FOOTBALL—WILDCAT STYLE

SYSTEM—Basically Split-T. Coach Collier plans to utilize the Split-T style of attack for the most part although some elements of other formations may be introduced as needed to cope with special situations. UK adopted the Split-T in 1952 after using mainly the Straight-T formation during the career of All-America passer Babe Parilli.

GROUND ATTACK—Kentucky's new football mentor considers himself primarily a running coach despite his background with the professional Cleveland Browns who many observers thought of as emphasizing an aerial attack. The Wildcats will have a backfield regarded as average or slightly above in speed, but exceptionally light in weight and small in size. There is no back on the roster capable of blasting the line like last year's graduated stars, Steve Meilinger and Ralph Paolone.

PASSING GAME—No outstanding passer appears on the scene this season. It's more than likely that the aerial artistry will take a back seat to running plays in the Split-T style of attack formulated by Coach Collier. Last season, passing accounted for only 28 percent of the ground gained against 10 opponents and the prospect is for about the same performance in '54. Doing most of the aerial work probably will be quarterback Bob Hardy, who led the team last year with a 51 percent completion average on 47 tosses and 418 yards gained. The second and third ranked passers of '53 are missing.

DEFENSE—In so far as the prospective Kentucky line of 1954 is considered to be above average except in depth, the defensive outlook is fair against line plays and may prove satisfactory overall. However, lack of experience under game conditions may hamper the three line and three backfield starters who were not regulars under double-duty conditions last year.

KICKING GAME—Versatile Steve Meilinger, the all-around sensation who was the team's best and almost exclusive punter last season, has departed. The chore likely will fall to end Bradley Mills, the "second best" of 1953 who averaged 36.2 on the only four boots he made, or halfback Dick Moloney (4 for 124 yards and 31-yard average in '53). Quarterbacks Bob Hardy and Delmar Hughes seem destined to handle the extra point kicking on the basis of their performance in this department a year ago.

THE OUTLOOK FOR '54

A new head coach at the helm; a man-sized-headache schedule classed as the toughest in the Southeastern Conference; a squad lacking both physical size and overall depth; and some very big gaps left by the departure of many standout performers.

That's a capsule summation of the University of Kentucky football outlook for 1954 which foretells likely rough going on the Wildcats' trek from Maryland to Tennessee this season.

With native-son Blanton Collier in the driver's seat guiding UK's football destinies as a replacement for the departed Bear Bryant, the outlook for success easily might be optimistic if there were not such high calibre opposition to be encountered and numerous other major problems to be reconciled. Although the Kentucky job will be his first attempt in collegiate coaching, Collier has a unique background of experience in high school and professional ranks which has gained him a reputation as one of the nation's outstanding football tacticians.

Even the most capable coach in the world, however, might hesitate to tackle Kentucky's 10-game schedule of top flight opposition which is virtually void of any "breathers". The trail leading from Maryland to Tennessee gives every indication of being a rocky one capable of providing extremely difficult footing for inexperienced travelers such as Coach Collier and his aides will be depending upon.

The list includes three outstanding aggregations which participated in bowl games last New Year's Day and promise to be at least equally dangerous this year—national champion Maryland, Georgia Tech's Sugar Bowl champs, and a "coming" Auburn club. For added discomfort, the Wildcats must attempt to trespass on touchdown territory against arch-rival Tennessee, conference toughies Ole Miss, Louisiana State, Florida and Vanderbilt; major eastern independent Villanova; and a Memphis State crew that flexed surprisingly strong single-wing muscles in the series opener last season.

The foundation for the first Wildcat eleven being built by Coach Collier to face the challenging 1954 schedule must come from a small core of 21 lettermen returning from the team that surprised the nation last year by rebounding from a disappointing start to go undefeated through its last eight games and finish in a tie for second place in conference play and rated 16th nationally. However, 14 lettermen and several other promising prospects are gone and little solace can be found in the fact that two full teams, numerically speaking, are in the fold. Even with these experienced hands, the full squad numbers only slightly more than 50—a pitifully small group to draw from in forming a team of the calibre needed to play the schedule on tap this season. Additionally, a lack of depth at all positions is apparent as is the lack of any appreciable physical size on the part of most candidates.

On credit side of the ledger, the forecast is for a fair amount of experience and size in the first string line where four regulars return to vie for positions in which they were starters in Kentucky's concluding game of last year. Rating a good look by the honor team pickers is Duke Curnutte, a 5-10 and 190 pound tackle who showed up very well as a sophomore starter last season after lettering as a defensive guard in his yearling campaign. Co-captains Joe Koch and Harry Kirk, guard and tackle on the right side, respectively; and end Howard Schnellenberger round out the returning forward wall regulars. Probably the biggest line gap to be plugged is at left guard where All-America Ray Correll, the Southeastern Conference's "best lineman" of 1953 and a great downfield tackler, will be missing. The lack of adequate depth at the guard posts apparently is going to form one of the major problems needing to be ironed out with time and keynotes the big weakness of the team as a whole—an absence of sizeable, experienced "shock troops" to take up the slack in relief roles or as injury replacements.

If the new Wildcat mentor considers his line worries staggering, he has only to turn about to the backfield situation to forget them. While Collier considers himself "basically a running coach" and plans to stick with the Split-T style of attack utilized by the 'Cats for the past two campaigns, he cannot help wondering where his next runner is coming from.

It's not that there aren't any backfield candidates. There are plenty of bodies and perhaps a few capable ball carriers. There's even stellar quarterback Bob Hardy, the wonder boy who came out of nowhere in the third game last season to lead the Wildcats on their undefeated skein, but the rest of the group promises to be inexperienced, "pony" sized combination and the fullback situation, in particular, borders on desperation. The overall difficulty arises from the fact that the first five ground gainers of last season's team are missing, including the three other starters.

In the words of Collier, the team desperately "needs a man like Paolone (Ralph Paolone, underrated fullback who led the club in rushing during '53) who can get you that yard or two when you need it. And we need some big, fast halfbacks. The plain facts are that we don't have either." In addition to Paolone, the team is without the services of versatile All-America halfback-quarterback-end Steve Meilinger and regular right half Joe Platt (who posted a remarkable 8.3 average for the season). The leading candidates to fill their shoes include halfbacks Dick Mitchell (159 pounds stripped), Dick Moloney and soph Don Netoskie (both tipping the scales at 175); and fullbacks Hayden Hooper (168-pounder out all last season with broken leg), Ken Williams (a center in '53) and Bob Phillips (no experience at fullback or linebacking).

With the prospect of depending on a group of backs averaging in the neighborhood of 170 pounds and a line only slightly larger, Kentucky in 1954 seems to have insurmountable problems of gravity which loom large in the face of the size and calibre of opposition scheduled to be faced. But most people are not counting their bounty on dead Wildcats yet. Especially not when their mentor radiates such determined defiance as: "We may be only a 50-50 team this year, capable of winning only three or four games, as many people would have you believe. But I'll tell you one thing—our opponents are going to have to prove it on the field every Saturday!"

