Camp Shalom's 20th Season June 8-26, 1987

Plans for the 20th season of Camp Shalom are now being made. Mark Scarr will be returning as the director, and Elise Mandel will be working with him. Together they are hard at work, planning exciting and fun activities.

Camp Shalom will be held at the same camp site as last year. Irv and Rob Rosenstein and Steven Caller have made available the parcel of land next to Jacobsen Park that proved excellent for camp activities.

The camp session this year will begin Monday, June 8 and continue through Friday, June 26.

The half-day session (9:00 am to 12:30 pm) is open to children who will be 4 by September 30 or are 5. The cost is $90. The full-day session (9:00 am to 3:00 pm) is open to children 6 to 8 years old at a cost of $135. Scholarships are available through CKJF.

A brochure describing the camp, along with an application, will be sent to all CKJF members.

There are still positions available for junior and senior counselors. Those interested should contact Janice Crane at 278-0119 or call CKJF.

Camp Shalom is one of the continuing programs of CKJF made possible by your contributions to the CKJF-UJA fundraising campaign.

Ohavay Zion Dedicates New Synagogue

Ohavay Zion Congregation will make the official transfer of the Torah on Sunday, May 10, beginning at 8:30 a.m. with one final service at the old synagogue on West Maxwell at 8:30 a.m.

Following this service the congregants will march to the new synagogue on Alumni Drive. The walk should take about two hours and will be followed by the first service at the new location.

Lunch will be served after services. All members of the community are invited to participate.

CKJF Sends Refuseniks Messages of Support

The CKJF, as part of a nationwide effort, recently sent encouraging telegrams of support to activist Soviet Refuseniks.

One, sent to JEWAR (Jewish Women Refuseniks) hunger strike participant Yudit Lurie, carried the message that, "The Jewish community of Central Kentucky supports your efforts to reunite Jewish families in Israel and elsewhere."

JEWAR members last month staged a series of hunger strikes to bring out into the open the plight of Refuseniks. One strike coincided with Margaret Thatcher's recent trip to the Soviet Union.

A second telegram was sent in a show of solidarity with the cause of Alexander Slepak, son of Refusenik activists Vladimir and Maria Slepak. Alexander, now in the U.S. on March 27 began a 17-day hunger strike in Washington, D.C. The 17 days represented the 17 years his parents have lived in refusal. In February, the Soviets announced that Vladimir, who once worked with the Television Research Institute, was one of eight Refuseniks who would never be allowed to emigrate.

The following message was sent in a telegram to Alexander Slepak:

"We of the Central Kentucky Jewish Federation express our solidarity with the Slepak family of Moscow and their son Alexander fasting for their freedom in Washington."

COLUMBUS FEDERATION CREATES COLLEGE PROGRAM FOR JEWISH LEADERSHIP

The Columbus (Ohio) Jewish Federation and its affiliated agencies, in conjunction with the Ohio State University College of Social Work and the Melton Center for Jewish Studies, have designed a Master of Social Work degree with a specialization in Jewish Communal Service.

This two year degree, granted by Ohio State University, features a course of study which includes professional theory and practice, emphasizing the acquisition of basic skills in social work, Jewish studies, field work with Columbus Jewish social service agencies, and an integrative seminar to tie it all together.

Interested candidates for this program may obtain a brochure through the CKJF office.

CRC Speakers Bureau Program Continues

CKJF often receives requests for speakers on topics of Jewish concern. In response to this growing need, the Community Relations Committee of the Federation sponsors a Speakers Bureau to help provide programs and lecturers to all interested community groups, civic organizations, schools and church groups.

The Speakers Bureau, a public service offered free of charge, provides lay members of the Jewish community as lecturers on a variety of topics ranging from life in Israel to Jewish religious observances.

The CRC is also pleased to offer the WLEX-TV produced videotape, "And I Was There", for showings and discussion. Available in both 3/4 inch and 1/2 inch formats, the one-hour documentary focuses on six Central Kentucky residents, both Jews and Christians, who are Holocaust survivors or were with the American forces liberating concentration camps at the end of World War II. Moderated by U.K. president Otis Singletary, this moving program brings the Holocaust close to home.

One aim of the Community Relations Committee is to reach out to the general community, providing the tools for an understanding of Judaism, Israel and the Jewish people. If you, your child's teacher, your neighbor, colleague or friend can utilize the Speakers Bureau and/or videotape, "And I Was There", for an interesting program, please do so! Call the Federation office at 252-7622 for further information.

Your Support of Annual Campaign
...and...
The Jewish Agency

The annual United Jewish Appeal/Federation Campaign, comprised of 630 federated and nonfederated American-Jewish communities, is the primary fundraising instrument for the support of humanitarian programs and social services for Jews at home and abroad.

Through our CKJF-UJA Campaign, we strengthen our own community and work to establish a secure and vital future for Jewish life worldwide.

From the CKJF-UJA Campaign, 70 percent of funds pledged to the General Campaign go directly to UJA, which monitors and controls programs that qualify under American Tax laws for appropriateness, efficiency and effectiveness.

