

University Has First In Frat Scholarship

Greeks' Improvement Called 'Unbelievable'

UK fraternities rank first among all of the state universities in scholarship records for the college year 1952-53...

The CPSF has processed the fraternity scholarship records of more than 2,300 chapters to tabulate the comparative ratings of state universities all over the nation...

System Once Deplorable - Considering the fact that it has been just a short time since the Kentucky Fraternity system was in a deplorable spot...

Colonel Wilson went on in his letter to say, "The fraternities deserve great credit for their records for the past eight years and had gone through records back to the early '30's..."

From time to time I have heard claims by both faculty members and fraternity members as to the reason for the up and down swing-in a time of great success and resounding victory there is enough credit for all, so perhaps hand-in-hand the all, so perhaps hand-in-hand the all...

Korean Veterans May Now Switch Bachelor Degrees

Undergraduate college students, taking work under the Korean GI bill, may now switch from bachelor's to another without having it count as their one change of course allowed under the law...

The change must be made, the VA says, in a field of study which is as narrow as to require no more training time than was originally planned for the first degree.

For example, a veteran enrolled for a four-year course leading to an "A" in architecture could switch to an AB degree in liberal arts. As far as the law is concerned, the switch would not be considered a change of course so long as the training time did not exceed the "initial" four years.

Degree changes do not constitute course changes, the VA said, since a veteran's educational objective is listed as a baccalaureate degree, pure and simple, without reference to the field of study.

A course change, only one of which is allowed each veteran, means the student has changed his professional or vocational objective.

UK Committee Unable To Solve Parking Problem

Failure to offer any cure-all for UK's parking problem coupled with recommendations that the present priority system characterizes the student-faculty parking committee.

Appointed last spring by Dean M. White, College of Arts and Sciences, to study the campus parking situation, the eight-member group submitted its final report to the college last week.

Specific measures outlined for adoption include a more effective use of the parking lot behind the Agricultural Experiment Station, avoid straddling parking-space lines, and leaving cars at home on days when large organizations meet on the campus.

A complaint that police do not detect all infractions tends to receive any action. Members noted that the two full-time officers wrote

SGA Studies Proposal To Join National Body

Membership in the National Association of Students was discussed and postponed by the Student Government Association Monday night.

Dr. Parr, Constitutionalist, and Chairman of a committee to study NSA membership, presented the purpose and organization of the association as given by Jim Edwards, NSA president, who appeared before several SGA members on Nov. 23.

Could Send Delegates - If SGA was an NSA member, it would have the right to send delegates to the national and national congresses.

A proposal recently made by Ann O'Rourke, Constitutionalist, to amend SGA's constitution in order to elect class officers was tabled until Miss

'Beer' Barrel Episode Highlights Past Week

The UK-University of Tennessee football rivalry exploded in the public's face with both barrels last week.

The explosion, which shook both schools and inspired thousands of words of new coverage, began Nov. 26, when groups of UT football fans invaded the Memorial Coliseum where it had rested since UK's 27-21 win over UT Nov. 21.

It ended Monday when three Tennessee representatives returned the keg to the UK campus. In its first day of captivity, however, it had brought forth varying reactions, including the preparation of a new barrel, with the latest score freshly painted on it, left in front of the Coliseum by a mysterious donor Sunday.

Approximately 300 UK students and townspeople gathered in front of the Coliseum at 4:30 p.m. Monday to witness the keg's return to the campus. It arrived in Lexington by automobile with an escort of three UT students.

Allison Presents Barrel - Bob Allison, president of the UT All-Student Council, who was accompanied by Lucian Dale, activities chairman of the council, and Lee Winfrey, editor of the Orange and White, the student newspaper, made the presentation. The barrel was accepted by Carter "Corky" Glass, SGA president, on behalf of the UK student body.

Allison said he was sorry the keg could not have been filled with "some of our famous Tennessee moonshine" before being returned. He added that Tennessee was expected to knock the barrel to be brought to Knoxville next year, "when we'll keep it for good."

Glass, speaking from a platform erected in front of the Coliseum for the occasion, commented that the latest score had not been painted on the keg, "I understand," he said, speaking of the substitute barrel.

Medical School Is Possibility - A movement is underway for the collection of private funds for endowment of a medical school at the University. It was announced this week by the Fayette County Medical Society.

Dr. Francis M. Massee, chairman of the society's committee on medical education, said the authorities "appreciate and understand the move but are not taking part in it at this time."

Several committee members conferred with Gov. Lawrence Bess Wednesday to discuss state aid for the private endowment. The governor expressed belief that it was a good idea.

No Appropriation Planned - Dr. Massee pointed out that the plan to obtain money from private sources had nothing to do with any general legislative appropriation. He said that it is the society's present plan to "attempt to make a state-wide campaign for funds."

A study has been made by a medical advisory committee concerning the feasibility of recommending state aid for a medical school at UK. A report is expected from the committee within a week. At present, the University of Louisville has the only medical college in the state.

Offer Alternatives - Alternatives to a medical school at UK include increased state aid for medical research at Louisville, which in turn would free some of its funds to aid training of doctors for rural areas; or through Kentucky's participation in the Southern regional education program.

After the meeting was officially over, SGA members decided to put the barrel won in the Tennessee zone on display in the Student Union. They expressed the hope that an armed guard would not be necessary to assure the barrel's safety from Tennessee fans.

Series Offers UK Orchestra, Blind Organist

The University Symphony Orchestra and Andre Marchal, internationally known blind French organist, each present a program next week as part of the Sunday Afternoon Musical Series.

Dr. Stein holds degrees from the University of Michigan and the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York. He was head of the graduate music work at the George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., just prior to his coming to UK.

Dr. Stein's orchestral experience includes work with the Eastman Symphony Orchestra and the Kansas City Philharmonic. His major instrument is the flute.

The orchestra, directed by Dr. Ed-ward E. Stein, head of the Music Department, will give a concert at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Andre Marchal will give his recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Both programs will be in Memorial Hall.

In 1952 he was born in Paris in 1894. From 1915 to 1945 he served as organist at St. Germain des Pres, according to Dr. John L. Cutler, faculty advisor for the magazine.

In 1952 he gave a recital for the Music Festival of Ainsberg and the Bach Festival in Ainsberg, Germany. Early in 1953 he toured Australia for two months under the auspices of the Australian Broadcasting system. He has been on his present tour of the United States since early autumn.

His recital program will be as follows: "Les Carillons de Paris" by Louis Couperin; "Basse de Trompette" by Louis Marchand; "Requiem" by Maurice Couperin; "Dialogue sur les Grandes Orgues de la Cathedrale de Chartres" by Maurice Couperin; "Fantaisie en Sol Majeur" by J. S. Bach; "Piece Heroique" by Cesar Franck; "Assommoir No. IV" by Olivier Messiaen; "Petite Piece" by Jean Alain; and "Variations sur un Noel Angevin" by Gaston Litalie.

He will close the program by an improvisation on a tune that will be given him at that time by someone in the audience. The next in the series of musicals will be given by the University Chorus on Dec. 13.

The University Chorus will present Handel's "Messiah," one of the best known Christmas oratorios on Dec. 17. The composition, which is an example of the baroque in music, known for its classic tones, its dignity, and the swelling tones and harmonies, will be directed by Alvin Kivimieni, assistant professor of music.

ID Cards No Good For Cage Tourney

Student Identification Cards will not be honored for admission to the Invitational Basketball Tournament in Memorial Coliseum Dec. 21-22. It was announced this week by Ken Kuhn, sports publicist.

This Christmas holiday meet is a special event independent of the regular season schedule and was not included as a part of season basketball tickets or ID cards. Admission charge to everyone is $3 for a ticket covering both nights and all seats are reserved.

