BETWEEN US

By HERNDON J. EVANS '21
(Reprinted from May 8 issue, Pineville, Ky., Sun)

It is difficult to understand why any New York judge would go out of his way to destroy much of the good will and respect that has been built up for the University of Kentucky over a long period of years. Yet Judge Saul Streit devoted 63 pages of a somewhat fanciful statement to lambasting the University, its faculty, trustees, and coaches. It was a gratuitous outburst, only partly based on fact.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, who has performed a remarkable service to the University and to his state during the last ten years, members of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, Governor Lawrence Wetherby and members of the Athletic Council replied to the New York jurist Tuesday. All friends of the University of Kentucky should read this reply in detail so that they may learn of the careless and unfounded statements made by the New Yorker in his blast at the policies and management of the state's leading educational institution.

Admitting that the University has followed the general trend in the country and perhaps has stressed athletics more than it should have, Dr. Donovan said that steps already have been taken to de-emphasize the athletic program. These steps were under way long before Judge Streit took it upon himself to lecture the University and make numerous false statements regarding the conduct of its affairs.

A glaring example of the judge's careless use of words was his statement that certain Olympic funds had been spent as subsidies for players at the University. This statement was absolutely without foundation in fact. Three of the University of Kentucky basketball players were not selected for the Olympic Team but Lexington and Kentucky fans generally sought to remedy this situation and solicited funds with which to send the three players along. More money was received in this outside campaign than was needed and this fund later was used to aid some of the worthy athletes in getting an education.

Judge Streit sought to leave the impression that the taxpayers were footing the bills for providing athletic scholarships. This also was a false statement. The scholarships, Dr. Donovan said, are provided from receipts from athletic contests; the entire athletic program does not cost the taxpayer one cent, he declared.

The New York judge and Kentucky critic also asserted that the University of Kentucky has no scholarships for students who find it necessary to work their way through college, inferring that only athletes are helped through school. This statement is untrue. University records show that there are awarded annually approximately 260 scholarships with a total value of about $175,000, none of which has the slightest connection with athletics.

Religious Leader Defends University

Dr. William Clayton Bower, Christian minister, eminent religious educator and author, and emeritus professor of Religious Education at the University of Chicago, where he taught for about 18 years, has addressed an open letter to Judge Saul S. Streit, of New York City's Court of General Sessions relative to Judge Streit's indictment of the University of Kentucky in connection with the recent basketball scandals.

Professor of Religious Education at Transylvania and the College of the Bible before his long tenure of office at the University of Chicago, Dr. Bower is one of the outstanding religious educators in the United States, and lectured in the Department of Sociology at the University for four years following his retirement from Chicago.

The letter is being published below in full, and a note of appreciation has been sent to Dr. Bower by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, expressing the gratitude of alumni for his staunch, logical and beautifully phrased expression of confidence.

Emeritus, University of Chicago

Judge Saul S. Streit,
Court of General Sessions,

Your Honor:

As an objective observer who has had an unusual opportunity of knowing the academic program and personnel of the University of Kentucky, I am writing

So the report goes. The University did right in answering the baseless charges item by item. We do not know Judge Streit and do not know what prompted his rabid outburst, but the same sort of actions might be expected of some New Yorker who had bet on New York University, St. Johns', or C. of N. Y., when they played Kentucky!

Townsend, Dawson To Head Alumni

Parrish, Angelucci, Bullock, On Board

William H. Townsend, Lexington attorney, has been elected president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association for the coming year, and R. R. Dawson, civil engineer of Bloomfield, will be the group's new vice president.

Three new members have been elected to the alumni's executive committee. They are Douglas Parrish, Paris; Dr. Ralph Angelucci, Lexington, and John R. Bullock, Cincinnati.

The new alumni president, who will succeed Louis Cox, was graduated from the University in 1912 when he was awarded an LL.B. degree. The honorary LL.D. degree was conferred upon Townsend by the University in 1930.

A native of Anderson county, he was admitted to the Kentucky bar in 1912 and has since practiced in Lexington. Townsend is corporation counsel, general counsel and member of the board of directors of Southeastern Greyhound Lines.

Townsend, author of several books on Abraham Lincoln and recognized throughout the nation as an authority on Lincoln, is currently a member of the Alumni Executive Committee and chairman of its Loyalty Fund.

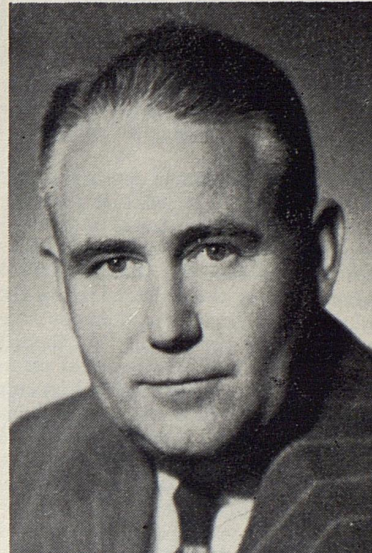

Dawson, the new vice president, attended the University from 1921 to 1925, pursuing the civil engineering course. He has been in the road and bridge construction business since 1928 except for a period during World War II when he served as a major in the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Douglas Parrish of Paris, one of three new executive committee members to take office this year for terms of three years, attended the University of Kentucky from 1930 to 1934. He is now part owner of a Lexington tobacco warehouse and is outgoing vice president of the alumni group.

Dr. Angelucci, the second new excutive board member, was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1934 with a Bachelor of Science degree. Following his graduation he entered Vanderbilt University where he received the M.D. degree in 1938. He has practiced neuro-surgery in Lexington since 1946.

The third addition to the committee, John R. Bullock of Cincinnati, was graduated from the University in 1928 with an A.B. degree in journalism. He holds the LL.B. degree from Yale University and is now a member of the Cincinnati law firm of Taft, Stettinius and Hollister.