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

BERNIE A. SHIVELY

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs is the Herculean task being carried out successfully by Bernie A. Shively.

Few who have observed the untiring efforts of the tall, silver-haired former All-America footballer in the service of the University of Kentucky as Director of Athletics since 1938 will argue his fitness as an athletic Hercules. Not only has Shively guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports, but he has also gained personal prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems.

During his tenure as Athletic Director, Shively has directly supervised major expansions in Kentucky's athletic plant resulting from the progression of the school's football and basketball teams to greater national prominence and increased patronage by the sports-minded public.

The seating capacity of Kentucky's football stadium, McLean Stadium on Stoll Field, has been doubled to bring the current number of seats to approximately 36,000 and on par with most other schools located in heavier-populated areas. Powerful lighting equipment also was installed during the 1948-49 construction to bring night football into new popularity. Partly to satisfy the overwhelming number of basketball devotees, who could not squeeze into the 2,800-seat Alumni Gymnasium, a long-planned Memorial Coliseum was completed in 1950. Seating

12,000 persons for cage contests, the four-million dollar Coliseum also houses the Athletic Department and provides the first permanent home for the school's many minor sports teams.

A native of Paris, Ill., Shively attended the University of Illinois where he was an All-America guard in 1926 on the same grid team made famous by Red Grange. Demonstrating a claim to being one of the finest all-around athletes in Illinois history, "Shive" also laid claim to the Big 10 heavyweight wrestling championship and annexed letters in track before graduating in 1927.

Shively came to Kentucky in 1927 as line coach of football under Harry Gammage. A shift in the coaching ranks in 1933 resulted in Shively's promotion to head of the UK Physical Education Department, a position he retained until he succeeded Chet Wynne as Athletic Director in 1938. During this period and the years following, he also served as track and baseball coach for several seasons and continued to assist the football staff as line coach until 1944. The next year, 1945, he assumed full charge of the grid squad for one season before turning the job over to mentor Paul (Bear) Bryant in 1946.

The Kentucky Athletic Director served as chairman of the Southeastern Conference basketball committee for a number of years and is the current president of the SEC Coaches and Athletic Directors Association. In 1951, he took over the added task of establishing a booking office for football and basketball officials for the Ohio Valley Conference and heads the office as Supervisor of Officials. Familiarly known to his many friends as "Shive," he also has been active in numerous other civic and state organizations and projects.

HONORS COME LATELY

From its football beginnings in 1881 through 1942, Kentucky had only one player named to a recognized All-America team. In the short span of years since, no less than five have earned first team mention on the national honor rolls and three of the stars were repeaters. Thirteen Wildcats have received All-Conference recognition since the loop was organized in 1933.

VICTORY KICKS

A game unique in University of Kentucky football history occurred in 1900. Kentucky beat the Louisville YMCA, 12-6, without running a single offensive play during the entire game. Kicking on first down every time they gained possession of the ball, Kentucky made its scores through the recovery of opponent fumbles in the end zone.

ATHLETICS AT KENTUCKY

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletic Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference.

Bernie A. Shively heads the Department as Director of Athletics.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Comptroller, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of the following members:

Dr. H. L. Donovan, Chairman	Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice Chairman
Dr. A. D. Kirwan, Secretary	Robert Hobson
Thomas H. Ballantine	M. E. Ligon
George K. Brady	Paul Oberst
Aubrey J. Brown	Charles Palmer (Student)
Thomas Clark	H. D. Palmore
Lyman Ginger	D. V. Terrell
Guy Huguelet	William A. Tolman

BLANTON L. COLLIER

Head Football Coach University of Kentucky

A quiet-mannered native Kentuckian who fulfilled a life-long ambition when he took over the coaching reins at his home state university,

Blanton Collier brings to his new job at the University of Kentucky one of the finest reputations in modern-day football.

The 47-year-old former Cleveland Browns' backfield coach, born in nearby Millersburg, Ky., educated at Georgetown (Ky.) College and University of Kentucky and ex-coach at Paris (Ky.) High School, becomes the Wildcats' 27th head mentor in 64 years. Collier succeeds Paul (Bear) Bryant, who resigned last February after eight seasons at Kentucky to accept the position of Head Football Coach and Athletic Director at Texas A. & M.

Collier, who had been widely sought by many professional and college teams during the past five or six years when his standing was of increasingly high calibre, was the University's number one choice almost from the moment Bryant asked to be relieved from his long-term contract. While he had consistently turned down all offers, including the job as head man of the professional Baltimore Colts, to remain as right hand man to Paul Brown at Cleveland, Collier gave special consideration to the Kentucky position because, as he expresses it, "coaching at my home state university is something I always had in the back of my mind as my ultimate ambition."

University President H. L. Donovan announced that the new football chief will work under a three-year contract. Terms of the agreement were not made public.

Leaving Cleveland and Coach Brown was not easy for the new Wildcat mentor. "It was one of the toughest decisions I've ever had to make," Collier explained. "Paul Brown and I were very close friends, much closer than the usual employee-employer relationship."

It was with the famed Cleveland Browns and under Brown's tutelage that Collier became widely recognized as a keen football student and a brilliant diagnostician. However, his background in the gridiron profession dates back further.

Born in Millersburg, Ky., on July 2, 1906, and brought up in Paris, Ky., only 17 miles from the University, Collier began his athletic career at Paris High School by playing both football and basketball. Later, at Georgetown College, he lettered in both sports. Although not an outstanding gridder because of his lack of size (he weighed only 125 pounds then), he was nevertheless regarded as a close student of the game and upon graduation in 1927 was named coach of all sports at Paris High.

He held this position until he entered the Navy in 1943. During his 16 years at Paris, his teams won or shared two Central Kentucky Conference football titles and six basketball championships. His last high school grid team (1943) ranked as unofficial state champions. Also during this period he took postgraduate work at the University of Kentucky and received a master's degree in educational administration.

It was while he was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station during his Navy tour that Collier and Brown discovered each other. Brown, a lieutenant and head coach of the Great Lakes football team, became impressed with Yoeman Collier's football knowledge and added him to the staff as an assistant coach. The following year (1946) when the Cleveland Browns were organized with Brown as head coach, Collier made the unique jump from high school ranks to the pros by going along as backfield coach.

During eight seasons with the Browns, Collier made a reputation that stamped him as a great teacher of football—determined but quietly patient. He was considered solid in gridiron fundamentals, meticulous in technique and perfection in play execution was his constant goal. "A perfect machine is made of perfect and matched components," according to Collier. "That is why it is so necessary that details, no matter how small, be given full consideration."

One of Collier's major contributions while No. 1 assistant to the fabulously successful Brown was a player-rating system developed through a studious, scientific approach to grading game films. It was often said that his football laboratory was wherever he could set up a movie projector. He also is credited with devising many of the Browns' successful pass defense patterns.