Students remaining on the campus during the holiday period may purchase tickets at the Athletics Ticket Office in the Coliseum between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Christmas Tree Decorated - The room will be decorated by a Christmas tree furnished by the Student Union Board.

Barbara Hall, YWCA director, said that the hanging of the Christmas tree is an annual tradition, which is sponsored to usher the Christmas spirit onto the campus.

More than 900 persons—students, faculty members, and towns people—attended the ceremony last year.

The YWCA began the Hanging of the Greens about 20 years ago. The program was held in the Student Union. It asked the YMCA and the Student Union Board to contribute their support in the opening of the program. Since that year the three organizations have jointly presented the Christmas program, which has now developed into an all-campus affair.

Guignol To Present An Arena Production

An arena production of "An Inspector Calls" will open Thursday at the Guignol Theatre. The play, a realistic fantasy, was written by J. B. Priestley.

The production will run through Wednesday night, Dec. 16. The box office opens at noon Monday. As the play is an arena production, the production staff includes producer, Elsie Baker, holder of the book; Mary Lewis, Patterson and Ben Artery; Robert Chubb, photographer; Florence Beckstedt and director; Florence Beckstedt and director; Florence Beckstedt and director; Florence Beckstedt and director.

The scene takes place in a dining room of an old English home. The Inspector represents the prosecution of the consciousness of the Birling family. He shows how unconsciously the family has conspired in the death of a shop girl without their realization.

The theme of the play is: "No one lives alone in a world; his actions are affected by those of others, and that the individual is responsible for the actions of the contacted people."

Group Will Award 750 Scholarships

The National Science Foundation will award 750 scholarships this year. They will range in value from $1,400 to $2,500 plus travel expenses. It was announced this week by Dr. Herman Spivey, dean of UK's Graduate School.

The deadline for completed applications is Jan. 6. However, they should be filed before Christmas.

Application forms are available at the Graduate Office, and from the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 401 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington 25, D.C.

SGA Should Study All Factors Before Joining National Group

SGA is considering joining an organization known as the National Student Association, a confederation of student governments of colleges and universities throughout the country.

Before coming to a quick decision on the matter, the Assembly might examine the pros and cons of membership. Ofhand, it sounds like a worthwhile organization. However, such an added expense (membership would amount to something like $300) would bear investigation under any circumstances.

The NSA appears to have a good bit to offer. The organization holds national and regional meetings of student leaders in an attempt to better inform and equip student government personnel for campus jobs.

Each year the National Student Congress brings together students from the 300 member schools. During the summer a smaller convention is held for student body presidents. At both of these convales students may exchange ideas, compare activities, and offer solutions to problems which arise on so many campuses.

In addition, NSA puts out a series of publications on student governments, student activities, and general student problems. The operations of NSA are even carried to an international scale through its assistance to student governments abroad.

As to NSA policy - The national organization sets forth policies which it hopes the student governments will endorse. Since there is such a diversification in membership, the individual SGAs are not compelled to accept these policies. It is strictly up to each member group to vote as it sees fit.

It has been pointed out that by joining such an organization our SGA would gain prestige on the campus, in that it would be functioning on a national scale. That may be so, but the question arises, Would the results warrant the expense of membership?

Actually, we belonged to the NSA several years ago, but dropped out due to a feeling by the Assembly that "SGA wasn't getting its money's worth." The delegates attended the conferences and returned with ideas. However, none proved feasible. Too many of the suggestions were concerned with matters other than government, such as trying to get local merchants to give students price reductions.

Of the colleges and universities represented then, UK was far ahead budget-wise. Our $5,500 budget was much greater than some schools with larger enrollments. Also, the UK delegates felt that the member schools were not representative of our position in a great many matters.

Since that time, however, new members have been added, which have proved rather influential. If these schools are more similar to UK and can offer constructive suggestions to our SGA concerning its functions and responsibilities on campus, such an organization might be worth joining.

Too often, in the past, SGA has been bogged down by petty grievances and chronic problems which hinder smooth operation of student government. By eliminating, or at least remedying these problems without unduly augmenting them, a better functioning organization could be obtained. If what SGA needs are practical and workable suggestions, which it is unable to acquire from any other source, NSA might offer the solution.

UK Fraternities Deserve Praise

UK fraternities have "done themselves proud!" They have gained the distinction of having the highest scholarship among fraternities at all state universities for the school year 1952-53. Such an achievement is not to be taken lightly.

Only a few years ago our fraternity standing, in comparison to those of other universities, was far below the average. At that time, our frat system ranked at the absolute bottom of every state institution in the South.

Computation of fraternity standings throughout the country was made by Col. Ralph W. Wilson, executive secretary of College Fraternity Scholarship Processing. The results were announced last week in a notice sent to Dr. Donovan.

Kentucky not only ranks number one among all state institutions but, in comparison with schools in the Southeastern Conference, it is far ahead of even second-ranked Mississippi State College. This is another reason that UK fraternities should be proud.

Credit for such an accomplishment should go to both faculty and fraternities. Whether or not the fraternities were actually aiming for such recognition is irrelevant at this point. The fact remains—they have reached scholastic heights.

This is not the time for the fraternities to become smug and self-satisfied, and let it go at that. Now that they have attained such an honor they would do well to consider the standard they've set for themselves. They've proven that they can do it; why not keep up the good work? If the fraternities gained scholastic recognition without even striving for it, think what they could do with this goal in mind.

It's up to you, fellows! I'll be hard now for us to be satisfied with anything less than the number one spot!

'Beer' Keg-naping Episode Is Closed

The "beer" barrel episode is closed . . . at least for another year. Whether or not UK students will seek revenge next year for the anguish caused them when UT students quietly stole our newly won "trophy," is a matter of speculation.

Now that the incident is a thing of the past, after a week of notoriety, a brief mention of the keg-naping seems adequate.

Since the barrel is now resting safely on University property, no harm was actually done in the purloining of the keg. Team rivalry was merely carried a little farther than usual by a group of overenthusiastic UT students. The keg was stolen as a prank, and before UK students condemn the "thieves," they should realize that they themselves are not above reproach when it comes to pranks.

As long as the rivalry exists between UK and the University of Tennessee, such occurrences might as well be expected. As long as college rivalry does not get out of hand, incidents such as the keg-naping are not to be censured.

UT delegates returned the barrel in good faith and it was graciously accepted by UK representatives. We can always look back on the incident as making extremely good reading material over the Thanksgiving holidays!

Student Dishonesty Is Shown Recently In Campus Election

When balloting for the homecoming king and queen were underway before the Tennessee game, unethical voting practices were employed by some of the students, making the election invalid. With this belief in mind, two Kernel reporters went to the Student Union and asked to watch the counting of the ballots. They were refused because, as one Sucky member put it, it was up to them to announce any irregularities found in the ballots—if they were found.

Fortunately, Sucky's president, John Faulkner came along and convinced those counting the ballots that the reporters were not there to raise a scandal or to discredit Sucky. When the ballots were counted, there was no doubt in the minds of the people present that some of the ballots had been cast by students ineligible to vote. Sucky members admitted that they, like the Kernel reporters, had overheard people bragging about the number of votes they had cast and how the girls had given their ballots to boy friends to be cast for their queen candidate. As a result, a second election had to be held the next day.

It is evident, and Sucky seems to agree, that the present system of holding campus elections is inadequate. Because of the dishonesty of some students, a new plan is needed. One solution would be to have ID cards numbered when they are issued. By using these numbers as a means of identification for eligibility to vote—and by having something to use as a control when returns are computed—fair elections could be held. Sucky is in no way to blame for the dishonesty of a few students, but action must be taken, and soon, to assure that it does not happen again.