Approximately 80 percent of UJA's disbursements are channeled through United Israel Appeal to the Jewish Agency for Israel. The 1986-87 budget of the Jewish Agency is $381 million.

JEWISH AGENCY FUNDING PROGRAMS IN ISRAEL

Headquartered in Jerusalem, the Jewish Agency is an international non-governmental organization that links world Jewry and the people of Israel in the following areas of concern; Immigration and Absorption, Resettlement of Ethiopian Jewry, Immigrant Housing, Rural Settlements, Youth Aliyah and Project Renewal.

Applications for Jewish Agency funding of programs submitted by Reform, Conservative and Orthodox streams of Judaism were approved in the new Agency budget for a total of $3.2 million.

Many of these programs call for the Jewish Agency to enter new areas of activity which will deepen Israel-Diaspora relations, especially Israel experiences for Diaspora youth, programs aimed at extending democratic values, youth hostels, campaign programs for disadvantaged children, scholarship programs, social and educational programs for English-speaking senior citizens in Israel, seminars for Jewish educators and much more.

Funding for these programs is, beyond acceptance of their value, an indication of flexibility in the Agency and accommodation to the requests of leaders from the various denominations. UJA leaders supported requests based on the value of the programs and the quest for equitable treatment for all.

The following figures represent Agency allocations to the denominations for programs of their choosing.

|-------------|--------------|
| $1,642,000 | Reform |
| 865,000 | Conservative |
| 692,000 | Orthodox |

UJA Plans
Young Leadership Weekend

The United Jewish Appeal's Regional Young Leadership Weekend Retreat will take place from 5:45 pm on Friday, May 15 until noon on Sunday, May 17 at The Inn at Lake Okoboji, Iowa.

Joseph Telushkin, rabbi, scholar of Jewish history and nationally noted author, will be the scholar-in-residence. Telushkin's famous book which he co-authored with Dennis Prager, The Nine Questions People Ask About Judaism, has become a classic, written for the educated, skeptical, and searching Jew, and for the non-Jew who wants to understand the meaning of Judaism.

The retreat features:

- * A creative Shabbat experience
- * A beautiful rustic setting
- * Conference theme: "Why Be Jewish: Making the Case for Leading a Jewish Life"
- * Dr. Carlos Rizowy, a frequent guest of network and cable programs, is an expert on terrorism and Middle East politics. He will speak on "Israel and International Terrorism"
- * Concurrent workshops on "The Jewish Family"; "Leadership and Campaign"; "Jewish Identity"; "Images of Israel"; and "Leadership Skills"
- * Yacht party on Saturday night
- * Governor William Jenklaw, South Dakota

Reservations are required and can be made through the CKJF office.

SUPER SUNDAY '87 Surpasses All Expectations

The fifth annual SUPER SUNDAY was a smashing success! Despite many roadblocks, this year's effort proved to be the most successful yet.

Three hundred people pledged a record $20,923. Of the 300 gifts, 56 were first time pledges.

The new offices of the Chamber of Commerce proved to be an excellent location to conduct our telephone marathon. The volunteer solicitors, records keepers and trainers worked throughout the day to make this a truly rewarding experience.

And the Jewish community of Central Kentucky responded with tremendous support of the Federation-United Jewish Appeal campaign.

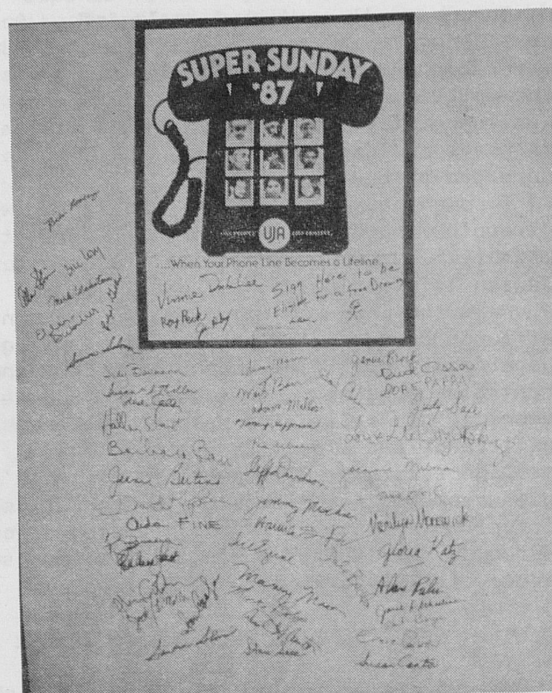

Co-chairs Vinnie Dubilier and Joe Rosenberg are to be congratulated for coordinating this event for the second time. And they wish to extend sincere thanks to the countless volunteers, without whose efforts our success wouldn't have been possible.

At this time the CKJF-UJA campaign is well on its way to realizing its 1987 goal with almost $200,000 having been pledged.

If you have not yet been contacted and wish to be part of this effort, please contact any of the campaign chairs today: Simone Salomon, Campaign Chair, 269-1585; Bob Baumann, Men's Division Chair, 223-1299; or Nancy Hoffman, Women's Division Chair, 268-1102.