Coach Brown, who often had declared "no one is going to take Blanton away from me as long as money is the only issue," unselfishly gave his blessing to Collier's desire to take the Kentucky position. "He is a wonderful man and an outstanding coach," Brown commented. "We wish him success and happiness in his new job. He has been a big factor in the success of our football team and his leaving is a big loss."

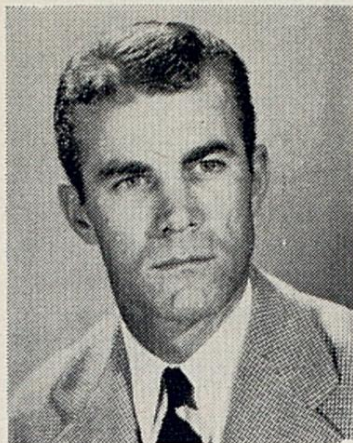

Collier married Miss Mary Forman Varden of Paris in 1931 and they have three teen-age daughters. Carolyn, 18, attends University of Kentucky, while Kay, 14, is a student at Lexington Henry Clay and June, 13, goes to Morton Junior. The Colliers now make their home in Lexington.

ALUMNUS COACH

Although new Head Coach Blanton Collier did not receive his initial college degree from University of Kentucky, he nevertheless might rightfully be called the Wildcats' third alumnus coach. He was awarded a master's degree in educational administration by the University. Only other graduates of U.K. later to take up head football coaching duties at their alma mater were J. White Guyn (1906-08) and A. D. Kirwan (1938-44).

THE COACHING STAFF

ERMAL ALLEN

(Kentucky '42)

Backfield Coach

One of Kentucky's most famous athlete graduates, Allen at 33 has had a full career as a collegiate star, pro-football player and successful college grid coach. He starred at quarterback for the Wildcat forces from 1939 to 1941 and entered military service following graduation. Returning as a graduate student after his discharge, Allen became the center of one of the Southeastern Conference's most controversial cases when he attempted to play a fourth year of football in 1946 and was declared ineligible after two games. Allen joined the UK coaching staff of Paul Bryant for the remainder of the '46 season, spent the '47 campaign as a T-quarterback with the professional Cleveland Browns whose backfield coach at this time was Blanton Collier, and then re-joined the Wildcat staff in 1948. He became Kentucky's head freshman mentor in 1950 and was promoted at season's end to backfield coach. The youthful Allen was retained in this capacity when Collier became head man of the Wildcats early this year. Hometown: Morristown, Tenn.

CLARENCE UNDERWOOD

(Marshall '38)

Line Coach

Underwood joined the Kentucky staff in 1948 following a highly-successful career as a high school grid mentor at Beckley, W. Va., and three years of service in World War II as a Navy lieutenant. A 1938 graduate of Marshall College, where he was a varsity guard for three years, Underwood was given full responsibility for Kentucky's line play in 1952. He is widely recognized as due the bulk of credit for developing the Wildcats' topnotch forward walls of the past couple of seasons and holds the highest respect of coaches and players, alike. In addition to usual coaching duties, "Buckshot" has the sometimes difficult task of keeping gridders eligible by prodding them to tackle the daily classroom grind with the same forcefulness demanded of them on the football field. He chose to remain on at Kentucky this year as a chief assistant to Blanton Collier despite numerous attractive offers elsewhere following the departure of Paul Bryant. Hometown: Beckley, W. Va.

BILL ARNSPARGER
(Miami (O.) '50)

Line Coach

One of Coach Collier's former grid pupils at Paris (Ky.) High School and a native Kentuckian, Aransparger joined the UK staff this year as an assistant in charge of offensive line play. The 27-year-old former Marine brings to the staff an excellent background of coaching experience which began at Miami (Ohio) U. following his graduation from that school in '50. In 1951, he moved with boss Woody Hayes to Ohio State where he has been tackle coach in charge of offensive line play for the past three seasons. Arnsparger played at tackle and guard on Collier's teams at Paris High from 1941-43 and entered UK as a freshman in '44. His tour of duty in the Marines began shortly thereafter and he transferred to Miami U. after his discharge to play under Sid Gillman and later Hayes. Hometown: Paris, Ky.

BILL MOSELEY
(Kentucky '48)

Backfield Coach

Moseley returns to his alma mater following five years as a highly-successful head coach and athletic director at his hometown high school of Sidney Lanier in Montgomery, Ala. His grid teams consistently ranked among the best schoolboy outfits in the south and went undefeated in nine games in 1951. The 31-year-old Alabaman played two years of football at Kentucky in 1941-42 before going into the service in World War II. After spending four years in the Air Force, he returned to UK in '46 for his final two seasons of competition. Moseley saw all of his action at fullback, lettering three times and serving as captain of the 1947 Wildcats. Following graduation in 1948, he stayed on to obtain a master's degree and served as an aide to Coach Paul Bryant that season. Two of Moseley's assistants at Lanier are now fellow aides on the Collier staff. They are Charley Bradshaw and Matt Lair. Hometown: Montgomery, Ala.

MATT LAIR
(Kentucky '48)

Line Coach

A tough competitor who looks the part of the former top-notch football guard that he was during his days at University of Kentucky, Lair is another product of Blanton Collier's coaching. He was born in nearby Paris, Ky., and played three years of the grid sport under Collier when the latter was coach at Paris High. Entering UK in 1941, Lair was a blocking back for two seasons before going in the service. Upon his return in '46, he played out his final two years' eligibility as a guard regular and then began a career in high school coaching. He was line coach at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., for three years, served one year as an assistant at Louisville Manual and last season was head coach at Parrish High in Selma, Ala. At UK, he will help coach the line and will be the freshman coach. Hometown: North Middletown, Ky.

CHARLEY BRADSHAW
(Kentucky '50)

Line Coach

An outstanding flankman during his playing days at University of Kentucky, Bradshaw is a serious-minded student of the game who brings to the coaching staff experience as a grinder of great native ability and as a successful high school coaching assistant. He played center and earned his first letter as a freshman with the Wildcats in 1946 and was the team's regular right end for the two and a quarter seasons following until he was ruled ineligible early in the '49 campaign by Commissioner Moore on grounds that he had played out his eligibility. Bradshaw finished out the season as an assistant freshman coach at UK and then moved to his hometown high school of Sidney Lanier in Montgomery, Ala., as an assistant football coach and co-ordinator of a junior high program. During World War II, Bradshaw saw service with the Marines in the South Pacific. Hometown: Montgomery, Ala.

ORIGIN OF "WILDCATS" NICKNAME

Kentucky's athletic teams are known to sports fans as the Wildcats. This first and only nickname borne by University varsities had its origin in 1909 in a speech made by Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State University. Speaking to a chapel audience of students on the showing of the Kentucky football team in defeating Illinois six to two, the Commandant declared "they fought like Wildcats." The tag was popularized by word of mouth and by the press with the result that it has since become synonymous with all major Kentucky athletic teams.

While the name is old in origin, no claim is made regarding precedence over similar nicknames boasted by Northwestern, Villanova and about 10 other major athletic teams.