You're Another One

BY JIM BARRICKMAN
Lexington residents, last week, were busily thinking up retaliations for the theft of the Tennessee-Kentucky barrel by UT students.

The best one, however, wasn't printed that we journey to Knoxville and turpentine that coon dog.

Wildcat Quarterback Bob Hardy has been accused of kneeling before handing the ball off to Ralph Paolone for the winning touchdown against the Volunteers.

UK fraternities have the highest scholarship rating in the country, according to a survey made by a national organization.

Local Response To CinemaScope Upholds Columnist's Predictions

Now that "The Robe" is firmly entrenched in a downtown playhouse with cash customers in droves marveling at the "miracle mirror screen" effects, we can safely say we told you so. On opening night when the CinemaScope curvatures were unveiled there were squeals of delight and prolonged applause. If this surprised the audience they should see the CinemaScope; in fact, we had the feeling that this was a junior CinemaScope which is okay because who wants a screen that knocks your eyeballs out? Well, maybe too—but this CinemaScope thing is more practical.

Which is a round-about-way of saying that this may be IT. We were very pleased with the dramatic effects, and the kinks were slight enough that they'll be eventually all ironed out. That the bouncing sound-track was a little distracting, but, after all, this is only a first effort.

As to the story, itself, well—it's just as well if Lloyd Douglas isn't with us anymore. Now we don't want to exaggerate the faults of the tale, but scenarioist Philip Dunne should have his typing hand removed at the elbow. The Scope crowd ought to have more confidence in themselves—we think this movie invites artistic endeavor—but the 20th-Fox braintrust evidently slanted this one for the 3-D demons.

As if the Douglas plot wasn't good enough, the Cinemogods decided that they'd better keep the audience gasping, ooohing, and sobbing, by skipping the red cut. Consequently we have Judas flooring repentance down a curb-stone drain, and, alas, when he identifies himself to the slave, Demetrius—behold—we're knocked from our seats by a buzzing clap of thunder, as if we didn't know who the guy was all the time.

We also are treated to a finger-by-finger view of Pilate washing his hands, plus a bleary-eyed hero tottering on the brink of a farewell splash in the Mediterranean, and as if these instances weren't enough, we're maltreated throughout by one of our own Kentucky hankies, Vic the Maturer. After his masterful portrayal of Samson, Vic ought to be ashamed of himself. His wild-eyed, head-up-beavenward-askance interpretation of Demetrius ain't got it. This plus the unconvincing Calgula, the mad-Roman, and the jazzed up dialogue is almost too much.

That is why we were impressed by CinemaScope. Through the technical medium alone the picture is saved—and we certainly advise you to see it—after all, this is one time when the movie, itself, doesn't count (and there were those who liked it). This might bust the box-office bonanza of "Come With The Wind," which would be a classic triumph of matter over mind.

The boys on the Main avenue hoped to bring in after "The Robe" run, the much awaited CinemaScope version of Marilyn M. in "How To Marry A Millionaire." This film strip, however, is almost as scarce as the calendar strip, and we may have to wait a while to see Monroe Go. "The Robe" will stay at least until the middle of next week. . . . If you like your sermon in a less spectacular serving, then we think you'd like "Martin Luther," now playing a local theater. Somebody told us this filming was made originally for church and school showing, but an experimental run in a commercial house boomed, so instead of pennies, the British Isles picks up another bushel or two of good green currency. Old Vic veteran Niall MacGinnis is said to give a once-in-a-decade performance. . . .

We recently had a nice, innocuous time at Hollywood's "Kiss Me, Kate" hypo of the Cole Porter musical. This was supposed to be in "perfected" 3-D. It wasn't quite perfected enough, however, because it still looked slightly 3-D to us. I guess in the pre-fab dimension they just have to throw something at you: Howard Keel three prates, Annie Miller threw handkerchiefs, and Kathryn Grayson stood there.

Our Readers Speak . . .

Understanding Needed

Dear Editor:
Indeed, the situation is despicable when an individual becomes keenly aware of the fact that he may be, and often is, the target for racial or religious prejudices.
When, may I inquire, is the Southerner going to stop "passing the buck"? ("What can I do?") Words and statutes will never terminate prejudice. We have to look within ourselves and discover, if it is at all possible, the roots—the sources, of our prejudices, and weed them out.
If Negroes are not eligible for admission to all of our schools, business establishments, etc., then I feel our University and our Commonwealth, are splendid examples of "Democracy Not In Action."

This is not merely a plea for tolerance. (The word is obviously an inadequate one.) Rather, this letter is a plea, a sincere one, for understanding of those who unfortunately, in the minds of far too many, do not possess the "right" religion or are not members of the "right" race.
Sincerely,

'Toolbox' Praised

To the Editor:
Hurrah for the Toolbox! Many things happen around the campus that are criticized by individual students, but it always seems to be a behind-the-back proposition. Messrs. Butler has come forth with a wit and humor that is sarcastic at best, but it strikes home. A favorite washingboard of the Toolbox is that festivity of 30 cents "Sena Phi

A Man In A Tub Watches Parade Of Committees

By RONNIE BUTLER
Diogenes was really quite a guy. He was a superb cynic, had nothing but outspoken contempt for men and their actions. To top it off, Diogenes was, as you might have guessed, slightly eccentric.

To wit, our boy, Diogenes, had the habit of making his home in a tub, probably a portable tub since philosophers, particularly eccentric philosophers, are not in the habit of carrying anything heavier than wisdom.

Well, one day our boy, Diogenes, was sitting in his tub, which was sitting in the middle of a great open plain, over which Alexander, the Great was riding. As fate and history books would have it, Alexander's path crossed the path of Diogenes' immobile tub.

Diogenes did not remove himself and his tub. This surprised and angered Alexander. Tyrants are not accustomed to having their paths blocked by eccentric philosophers sitting in bathtubs. Words ensued.

Alexander: "Why don't you scam? Aren't you afraid of me?"

Diogenes: "Are you good or bad?"

Alexander: "Why good, of course!"

Diogenes: "Then, if you are good, I have no fear, for what harm comes to men from good things?"

For some strange reason, Alexander thought this remark clever. So he offered a reward to Diogenes—anything the good, fearless philosopher might want. Without pausing, our boy, Diogenes, looked up at the great man on the big horse standing in front of the bathtub in the middle of the plain.

"Please move, you are cutting off my sunlight." Alexander moved, thereby giving us a great lesson from history. It is better to say witty things from a bathtub than to stand face to face with a man whose path is blocked by that same bathtub.

Here comes Senator McCarthy. Father Time has reversed his eternal gears for a moment, and, having a sense of humor, puts McCarthy in the bathtub once occupied by the eccentric philosopher. And here comes Alexander.

Alexander: "Why don't you scam? Aren't you afraid of me?"

McCarthy: "Have you been in the past or are you now engaged in good or bad activities?"

Alexander: "I refuse to answer on the grounds that you bathtub might tend to block my path."

Now, to enlighten things a bit, Diogenes, attired in a purple bath towel with matching olive wreath, pops back into the scene. Being a superb cynic with outspoken contempt for men and their actions, our boy, Diogenes, outspeaks his contempt for McCarthy.

This is bad, even Alexander is a bit aweed. Our boy, Diogenes, the superbest of cynics, has overdone it. He has shown contempt, and McCarthy immediately motions to Father Time, acting as chairman of the Celestial Investigating Committee For Red Hour Glasses, to cite Diogenes for contempt.

Even Father Time is a bit aweed at the momental events taking place. DIOGENES HAS SHOWN CONTENTMENT FOR MCCARTHY! But Diogenes is in his bathtub again and, therefore, is happy, although still cynical.