ANYTOWN, KENTUCKY Selecting Delegates

Anytown is a week-long leadership workshop, June 7-13, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The camp setting offers sports, recreation and hiking in addition to its program for the development of cultural awareness, communication skills, an enhanced self image, and positive race relations.

Anytowners meet in discussion groups and workshops, offering their own ideas and listening to the ideas of others. Leaders of Kentucky's cultural, professional and religious communities play a role in these activities.

Incoming high school juniors and seniors from all over Kentucky come to Anytown and bring the experiences of their diverse cultural, ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds. They are supervised by a carefully selected staff and by advisors who bring their own diverse experiences and expertise to share with and guide the delegates.

If you are interested in becoming a delegate to Anytown, Kentucky, applications are available from the CKJF office (252-7622) or NCCJ (277-4434). Fees for the week are $175, including meals, transportation and housing. Partial camperships are available to those requiring financial aid.

Dear Central Kentucky Jewish Federation,

Thank you so much for your partial scholarship to attend Anytown, sponsored by the Kentucky Chapters of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Your scholarship was the perfect answer -- it showed that you felt that this was a worthwhile endeavor.

And it WAS! From the morning group discussions to the afternoon workshops to the fun recreation, our diverse group learned to work together and to care for each other. We not only broke down prejudices, but also allowed each person to express his innermost thoughts and display his talents. This led to a greater appreciation of our diversity. This experience made me extremely appreciative of my own family's strong love and support and educational values. I found that the biggest differences existed not between blacks and whites, but between the city and rural youths.

One of the highlights of the week was cultural night. Each group -- Blacks, Jews, Indians, Irish, Germans, and Anglo-Saxons -- gave a presentation about their culture. Our group consisted of Lauren Weinberg, Natalie Saxe, Daniel Dickstein and me. Using flashback technique, an old Jewish couple (Dan and I) reminisced over a Sabbath dinner about their traditional marriage (by Rabbi Weinberg) and their daughter's (Natalie's) Bat Mitzvah, etc.

That week was truly an "Experience of a Lifetime!" In fact, Anytown will always remain a highlight of my past, and I look forward to bringing the "Anytown Spirit" back to my youth groups and friends. Thanks again for your support.

Sincerely,

Ruth Belin

ABRAM and BRONFMAN REPORT ON VISIT TO USSR

Morris B. Abram, National Conference on Soviet Jewry Chairman, has reported on his recent visit to Moscow, undertaken with Edgar Bronfman, World Jewish Congress President.

The two gentlemen stated that their purpose in going to the USSR was to aid the interests of the Jewish minority in that country and, as private citizens, to further international harmony. The discussions in Moscow covered many key issues of concern to Soviet Jews including, but not limited to, emigration and family reunification.

According to Mr. Bronfman and Mr. Abram, they were reassured on the following points:

1. Soviet Jews with exit visas for Israel will travel via Romania on flights to be established.
2. All refuseniks and their families will be allowed to emigrate to Israel within a one-year period, except for legitimate national security cases. A procedure will be established, however, to review previous visa denials on national security grounds. This procedure may involve officials on a level as high as the Supreme Soviet.
3. First degree relatives may emigrate for family reunification within an established time frame. There may be flexibility within the framework of the current narrow interpretation of "first degree relative".
4. Cases of those refuseniks recently placed in a "never allowed to emigrate" category will be reviewed.
5. All Jewish religious books may be imported into the USSR, and a recommended list of books will be submitted.
6. Synagogues will be opened in all sites where there is a demonstrated need.
7. Soviet Jews will be allowed greater access to rabbinical training. Some may even be allowed to study in the United States.
8. The teaching of Hebrew in school or synagogue settings will be considered together with similar restrictions applied to other religious groups.
9. A kosher restaurant will be opened in Moscow, and liberal provisions will be made for ritual slaughter.

Passover Around the JDC World

In Romania, 5,000 Jews, many of them aged and infirm survivors of the Holocaust, attended community Sedorim funded with the help of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (JDC). Other members of the community received special Passover parcels of kosher food and wine.

In Tunisia, some 350 people in six communities received special assistance to buy matzah, matzah meal, wine, meat, and oil for the holiday, thanks to JDC.

In many of the 34 countries in which it operates, JDC helps provide Passover assistance. The Jewish communities of Morocco and Poland receive shipments of matzah, matzah flour, and wine for the holiday.

Elsewhere in Eastern Europe, JDC helps distribute matzah to clients of the Jewish community's social and assistance agency in Hungary. In Czechoslovakia, where kosher food and Passover wine are not available, JDC helps purchase the supplies elsewhere and imports them into the country for distribution.

The 180 Jews of Egypt receive supplies with the help of JDC. Passover supplies and food baskets are provided for needy Jews in Algeria as well.

This mitzvah is made possible by the American Jewish community's generous support of the United Jewish Appeal, which provides the bulk of the JDC 1987 budget of $57 million.
