rock walks are to be put in the library court leading to all corners. The money donated by the Juniors is the $100 won by them last fall in the class parade during the "Golden Jubilee."

Professor Frank T. McFarland is in charge of the beautification of the campus. He will be assisted by students of the botany class.

"We hope to make the arboretum this most complete collection of trees in this section of the United States," Professor McFarland said. "No time will be lost in beginning the collection of different kinds of trees and planting them."

It is expected that a two-fold purpose will be accomplished, namely, to beautify the campus and to provide an open-air laboratory for students in the botany classes.

BRADLEY LEAVES TO JOIN COLORS

Professor E. U. Bradley, assistant instructor of English, received a telegram from the War Department Sunday calling him to report to his regiment and he left Sunday night for Washington. Professor Bradley holds the rank of second lieutenant in the Fifth Regiment, South Carolina National Guards. His work in the University will be taken care of by the other instructors in the English Department.

136 STUDENTS TO GET DIPLOMAS NEXT MONTH

Commencement Exercises
To Be Held as Usual on June 7

CLASS DAY ON SIXTH

Small Number of Graduates
Said To Be Due To the War

In spite of the disturbance occasioned by the war on the activities at the University, commencement will be held as usual. The week beginning June 3 is the date, with Class Day June 6 and final commencement June 7.

One hundred and thirty-six Seniors will be awarded their diplomas this year. The fact that this number is fewer than in the two preceding years is said to be due to the unusual conditions under which the University has been laboring this year.

The class officers are: William Shinnick, president; Nancy Webb Innes, vice president; Carrie Frances Blair, secretary; William C. Eyl, treasurer; Curtis F. Park, historian; Morrie J. Crutcher, grumbler; Helen Pauline Burkholder, historian; Murray M. Montgomery, poet; Marie Caroline Becker, prophet; Orrie L. Fowler, orator; J. D. V. Chamberlain, class representative.

The committees are: Invitations — Emmett P. Hatter, chairman; Gordon B. Nance, William M. Adams.

Rings — Morrie J. Crutcher, chairman; Frank M. Crum, William T. Dotson.

THIS WEEK'S KERNEL LAST ISSUE OF YEAR

This week's issue of the Kernel is the last one of the year, and following the regular custom, was edited entirely by the new staff. The number of editions this year is one short of the usual number, but due to the fact that a large per cent of the students have left, and because of a deficit in the Kernel treasury, the management deemed it advisable to do away with the extra issue.

FIRST AID MEET TO BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

Is Annual Event in Connection With Mining Institute

12 TEAMS TO COMPETE

The annual first-aid meet, held in connection with the Kentucky Mining Institute, which opens at the Phoenix Hotel tomorrow morning, will take place on Stoll Field Saturday afternoon. Twelve teams of miners, of six men each will compete for the prizes, valued at approximately $500. Professor T. J. Barr, of the College of Mines and Metallurgy, has charge of the arrangements.

An invitation to the field meet, with competition in the first-aid work, has been extended to the Red Cross first-aid classes of the city, and to the Boy Scouts. Admission to the field this year will be by ticket only. Mrs. Samuel Roberts has these for distribution.

The miners' band from Stearns will lead a procession of the first-aid teams from the Phoenix Hotel to Stoll Field Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Governor Stanley has been asked to deliver an address just before the beginning of the first-aid contests.

The meet will be held under the auspices of the United States Bureau of Mines and the American Red Cross Society. E. B. Sutton, mining engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines, will be director of the contests. Judges will be local men, Doctors B. F. VanMeter, chief; C. A. Vance, J. P. Warren, S. B. Marks, L. C. Redmon, Charles C. Garr, John McGinnis, D. W. Barrow, D. W. Reddish and C. B. Wilmott.

ASSOCIATION ADOPTS NEW DEBATING STYLE

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Debating Association held last Saturday evening at the Phoenix Hotel, a new system of debating among the colleges composing the association was adopted.

The new method adopted is for the five colleges of the organization to have a negative and affirmative team each. The teams of the different colleges will debate against one another on a uniform question, the home team defending the negative side.

The colleges winning two debates each will debate against each other to determine the championship of the State. This new system offers the advantage of having a debate at each college annually.

Berea College was admitted into the association, making the fifth college represented.