Bullock is past president of the Alumni Association.

Three Alumni Named To Trustees Board

Governor Lawrence Wetherby has appointed three alumni of the University of Kentucky to serve on its Board of Trustees as representatives of the state at large.

Among the new members of the board, named to serve until December 31, 1955, are: Thomas A. Ballantine, '25, of Louisville, president of the Louisville Taxicab Company; Marion W. Moore, '27, of Covington, an attorney there; and Smith D. Broadbent, Jr., '34, of Cadiz, Ky., prominent farmer.

Other alumnus appointments include H. D. Palmore, '14, of Frankfort, president of the Kentucky Concrete Pipe Company who was named to President H. L. Donovan, '14, was awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree by Transylvania University at that school's annual commencement on June 2.

Charles A. John, '09, of East Orange, N. J., retired May 31 from Western Electric Company with which organization he has been associated since June 14, 1909.

serve until December 31, 1952; Guy A. Huguélet, '14, of Lexington, president of Southeastern Grayhound Lines, and John C. Everett, '22, of Maysville, grain dealer there, whose terms will expire December 31, 1954.

this open letter to express to you my own concern and that of many of the most representative citizens of Lexington and Kentucky over what seems to be in effect, even though not intended, a grave injustice to the academic integrity of the University and its standing as an educational institution.

On the legal aspects of the trial or the court's criticism of athletics at the University of Kentucky as based on the evidence before the court I have no comment. I do not in the slightest degree condone the acts of the defendants or the conditions that directly or indirectly contributed to their corruption. But in that part of the argument in support of clemency that passes beyond the legal process into the area of social analysis and interpretative personal opinion there seem to me to be certain omissions, innuendoes, unqualified generalizations, and imputation of motives that in effect, whether intended or not, constitute an unwarranted and damaging reflection upon the academic integrity of the University as a whole.

In writing this letter I have consulted a considerable number of the most outstanding and responsible citizens of this community and the Commonwealth, including eminent educators (not members of the University), churchmen, and members of the legal profession. Their unanimous and wholehearted concurrence is, I think, an indication of the deep and wide-spread feeling of regret and indignation at what has had the total effect of casting an unjustifiable reflection upon the integrity of the University as a whole and upon its administration and faculty.

The argument, and especially the unqualified conclusions, seem to place the predominant, if not the sole, blame for the corruption of the players upon the University of Kentucky, whereas an analysis of the total social situation within which this most unfortunate moral delinquency occurred reveals the fact that the social forces impinging upon the players were complex and involve many contributing factors, including the courts and law-enforcement agencies, organized gambling interests, the accepted standards of the enviroing society, intercollegiate athletics as sponsored by the regional and national associations, as well as individual colleges and universities.

Notwithstanding the fact that the argument devotes a section to the existing evils of intercollegiate athletics, it seems to fall short of showing the full compulsive impact of intercollegiate athletics upon the behavior of the individual college or university. It is almost impossible for the individual institution to resist these immense pressures if it is to engage in intercollegiate athletics. This seems clearly to suggest that, without minimizing the responsibility of the individual institution, the responsibility rests primarily with the system and that constructive solutions of the evil must be directed primarily toward the reform of the system.

Even more responsible for the corruption of the players are the ruthless organized gambling interests which the courts and law-enforcement agencies have failed to eliminate or control. In the light of this fact one misses in the argument evidence of a consciousness on the part of the court of its involvement in responsibility for the conduct of the defendants. This is the more astonishing in view of the fact that one of the worst centers of organized gambling is in New York in which the jurisdiction of the court is located and for which the law-enforcement agencies of its jurisdiction are responsible. By the same process of selective reasoning by which the primary, if not the sole, blame is placed upon the University of Kentucky it could be argued with equal validity that your court was primarily, if not solely, responsible for the corruption of the players which, of course, would be a false and unjust conclusion.

Incidentally, the courts and law-enforcement agencies of this community in which the University of Kentucky is located have closed Ed Curd's Mayfair Bar and all other known gambling establishments.

I know personally, and in many cases intimately, President Donovan, the members of the administration, the deans, and the members of the faculty of the University. I have never known a group of men of higher ideals and unqualified integrity or men more devoted to the highest ideals of higher education. Only one unacquainted with these men could make such unqualified, and by innuendo damaging, generalizations as that "cribbing at examinations by the defendants was encouraged and tolerated by University officials."

Unfortunately, the damage that has been done is irreparable. I find it difficult to believe that the court, with its high tradition of justice, in its effort to fix the blame for the misconduct of the defendants would consciously or intentionally cast reflection upon the whole academic program of the University which is in the best tradition of American education.

Sincerely yours,

William Clayton Bower,
Professor Emeritus of the University of Chicago

Tulane Game Is Homecoming

The Kentucky-Tulane football game, on Nov. 8, has been set as the Homecoming for all Kentucky alumni this year, and although it is a little early to give the complete schedule of events, tentative plans are in the making for a day-long celebration.

Festivities for alumni will open with a brunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the Student Union. The brunch is served cafeteria style, with the cost of the meal what you wish to make it. No formal announcement will be sent out, but it is desirable that alumni send in the approximate number of people who will be in their parties so that the Alumni Office may notify the cafeteria how many to expect. This brunch is open to alumni and their friends.

Parking facilities will be available on the campus during the morning hours, and alumni may come early, attend the brunch and walk to the stadium in time for the homecoming game at two p.m.

Following the game President and Mrs. Donovan will be at home to alumni and their friends at an open house at Maxwell Place, and that evening, the Alumni Association will entertain from 8:30 to 12:00 p.m. at a cabaret dance in the ballroom of the Lafayette hotel, which will be free to alumni and their guests. An orchestra will provide music for dancing.