An alumnus in 1947 presented a live Kentucky Wildcat to SUKY, student pep organization. Named "The Colonel," the cat served as a live mascot for UK teams until its death early this year. As yet, no new wildcat has been obtained.

KENTUCKY'S COLORS

The blue and white of the University of Kentucky are known to sports fans everywhere. Officially the colors are Yale blue and white, but in the beginning, when the Lexington institution was still known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky, the colors were "Stoll Blue" and white. One day back in the 1890's a group of Kentucky football stalwarts met to choose their school colors. Someone suggested blue and white—"blue like Dick Stoll's necktie"—and those colors were immediately adopted. "Dick" Stoll was to become Judge Richard C. Stoll, distinguished public servant and, for more than fifty years before his death, a member of the U.K. board of trustees.

WILDCATS' 1953 ALL-OPPONENT TEAM

ENDS — Kershaw, Villanova; and O'Brien, Florida.

TACKLES — Chapman, Rice; and Scott, Texas A & M.

GUARDS — Mims, Mississippi; and Miller, LSU.

CENTER — Easterwood, Mississippi State.

QUARTERBACK — Ellis, Texas A & M.

HALFBACKS — Filipski, Villanova; and Horton, Vanderbilt.

FULLBACK — McCool, Mississippi.

POSITION SUMMARY

ENDS—(Losses: Two lettermen; Position changes: Mills to end from halfback, Waite to center from end)

Average. A pair of top flight performers are available in the persons of '53 starter Howard Schnellenberger and Bradley Mills, a halfback last season who has been returned to his former flank post. Loss to the Army of probable starter and three-letter veteran Al Zampino makes lack of depth critical.

TACKLES—(Losses: Two lettermen; Position changes; Frankenberger to tackle from end)

Stronger but lack experience in depth. Starters Duke Curnutte (left side) and Harry Kirk ('54 Co-captain) are back. Curnutte looks like a good bet for All-SEC honors if he continues to improve. Junior Bill Wheeler will give a battle for regular duties. Top sophomore prospect—six-three, 220-pound J. T. Frankenberger.

GUARDS—(Losses: All-America Ray Correll; Position changes: Schaeffer to guard from tackle)

Outlook fair but weakness in depth makes position biggest problem in line. Probable top men are Co-Captain Joe Koch (5-9, 185) and Neil Lowry. They are the only lettermen at the position, compared to five available a year ago. Joe Stuart, who played six-man football in high school, should help out.

CENTERS—(Losses: Starter Tommy Adkins; Position changes: Williams to fullback from center, Waite to center from end)

Strong and well balanced. Lettermen Leo Strange (a junior) and Dave Kuhn (one of team's best sophs) will battle it out for the starting nod. A trio of sophs stand ready to gain experience in reserve roles. Depth good and position could develop into one of team's strong points.

QUARTERBACKS—(Losses: One letterman; Position changes: Rushing to QB from fullback)

Probably strong and somewhat better than last year. Bob Hardy, who came out of nowhere to take charge in third game last season and lead 'Cats on undefeated skein, returns as a junior but will be handicapped by lack of spring practice activity due to an injury. Dick Rushing showed up extremely well in guiding his team to a 26-6 victory in the spring practice game. Sophomore Delmar Hughes stands ready to take over if any of the others falter. The only drawback seems that none of the trio are considered exceptionally good passers.

HALFBACKS—(Losses: All-America Steve Meilinger, regular Joe Platt and two other lettermen; Position changes: Mills to end from halfback, Phillips to fullback from halfback)

Fast and willing, but lack the size and sufficient experience desired for the type of opposition to be faced. Dick Mitchell, the only left half with any experience, tips the scale at only 159. Two lettermen will fight it out for the right side job—junior Dick Moloney and soph Don Netoskie. Sure to be heard from before the season is over is sophomore Jerry Plau. Another hard running second year man, due to give a good account of himself, is Billy Mitchell (no kin to Dick).

FULLBACKS—(Losses: regular Ralph Paolone and top flight reserve Tom Fillion; Position changes: Williams to FB from center, Phillips to FB from halfback, and Rushing to QB from FB)

Weakest link. No outstanding candidate appears ready to take charge. All lacksize and experience. Top candidates for the job include Hayden Hooper, 5-9 and 168-pound junior who missed all last season because of a broken leg; Ken Williams, who lettered as a reserve center in '53; and Bob Phillips, an inexperienced junior who has had neither offensive or defensive duty at the position. A pair of promising sophs who may be heard from are Bobby Walker and Jim Gibson.

LETTERMEN LOST

(Total of 14)

ENDS—JIM PROFFITT, an experienced double-duty performer who served as the team's regular right end for the past three years.

AL ZAMPINO, a three-letter veteran starter who was tabbed for right end duty before his loss to the Army during the summer.

TACKLES—JIM SCHENK, a sturdy front-line reserve tackle-guard who earned two letters after transferring from Georgetown U.

TOM HARPER, a sizeable and experienced reserve.

GUARDS—RAY CORRELL, a top-flight defensive player named to numerous All-America teams last year and selected as "Best Line-man" in Southeastern Conference.

CENTERS—TOMMY ADKINS, co-captain of the '53 Wildcats and an exceptional linebacker . . . earned three letters and second team All-SEC mention.

QUARTERBACKS—HERB HUNT, one of the best "pinch hitters" in Dixie football who came through in the clutches despite a lack of physical size and great natural ability.

HALFBACKS—STEVE MEILINGER, college football's most versatile player of the decade who tripled as a halfback-end-quarterback in both '52 and last season to gain All-America recognition.

JOE PLATT, late season flash who averaged better than eight yards per carry while operating at right half.

DICK SHATTO, a promising prospect who seemed to find himself at halfback after disappointing as a quarterback in freshman season . . . lost due to scholastic trouble.

MILES WILLARD, a senior who doubled as reserve halfback and student coach . . . saw only brief action last year.

LOU KARIBO, the team's student manager who also was available for reserve halfback duty.

FULLBACKS—RALPH PAOLONE, one of the most underrated backs in the South last season . . . he was the team's leading ball carrier with a 5.7 average on 108 rushes that netted 620 yards . . . ranked third in the conference.

TOM FILLION, one of the most valuable reserves in southern football . . . won three letters as both starter and reserve fullback-halfback.

STOLL FIELD — McLEAN STADIUM

Much confusion among the general public and the sports-writing fraternity apparently exists over a seeming duplication of titles in referring to the University of Kentucky's football setup along "Avenue of Champions."

Officially, by action of the University Board of Trustees, the general area encompassing the playing field is known as "Stoll Field." Likewise, by authority of the same body, the stadium proper is known as "McLean Stadium."

Kentucky's first football field, occupying the general site of what is now the practice field west of the stadium, was first given a name when it was dedicated on October 14, 1916, as Stoll Field in honor of the late Judge Richard C. Stoll, prominent alumnus, trustee and benefactor of the University of Kentucky. Soon after the first sections of the present concrete stadium were completed on September 4, 1924, the new field site and stadium were likewise officially known as Stoll Field.