Y. W. C. A. ADDRESSED BY VICTOR BOGAERT

Victor Bogaert, who is the head of the Belgium relief work in this State, spoke at the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Sunday night at Patter-son Hall. Mr. Bogaert, in his quaint broken English, told pathetic stories of the suffering of the Belgian people and of the state of starvation that exists in that country today.

"The school children are starving and while they are starving they are asking a blessing on the United States," said the speaker. "Is it not time that we are sending them all that we can possible spare? Do without a soda water, do without a picture show, for one dollar will keep a Belgian for one month."

GEORGE PARK HEADS THE HISTORY CLUB

Officers of the History Club for next year were elected as follows at the last meeting of the year Monday night: George Park, president; Miss Helen Morris, vice president; Dillard Turner, secretary-treasurer, and Eugene Wilson, publicity agent. The meeting was held in the Education Building, with Miss Mary Stagg presiding.

The program consisted of a discussion of the Senior theses, which was intended as an aid to Juniors in the history department in their work next year. The following theses were reviewed: "Y. M. C. A. Work in the State of Kentucky," Bart Peak; "Louis Philippe, Citizen King," Miss Helen Burnholder, and "Presbyterianism and Higher Education in Kentucky," Marion Condit.

At the conclusion of the regular program, Dr. Tuthill, head of the department, made a talk in which he emphasized the work done this year, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

CLASS IN GENETICS GOES TO FRANKFORT

The members of the genetics class of Professor W. S. Anderson made a trip to Frankfort Saturday as a laboratory exercise in their study of feeble-mindedness, partial and absolute. They visited the Frankfort Feeble-minded Institute, and came upon the realization of what they had studied in theory. The class expected to visit the penitentiary during the day, but was unable to do so, because of an epidemic of measles there. The work in the class is in the line of enlightenment to all as to the truth about heredity in criminality, feeble-mindedness, and all other subnormalities. Those making the trip with Professor Anderson were: Austin Lilly, Mildred Collins, Celia Cregor, Mary Turner, Louise Turner, Lucile Cruikshank, Homer Perry, Nelle Crawford and Miss Utterback.

AT THE ADA MEADE

By popular demand Jimmy Hodges and Jean Tynes, together with the clever cast which presented "Pretty Baby" at the Ada Meade the first part of the week, have been held over for the last half, and beginning today will be seen in "Wedding Bells," a musical comedy extravaganza which will make the people of Lexington open their eyes.

The show the first part of the week attracted larger crowds than have ever been known in the popular-priced vaudeville history of the city. The same company will play at the New York theatres at the opening in August.

The pretty girls, rich comedy and catchy music, which this company features, have marked a new era in vaudeville. Never before was a show of this calibre seen for such a small price. On account of the unusual crowds which are expected, the management advises that seats be reserved, which can be done by calling Number 612.—Advertisement.

STUDENTS ENTER WAR SERVICE.

William Estill Moore, a former student of the University, and now enrolled in the College of Mines at Socorro, N. M., will leave in a few days for Praslido, California, to enter the aviation training school. His brother, Rodgers Mooge, also a former student here, has gone to Fort Benjamin Harrison.

The New Staff.

This week's issue of the Kernel was edited by the staff which will have charge of the paper next year. With the issue last week the old staff bade good-bye to the Kernel and left the future destiny of the paper entirely in the hands of the new staff.

The succeeding staff was selected with the utmost care and the present management believes that it includes the best newspaper talent in the University, and that the student body should be congratulated that newspaper men and women of such calibre could be found to take charge of the publication.

According to those who have access to our exchange file of other college publications, the Kernel is the best college weekly in the South. Whether this is true the Kernel prefers not to say, but whatever its standing, the management does say that in the future the Kernel will not only strive to hold, but will also endeavor to surpass its previous reputation.

New features will be seen in the Kernel next year. Features, society news and engineering stories will be innovations of which the Kernel has long been in need; and judging from the ability of those who will be in charge of this work, the Kernel can assure its readers that University activities will be well exploited.

It is also planned to make the first issue next year an eight-page paper, and in addition to that, to get it out on the first Thursday after school opens in September. On account of lack of money the Kernel cannot publish eight pages every week, but it is planned to get out several issues of that size. A special football edition, containing pictures of all members of the team, may also prove to be more than a mere dream.

In an editorial on the new staff, the Kernel believes that some mention should be made of the retiring editor, William Shinnick. A skilled newspaper man, an exact user of English and the possessor of a keen judgment, Mr. Shinnick has been largely responsible for the high standing which the Kernel holds among other university publications.