COUNT ME IN ON HOMECOMING November 8

I'll be there for brunch (Student Union)

Jack Ballantine, Ann Carson Awarded Sullivan Medallions

Dr. Pickett Named Citizen of Year

The Algernon Sydney Sullivan Medallions, presented annually by the University of Kentucky to the outstanding senior students at the school and to the outstanding citizen of the state were awarded last May 30 to John Tilden Ballantine and Ann G. Carson, both of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Alice N. Pickett, of Louisville, former head of the department of obstetrics at the University of Louisville's School of Medicine.

Mr. Ballantine is the son of Thomas A. Ballantine, '25, and Mrs. Ballantine, the former Marie Pfeiffer who also attended the University. A major in arts-law, he is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Beta Kappa. A former president of the Student Government Association, Jack also served as president of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity, was cadet colonel of the Air Force ROTC and was graduated with "high distinction."

Miss Carson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carson, of Paducah, was a radio arts major and member of Kappa Alpha Theta, Chi Delta Phi, the Y.W.C.A. cabinet, and was president of the Student Union Board and the Women's Administrative Council.

Miss Margie Is Honored At Reunions

Ollie James Speaks To 350 At Banquet

Miss Margureite McLaughlin, assistant professor of journalism at the University of Kentucky, was praised for her "unflagging zeal as an instructor" and her "warm sincere interest in hundreds of students" May 29 at a special ceremony in her honor at the University.

Citing the journalism professor for her past service was a former UK student, Ollie James, chief editorial writer in the Cincinnati Enquirer. Occasion for the ceremony in honor of Miss McLaughlin was the annual banquet of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association at which James was the principal speaker.

Known as the University's "number one alumna," Miss McLaughlin has just completed 38 years of teaching and will retire next September.

James, who has written the column, "The Innocent Bystander," in the Cincinnati Enquirer since 1940, told members of the alumni association that Miss McLaughlin has influenced hundreds of students who have passed through her classes "into positions of responsibility in the world of printed and spoken communication."

In commenting upon recent probes into University athletics, the speaker declared that "few people bother to criticize schools that lose 'em all."

James added that he remembered that some people were demanding that the New York Yankees be disbanded because they were too good.

Judicial comment recently aimed at the University was humorously likened by the Cincinnati newspaperman to the cry of a tramp who screamed that the "whole world stinks to high heaven" after overripe limburger cheese was smeared on his upper lip.

Cups Presented

Two of the alumni attending the dinner at the University of Kentucky last night received surprise distinctions.

Capt. William N. Hughes of the Class of 1902 came the longest distance to attend the meeting. His home is in Long Beach, Calif.

The oldest person attending was Paul Ward, 78, of Cynthiana. He is an 1898 graduate. Both men received cups from retiring President Louis Cox.

A portrait of Miss McLaughlin was presented to the University by the Theta Sigma Phi Alumnae of Lexington. The portrait, painted by William Welsh, native of Lexington, was made possible through a gift from Alexander Bonnyman of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the Blue Diamond Coal Company, UK alumnus and personal friend of Miss McLaughlin.

The portrait and a room furnished in the new Journalism building by Theta Sigma Phi Alumnae in honor of Miss McLaughlin were presented to the school by Mrs. Thomas R. Underwood, a 1919 UK graduate and first woman editor of the Kernel, campus newspaper.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, president of the University, accepted the gifts for the school.

Miss McLaughlin was introduced at the banquet by W. H. Townsend of Lexington, class of 1912 and new alumni president. The Rev. Charles Louis Cooper, pastor of the Georgetown Methodist church and UK graduate with the class of 1925, asked the invocation. Louis Cox, 1951-'52 alumni president, presided.

James A. Welch, '47, of Urbana, Ill., a member of the University of Illinois staff, has been appointed assistant professor and assistant animal husbandman at West Virginia University. He is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at the University of Illinois.

50-Year Grads Attend Banquet

Five of the 1902 graduates, back to celebrate a half-century of love for and loyalty to the University, sat together at the annual alumni banquet on May 29th. From left to right, they are: Wallace Hoeing, Louisville; Capt. William N. Hughes, Long Beach, Calif.; H. A. Hoeing, Lancaster; William F. Hart, Kansas City, Mo.; and W. E. Class Reunions Great Success

Attendance Record Set By '12 Class

Fifteen classes returned to the campus for reunions on May 29th and of the many fine reunions held, the Class of 1912 broke the 1952 record with 58 members present for their class luncheon, held at noon that day in the Student Union.

Special credit for the success of the 1912 reunion goes to Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, Murray State College Registrar and class reunion secretary.

Regular reunions, under the Dix Plan, were held for the classes of 1895, '96, '97 and '98; 1914, '15, '16, and '17; and 1933, '34, '35, and '36. Special reunions were planned this year for the Fifty-Year class, 1902; the forty-year class, 1912; and the twenty-five year class, 1927.

Secretaries of each class planned luncheons for their groups at noon on reunion day, May 29, and that afternoon the alumni were guests at a reception from four to six at Maxwell Place, the home of President and Mrs. Donovan, following which the classes attended the annual alumni banquet and meeting of the Alumni Association at which they sat together at special tables.

The Class of 1902 was honored, both at the alumni banquet Thursday night and at the commencement exercises on Friday evening. At that time members of the class marched to the commencement platform and were given Golden Jubilee certificates, admitting them to membership in the Half Century Club. The certificates were jointly presented by President Donovan, in the name of the University, and by President W. H. Townsend of the Alumni Association.

Members of the Fifty-Year class present for the celebration included: Dean T. T. Jones, former dean of men at the University and secretary of the class; William F. Hart, Kansas City, Mo.; Howard A. Hoeing, Lancaster;

New Screen For Jet Engines Is Developed At U. K.