McCarthy, having been contemptuous against, is burning mad. So mad, in fact, that he almost, just almost sees RED. Alexander decides that his horse needs its oats, so off he gallops into the distance, conquering a few nations as he passes through.

This leaves Diogenes and McCarthy in the middle of a great plain. Diogenes has found a hole in his bathtub, so he is sulking, and McCarthy is still smoldering from the latter's contempt. Both of them are sulking now. It is a strange scene. A big, wide plain, a bathtub with an eccentric philosopher in it, and a smoldering McCarthy.

Well, just as things start getting dull, the parade comes strolling across the plain. It's a real good parade, and Diogenes and McCarthy stop pointing to watch it.

First, Harry Truman, leading the Marching Soolygoster Band, walks by, twirling the latest reports on Harry Dexter White over his head. Mr. Brownell, marching behind Truman, is swinging a shovel, going through the motions of digging a grave. Then, President Eisenhower comes into sight, not quite knowing which way to march.

Diogenes and McCarthy are so excited that they have stopped pointing. They watch with glee as Senator Jenner stamps by bearing copies of Little Red Riding Hood to shreds. They almost break into laughter, but McCarthy remembers himself and runs up to help Senator Jenner.

The scene closes with a sentimental touch: Diogenes drowns in his overflowing bathtub and, finally, Secretary of Defense, Charles E. Wilson, points his finger at a bleeding, tortured GI and threatens to have him punished for his lachrymating confessions.

Father Time, having seen enough, goes into conference with the Higher-Ups. They give the nod, and Father Time takes a great swooping stroke with his scythe, cutting the strings of mortal life and lowering the curtain of oblivion.

Oh, yes, one more point. McCarthy was appointed to a high position in the Great League of Astronomical Immortals. He travels throughout the

Military Marksmen Still Undefeated

The AFROTC rifle team of UK has remained undefeated through six matches with AFROTC teams of other colleges and universities, First Lieut. Robert L. Able, team manager, announced.

The team has scored victories over Wisconsin State College, Bowling Green State University of Ohio, Gettysburg College of Pennsylvania, Duquesne University, and Tulane.

The team will compete in the 25th annual William Randolph Hearst National Competitive Match at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the basement of Barker Hall. All students and backers of the team are invited to watch the team in action on the rifle range.

UT Delegates Return Stolen 'Beer' Barrel

down town newspaper received a telephone call from a man who identified himself as "The Vol Phantom." The caller informed the paper that the keg had been stolen and commented, "That manager must be dumb as hell. We walked right past him."

A check revealed the barrel actually had been taken and a five-day exchange of comments between the two schools started.

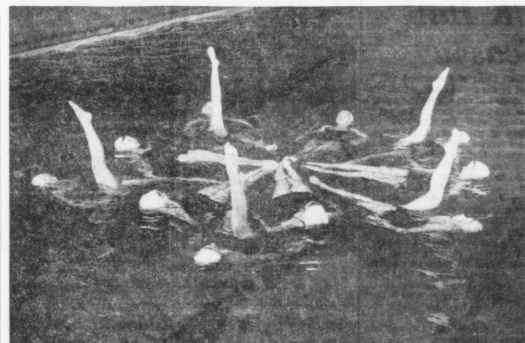

UK officials, contacted immediately, said they were sure the action had not been sanctioned by UT officials and added they were sure the barrel would be returned "immediately." Dr. C. E. Brehm, UT president, when interviewed at Knoxville, said, however, that the incident was "a matter to be settled between the two student bodies."

The day after the theft, a group of unidentified UT fraternity boys showed the barrel to newsmen, told them of the theft, and repeated their statement that the Wildcats could have it back when they won it fairly. They also told of stopping on their way out of the Coliseum, with the keg, to exchange pleasantries with basketball coach Adolph Rupp.

A group of UK students told newsmen Friday they had made a trip to Knoxville, "to get the lay of the land," apparently in preparation for a raid on the UT campus. On the heels of their announcement came news from Knoxville that the Tennessee mascot, a bound dog, had been placed under 24-hour guard.

On Sunday, coupled with a rumor that large quantities of blue and white paint had been sold by Knoxville dealers, came an announcement that the barrel was to be returned to Lexington.

'Frosty Fantasy' Is Theme Of Blue Marlin Production

"Frosty Fantasy" will be the theme for the third annual aquacade to be presented at 8 p.m., Dec. 8, 9 and 10 at the Memorial Coliseum pool by Blue Marlin, UK synchronized swimming group.

Forty-four women and six men are included in the program, which is directed by Miss Mary Carson, physical education instructor and the group's advisor. All routines were written by the swimmers. Choreographers for the presentation are Betty Payne, Barbara Russman, Allene Bach, Ann Rizzolino, Helen Vance Gilb, and Dottie Pfeiffer.

The swimmer's routines will depict winter in the first half of the program, and Christmas in the second. Winner Woodruff, Sligh, Diving, and Frosty the Snowman will be presented as winter scenes. The Skaters Waltz will feature Betty Payne and Paul Bolinger in a duet.

White Christmas, Rudolph, Toy Land, Blue Christmas, Jack in the Box, and Auld Lang Syne, the finale, will comprise the Christmas program. Bobby Kirra as Rudolph, Paul Bollinger as Santa Claus, and comedy divers, Bruce Kunkel, John Burke, and Lou Karbo will be the featured swimmers. Barbara Russman, president of Blue Marlin, will do Blue Christmas, the only solo in the program.

All seats for the "Frosty Fantasy" are reserved. Tickets are on sale at the Student Union, and reservations may be made by calling the Women's Physical Education Department at Extension 2170 from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoons.

Annual Festivities At UK Hail Return Of Christmas Season

By ANN OROARK

UK youth wonder, and when we will all say "Yes, by cracker" We beat Tennessee in our day . . . After a well-deserved holiday Monday, keg-smashings, turkey dinners, and Thanksgiving vacations, the wheel of fortune has begun to turn once again on the UK campus with more hustle and bustle—the returning of the jangled key, the tremendous fraternity standing, and Christmas spirit.

The Phi Tau Christmas party at their house tonight will be among the first to lead the way under the mistletoe and jingle bells for the next three weeks. The SAE's, TKE's and Lambda Chi's will also hold house parties in festive style this evening. All of the parties will begin at 8 p.m.

The green and red of the Yule season will shine at the Triangle annual Christmas formal of Bowling Springs Country Club tomorrow night. The dance will last from 8 until 12 p.m. with the Blue and White orchestra providing the music. The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the 1953-54 Tri-angle Sweetheart.

ADP's To Have Buffet

The ADP's are planning a buffet supper at 5:30 o'clock Saturday night at their house. The first has-ketball game of the season will be held in the Coliseum at 8 p.m. The Wildcats will roll again after a year's vacation against Temple University.

Along with the laughter and gaiety of the Santa Claus atmosphere comes the serenading and caroling. Monday night the Alpha Xi's, Lambda Chi's and Delta's will begin the song fest. Tuesday night the ADP's, Alpha Xi's and Lambda Chi's will tour the houses singing Thursday night the Delta's will conclude their rounds of music.

The Chi Omegas entertained the faculty last Wednesday night with a dessert-bridge at their house. The week before they recognized their housemother, Mrs. O. P. Henry, for her service and help during the four years she has been with them by presenting her with an appreciation pin.

PKCA recently elected new officers for the coming term. Ray McClure is the new president. Other officers are Tom Prather, vice-president; Bill Smith, secretary; and Gene Suranec, treasurer.

Students Try To Doc-nap Mascot

It just might surprise many UI students and fans to know that the foursome who escorted the UT mascot, Old Smoke, from the Triangle Yandy game last Saturday were loyal UK students looking for a chance to doc-nap him. However with so many state police around and a large number of UT fans there, they could not take advantage of the opportunity, much to their disappointment.