When "copy" was short and press-time only a few minutes off, it was "Bill" Shinnick who sat down and dashed off a poem or a Patt Hall Romance until the yawning columns were filled. It was also he who assumed the duties of any member of the staff, who for any reason was unable to attend to them. Nor was his ability confined to the journalistic field. President of the Senior class, feature editor of the Kentuckian, cheer leader, winner of oratorical prizes, speaker, actor and playwright, Mr. Shinnick has achieved more than any man who has graduated from the University in the last decade, and his departure will leave a vacancy which will be hard to fill.

Our Last Attempt.

With this issue of the Kernel the staff bids good-bye to the students and wishes them a pleasant vacation. For thirty-two weeks the Kernel has endeavored to supply the student body with all the news of interest on the campus and for thirty-two weeks the staff has labored long and hard to accomplish this end. Whether it succeeded or failed is a matter which the students alone must decide, but the members of the staff have the satisfaction at least of knowing that they put forth their best efforts.

Work on the Kernel has at times seemed a monotonous task. Spending several hours a week in writing news and receiving no credits, the work often seemed a waste of time. Then again adverse criticism was sometimes indulged about the publication. Altho these were as a rule made by students who lacked the spirit of taking part in college activities, still they were a source of regret to the staff.

But when the time for the last issue rolls around we forget all these things and for the first time realize that the hours we have spent on the Kernel have been the happiest time of our college days. Never before was there a staff composed of as brilliant newspaper men and women as that of this year, and in later years the members will no doubt look back to the time when they were working together to get out The Kentucky Kernel.

In the last year the students seem to have taken more interest in the University publication than ever before. This increased interest, a recognition of the sacrifice the staff has made to give the students a good, lively newspaper, is gratifying and augurs that the Kernel in future years will have even greater influence with the student body.

The much-quoted expression about spring being ushered in is out of place this year, as it seems from the weather the past two weeks that we will have to use a block and tackle, suh.

To those who object to the odor of the printer's ink used by the Kernel we would say that the Kernel isn't a rose. Don't smell it—read it.

Things to Worry About.

1. The shortage of men at Patt Hall.
2. Finals.
3. The high cost of living.
4. The closing down of Brit's.
5. The election of the new Kernel staff.

In Wednesday's Herald appeared a story headed "Arboretum to Transform U. of K. Campus Into Open Air Laboratory." This so excited the imagination of the students that the following (of unknown authorship), was laid upon our desk:

How kindly she did greet 'em.

THEATRE PARTY, EATS ENJOYED BY MECHANICS

The Westinghouse Society, an organization of Sophomores in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, entertained with a theatre party and banquet on Tuesday evening, May 8, in celebration of the last meeting of the year.

Special reservations were made for the members at the Ada Meade, after which they retired to the Leonard Hotel, where a banquet was held. F. Paul Anderson, Jr., was toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by all the members. After the social session a business meeting was held, at which reports of the various committees were made. The following compose the society:

Landen Templin, Joe Hogard, Hugh Milton, F. Paul Anderson, Jr., Alex Hall, Felix Shouse, Alvin Kahn, Gilbert Frankel, John Leman, W. R. David, W. S. Sumner, Joe Eyle, W. S. Baugh, J. S. Wallingford, Jerry Bromage and C. F. DeMey.

ADAMS SPEAKER AT WOODFORD MEETING

The interest shown by the people of Versailles in the lecture given Friday by Professor C. S. Adams, of the University of Kentucky, is a splendid example of the universal interest in the production of food. Professor Adams' subject was "Practical Gardening." Farmers, teachers, school children and citizens filled the courthouse.

Students in the Senior and Junior classes of the College of Mines and Metallurgy are at work on a topographical detail map of the proposed site for the barracks to be erected in Lexington in the near future. The details of the map will be relative to the elevation of every part of the surface on which the buildings are to be located.

"INTELLECTUALISM IS ESSENTIAL TO DRAMA"

Says Professor Farquhar In Chapel Address Friday

TALK IS INTERESTING

"Intellectualism is the keynote of modern drama," said Professor E. F. Farquhar, who addressed a large audience in chapel Friday under the auspices of the Library Club. His subject was "The Frontier of Modern Drama."