By Joe Reister, '34

The Courier-Journal Lexington Bureau

A high-strength protective screen for jet engines developed in the University of Kentucky's aeronautical-research laboratory is expected to solve a problem that has puzzled the aviation industry for several years.

Officials of the laboratory said that work on the long-range project had progressed to the point where the device had withstood all tests put to it.

In 1947, the Air Research and Development Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, commissioned the laboratory here to start a project looking toward development of a stronger screen for gas turbine (jet) engines.

Serious In Combat

It was common knowledge among jet-engine designers at that time that the most pressing problem facing them was development of a screen that would allow passage of sufficient air to operate the engine, yet would keep out debris.

The screen mounted around the air-intake noses of the jet engines then in production would keep out any light debris sucked into it on airstrips. When the planes were in combat, however, or flying at unusually high altitudes, the problem became serious.

In combat, for example, .50-caliber shell cases ejected as they were fired from guns mounted on the planes sometimes found their way into the engine through the open noses of the craft.

Damage Costly

The cases merely were dropping off the cartridge belts of the planes' cannons, but the speedy fighters would plow into them at speeds up to 650 miles an hour. This resulted in the shells driving right through the protective screens into the vitals of the jet engine. The damage caused in this manner not only was extremely costly, but hazardous for pilots.

Ice sometimes formed on the screens when the jets were skimming along at high altitudes, often resulting in crash landings. About a year ago, nine or 10 jets crash-landed in Indiana because ice had formed on the screens of their engines, cutting off the air supply.

Soon after the project was undertaken in the laboratory here, technicians manufactured a nitrogen gun that would fire shell cases at high speeds into the screen they had developed for testing purposes.

At the same time, they set up an electronically controlled camera that would time the rate at which the shells struck the screen.

From 1947 until last May the engineers here worked slowly in developing and then rejecting screen after screen. Progress was being made, however, as the screens were withstanding more impact right along.

Finally, tests made recently showed that the latest-type screen would resist the impact of a shell case fired at a speed of about 650 miles an hour—the rate set as the goal in the research project.

Folds Automatically

In addition, the screen developed here has been designed to fold back automatically if ice begins to form on it.

As a means of comparison, the now-outmoded screens would not withstand impacts comparable to speeds of more than 125 miles an hour.

R. G. Beavers, supervisor of the U. of K. laboratory; technicians Glenn Abbott and Vivian Currens, and their associates who have worked on the project are satisfied with their job—up to a point.

"We feel that the job has been completed, but we want another year's

Little Bud Cavana Has UK As His Goal

Milton "Bud" Cavana, '32, varsity end at Kentucky in the days when Shipwreck Kelly was burning up the turf on Stoll Field, has a young son in the first grade who has already begun preparations for a varsity career at his Daddy's Alma Mater.

As seen in the picture, "Young Bud" is already wearing a "K" sweater even though at the age of seven he has just completed the first grade in school. However, he has already begun his athletic endeavors, and for the past three summers has been winner and defending champion of McKean County in the freestyle race for eight-year-olds-and-under at the Bradford, Pa. Recreation Pool county meet. His proud Daddy says, "although he is only seven years old his time for the dash event is rather unusual since it is only two or three seconds off what my high school boys swim it in."

time to work on some modifications of the screen," Beavers said. "We plan to ask the development center for more time to make this screen even a little better than it is now."

Fayette Alums Hear President Donovan

UK Head Replies To Judge Streit

(Excerpts from story published in Lexington Herald, May 27)

By Andrew Eckdahl '40

In an address last May 26 to members of the Fayette County Alumni Club of the University, Dr. Herman L. Donovan declared that UK and Bradley University were made the "whipping boys" of the national basketball scandal to focus attention away from New York racketeers and gamblers.

In addressing the group, Dr. Donovan called a recent statement of Judge Saul Streit a "67-page harangue" filled with misrepresentation and designed to "destroy the reputation of the University of Kentucky."

"The judge forgot that Madison Square Garden was in his bailiwick, and that place is one of the rottenest gambling joints in the world," the educator told his frequently applauding audience.

'All In Kentucky'

"All the culprits were in Kentucky—according to Judge Streit," he continued, citing that the jurist blamed the scandal situation on UK trustees, administration and "townspeople."

"So you're corrupters of youth too," he told the audience. "But the judge forgot to mention those 'innocent' men—the gamblers and racketeers."

"I get mad when I think about it," he continued.

As a result of Judge Streit's charges, Dr. Donovan declared, "sports writers—particularly those in New York City—have been having a great time."

"But," he continued, "they've been focusing attention here instead of on the New York gamblers—and I think that's what it was intended to do."

"It's an outrageous thing."

Improper Action Charged

At one point in his address, Dr. Donovan charged that the jurist acted improperly in talking in chambers to the three former UK players awaiting sentences before him. "Lawyers have told me he was not supposed to take those boys in there, without their lawyer, and with them knowing he had the power to send them to prison if he wanted to."

(Information obtained from the three—Alex Groza, Dale Barnstable, and Ralph Beard—was the basis, in part, of Judge Streit's charges against UK athletics and Head Coach Adolph Rupp.)

"Rupp was not on trial—but he (the judge) put him on trial and found him guilty—and in a lengthy opinion," the educator said. "The University was not on trial—but he put it on trial and found it guilty."

Elsewhere in his address, Dr. Donovan compared the University and Bradley University, which also has been plagued with net fix scandals, with the victims of Adolf Hitler and Stalin.

"Hitler made the Jews his whipping boys," the president stated, "and Stalin has done the same thing with everything in the West."

He cited that after World War II there was an increased interest in sports and a clamor in universities to build up teams.

"Then all of a sudden athletics is overemphasized," Dr. Donovan said. "The wrath of the public rises up and wants a victim, a whipping boy—and finds it in Bradley and in Kentucky."

The president pointed out that if someone were guilty of an offense he should be punished, "but they don't let up—they keep bringing up the charges over and over."