The first attraction to be held on the new Stoll Field was a football game with the University of Louisville on October 4, 1924. A gridiron clash between Kentucky and the then-powerful Centre College team was the first game played in the fully-completed stadium on November 1, 1924.

The later reference to the concrete stands as "McLean Stadium" has existed since November 1, 1924, when the stadium was officially dedicated in memory of Price Innes McLean and a bronze plaque placed in the south stands by the Class of 1925. McLean, regular center on the 1923 Kentucky football squad, died November 7, 1923, as the result of injuries sustained in the U.K.-Cincinnati game played in the Queen City the afternoon before.

Major expansions of McLean Stadium in 1948 and 1949 have resulted in a current over-all seating capacity of better than 36,000—more than double the number of seats available when Coach Bryant assumed the head coaching duties in 1946.

"Avenue of Champions" came into being in the spring of 1950 as an honorary title for that stretch of Euclid Avenue running between the University's $4,000,000 Memorial Coliseum and McLean Stadium. The street was officially re-named by the City of Lexington in recognition of the UK athletic teams' unprecedented success of 1950 in annexing the Southeastern Conference titles in both football and basketball and their national championships in the Sugar Bowl grid game and the NCAA cage tournament.

THUMBNAILING THE WILDCATS

(Alphabetically by Positions)

ENDS

BEATTY, Jerry—Junior—Paintsville, Ky.

A good possibility to see extensive relief duty at the weakened flank positions this season . . . He has the size, at 6-1 and 180, to stand the gaff of limited substitution conditions and very likely will develop faster this year than in '53 when inexperience held him back . . . Beatty caught only one pass last season, but turned that into a 25-yard touchdown play . . . Unless he is switched, the Paintsville lad will operate on the right side as understudy to Bradley Mills.

HANLEY, Jack—Senior—Hartford, Conn.

All-State fullback in 1948-49 at Hartford Public High, Hanley is regarded as a "good little man" who gives it all he's got wherever he is assigned . . . Two years ago he was the team's regular linebacker on the defensive platoon . . . The '53 campaign saw him moved to guard in pre-season practice and later on to end in pinch-hitter roles . . . Second smallest flankman on the squad at 5-9 and 180, the two-letter veteran lends valuable grid savvy to the ranks and probably will see considerable action this year.

HENNESSEY, Larry—Senior—Paris, Ky.

Although he is probably the smallest collegiate end in the country, standing only 5-7 and weighing in at 170 dripping wet, the diminutive-but-dangerous Hennessey makes up for what he lacks in size by pure hustle and determination to succeed . . . Witness to the fact that the pint-sized "H bomb" has succeeded is his feat of winning three varsity letters to date and his ranking as a serious contender for a whole lot of action at left end this season . . . Dude, as he is known to teammates, is the "holler boy" of the ball club, inspiring teammates with his enthusiastic chatter, and never shirks the pileups whether it be a close game or just another practice session . . . Hennessey, who hails from Coach Collier's hometown Paris High, was an outstanding all-around schoolboy athlete . . . Besides winning honorable mention All-State honors at quarterback and captaining the grid squad, he played guard on the cage team and the outfield in baseball.

HOLT, Bill—Sophomore—Sturgis, Ky.

Failed to see any appreciable amount of duty as a yearling prospect last season, but this year could be a different story if he continues to develop . . . He has the size (6-2 and 182) to lend valuable relief service in '54 while picking up additional experience . . . The western Kentucky athlete was an honorable mention All-State selection at end in 1952, his last year at Sturgis High.

KASSON, Jack—Junior—Clintonville, Wis.

A junior who failed to make the grade last season in converting from two-platoon play and layed out the year . . . He was All-State in Wisconsin for two years and saw limited reserve action in 1951 as a UK freshman . . . During the '52 campaign, he played relief roles as a defensive flankman . . . Likely to operate in reserve wingman spot this season and it's hoped his maturity will help stabilize the youngsters in the line . . . The personal statistics: 6-1, 180 and 21 years old.

MILLS, Bradley—Junior—Lynch, Ky.

An all-around "spot player" who won his first letter as the team's regular safetyman as a freshman in '52, Mills was shifted to end in pre-season practice last year and later ended up in the backfield again as a relief right halfback . . . He was returned to the wingman position this spring and his outstanding play plus the departure on Army call of his biggest competitor (Al Zampino) has stamped him as the likely right side starter . . . The former All-State end from Lynch high, who posted a creditable 3.6 average on 22 trips with the pigskin last year while sojourning at halfback, has above average speed and satisfactory size (6-0, 185) to become an outstanding flankman . . . Mills is the son of a mine foreman in Kentucky's coal-producing region and is studying to be a dentist.

PACK, Roger—Sophomore—Jenkins, Ky.

Called one of the best prospects among the current crop of soph wingmen, Pack showed much potential in spring drills this season and is being counted upon to provide much-needed reserve depth at the flanks . . . Only lack of experience is expected to hold him back . . . He has the size, at 6-1 and 194, and pass-catching ability to stand him in good stead as a fundamentally sound flankman . . . He was an honorable mention All-State end selection at Jenkins High in 1952.

SCHNELLENBERGER, Howard—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

The headline writer's dilemma who was the team's regular left end as a sophomore standout last year and holds an almost certain edge for starting honors again in '54 . . . He's considered "another Meilinger"—without big Steve's versatility but nearly his equal in potential as an end . . . Howie will rely on good size (6-0, 195), speed, elusiveness and a good pair of hands to prove himself one of the South's top ends and deserving of All-Conference recognition . . . Relegated to the third team in All-State selections while playing his final year at Louisville Flaget High in '51, he has blossomed into a mature and dependable performer in collegiate competition . . . He earned his first varsity "K" as the team's regular defensive end in his freshman campaign and added another last season while adapting to one-platoon conditions . . . Schnellenberger captained both the grid and cage squads in his senior year of high school and was named to the All-National-Catholic schoolboy football team . . . He's majoring in Commerce.

TACKLES

He's known to teammates by the "sissy" nickname of "Tootie," but his performance on the greensward is far from impotent . . . The husky 6-2, 215-pound junior earned his letter last season understudying the left tackle job and he could give plenty of trouble to anyone standing in his way if he hits his stride this year . . . A former All-State third team pick, the Louisville Manual High gridder broke in with the Wildcats as a defensive specialist two seasons ago and adapted satisfactorily to one-platoon play last year . . . He set a state high school record for the discus throw in '51 and works with the UK track team in the off season.

BUTLER, Jack—Sophomore—Tompkinsville, Ky.

Although Butler did not play as a freshman two seasons ago and was held out last year to gain added size and experience, he is regarded as a good varsity prospect and should see considerable reserve duty in '54 . . . He has the physical makeup, standing 6-3 and tipping the scales at 215, to become a good college tackle in time . . . A willing competitor, he was named as an All-Conference tackle while playing for Tompkinsville High.