The term "modern drama" is a descriptive phrase. It began sixty years ago with Ibsen's "Ghosts" and new ideas have replaced old, and prejudices have been cleared away. The old universe was a helpless, an uncertain world with salvation depending upon forces beyond human control. The new universe is certain, salvation depending upon each individual. It demands that each man "play the game" squarely with no creed and no dogma, and that he tackle life in his own way.

The drama follows the same trend. It has no certain form, and no artificialities. Its first requisite is naturalness. The stage is no longer peopled with kings and lords and ladies, but with draymen, street urchins and the very rats of society.

The new premise is that man is first and last an individual, dependent upon heredity and environment. Man is a creature of laws, and the modern drama deals with the tragic suffering of those who conflict with their surroundings.

In the solution of the problems of life the Greeks contributed resignation, the Shakespearean school moral order. What then is left for the modern drama but realism? It recognizes no unfathomable moral law, no mysteries of life to which science does not hold the key, and no social fabric which is not related to heredity and environment.

To the drama of the future is left only the treatment of happiness. In it will be no tragedy, but it will be a world of sunshine and gladness. It will be a positive force to show man a God in his pursuit of virtue.

MAYES GETS THIRD IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

The annual oratorical contest of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Oratorical Association held last Friday night at Winchester was won by J. C. Banks, of Transylvania College. His subject was "A World Federation." Mr. Banks received the gold medal which is given each year by the association. Second place was won by J. C. Jenkins, of Georgetown College. F. O. Mayes, representing the University, was awarded third place.

The contest this year was held in the auditorium of Kentucky Wesleyan College. Next year it will be held at Transylvania. The University of Kentucky, Georgetown, Centre, Transylvania, Wesleyan and Berea Colleges were represented in the contest.

SELECTIONS FOR '18

will no doubt uphold the reputation of the paper in this department.

The position of sporting editor, which was filled this year by Tom Underwood, is one that requires a man of real newspaper ability. Such a man will handle the sporting stuff next year in the person of Charles Planck, a Sophomore in the Department of Journalism. Mr. Planck has been connected with the Kernel for the last few weeks and his work was all that could be expected.

Two new features have been added to the staff, a society editor and a feature editor. The former will be filled by Miss Margaret Lair, a Junior in the College of Arts and Science, and the latter by Frederick M. Jackson. Miss Lair has had practice in newspaper work and her stories are far from ordinary. Mr. Jackson has been a member of this year's staff most of the year and his ability as a reporter and his willingness to work have secured for him this position.

Meetings of all the literary societies on the campus will be covered by W. Cabel Draddy, also an experienced Kernel reporter, whose work this year has been very satisfactory.

John J. Leman, a Sophomore in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, will handle the engineering news. This field has not been covered this year and Mr. Leman's addition to the staff will insure to the Kernel much valuable news.

Miss Margaret Wilkinson, Miss Eleanor Eaker and Elmer S. Woods, will constitute the reportorial force of the Kernel. All three have studied journalism and were highly recommended by Miss Margaret McLaughlin, instructor in the Department of Journalism. The reporters will be assigned regular "beats" which they will cover every week.

J. Thornton Connell, a reporter on the staff this year, was recently elected assistant editor by the Kernel Board of Control. Mr. Connell performed his duties excellently this year and his elevation to this position is an evidence of his ability as a writer.

Eugene Wilson, who was business manager this year, will continue in that capacity.

The new Kernel staff plans to get out an issue the first Thursday after college opens next September. This paper, eight pages in size, will contain valuable information for new students, as well as where the old students were located in the summer and general news about the University.

An organization meeting of the new staff was held in the Journalism rooms last Friday afternoon.

LADY WALNUT HILL STILL IN LIMELIGHT

Unable to see Lady Walnut Hill herself, the champion egg-layer of the world, egg experts and enthusiasts are contending for the privilege of examining her eggs. One dozen of those precious ninety-four laid by this wonder of the chicken world was the feature exhibit of the National Egg Show at Purdue University last week. The eggs this week are holding a place of state and honor at the Agricultural Fair at Guthrie, Ind. Professors A. S. Chapin and R. H. Wilkins, of the University, prepared the exhibit.

Registrar Gillis Compiles Data About All Alumni

RESULT IS STRIKING

Registrar Ezra L. Gillis has just completed a tabulated chart of the alumni of the University together with their occupations. This chart was compiled for the Investigation Committee and greatly aided in a thorough knowledge of the present positions of the alumni.