"Why we're being investigated by about 10 to 15 organizations right now. It's a wonder your association hasn't formed a committee to investigate us," he said.

"But I'll tell you this," the president continued, "our record is as good as any other university on the American continent."

Opening his discussion of the athletic situation, Dr. Donovan was applauded for a statement "I want to tell you there's nothing wrong with your University.

"Things are on the four-square—upright and honorable. The men and women at the University are honest men and women. They have high ideals. And they're trying to lead the youth in the right direction."

The president agreed that the University was "ashamed and embarrassed" by the bribe disclosures, but reiterated statements he had made several times that the guilty players "essentially are not dishonorable—they were taken in by slick gamblers."

"God knows," he continued, "they have been punished over and over again—it might have been easier for them to have gone to the electric chair."

"They have been held up to scorn by the court and by the light of far more publicity than usually is given a man who commits murder or some other heinous crime."

Other Answers Coming

Dr. Donovan also expressed appreciation for the support Kentuckians and the Kentucky press in general have given the school since the Streit charges, and disclosed that UK plans at least one, perhaps two, more answers to the jurist's accusations.

The president offered alumni copies of a mimeographed statement the University previously has issued in answer to the Streit accusations.

He discussed in detail one specific charge by the jurist—that Coach Rupp "deliberately sacrificed the physical welfare of the players." Dr. Donovan said this charge apparently was based on novocain treatment given Ralph Beard on one occasion when he suffered a sprained ankle, and said local doctors had agreed this treatment was proper.

"The teams couldn't have won as many games as they did if the players had been mistreated physically," he declared.

The president told his audience, who were attending a buffet supper at Keeneland Race Course, that the judge

Bryant Ceases Out-Of-State Recruiting

Policy Set After Cotton Bowl Game

Within an hour after the Kentucky football squad returned to the campus from its New Year's Day 1952 triumph over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Coach Paul Bryant startled the grid world with a challenging new recruiting policy.

The Wildcat mentor decreed a unique plan to "cease all recruiting of football players outside the state of Kentucky."

Bryant, who in six seasons at the Bluegrass school has produced four bowl teams and enjoyed triumphs in three of the post-season classics, invited other colleges and universities to adopt the plan as a step toward elimination of "all the evils attendant on recruiting." It is believed that the Bryant plan was the first such major corrective step, short of outright de-emphasis or abandonment, to be adopted by any major football power in the country.

While Kentucky will not conduct or condone recruiting outside the state's borders and immediate emphasis will be placed on encouraging the best Kentuckians to attend their state university, out-of-state students will be accepted under highly-selective limitations. Bryant directed a limit of "no more than five football scholarships in any one year to non-Kentuckians." In all instances, he pointed out, "out-of-state students must seek us out and apply for scholarships. We will make absolutely no effort to recruit them." The coach explained that the allowance of five non-Kentucky scholarships was designed in most part to accommodate sons and brothers of alumni and to keep the out-of-state ratio on the football team in line with the ratio of non-Kentuckians in the total student population.

Despite the fact that only 108 Kentucky high schools fielded grid squads last year, Bryant declared "We have confidence in the ability of Kentucky

BART PEAK HONORED AT CAMPUS DINNER

Bart N. Peak, '17, for thirty years secretary of the University of Kentucky YMCA, was honored last April at a testimonial dinner given at the Student Union.

Morton Walker, '31, of Louisville, assistant to the president of the University of Louisville, was the principal speaker, and short talks also were given by President H. L. Donovan and Emeritus President Frank L. McVey.

University Dean of Students A. D. Kirwan announced that funds raised by Mr. Peak's friends would be used for a life-size portrait to be hung in the YMCA lounge on the campus. The University dean also presented Mr. Peak with a certificate for a lounge chair for a new home he is building.

UK DEDICATES ITS NEW ORGAN

A new $33,000 pipe organ in Memorial Hall was dedicated last May 5.

Arthur Poister, professor of organ at Syracuse University presented the dedicatory recital.

The organ was purchased for the University from the income of the Haggin Fund, which was given the school by Margaret Voorhies Haggin in memory of her husband, James Ben Ali Haggin.

The new instrument is replacing an organ which has been in constant use since 1929. Several hundred students have studied at the console of that organ.

Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, president of the University, delivered the dedicatory statement, and Dean M. M. White of the College of Arts and Sciences presided.

While the full effect of this unique "stay in your own back yard" plan probably will not be evident until at least another year, the current roster (as of end of spring practice) shows an

"charged we doped the players like they dope horses in a race."

"Is it right to tell the country that I say it's not," he continued. "It's gross misrepresentation designed to destroy the reputation of the University of Kentucky."

"The University was made the 'whipping boy' because Rupp and Bryant were good coaches and won too many games."

Dr. Donovan told the alumni that Coach Rupp had consistently won 20 out of 24 games a season no one would have heard of him. "But Adolph kept on winning—and that caused the trouble."

"That's the explanation," he concluded. "It's hard on the University. It's hard on the coach. And it's extremely hard on the boys."

End of his speech brought standing applause from those present.

equal division of Kentuckians to out-of-state players. The contingent of native Kentuckians is the largest in the school's football history.

1952 Question, "After Parilli, What?"

Prospects Listed For Coming Season

After Parilli, what?

That question appropriately poses a representation of the problems faced by Kentucky Coach Paul Bryant in his efforts to field a good football team in 1952.

The absence of the All-American quarterback, offensive sparkplug in the Wildcats' drive to national grid prominence during the past three years, points up the essential keynote of the 1952 season—general lack of experienced personnel.

Only one player (All-Conference guard Gene Donaldson) remains available for '52 who was either an offensive or defensive starter in the Sugar Bowl game between Kentucky and Oklahoma two seasons ago. From last year's Cotton Bowl squad of 49, a total of 24 lettermen return. Only half (12) were starters on either offense or defense and 10 key starters—one from every position except end—were lost.