CURNUTTE, Duke—Junior—Ashland, Ky.

One of the South's best line prospects and a likely top candidate when the honor team pickers began making their selections if he comes through this season as expected . . . The 21-year-old former Ashland High School All-State football star and wrestling standout has the physical makeup (5-10, 190) and experience (starting duty and two letters) to blossom this year into a stellar tackle . . . He earned his first "K" as a defensive guard in his freshman season and started out the '53 campaign as the number two right guard . . . When a lineup shuffle was ordered to bring the Wildcats out of their early-season slump, Curnutte was moved to left tackle and promoted to a starting assignment . . . The gamble paid off, as observers will witness, with Duke sparking new life in the forward wall . . . His real first name is Delmas, but he's called "Duke" by teammates and coaches.

FRANKENBERGER, J. T.—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

A six-foot-three-inch, 220-pound young giant, Frankenberger was tried first at end last season but before the season passed the mid point he was shifted to tackle in an experiment that seemed to show results . . . He lost valuable ground when confined to the University Infirmary for several days during 1953 pre-season practice but picked up well and saw some relief duty later . . . J. T. (the first name is never used) looked very good in spring practice and could be one of the top soph tackles on the team before the season is out . . . Graduate of Louisville Flaget High.

FULMER, Jim—Sophomore—Bellevue, Ky.

The first week of fall practice last year resulted in a knee injury for Fulmer and he was held out for the remainder of the season to assure full recovery from a corrective operation . . . Jim is now considered an excellent prospect with no signs of trouble from the knee and should be in store for extensive reserve action this season . . . He stands an even six feet tall, weighs in stripped at 220 and was a first team All-State tackle selection at Bellevue High.

KIRK, Harry—Senior—Mt. Sterling, Ky. (CO-CAPTAIN)

Co-captain of the '54 Wildcats and slated to hold down the right tackle starting assignment, Kirk is a big and aggressive leader who is unspectacular but dependable in his play wherever he is stationed . . . He was an All-SEC Freshman Team end selection in 1951 and ranked as the number two right end on the offensive platoon in his sophomore campaign two years ago . . . Shifted from end to bolster the tackle corps at the start of fall practice last season, Kirk developed into an outstanding player at the position where he seemed to find himself best suited . . . His play in spring practice this year showed great promise and tabbed him as a repeater for starting duty . . . A three-letter veteran, known to teammates by the nickname of "Pete," Kirk stands 6-4 and weighs 200.

LUTZ, Ken—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

Despite the fact that his size stamps him as a natural football tackle, regular varsity duty just hasn't been in the cards for Lutz so far in his career . . . The 6-4, 225-pound Louisville Manual High athlete saw valuable relief duty as a sophomore last year while picking up experience that likely will help him to be an even better performer this season . . . Coaches feel he has the determination to succeed and should prove helpful in adding much depth to the tackle posts . . . Biggest man on the Wildcat squad, Lutz was an honorable mention All-State selection as a schoolboy.

WHEELER, Bill—Junior—Pikeville, Ky.

A husky competitor whose size (6-4, 205) and fighting heart stood him in good stead as a top reserve last season and pinpointed him as a man to be closely watched in '54 . . . He was a hard-luck standout two seasons ago as a freshman, suffering a broken wrist in the game that marked his first starting assignment . . . If his play meets expectations in '54, the 20-year-old son of a coal mine operator should prove welcome strength to the right tackle spot . . . As an all-around athlete at Pikeville High, he won All-State honors at end on the grid squad, was a second team All-Kentucky choice at center in basketball, and captained the school's teams in both sports his senior year . . . He's studying a pre-medical course.

GUARDS

BENNETT, Bob—Sophomore—Russell, Ky.

A husky 5-10 and 211, Bennett has the size to develop into a good guard . . . With only two lettermen guards on the roster, the coaching staff will be certain to try to bring along fast such sizeable prospects as Bennett for considerable relief duty . . . Although the Russell High star was an honorable mention All-State selection at tackle, he was shifted to guard at UK to make greater use of his natural abilities . . . He has the courage and will to succeed.

GOBLE, John—Sophomore—Prestonsburg, Ky.

Inexperienced, but should be ready to lend material aid to the Wildcat cause this season in relief role at position suffering from lack of adequate depth . . . Goble's development into a dependable performer, as expected in time, would prove a pleasant and helpful surprise . . . He has the physical attributes (standing 6-1 and weighing 193) to stand him in good stead in his bid to see action . . . He was a teammate of Wildcat quarterback Delmar Hughes at Prestonsburg High in Kentucky's Big Sandy region.

KOCH, Joe—Senior—Louisville, Ky. (CO-CAPTAIN)

Co-Captain and "mighty mite" of the 1954 Wildcats, Koch is one of football's unique tough little guys who has grown up under fire despite the handicap of a lack of what is generally considered adequate size for collegiate grid linemen . . . "Cookie," as he is affectionately known among his teammates, stands only five-foot-nine and tips the scales around 185 but makes up for his deficiency in size with a fighting heart and determined effort that amazes friend and foe alike . . . He surprised the experts by "cutting his teeth" on bigger men when he became a defensive starter as a soph two years ago and adapted to double duty last season without trouble . . . Slated to hold down right guard spot this season . . . Koch's hustle and spirit captured the attention of former UK Coach Bryant while he was still a freshman and led to a prediction that the Louisville St. Xavier High product would develop into a fine player despite his slight stature.

LOWRY, Neil—Senior—Youngstown, Ohio

Hard-working understudy to the graduated All-American guard Ray Correll, Lowry is the probable choice to take over the left side assignment this season . . . He's a high school tackle switched to guard as a collegian and held out one season (1951) to allow him to gain additional size and grid savvy . . . Lowry was a defensive regular in '52, but lost out in the shuffle last season of conversion to single platoon operations although he did see extensive and valuable reserve service . . . An All-City tackle while attending Youngstown Ursuline, the 6-0, 190-pound Lowry has earned two letters at UK . . . He has paid the price to get another starting nod and his experience plus a calm nature should influence younger linemen favorably.

PHILPOT, O. E.—Junior—Lebanon, Tenn.

Injuries have handicapped Philpot for the past two seasons in his bid to blossom into the standout performer he was expected to be . . . An All-Mid-South selection in '51 as a center, guard and linebacker with Lebanon High in Tennessee, he was used sparingly as a defensive center-linebacker at Kentucky in his freshman season and failed to see enough action at center last year to earn a letter . . . He was transferred to guard in spring practice this season to bolster the position and it's expected that he will see more duty . . . Known to his teammates only by the initials O. E., Philpot was coached in high school by former UK assistant Joe Atkinson . . . He stands 6-2 and weighs 206.

ROUSE, Gayle—Junior—Burlington, Ky.

