ABBAY OF GETHSEMANI
TRAPPIST, KENTUCKY

Sept 5, 1960

Dear Victor

I would have written sooner but I have not found it easy to untangle all the threads of the arrangements about those supposed to visit here. At any rate Reinhardt is not coming right away, this month or next, so he is out of the question. On the other hand a Benedictine and another priest are here for a retreat next weekend so that knocks out the 16th for our meeting.

Hence let us start over again. The following week is quite good for me, almost any day at noon, but especially the 15th and the 17th. I hope Clay Lancaster will still be there. If the beginning of the week is better for him, how about the 12th? I would rather have it at the end of the week as far as I am concerned but I would like to meet Clay.

Glad to hear the broadside is progressing. I read the little excerpt from Fiedler and found it very illuminating. I wonder if people would dare to say such things today, apart from wild persons like you and me.

Hoping to see you next week sometime and waiting for a word from you in confirmation.

Blessings --

Very cordially in Christ

Jm Louis