Just a few campus scenes for the book: The sedate, reserved figure of President Patterson pecking around a NO PARKING sign perched in his lap—The large orange, white, and blue beer keg sitting desolately and undisturbed in front of the Coliseum—The library two minutes before class and laughingly saying, "Hey, we might get a ticket!"—An oversized mousy cat left over from homecoming standing bravely, but curiously on Rose Street where he was Saturday a week ago.

The officers of the TKE pledge class for this fall are Eddie Kirm, president; Don Maloney, vice-president; and Dave Stewart, secretary-treasurer.

Panhellenic Members Vote Spring Rush Parties Out

By ANN OROARK

No spring rush parties will be sponsored by the sororities for high school seniors. Panhellenic passed this motion with no opposing votes during their meeting last Monday.

The sorority representatives of all the chapters on campus expressed the feeling that these spring rush parties were an unnecessary expense, unfair to girls not living in or near Lexington, and that they interfered with the other activities of both the sorority members and the rushees.

The motion was put on the floor two weeks ago by Janet Wood, Chi Omega representative, and it was tabled until it could be discussed at the sorority meetings. Although Panhellenic voted that spring rush parties will be discontinued, fall rushing and mid-semester rushing will continue as in the past.

Parties Held For Rushees

Spring rush parties were held during March and April by the sororities for the graduating seniors of Lexington high schools. Many of the girls who were rushed didn't come to UK and many others did not have time to accept invitations to all of the sororities. These parties also put the out-of-town and out-of-state girls to a disadvantage.

Since there was no financial limit on the spring rush party, as there is on the fall rush session, many sororities spent more money on this one party than they did on the entire rushing period of a week, as the fall.

Much time had to be devoted by the sorority members in the preparation of skits, favors, invitations and decorations for these parties and the high school girls were also busy during that period with preparations for graduation. Although invitations were sent to girls who did not live in Lexington, it was usually impossible for them to travel back and forth for 10 different rush parties.

Budget Increase To Be Discussed

The possibility of increasing the fall rush budget for the individual sororities will be discussed at the next meeting when the quota-limitation plan concerning the number of members a sorority can have will be voted upon.

Under the quota-limitation system each sorority would be allowed to take the same number of pledges each fall. If the sorority were below the quota of 65 members they could then take the same number of pledges as the other sororities plus the extra number of pledges that would give them 65 members.

The members of Panhellenic expressed the feeling that they did not want to raise the quota much above the present number of 65 girls so that one sorority could not take all of the pledges, but wanted to make the system capable of letting each rushee know that she would be able to pledge the sorority of her choice.

A professor in the Commerce College rapped on his desk and shouted, "Gentlemen, order!"

The entire class yelled, "Beer!"

University Honors Terrell With Luncheon Meeting

Prof. Daniel Voiers Terrell, dean of the College of Engineering, will be guest of honor at a luncheon to be given Tuesday by the University. The luncheon, given in honor of Dean Terrell's recent election to the presidency of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will be presided over by a program in Memorial Hall at 11 a.m.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president, will give the opening address at the assembly, and Mr. G. Brooks Earnest, president of Fern College, Cleveland, and vice president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will speak on engineering and engineering education. Organ music will be presented by Mr. Arnold Blackburn, assistant professor of music.

Schoolmaster at the luncheon, scheduled for 12 o'clock noon, will be Glen E. Alderdice, president of the Engineering Student Council.

Dawson Presents Plaque

Mr. Randall R. Dawson, president of the UK Alumni Association, will present a bronze plaque to the University at the luncheon, and Dr. Herman L. Donovan, UK president, will accept the plaque which will be hung in the front hall of Anderson Hall.

The inscription on the plaque reads: "In recognition of the honor brought to the University of Kentucky by the election of Daniel Voiers Terrell, Dean, College of Engineering, as president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, 1953-1954." Following the presentation of the plaque, Dean Terrell will make a few remarks.

Faculty Member Since 1912

Dean Terrell has been a member of the UK faculty since 1912 when he was assistant professor of highway engineering. He received a B.S.C.E. degree in 1910 from the University of Kentucky and a C.E. degree in 1914 from UK. In 1918, he was appointed professor and head of the Department of Civil Engineering, and in 1942 became acting dean of the College of Engineering. Since 1946, he has been dean of the College of Engineering and director of the Engineering Experiment Station.

About 4,000 invitations have been issued to members of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Kentucky, members of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, members of the faculty of the University of Kentucky and other friends of the honor.

WAA To Sponsor Toyland Play Day For High Schools

"Toyland" will be the theme for the high school play day, sponsored by the WAA and scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 12.

Girls interested in physical education will come from 13 schools in the city of Lexington and surrounding counties to participate in intrasquad sports. The students will not compete as a school team. Each girl will be named a toy and will play on that team. Peggy Drisco, chairman, announced.

Volley ball, badminton, and basketball will be played in the Alumni and Women's Gymnasiums. In the afternoon the Blue Marlins will demonstrate synchronized swimming and hold a splash party in the Memorial Coliseum pool.

No awards are being given for the contests. The purpose of the play day is merely to further acquaint the students with physical education and to allow the various groups, which will be limited to 25, to become acquainted and to have fun in playing together.

Mary Priestley is co-chairman of the play day. Other chairmen, all members of the WAA cabinet, include invitations and registration, Evelyn Duncan; officials, Shirley Duncan; equipment, Martha Tom Logan; theme and decorations, Mary Estes; and Helen Yauer Gily, refreshments, Jean Rizer; facilities, Lois George.

Then and Now

Record Number Of Homecoming Returns For Homecoming

The greatest number of alumni ever registering returned for Homecoming weekend Nov. 21, according to Miss Helen King, alumni secretary.

Registration took place in the lobby of the Phoenix, Lafayette, and Kentucky Hotels, and the Campbell House, as well as in the Student Union and Memorial Coliseum. A brunch, held in the Student Union ballroom the day of the game, attracted more than 400 alumni. The same lunch drew some 38,000 fans.

Other activities planned for alumni were open house at the home of President and Mrs. H. L. Donovan after the game, and a dance at the Lafayette Hotel that night.

Among those registering from out of state were Ewell Halford, 29, Charleston, W. Va.; A. B. McAtee, 20, Madison, Ind.; John R. Deemer, 41, Tokyo, Japan; J. D. McDaniel, 40, Ewing, Va.; S. A. Banks, 53, Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Everett Buster, Clinton, Tenn.; David R. Young, 33, Alton, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William Totty, 49, Marion, Ind.; T. J. Weaver Jr., 42, Paris, Tenn.; Charles and Wanda Boyd, Evansville, Ind.; C. K. Tietche, 32, Dante, Va.; H. F. Scholz, 48, Warrenton, Ore.; and David M. Young, 23, Dr. George E. Cain, 40, Dante, Va.; W. C. Edmonds, Big Stone Gap, Va.; Marjorie (36) and Frank (38) Whittinghill, Robinson, Ill.; Mary Ann Holway, 31, and Dick Holway, 30, Youngstown, Ohio; Otho M. Cox, 50, Meridian, Miss.; Robert H. Stevenson, 38, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Bill Dudley Baker, 58, Denver, Colo.; Col. Bill Luther, just returned from Germany and now at Fort Knox; J. Weaver Jr., 42, Paris, Tenn.; Korea and now in Louisville on leave.

Mary Ruth Whitley, 50, St. Louis, Mo.; S. J. Whalen, 40, Glendale, Ohio; Bob (32) and Ed Lee (35), Atlanta, Ga.; James and "Jimmie" adm Mrs. Wallace Shropshire, 25, Sales, 38, Cincinnati; George C. Chicago, Ill.