Taking up the Wildcat cause in 1952 will be one of the youngest and most inexperienced teams assembled by the U.K. coach, who emphasizes he is building for 1953. A breakdown of the spring roster shows 12 freshmen, 36 sophomores, 18 juniors, and only eight seniors.

Bryant is neither optimistic nor pessimistic about his chances to field a team in '52 as successful as those of two other major re-building years (1946 and 1948) in his career at Kentucky. As he puts it, "Our team next season will not be as strong as those of the bowl era (1949-50-51) due to a lack of sufficient experience on the part of a majority of our best men and a lack of adequate depth at many key positions. We are looking at the coming year with the idea of training our personnel to function as a unit by 1953. If they learn their lessons fast and develop well during this 're-building' process, we should win some ball games next fall. However, we'll be a long way from rating as a contender for the conference championship. That's not a pre-season prediction. It's just the plain truth as we see it now."

Encouraging to the Wildcat headmaster is the belief that he and his staff "know more about the personnel than we've ever known after a spring practice before." As he analyzes the team, the greatest lack of depth will be at ends and linebacker; and the biggest weakness will be the lack of an experienced quarterback and passer. On the credit side, he lists the strong points as a good running attack, general team speed, depth at guard and aggressiveness in the middle of the line.

As was the case in other re-building years, Bryant will be utilizing a slightly modified style of attack in an effort to make the best use of available personnel. The chances are that variations of "Split T" patterns will be introduced to supplement the basic "T" formation system used for the past five seasons. Behind this modification is the reason that the pass-flinging Parilli is gone, no outstanding passer-ball handler is available, and several good running backs appear in the fold. The two-platoon system will be used as much as possible, Bryant indicated. There will be a lot of strange faces in the lineup and probably some surprises as regulars of last season are shifted to other positions.

The important quarterback post may end up as a two platoon job from all indications gained in spring practice. A duo of converted halfbacks, neither of whom have quarterbacking experience, appear ready to stage a down-to-the-wire fight for the position. Harold (Bunky) Gruner, third-leading ground gainer on the team last year, will probably get the nod over threat Larry Jones on the basis of his greater smoothness in operating out of the slot and slightly superior passing ability.

The impressive titles of Sugar Bowl champions and Cotton Bowl champions, gained in the past two consecutive seasons, will mean little this year except encouragement to opponents and the agenda of tilts for '52 ranks as one of the toughest faced.

RETURNING LETTERMEN

(Total of 24)

ENDS—Steve Meilinger, a potentially good flankman. Disappointing in spring practice, but good last year and could help Wildcat cause materially if he comes through with a good season in '52. He was All-Conference end last year. Caught more TD passes than anyone in league and rated third in pass receiving yardage in SEC during his '51 sophomore campaign. Jim Proffit, regular offensive right end in '51 as a soph. Expected to see double duty as defensive wingman this season. Harry Kirk, a Kentuckian who was one of six frosh on 1951 squad to letter. He may see reserve action this season. Al Zampino, another freshman letter winner who saw action on defense. He must improve to play this year.

TACKLES—Bob Fry, rated by Coach Bryant not only as team's best offensive player available for '52, but also exceptionally good blocker. Alternate Captain of the 1952 squad, he'll probably see action at offensive right tackle if Meilinger comes up to expectations at end. Also likely to perform at defensive end, a position he looked good at last season. Frank Fuller, probably the top defensive performer at tackle. Showed very well in Cotton Bowl game. Calvin Smith, aggressive stalwart up from reserves to bid strongly for starting defensive tackle slot. Chet Lukawski, starter on offense last season and probable leading candidate to repeat for berth. John Baldwin, two-letter-winning senior shooting for regular duty. Generally inexperienced but expected to plug weak spots in a top reserve role.

GUARDS—Gene Donaldson, a big question mark who could be great if inspiration of final competition spurs him to heights long predicted. Starting offensive left guard for past two seasons, he's team's only starting-lineup vet of Sugar Bowl two seasons ago. Ray Cor- rell, star of the defensive line in Cotton Bowl game. Named to all-time Cotton Bowl team. Almost certain to hold down defensive right guard position. Ted Kirn, a junior who may see considerable action in relief roles.

CENTERS—John Griggs, rangy captain-elect for '52 ranked as team's top combination (offense-defense) performer. Switched from end to center last year and started on offense. May wind up at defensive end this season. A year behind his class, he was drafted after last season by pro-champions Los Angeles Rams.

LINEBACKERS — Tommy Adkins, a sophomore standout last year as regular left line backer. Fully expected to take charge again in '52.

QUARTERBACKS — Harold (Bunky) Gruner, a reserve offensive left halfback as a sophomore last season who seems top candidate to replace fabulous Babe Parilli. First taste of quarterbacking came in spring practice. He was third leading ground gainer on team in '51. Classed as smart and shifty runner, average passer, but inexperienced field general. Larry Jones, another converted halfback who's bound to push Gruner. Looked good in spring practice tryout at quarterback. He's part of an identical twin duo on the squad. Brother Harry is a halfback. Larry also hails from Louisville. Herb Hunt, only experienced quarterback letterman. He saw limited reserve action last year behind Parilli and Farley. Another Kentuckian, he comes from Mayfield.

HALFBACKS—Harry Jones, considered the best offensive back on '52 roster by Coach Bryant. Fast and shifty in open field. Regular right half during past season and named on most all-opponent teams. His identical twin brother, Larry, is a quarterback. Tom Fillion, leading ground gainer on the team with 671 yards and fifth in rushing yardage among conference runners as a sophomore in '51. Used almost exclusively in relief roles, he started only one game (Tennessee). Proved himself a powerful runner in reserve fullback and halfback roles. If faults can be corrected, he could be starting right half this season. Don Jirschele, a highly-capable runner who should get into a lot of action this season. Used primarily as kickoff specialist in 1951 and will do this duty again in '52.