A hard, conscientious worker on the football field, Rouse is expected to play more this year after a season's experience at the position . . . Saw reserve action at defensive right end as a yearling in '52 and then shifted to guard at beginning of last season to bolster a weak spot and find duty more suitable to his capabilities . . . He lacks the size that might be desired in guards, standing only 5-11 and weighing 185, but this should not prove too much of a handicap if he proves himself sufficiently recovered from a spring knee injury.

SCHAEFER, Bob—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Inexperienced but willing, Schaefer has the competitive spirit and the necessary desire to develop into a big help at a weak position . . . The former Louisville St. Xavier youth also has the better than average size, at 6-1 and 195, to help him become a top lineman . . . He seems sure to be used to some extent in relief roles this year if he continues the progress shown in spring practice.

STUART, Joe—Sophomore—Horse Cave, Ky.

A schoolboy halfback who made the All-Conference team for two straight years while a six-man football luminary at Caverna High, Stuart was first tried at center after enrolling at UK two years ago . . . Shifted later to guard to make fuller use of his natural abilities and size, but failed to click as a yearling and laid out all last season due to an injury . . . Looked good in spring practice this year and only lack of game action experience will hold him back . . . He's 6-0 and 190.

WALTON, Stan—Sophomore—Lexington, Ky.

One of a pair of Lexington-born boys on the squad, Walton attended Lafayette High school and played under Coach Bill Shaffnit, ex-UK center . . . An honorable mention All-State selection at guard in 1952, Walton did not see sufficient duty as a Kentucky freshman last season to letter . . . Lack of experience will hold him back, but it's expected he will get in more reserve action this year . . . Tipping the scales at an even 200, he stands 5-9.

CENTERS

KIEFER, Steve—Sophomore—Bellevue, Ky.

Regarded as a good prospect who stands out in practice with a willingness to work hard that catches the eye of coaches, Kiefer should see considerable relief duty this season despite the fact that he ranks number three behind Dave Kuhn and Leo Strange . . . Observers foresee he will develop into a good performer with additional seasoning . . . Has the size at 6-0, 200 to help his bid.

KUHN, Dave—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

One of the team's best sophomores who stands a very good chance of holding down the starting job at center this season after displaying great promise in his yearling campaign last year . . . At 6-1 and 215 pounds, the former Louisville Male High two-time All-State star is the biggest of the center prospects and shows a quickness and agility that will aid him in making the most effective use of his size . . . In high school, Kuhn was regarded as the best defensive player in the state and the best center at Male in a decade . . . He also participated in basketball, track and baseball as a regular . . . He is a brother to Charley Kuhn, a UK gridder in the early forties.

MULLINS, John—Sophomore—McRoberts, Ky.

An honorable mention All-State selection at center two years ago, the Big Sandy region gridder did not earn a letter last season but gave every indication he will be pressing his competition hard this year . . . Despite inexperience and the fact that he is the smallest of the center candidates, Mullins should see some action in a reserve role in '54 while picking up that extra grid knowledge . . . He is 6-0 and 186.

STRANGE, Leo—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

A junior who earned the first of his two letters as a yearling on the strength of good defensive work at a linebacker post and picked up the second "K" for relief duty last year . . . Leo has been tabbed as the chief replacement for the man he served as understudy to in '53, Co-Captain Tommy Adkins, but competition seems destined to either make him a much better man or relegate him to a sub role . . . The battle with fellow Louisvillian Dave Kuhn for the starting job should be interesting and provide the team with much-needed strength up the middle . . . Leo is a graduate of DuPont Manual High, stands an even six-feet tall and weighs in the neighborhood of 214 pounds when at playing trim.

WAITE, Dale—Sophomore—Ludlow, Ky.

The Northern Kentucky prospect is fast bidding to become one of the team's most versatile players . . . An honorable mention All-State selection at tackle while playing for Ludlow High two years ago, he was tried at end after he enrolled at Kentucky last season and then was shifted to center this spring to make better use of his abilities . . . He's 6-1 and 188.

QUARTERBACKS

CURRY, Jess—Sophomore—Portsmouth, Va.

An untested newcomer who will try his hand at the collegiate grid sport for the first time this fall . . . Curry was an outstanding four-sport star at Woodrow Wilson High in Portsmouth where he earned All-Virginia honors both as a football quarterback and a basketball forward, ranked as the state's top scholastic 440-yard dash man in track and was a pitcher-third baseman on the baseball squad . . . He entered UK in '52 on a basketball scholarship, but quit the team this year to devote full time to track and became the cindermen's leading point producer . . . The versatile Curry also tried his hand as a pitcher on the Wildcat baseball aggregation . . . It's possible the 5-11, 170-pound soph (a junior in school) may also see action at halfback as the grid coaches attempt to make use of his superb speed.

GILLIAM, Joe—Junior—Lexington, Ky.

Although born in Lexington, Gilliam prepped at Columbia Military Academy in Tennessee where he was an All-Mid-South quarterback selection . . . Did not see action last year, but expected to be called upon for some relief duty this season if he proves himself ready . . . He's studying to be an engineer and stacks up at 5-11, 170.

HARDY, Bob—Junior—Paducah, Ky.

The "darkhorse" sensation of the South last year, Hardy came out of nowhere in the third week of the season to lead the Wildcats undefeated through their last eight encounters . . . A two-time All-State selection at Paducah High, Hardy was hardly impressive as a freshman understudy to the famed UK quarterback Babe Parilli in 1951 and was held out of competition in '52 to give him a chance to develop physically and pick up added grid savvy . . . Overlooked in the seeming wealth of quarterback candidates at the start of the 1953 campaign, he almost never got the chance to be the star that contributed greatly to Kentucky's season-end reputation as "the best team outside of a bowl" . . . After the Cats had dropped their first two games last season, the quarterback problem reared its ugly head and, as a last ditch gamble, Hardy was given another chance . . . Making his first varsity start, the "Duke of Paducah" made the gamble pay off as he engineered UK's Split-T machinery to a victory over Florida which set off one of the greatest team comebacks seen in the South in more than a decade . . . He was accorded the accolade of "Player of the Week" in the SEC, an honor rarely bestowed on an unknown soph making his varsity debut . . . Hardy goes into the '54 season boasting the unique distinction of never having played in a losing contest as a Wildcat—as a freshman in '51, he was in only two games (both UK wins) and only a tie marred the otherwise perfect record during his '53 appearances . . . Due to an injury that sidelined him through the latter stages of spring practice this year and caused him to miss the annual Blue-White intra-squad game, observers haven't had a chance to assess any further improvement but feel confident his play will make him a strong candidate for sectional and national honors this fall.

Hardy's record as a Wildcat:

	Att.	Comp.	Pct.	Had Int.	Yds. Gain	TD Passes	Times Carried	Yds. Gain	TD's
1951 .....	12	4	33.3	0	45	0	3	-15	1
1933 .....	47	24	51.0	3	418	5	82	155	5
Totals .....	59	28	47.4	3	463	5	85	140	6

HUGHES, Delmar—Sophomore—Prestonsburg, Ky.