WUS Drive Fails To Meet Its Goal

Contributions to the World University Service fund totaled $285 at the conclusion of the drive, Curtis Songster, publicity chairman, announced recently.

It was much lower than the $1 per student the committee had hoped to raise. Songster said, and contributions are still being accepted in the YM-YWCA office in the Student Union.

Club Notes

Lexington Studio Players To Present Play Excerpt

Lucille Little and Frank Johnson, veteran members of Lexington's Studio Players, will present an excerpt from "The Four-Poster," before the English Club, at 4 p.m. Monday.

The bi-weekly meeting will be held in the Student Union Music Room. Refreshments will be served after the program and all students are invited to attend.

UK Concert Band Begins Rehearsals

The University Concert Band is now being formed and rehearsals are starting. This organization is composed of members from the marching band that are seen on the field during football season and of other UK students.

"The Concert Band is definitely open to anyone who is a student of the University," says Prof. Frank Prindl of the Music Department, conductor of the band. Anyone interested in becoming a member of this organization should contact Prof. Prindl.

Bacteriology Society Meets

The UK Bacteriology Society will have its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Room 124 of the Funkhouser Building. Included on the program will be the showing of Dr. Adrian Pipper's motion pictures on the "Mottility of Bacteria," a film which was obtained from the Society of American Bacteriologists.

Education Honorary Meets

Phi Delta Kappa held a luncheon in the Student Union last Wednesday at which a panel of German students was presented. A luncheon is held the first Wednesday of every month by the Education honorary.

If a man is too lazy to think for himself, he should get married.

Offering to a gentleman staggering home at 3 a.m.: Where are you going at this time of night?
Gentleman: To a lecture.

She: You remind me of the issued members of the American Society of Professional Engineers, members of the faculty of the University of Kentucky and other friends of the honor.

Three's a Crowd!

A very disheveled junior was brought before the dean for fighting.

"Why were you fighting?" asked the dean.

"Well, I was in a telephone booth talking to my girl friend," he explained. "I had just finished telling her about my handsome new Van Housen Waxed Jersey Sport shirt. I told her how warm, comfortable and light they are. I told her that thanks to the revolutionary new process, called 'Hologized,' they are completely washable."

"Yes," said the Dean.

"Then I told her that the knit fabric felt like fine cashmere," continued the youngster. "I told her about all the handsome new colors I picked out, and that they cost only $5.00 apiece. And I was just about to tell her that I loved her when a senior suddenly wanted to use the telephone. He opened the door, grabbed me by the neck, and threw me out of the booth!"

"Then you got angry?" asked the dean.

Yes, but I really got mad when he grabbed my gal and new her out too!"

Wildcats Hang Loss On UT After 18 Long, Lean Years

The Wallowing Wildcats wound up their 1953 football campaign with a bang, as they posted their first victory over the Tennessee Volunteers in 18 long, lean years. The Cats came from behind twice in the second half of the fray, after leading 13-7 at halftime, to win, 27-21.

The Bruyneman won the toss and elected to receive. They returned the ball to the 20. From here they drove to the Volunteer 15. The threat was stopped as the Cats fumbled and the Vols recovered.

On the first play for the Vols, Jimmy Wade fumbled and Howard Schmeiblerberger recovered on the UT 17. All-America Steve Mellinger carried the ball to the nine on the first thrust. He carried to the two on the next and hit paydirt on the third. Bob Hardy converted and the Cats led 7-0.

The drives by the Cats were stalled deep in Vol territory before they were able to score again. Early in the second period Kentucky moved the ball 88 yards in 10 ground plays. The big play of the drive came as Hardy pitched out to Bradley Mills and he dashed to the Vol 40. As he was being tackled, he turned and lateraled to Tom Pillion who scooted to the 12.

Mills carried to the seven and on the next play scooted into the end zone for the tally. Hardy's try for the extra point was blocked and the Cats led 13-0.

With just seconds left in the second period Kentucky fumbled the ball. On the next play Wade scored across for the score. Pat Shires added the extra point and the Cats led 13-7 at halftime.

Tennessee recovered a Kentucky fumble early in the third period on the Cat 37. As he did on the first TD, Wade tossed to Hyde on the two. On the next play Wade crossed for the score, gain Shires converted and Tennessee led 14-13.

Kentucky's last touchdown came after Pete Kirk blocked a Vol kick on the Cat 23. Hardy then handed off to Paolone who dashed 23 yards for the winning score. The try for the extra point was bad and the Wildcats won 27-21. May the drought not be so long the next time. . . A-Men.

WE WON - (Above) Ralph Paolone (with ball) scores winning touchdown after disputed handoff from quarterback Bob Hardy in the fourth quarter. Vol Tailback Bob Brengle (40) and Ted Schwanger (directly behind) are the nearest men. UK halfback Dick Mitchell (26) follows Ralph across goal at left. Al Zampino (89) also observes play. (Below) Neither hell nor high water can stop Herb Hunt from getting away his pass which was nearly completed despite two Tennessee Vols hanging on. Two Refs, Tom Adkins (50) and Mitchell (26) all seem very intent on the attempt.

UK Harriers Finish Third In Shamrock

The University's cross country team finished third in the team ratings in the annual Shamrock meet held in Louisville Thanksgiving morning.

First place went to the University of Tennessee with 54 points, followed by Morehead with 59 points and Kentucky with 69. Breaux held fourth place with 72 points.

Kentucky's chances were hampered by the absence of Charlie Wells who was not able to run. Wells has been running very well all season.

The four runners who counted towards Kentucky's team score were Frank Scott, finishing sixth; Dave Collett, 11th; Don Atkinson, 20th; and McGinty, who finished 22nd. This gave Kentucky a total of 69 points, just 15 off Tennessee's 84.

Wells' running would probably have eliminated McGinty's 22nd place, since only the top four of each team count in the score.

As far as individual performances, University of Indiana runners showed up very well by taking the first three positions in the finish.

Deadline Set For UK Pool Tourney

Today is the deadline for entries in the Game Room's straight pool tournament, it was announced by Leslie Morris, chairman of the Student Union Sports Committee. The tourney is held annually to select the three-member team to represent UK in 1954 Inter-Collegiate Billiards Tournament.

UK will participate in the Pocket Billiards tourney on Feb. 23. Team results will be mailed to the Tournament Director in West Lafayette, Ind. for national ranking.

The Student Union contest, a 10-ball rack, will be conducted until Dec. 16. The over-all winner will receive a trophy, and the next two high players will receive runner-up medals. All three will form the UK team. In addition, an alternate will be selected.

Sigma Chi's Impressive In Double Wins As I-M Cage League Play Winds Up

With a record number of 30 teams participating, intramural basketball opened Nov. 18. The season will run until Dec. 10 and championship.

Sigma Chi turned in the most impressive wins with lopsided victories over ZBT and LXA. Big Don Weaver with 18 and Dwight Speer with 14 led SK to its 54-14 conquest over ZBT. Weaver with 15 and Price with 18 again were the big guns against LXA as SK rolled to a similar 54-14 win.

DTD jumped to a fast 27-12 half-time lead over SN and maintained their big lead the rest of the game to win, 49-28. Bowling poured four field goals and seven free throws through the hoop to lead ATO with 15 points. Dave Cousins added eight points to the SK cause.

Continuing where they left off in football, Barristers posted a 39-26 win over the Independents and a 33-21 triumph over the Convicts. Gene Stathas topped Barrister scorers in both games, getting 11 against the Independents and 12 against the Convicts.

Ken Hake pushed 15 points through the baskets as Wesley Foundation best Newman Club, 24-24. Denny Butler added the looser cause with nine points.

Scott Street Barrocks picked up a 1-0 forfeit victory from the Men's Dorms.