Of the professional graduates, there are three clergymen, twenty-one physicians, seven journalists, 162 lawyers, 107 professors, 158 high school teachers, twelve superintendents of schools, thirty principals of schools and one college president.

In the scientific world, fifty-four have become chemists, 392 engineers and one a druggist, and there are three architects in the artistic profession.

The Government Service has been an active field for Kentucky's alumni, three being in the Internal Revenue Service, eight in the United States Army, one in the navy, fourteen in unclassified Government service, eighteen in experiment station work and six in the United States Bureau of Education.

In the business world, two have become millers, twenty-one unclassified merchants, two grocers, two lumber merchants, one stock dealer, and one a tobacco dealer. Five have become business managers, seven contractors and builders and one an editor.

In the world of finance there are eight bankers, one bank cashier and five in the real estate business.

In the miscellaneous classification there are two bookkeepers, nine clerks, five insurance agents, sixteen salesmen, two athletic coaches, one baseball coach, twenty-one student instructors, five librarians, nine Y. M. C. A. secretaries, one missionary and two publishers. The railroad has drawn fifteen into its service.

The slogan "back to the farm," has not been unheeded by the graduates of this institution as sixty-nine have become farmers, six dairymen, and fifteen county agents.

In the list of skilled laborers there appears one machinist, one mechanic, one mine foreman, one designer, and three electricians, and there are 356 alumni with occupations not given.

MISSES AMMERMAN, WEAKLEY WINNERS OF LIT. CONTESTS

Miss Katherine Weakley won the Barker prize, $10 in books, in the annual declamatory contest of the Philosphian Literary Society, held in chapel Wednesday night, May 2. Miss Weakley read "Angel's Wickedness," by Marie Corelli. Miss Vennie Duley, the only other contestant, read "The Barrel Organ," by Alfred Noyes. Dean Anna J. Hamilton and Miss Mabel Pollit acted as judges.

Miss Lois Ammerman won the Barker prize in the Philosphian essay contest. This prize is also $10.00 in books. Miss Ammerman's subject was, "Will Monarchies Go?"

LACK OF TERRITORY IS NEW WAR THEORY

Professor L. L. Dantzler spoke last Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Central Kentucky Branch of the Southern Association of College Women on "Conditions in Germany Before the War." Professor Dantzler spent several years in Germany and is thus able to discuss the question with directness.

He said the Germans were a home-loving people and are not adventurous, but the population outgrew the amount of space and colonies were essential. England was a colonial nation, but Germany was not. For this reason Germany had prepared for many years for the war, as she saw that she would have to have more territory.

This war was really a postponement of the war that would have arisen over the Morocco affair had not one of the parties retracted, according to the speaker. Germany has always been taught that colonies are got by waging war, so in 1890 the first preparations were made for the present conflict.

Professor Dantzler said that the United States might have entered the war at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania as this is a war of ideals and this country could have joined when the neutrality of Belgium was violated.

It was decided to adopt a Belgian child and enough money was subscribed to support the child for a year.

ANNUAL 'MOVING DAY' EXERCISES TOMORROW

The annual Moving Day program will be given in chapel tomorrow morning at the usual hour. The Senior class will have charge of the exercises, the faculty being relegated to the rear for the time being. The other classes will move up into the places occupied by their predecessors.

In other years Moving Day has been one of the University's most interesting celebrations. A great deal of excellent dramatic talent has been uncovered on these occasions, and the deep, dark secrets of "Life in the Faculty" have been exposed to public view.

Altho no definite plans have been announced as yet, and will not be until tomorrow morning, it is understood that among those who will be represented on the platform will be the "Judge," "Monk," the Dean, "Speedy," "J. T. C. Alphabet Noe," "Insect," "Ezry L.," "Tige," and "Beatrice."

STATUE PRESENTED BY LOUISVILLE MAN

Alex Humphrey, a prominent lawyer of Louisville, recently presented the library with a plaster replica of the statue of Thomas Jefferson by Karl Bitter. The original statue was unveiled in St. Louis in April, 1913, the occasion being the one hundred and tenth anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase, and it was given for the Jefferson Memorial of St. Louis.

The statue will probably be permanently located in its present position and will be placed on a suitable pedestal which is now being made by John Dicker.

Mr. Humphrey received the honorary degree of L. L. D. from the University a few years ago.