FULLBACKS—Allen Felch, a sophomore power plant appropriately named "The Bull" by teammates. Short and stocky (5-10, 195), he hits the line harder than any other Cat back. Used in reserve roles last season, but probable starter in 1952.

SAFETYMEN—Larry Hennessey, the "holler" boy of the ball club in practice scrimmages as well as games. Has spirit and determination plus a love of the game when the going is the toughest. Miles Willard, regular defensive halfback on the Cotton Bowl starting lineup. He was developing fast in late season and should see plenty of action in his junior campaign. Expected to be team's leading punter on basis of 34.7 yards per try average in 1951.

PROMISING NEWCOMERS — Bill Simpkins, sophomore center from Griffin, Ga. Played on "B" team last season as a freshman. Most likely prospect to take over as starting offensive center based on fine showing in spring practice. Neil Lowry, a six-foot, 185-pound sophomore guard, held out last year, who's certain to be pushing regulars and appears top candidate for defensive left guard spot. All-City tackle at Youngston (Ohio) Ursuline, he's majoring in English at U.K. John Bailey, another sophomore who's slated for first string play after a year on the "B" squad. All-South Jersey guard in high school, he's the Wildcats' probable offensive left guard replacing a regular moved to linebacker. Ralph Paolone, a hard and reckless runner who could be the starting fullback if he continues pace shown in spring practice. Transfer from Notre Dame and did not play last year. Leading ground gainer in spring intra-squad contest with 105 yards on 19 carries. Jim Schenk, six-foot-one inch, 212-pound guard from Newark, N. J. A junior this season, he is tagged for possible starting right guard duty. Came to Kentucky last year after Georgetown University (Washington, D. C.) abandoned football, but did not play. He's a pre-law student.

Annual Report To The Alumni

MINUTES OF BUSINESS MEETING
UK ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
MAY 29, 1952

The annual meeting of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association was held May 29, 1952, in conjunction with the annual banquet in the Student Union Ballroom.

Louis Cox, president of the Association, presided.

Mr. H. D. Palmore moved that the minutes of the May meeting, and the minutes of the annual meeting, June, 1951, be approved as published, seconded by Robert Hillenmeyer, the motion carried.

The annual report of the secretary was presented by the executive secretary, Helen G. King as follows:

The year 1951-52 probably will go down in the annals of the University as one of the most hectic in its history, however I believe I can honestly report to you that while the year has been one of upsets the University and the Alumni Association are weathering the storm, thanks being due in great part to the sustaining loyalty of our Alumni.

Our total memberships for the year 1951-52 reached 3,603 and in spite of the fact that this number includes 659 life members held over and currently received we fell more than a 100 short of the total of last year.

This lack of interest in annual memberships is one of the things which I cannot understand because I believe that fundamentally our alumni interest increases each year and I am sure that through the active participation of so many organized groups in alumni affairs the enthusiasm of the alumni has increased, therefore I am issuing a challenge to you here tonight to urge upon your fellow alumni the importance of active membership in the Association in order that we may continue to further the University's program and to militate for a bigger and better University of Kentucky. We believe that we have maintained a closer contact with Alumni this year. There were 250,000 individual pieces of mail sent out from this office since last June 1st, and the office staff has been increased by the addition of one new member, a records clerk whose duty it is to keep up, in so far as is possible, with the changes of address of alumni.

More than one hundred counties in Kentucky are organized in alumni groups and eleven metropolitan cities have organized clubs. In addition to these, clubs are being formed at the present time in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

During the past year President Donovan has again loaned to us the services of his assistant, Dr. Hambleton Tapp, and Dr. Tapp and I have visited approximately 45 organized clubs. Meetings were held in Detroit, Michigan; Dallas, Texas; and Memphis, Tennessee; and I will go to the New York club meeting on June 14th.

I would like at this time to express to Dr. Donovan and Dr. Tapp the deep appreciation of the Association for Dr. Tapp's tireless and heartening contributions to the work of the Alumni Association.

Last fall at the instigation of the Alumni Executive Committee, President Donovan invited back to the campus the presidents of all of the organized clubs in the United States for an all-day luncheon meeting with members of the Executive Committee, after which President Donovan invited them to be guests of the University for the Mississippi State football game. We believe that this meeting inspired the presidents to further efforts on behalf of the University.

A number of new projects were initiated by the Association this year. For the first time we have complete addressograph plate files on all graduates of the University, and also for the first time the alumnalopes which are being sent to you for your annual dues are marked post-paid and come back to the Alumni Office without cost to the alumni. In view of the fact that dues fell off this year the Executive Committee went to the Board of Trustees this winter with the request that fifty cents per capita be added to student activity fees during the two regular semesters, this sum to be turned over to the Alumni Association to be used for granting each graduating senior one year's free membership in the Association. The Committee felt that if this could be done there would be many young people who would continue memberships in later years. The Board of Trustees granted this request and the system will be in operation by June 1953.

The Alumni Office has continued routine activities such as homecoming, athletic banquets and reunions in much the same manner as they have been handled in the past.

In addition to the regular season football ticket priorities for paid-up alumni, we have made arrangements with the Athletics Department to get good individual game tickets during the month of June. Any paid-up alumnus, especially those who are affiliated with an organized club, may apply for these tickets direct to the Alumni Office, and the check should be made payable to the Athletics Association. Individual tickets are $3.80 each and they will be taken from the remainder of the tickets not taken up by visiting teams and the remaining season tickets which are not sold.

Mr. Townsend, chairman of the scholarship committee will announce to you tonight the total amount taken in for the Loyalty Fund this year. The fifth Alumni Loyalty Fund scholarship recipient was announced May 10th. He is Paul Eggum, Benham, Kentucky.