HUGHES Cooperative Fellowship Program for

MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREES

The Hughes Cooperative Fellowship Program has been established to enable outstanding graduates to pursue work for the Master of Science degree while employed in industry and making significant contributions to important military projects.

Eligible for consideration are students who will receive the B.S. degree during the coming year and members of the Armed Services being honorably separated and holding B.S. degrees. In either case the field of the B.S. degree must be: ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, MECHANICAL ENGINEERING.

The awards will be made to applicants who have evidenced outstanding ability and some degree of creativeness. They must also possess traits enabling them to work well with others.

Applicants must be United States citizens for whom appropriate security clearance can be obtained, as their work in the Hughes Laboratories may be related to National Defense projects.

Applicants must be able to meet the requirements for admission to graduate standing at the University of California at Los Angeles or the University of Southern California.

Participants will be employed at Hughes full time in the summer and 25 hours a week during the university year while pursuing half-time graduate work.

Recipients will earn five-eighths of a normal salary each year. This salary will be determined by the individual's qualifications and experience, and will reflect current salary practices in the electronics industry. Salary growth will be on the same basis as for full-time members of the scientific-engineering staff. Recipients will also be eligible for health, accident and life insurance benefits, as well as other privileges accruing to full-time staff members.

Tuition, admission fee, and required books at either the University of California at Los Angeles or the University of Southern California, covering the number of units required to earn an M.S. degree, will be provided.

For those residing outside the Southern California area, actual travel and moving expenses to this area will be allowed up to 10 percent of the full starting annual salary.

If a sufficient number of qualified candidates present themselves, as many as 100 Fellowships will be awarded each year.

Recipients will be selected by the Committee for Graduate Study of Hughes Research and Development Laboratories.

Application forms should be obtained immediately. Completed applications must be accompanied by detailed college transcripts.

Rupp's Raiders Open Season With Temple

By JOHN K. RYANS

Coach Adolph Rupp takes the "wraps" off this year's Kentucky Wildcats basketball team tonight, when they meet the Temple Owls in Memorial Coliseum at 8 p.m. The Cats, boasting one of their finest squads in history, will be out to try for another National Championship this season, after a year's NCAA enforced layoff.

The Wildcats will have a strong veteran outfit this season, as they work towards the SEC and NCAA Championships. Back from two play seasons' ago are All-Americans Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey, as well as veteran forward Lou Tsioloropoulos, plus interim Bill Evans and Gayle Rose. Also returning to the Wildcats squad are 10 players from last year's outstanding freshmen crop.

Meet One Of East's Top Teams
In opening with the Temple Owls, Coach Rupp's Wildcats will be meeting one of the East's strongest teams. The Owls have every player back from last year's squad, which had an impressive 16-10 record, as well as two returning servicemen who were starters before they left.

Thus Coach Rupp is continuing his policy of meeting the outstanding teams in the country and not taking with opening game record, as many schools do.

The probable starting lineup for the Wildcats tomorrow night will be: Billy Evans, 6-1, and Frank Ramsey, 6-3, at the guards; Hagan, 6-4, at the center, and Lou Tsioloropoulos, 6-5, and Phil Gravemyer, 6-7, at the forwards. Another player to definitely see plenty of action, if he doesn't start, will be Rose, 6-6, at guard. If Rose starts, Evans will be moved to forward to replace Gravemyer.

The probable starting lineup for the Owls will include: John Kane, Harry Silcox, Sam Sylvester, Connie Miller, and (Lefty) Didriksen, all starters on last year's squad. Back from last year's squad will be Willie Rouse, veteran guard, who recently underwent an operation on his knee. The operation was successful, but he is not expected to be able to return to action until next season. His loss definitely hurt the team, as he was a strong candidate for first string guard before his injury.

Proceeding the opening game tomorrow night, the UK freshmen quintet of Coach Harry Lancaster will meet Campbellville Junior College. The Kittens will probably open with Earl Adkins, 6-3, and Logan Clipp, 6-2, at the forwards; Ray Mills, 6-4, at center, and Gerry Calvert, 5-11, and John Brewer, 6-2, at guards.

The last pair of shoulder pads and the last pair of renovated cleats have been laid to rest until the warm days of spring thaw them out in preparation for spring practice.

Into that storage room also go the many hopes that UK grid fortunes would get their biggest boost in their most deserving year in the form of an invitation to a major post-season bowl. This year's record of the annual "Comeback Kids" goes into the brochure as part of history.

Much publicity has been flying around as to how Kentucky might have gotten a bid, how they could have gotten a bid and finally why they didn't. All this is old stuff and has been hashed and rehashed so we will ignore it and get on to another matter—criticism by the public.

Turning down a bid to play in the Gator Bowl against the Auburn Plainsmen, supposedly.

Sure, the Gator Bowl will guarantee $50,000 for its participants but to the school and not the boys. A team must have tackles and guards to play a game and when the poll of the squad was taken, the tackles and guards and seniors were asked first. Navy a vote in the carload.

The backs and ends most likely would have liked to go but they would be in line for publicity in case of a good showing and don't have to do as much head knocking and brain beating in preparation. Then also, many of the boys won't be spending many Christmas at home in the next few years because of the Army so why knock a few fellows that have put out their all during the season. It is okay with you armchair quarterbacks if they go home for Christmas to be with their families?

The Gator Bowl still has a long way to go before it gains the prominence that the Cotton Bowl and other major bowls enjoy. The prestige of playing in one of the last bowls to pick their teams isn't the greatest honor that could befall a team of the high caliber of the Wildcats.

It is said indeed that Kentucky could not be represented in a major bowl this New Year's Day but that is what they call, "The Breaks of the Game."

When this year's Wildcat squad scored 27 points against Tennessee, they matched the total number of points scored by Kentucky teams since 1942—an even 27 points. Our hats are off to every last member of the squad from the All-Americans to the lowest scrub who, had Bryant been without, could not have compiled the splendid record UK did.

The basketball rage will hit the campus tomorrow night when the year-dormant Wildcats take to the Coliseum floor to meet competition at last. All of UK's followers have been awaiting this night with as much enthusiasm as the cagers and coaches themselves.

Frank Ramsey and Cliff Hagan have been again recognized before the season by being named to the Sport magazine's Pre-season All-America squad. Hagan made the grade last year and Ramsey makes it this year without ever having played a competitive game last year.

Kentucky dispensed all pre-season prognosticating as they finished in a tie for second place with Georgia Tech and Mississippi. The SEC coaches picked the Cats to finish no higher than sixth in a vote taken last spring. Some folks are easy to fool, aren't they?

And the honors for UK gridgers continue to pour in as we go to press. Steve Mellinger has been selected on Collier's All-America team and spent last weekend in New York City, making a T-V appearance on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town".

Ray Correll is destined to make his T-V appearance as a member of the Look All-Star squad and will appear on the "Jackie Gleason Show". Both made All-SEC first string with fullback Ralph Paolone listed on the second.

Steve and Ray will be the only SEC gridgers to play in the annual East-West game on January 2 with the East team. Mellinger will play later in the Hula Bowl. And still there is more to come soon.

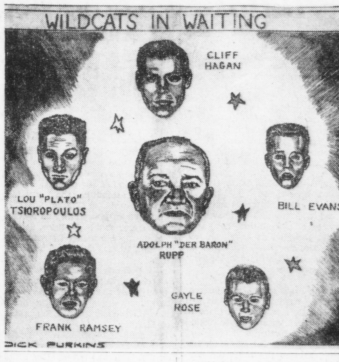

The picture of Ralph Paolone scoring the winning TD which appears in this week's Kernel is a scoop by photographer John Mitchell over all other camera hawks on the field that day.

