is her lover's wife) tells her the plot of her novel, which recalls the story of her own life. The wife says that she doesn't believe that the two women could possibly talk the matter out. Just as the two women are talking, the publisher walks in and the identity of the two women is learned.

Minna Bloomfield, playing the role of Mary Howard, the novelist, again shows Lexington theatergoers that she is one Guignol's most talented, not to mention most charming, actors.

Playing opposite Mrs. Bloomfield is Jimmie Lee, man about town. Incidentally, in love with the novelist, is R. D. McIntyre, Mr. McIntyre's success in the little theater, already established, is greatly augmented by his bright performance in the current play.

Bridget Drake, the rattle-brained, talkative hostess, and the character part of the piece is remarkably well played by a master, and her lines are so extremely hilarious and so exquisitely executed that

SOCIETY

ELIZABETH HARDIN, Editor Phone Ashland 6990

Give me the love of my friends and I shall not complain of cloudy sky, or little dreams that fade and die. Give me the sleep of one firm hand, the lips that say "I understand," and I shall walk on holy land. For fame and fortune burdens bring, and winter takes the roses of spring. But Friendship is a God-like thing. —LARAMORE.

OUT NOW

Gentlemen
it leaves the Ladies flat!

If you use lipstick—or if you really prefer a chocolate-pecan sundae to a Scotch and soda—you might as well stop reading right at this point. ESQUIRE is not for you and you had better face the grim fact now.

If, however, you are a genuine male—if you have a healthy masculine taste for good clothes and strong language—if you like the real inside on sports—if you'd rather read a brief saga by Ernest Hemingway than a sugar-coated tale of love in the suburbs—

In that case you will want to rush right out and get your copy of ESQUIRE before this first and somewhat limited issue is sold out.

For here, at last, is a man's idea of a magazine come to life! Here are "short" short stories by such writers as William McFee, John Dos Passos, Dashiell Hammett and Manuel Komroff.

Here is humor by such a rollicking list as George S. Chappell, Montague Glass, Robert Buckner, George Ade, Harry Hereshield and David Monroe.

Here are 16 pages on what to wear and when to wear it—written for men who think that good tweed is something to be smelled with reverence and worn with ease.

Charles Hanson Towne comes to the rescue of a bathtub gin generation with some hard-and-fast advice on how to behave when the water hands you a wine card—and won't that be a help! Benny Leonard himself tells about half a dozen fights for the lightweight championship that were never entered in the record books. Charlie Paddock gives the inside on why some famous championships changed hands.

Never before, in fact, has such a list of contributors been gathered together in a publication. In addition, there are forty pages in color including the greatest number of full-page cartoons ever printed in a magazine.

The price of ESQUIRE is fifty cents per copy or one dollar fifty for four issues. If your dealer cannot supply you address Esquire Publishing Company, Palmolive Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Shades of Old Centre! Or at least that is somewhat the impression that the game Saturday night gave the writer and most of those present in the Queen City.

The finale to the contact show came in the closing minutes of the game. The Bearcat signal caller was tackled, he smacked Ernie and the trouble began. As James naturally retaliated, the entire white shirted Cincinnati team swarmed on him.

All in all, the sportsmanship of the Cincinnati crowd was not of the highest order. It was like stealing a priceless relic from a Paris Art Museum, when the Cats finally emerged with the victory.

O. B. Murphy, one of the mainstays of the Big Blue forewell, received a partial fracture of his sinus bone, in the second quarter. Murphy had played a great game up until that time.

Kentucky's offense clicked very well at times in the Bearcat fracas. In fact it worked for the first time this season. But the vaunted defense was not there except when the enemy approached the goal line and then it stiffened up and they were halted.

The Red and Black team had a neat attack. Their catches, split backs and delayed passes were the "berries." Consistently they were good for five yards or more. Kentucky's fatal weakness on pass defense again stood out like a sore thumb.

There should be a law on an official getting in the way of the players. Twice the Wildcat ball carriers were in the clear and the umpire blocked them out of the way just to make time for an opponent to make the tackle.

The crowd was enormous and completely filled the horseshoe stadium. From all the buildings around fans witnessed the tense struggle. The floodlights were much more effective than those on Stillman.

Kercheval's Kick Wins Close Game

(Continued from Page One) atties which set them back 20 yards the Red and Black kicked to Bach on his own 38-yard line; he fumbled and a horde of opposing players recovered.

Kentucky started the fire works as "Kerch" kicked out on the four-yard line. Nothing gained eight yards on two furious plunges through the line but Williams failed on the fourth down and he kicked to McMillan near midfield.

Kercheval kicked over the goal line. "Kerch" said that there would be no more returning of kick-offs for scores in the first half like there was in the Tulane encounter last year.

Roamin' the Rialto

When W. C. Fields, Alison Skipworth and Baby Leroy team up a hilarious comedy should be forthcoming—and it is.

Help and the entire Kentucky team mobbed James, the 'Cats came through Wednesday at the Ben Ahl. Robert Young plays the spoiled and conceited football hero.

Despite the fact that Cincinnati scored ten first downs to their six, the 'Cats were much the better team. Seldom did the home team, playing before the greatest crowd ever assembled at a football game in Cincinnati, get within the Kentucky 20-yard line as a stubborn 'Cat line held them off.

Merie Williams, Bearcat fullback, played a stellar game in the backfield while Ballard and Smith were impressive in the forewell. For the Big Blue, James, Lexie Potter, Captain Kreuter, Bach, Pritchard, McMillan and Bill Jobe stood out as the stars while Kercheval stole the show with his beautiful punts, which traveled 70 yards in the air several times.

"When Ladies Meet" Is Guignol's First

Back again, after a year's absence from the Guignol stage, is Christine Johnson McBrayer, one of the most versatile and most talented players in the Guignol category.

The part of the French cook, Pierre, is handled well by Wilhelm Schick. Mr. Schick gives all of his lines in French, and together with this and his gestures, he is a scream. Somewhat miscast as Walverly dull and uninteresting part come to life, and offers amusement for the first-nighters.

"Saturday's Millions" the first football picture of the year is brought to Lexington, will be shown through Wednesday at the Ben Ahl. Robert Young plays the spoiled and conceited football hero.

Two exceptionally good pictures are being presented by the Strand theater this week. The first of these "She Had to Say Yes," stars Loretta Young; and is the story of the amours of a typical "customers girl." Miss Young makes herself agreeable to prospective customers until their orders are signed and then drops them.

At last the newsreel men come in for their share of the glory in the picture "Headline Shooter" which comes to the Strand Wednesday and Thursday. In this thriller William Gargan, a newsreel reporter falls in love with Frances Dee, a newspaper columnist. Rescuing her from kidnappers, he wins her heart; and the two go merrily on chasing scope.