It is my pleasure to announce to you tonight that the voting members of the Association have elected the following officers for 1952:53: President—William H. Townsend, Lexington, Ky.; Vice-President—R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield, Ky.

Those elected to serve on the Executive Committee are: John R. Bullock, Cincinnati, Ohio; Douglas Parrish, Paris, Ky.; Dr. Ralph Angelucci, Lexington, Ky.

At the April meeting of the Executive Committee representatives of the 1952 senior class were the guests of the Committee and from this group our Board chose William E. Monroe, Louisville, senior student in the college of Pharmacy as the 1952 graduate to serve as an honorary member of the Executive Committee for next year. The Committee also inaugurated for the first time a system of inviting to our May meeting a junior representative from each college, and from this group to invite one 1953 senior to sit in on the meetings of the Executive Board for next year. Lawrence Riddle, Buechel, Kentucky, of the College of Commerce, was the young man selected.

At the request of the Athletics Department the Alumni Executive Committee has designated the Tulane-Kentucky football game on November 8th as the Homecoming game this year.

President Louis Cox has given our

Association excellent leadership this year and we are grateful to him and the other officers of the Association, and to our fine Executive Committee for their tireless and unselfish services in behalf of the University and the Alumni Association.

I also wish to express my deep and abiding gratitude to the President of the University for his interest in and cooperation with the officers of the Association.

As you who operate offices in business are well aware you cannot work without a fine operating staff and I can assure you that the Alumni Office has enjoyed that type of personnel this year. I would like for this group to know Ann McMillen, office secretary, and Anne Law Lyons, records clerk, the other two permanent members of the Alumni Office staff.

I have said to you many times in letters and in personal contacts that a University is only as strong as its alumni body. We cannot attain the heights without the militant leadership of the men and women who are its graduates and former students. The University and its Alumni Association cannot fail to do their jobs if you who represent the institution unselfishly push forward the program and further the best interests of the University, the alumni, the faculty, and the students.

Frankly, I have exhorted, pleaded and begged until my vocabulary is about exhausted, but I know that you who are here tonight represent the backbone of our group and I feel sure that you will adopt the roll of University missionaries in exhorting your fellow alumni to become active in the affairs of the Association.

Respectfully submitted,
Helen C. King
Executive Secretary

Mr. Shively then presented the treasurer's report through April 30, 1952. The fiscal year ends May 31, 1952, after which the annual report will be published. President Cox ordered both reports filed.

The appointment of nominating committees for the Board of Trustees election was postponed until a later date.

Mr. Cox thanked the Executive Committee and the alumni for the support which they have given him during his year as president of the Alumni Association. He then introduced the new president, W. H. Townsend.

Mr. Townsend greeted the alumni guests, and members of the Executive Committee, after which he presented the following resolution of confidence to the alumni:

The Alumni of the University of Kentucky have read with deep indignation the reckless accusations of a New York Judge against them, their Alma Mater, its Athletic Association, officials and coaches and many other citizens of Kentucky. The Alumni, regardless of source or circumstance, countenance no violation of law—no evasion of rules—no unethical practices but they distinctly recognize a vast difference between judicious criticism, no matter how severe and unsparing, and a malevolent harangue, obviously conceived in overweening egotism and clothed in the tawdry garments of counterfeit righteousness. The Alumni willingly accept the former. They contemptuously reject the latter, especially a judicial imposture—so warped and twisted—so spurious and fantastic that by the same method of reasoning a chestnut can be proved to be a chestnut horse!

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky hereby declares its abiding faith and confidence in the Alma Mater, in Dr. Herman L. Donovan, its President, in the University of Kentucky Athletics Association, its directors, officials and coaches and pledges to them its steadfast support to the end that carping criticism and all unjust and untrue charges shall be promptly and finally refuted.

Gentlemen:

I have examined the financial records of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1952. The examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and statement of income and expense present fairly the financial position of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association at May 31, 1952, and the results of operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

Oliver Clay Maupin, Jr.
Public Accountant

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY:

I deeply appreciate the high honor which you have conferred upon me. I am also keenly aware of the important responsibilities which devolve upon the President of the Alumni Association.

No institution of learning has ever become great without the vigilant aid and steadfast devotion of a strong, loyal, well-organized alumni.

The student who enters a college campus for the first time, needs the college. When he leaves the campus for the last time, the college needs him—needs him all through the years to come.

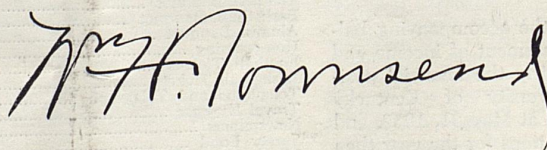

For many years, Kentucky was greatly handicapped by the fact that a large portion of each graduating class could find attractive employment only in the municipal areas of the north and east. The College of Agriculture was small, the College of Law was in its infancy, the Colleges of Education, Commerce, and Pharmacy were not yet established. The Engineering group had more graduates than all the other colleges put together. There was much of this fine material for citizenship that was lost to the State and deprived of close contact with Alma Mater.

Today the situation has very definitely changed. There are more industries in Kentucky that keep graduates of the University's technical schools at home. The steady expansion of the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, and Law, the newer colleges of Education, Commerce and Pharmacy have greatly increased the alumni, especially those who continue to reside within the State.

Under these circumstances, mindful of the example of many non-resident alumni groups who have shown through the years, despite obstacles of distance, unflagging loyalty to their Alma Mater, our Alumni Association should have at least twice its present membership.

If each alumnus would make it a special duty to obtain at least one new member of the Association our problem would be largely solved. Toward this end let us work steadily during the months to come.

Very sincerely,

WM. H. TOWNSEND, President

University of Kentucky Alumni Association