He had orders to get the winning TD and was the only man in the end zone to flash Paolone coming across the goal line. Orchids to him for a fine job and some fine pics that didn't get printed.

Since we went to press, Steve Mellinger has been named to the first team All-America on the Associated Press and United Press All-Southeastern squads. Ray Correll, whom many thought would not be recognized, has made first string AP squad and second team on the United Poll. That just goes to show how wrong some people can be.

In the final AP poll of teams in the country, Kentucky slipped from 12th to 16th without even playing a game last weekend. In the United Press final poll, the Cats were rated 15th.

This is rather strange, for the UP experts failed to rate UK most of the season whereas the AP board had us high. These unpredictable unofficial polls. Rice by the way, continued in the top ten just as if Kentucky had never even played them, much less beat them, 19-13.

UK Tankers Prep Daily For Season

"Kentucky's swim team is progressing steadily toward its Jan. 15, opening date with Georgia Tech," Coach Reese said.

The team, made up of 22 men, still has not come along to the point where this year's regulars can be selected. All the positions in the various divisions are still wide open and competition is very high between the returning lettermen and newcomers this year.

Coach Reese said that the team is working out each day and considering all delays they should be in good shape by the January opener.

With the closing of the football season, Louis Karbo, who was an outstanding diver in last year's competition, is now training with the team. Karbo served as a player-manager on the Wildcat football squad, and was not able to participate in swimming until the gridiron season was ended.

Stanley, Burkhead Ping Pong Champions

Tunney Stanley, senior from Corbin, won the annual fall Student Union Ping Pong Championship in four games, defeating D. P. Perry.

Jane Burkhead, junior from Spurlingston, defeated Mary Rice, Lancaster, in five games to win the first Women's Championship tournament.

Leslie Morris, chairman of the Sports Committee, said that winners in both divisions will be awarded trophies, and the runner-ups will receive medals.

University Committee Fails To Solve Parking Problem

In reaching its final decision, the committee surveyed five possible solutions:

1. Creation of enough parking spaces to accommodate all commuters except for areas designated for disability or hardship cases. Chief drawback to this solution is the resulting traffic congestion of 2,000 drivers competing daily for whatever space was available.
2. Rejection of present priority system and closing the campus to all non-permit cars. This would require a great increase in the number of police and would be objected to by visitors.
3. Restriction of campus parking to hardship cases only—student and faculty. The committee noticed that this would be feasible only if the campus gates were guarded.
4. Retention of the present system. The group remarked in its final report, "Though the committee has no enthusiasm for the present system and recognizes the grave difficulties under which it labors, it feels it can offer no other solution."

HOME IS WHERE THE BUCK IS

OR... Who did you say is a boy's best friend?

Once there was a sophomore whose father had a bad habit of saying "No". Vehemently. Particularly about money. Ask him the Big Question and his jewels would turn a fetching shade of vermilion.

So Junior, his need needed by three days of living on liverswamp sandwiches, cast about for a New Approach. Found it, too. Right at the Western Union office. He just sat down and worked out a wire to Negative Polarity Pappy. A brisk little wherzee... to wit: "Must have twenty dollars immediately. Urgent. Please flash by telegraphic money order." Results? Our sophomore was carrying the cash within two hours.

What's Junior's major? Psychology, of course.

It's darned good psychology to wire home at other times than just when you need help and comfort. For holiday greetings—Mother's Day—good news about grades—things that would make Home Happier. Try it next time. Just head for your local Western Union office.

'Ditto'

If you think the UK cafeteria conjunctive with the undertakers, you should go to the University of Alaska. It couldn't be more accurate to a reliable source (a student recuperating from a probable tubercular infection). Potatoes and macaroni constitute the two main dishes. The potatoes are served in a variety of ways—boiled, baked, and fried. The macaroni is merely served with a liberal dash of chili powder. Breakfast rolls range in texture from raw dough to stratified rock. Milk, free at lunch, is 10 cents a class at other times.

Discontent seems to be rubbing out of the stomachs of students everywhere. If conditions don't soon change, the student body, whether at the University of Alaska or on other campuses, will turn into one huge gastric ulcer.

UK Delegates Attend Meeting
Seven UK delegates are attending a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which began in Memphis last Monday.

President H. L. Donovan, Dean Frank G. Dickey, Dr. Richard T. Hill, Dr. Harold Adams, Dr. Ella Harford, Mrs. D. C. Kemper, and Dr. M. E. Lison, all of the College of Education, are attending Kentucky at the convention which will end today.

Dean Holmes Visits Friends
Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Gertrude Zimp, former district chairman of the women's residence halls, in Camden, South Carolina.

Meace Elected Secretary
Dr. L. E. Meace, professor of education and executive secretary of the Kentucky School Boards Association, has been elected chairman of the Southeastern States Division of the National School Boards Association.

Attend Band Clinic
Prof. Frank Prindl, Prof. Warren Lutz, and Prof. J. W. Worrel, of the State Department, are attending the Kentucky State Band Clinic in North Carolina.

Economic History Will Be Subject In Essay Contest
The Commerce College is again sponsoring an essay contest for freshmen and sophomores who have had one course in economic history, said Dr. W. W. Jennings, professor of economics.

One $25 award will be given for the best paper on European economic history and one $25 award on American economic history.

At the option of Dr. C. C. Carpenter, dean of the Commerce College, an award of $50 will be given instead for any subject in the field of economic history subject to the approval of the judging committee.

Dean Carpenter will appoint the judging committee at a later date. The papers will be due approximately May 1.

Dr. Jennings said that the purpose of the contest are to encourage research work in economics and to help students learn to express themselves.

Last year's winners of the $25 awards were Emily Bell and Donna Jo Adams.

Judging Team Is 19th In Nation

The University livestock judging team placed 19th in the nation this year in the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago.

UK topped two grand champion awards, having the grand champion Southdown ram and the grand champion wether in the show. The wether title was the seventh such award gained by H. J. Barber, head breeder of the University.

Van Nutt, one of the University's team members, placed in the top 10 individuals with a total of 823 points.

Dr. Phillippe Returns
Dr. Paul Phillippe, associate professor of farm crops, has returned from Nicaragua after being there for two years under the Point Four Plan. He will be in the United States for three months. Then he will return to his assignment in South America.

Dr. Herman E. Spivey, dean of the UK Graduate School, was elected executive secretary and treasurer of the Conference of Deans of Southern Graduate Schools, which met at Duke University, Ala., last week.

The conference includes the leading 52 graduate schools of the South and Southwest.

Dr. Paul Oberst, professor of law, and Thomas Lewis, editor-in-chief of the Law Journal, collaborated on the article "Claims Against the State of Kentucky" in the article "Commonwealth of Kentucky can be sued."

Included in the issue are several notes and comments about recent decisions in the state as well as discussions on several law principles.

UK Professors' Writings Included In Law Journal

Four lead articles, discussing Kentucky and national laws, claims and amendments, are included in the November issue of the Kentucky Law Journal issued this week.

W. Lewis Roberts, professor of law, is the author of one of the Law Journal's lead articles, "Kentucky Decisions on Future Interests (1888-1953)." The article reviews the future interests decisions in Kentucky over a 15-year period.

A book at the controversial Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947 is given in the law publication article "The Taft-Hartley Act—Fulfillment or Progress?" by James R. Richardson. Richardson terms the act as being "constructive and progressive" and then defends his stand.

A discussion and history of the passing of the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952 is given in a work by Abraham C. Wetfield.

Paul Oberst, professor of law, and Thomas Lewis, editor-in-chief of the Law Journal, collaborated on the article "Claims Against the State of Kentucky" in the article "Commonwealth of Kentucky can be sued."

Included in the issue are several notes and comments about recent decisions in the state as well as discussions on several law principles.