A proud sophomore who showed up very well in early season play last year—so well, in fact, that it was he who was tabbed for assignment of bringing the Wildcats out of their two-game slump at season's start but was beaten out for the starting role by Hardy . . . While he is far from polished and lacks extensive game experience, Delmar reminds many observers of former UK All-America passer Babe Parilli in his mannerisms . . . Came to the Wildcats with a great high school reputation as one of the best passers ever seen in the state . . . He rewrote the record books at Prestonsburg High as he completed 271 aerials in 397 attempts over a three-year span for a total of 3,401 yards . . . Delmar passed for 51 touchdowns and managed to score 25 himself . . . In addition, he kicked 67 extra points to give him a three-year point production record of 217 . . . As a yearling Wildcat last season, Hughes completed five out of 11 tosses for 38 yards and added four extra points in eight tries . . . The 6-0, 184-pound promising soph, who was a two-time All-State selection and a schoolboy All-America nominee, also saw action with the UK freshman basketball team in 1953-54.

MYERS, Neville—Sophomore—Harlan, Ky.

The blonde-thatched signal caller was not used in a single game last season, but his willingness to practice and learn showed up in this year's spring practice game when he stood out in a substitute role as much improved . . . Only the lack of superior natural ability and game experience will hold him back in '54 . . . An honorable mention All-State selection while at Harlan High, he is 5-9 and 155.

RUSHING, Dick—Senior—Camden, Ark.

A senior "jack of all trades," who has played every position in the backfield, Dick proved one of the pleasant surprises of this spring's Blue-White intra-squad tilt as he impressively quarterbacked his White team to a hard-fought victory . . . Whether he can reach the same heights this fall remains a discouraging mystery since he suffered a shoulder separation in the contest that could easily handicap his passing ability in particular . . . He seems almost fully recovered and coaches are counting on Rushing's great desire to make him a threat even if he has to be moved back to halfback or fullback . . . Dick, an All-Arkansas and honorable mention All-America nominee at Camden High, was a sensation in the two-platoon days of 1952 when he was one of the Wildcats' "Four Little Burglars"—nickname given to a quartet of soph pass defenders . . . He's 5-11, 182 and has won two letters.

HALFBACKS

BROWN, Locky—Junior—Beverley Hills, Calif.

One of the first-out-of-state scholarship recipients under the Kentucky-first recruiting policy installed by former UK Coach Paul Bryant in '52, Brown has yet to see extensive varsity action . . . He showed up well in spring practice, as he did the year before, and is almost certain to be used extensively in relief action this year if he continues to improve . . . Only lack of game experience and size (he's 6-1, 175) could prevent the likeable Locky from hitting his stride . . . He is the son of Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama All-American and now a TV-movie favorite in westerns . . . Locky transferred to UK after a year at Menlo (Calif.) Junior College.

CURNUTTE, Ivan—Sophomore—Ashland, Ky.

Little brother to Duke Curnutte, Wildcat tackle standout, Ivan is probably the smallest collegiate halfback in the country at a strapping 5-5 and 154 pounds . . . He's a tough little hombre, however, who makes up for a lack of size with a fighting heart and never say die attitude that impresses coaches and fans, alike . . . Curnutte played three seasons at halfback with Ashland High and earned honorable mention All-America honors . . . He captured the attention of UK scouts in the East-West All-Star Game last year when he outshone bigger, more-publicized stars and, in his initial varsity action with the Wildcats last year (Villanova game), scored a touchdown the first time he had his hands on the ball in a college game . . . "Ivan the Terrible" will have to be reckoned with seriously in '54.

FREEMAN, Jack—Sophomore—Danville, Ky.

A highly-regarded scatback who failed to see varsity action as a Kentucky yearling last season but is being counted upon for help in a relief role this season . . . The Central Kentucky product from Danville played six years of track, five seasons of football and two basketball campaigns as a schoolboy, attaining All-State selection in the grid sport as a back . . . He's a pre-medical student and checks in at 5-11, 158.

HARRINGTON, Roger—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Held out in '52 and out of action last season due to a knee injury suffered in fall practice, Harrington is something of an unknown quantity but seems to possess exceptional speed and promises to be a hard runner as well . . . He should help considerably in spot reserve duty this season if he hits his stride . . . Graduate of DuPont Manual High in Louisville, where he played both halfback and fullback . . . He is 5-9, 166 and 21 years old . . . Majoring in Geology.

LEWIS, Rick—Sophomore—Greenwich, Conn.

Failed to see much action last season, but rated a good prospect for considerable reserve duty this year . . . Rick was a high school track stand-out, as well as a grid star, and can really ramble once he gets his 5-11, 169-pound frame moving . . . He is tabbed for action at right half and could help provide much-needed depth at the sideback posts . . . While playing four years as a halfback at Greenwich High, Lewis was named All-City twice and in his senior campaign was an honorable mention on the All-Metropolitan (New York) team.

MITCHELL, Billy—Sophomore—Georgetown, Ky.

Coaches and sideline observers, alike, predict great things for the lanky product of nearby Georgetown Garth High school . . . Although he did not see much action during the 1953 season, Billy showed promise and looked much improved this spring . . . He should be ready to step in as the number two left half behind namesake Dick Mitchell (no relation) in the race to see who will replace the graduated All-American Steve Meilinger . . . A quarterback for four years under the coaching of Tom Green at Georgetown, Billy made third team All-State and was an honorable mention All-America selection in his final season as a schoolboy ('52) . . . He also was a standout in basketball, being named All-State two successive years ('52-53), and played the sport with the UK freshman team last season.

MITCHELL, Dick—Senior—Somerset, Ky.

Probable star of Kentucky's "pony-size" 1954 backfield and number one candidate for the job as successor to graduated All-American Steve Meilinger at left half, Mitchell is terrifically quick on the get-away and is very elusive in open field with above average speed . . . Seems to possess all the qualifications desirable in a good back, except size—he stands only 5-8 and weighs in at only 159 . . . At that size, he must depend on speed and elusiveness for he's not going to scare many opposing linemen . . . On the other hand, they may not get a good look at him as he is especially adept at slipping through holes in the defensive wall with hydramatic ease . . . The classy, former Somerset High two-time All-State back ('48-49) was held out in '51 and his play reflects the benefit of this additional seasoning . . . He did not see much action last season, serving as understudy to the fabulous Meilinger, but got in the game when the versatile Steve moved somewhere else and he also alternated some on the right side . . . His best effort was in the punt and kickoff return departments—a 12.6 average on punt returns and 26.5 on kickoff runbacks (3).

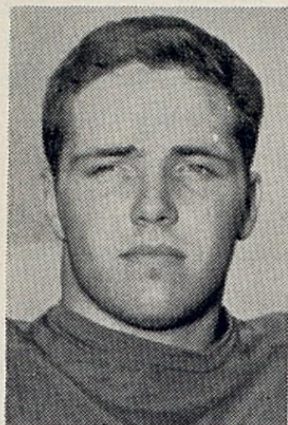

Mitchell's record at Kentucky:

	RUSHING					MISCELLANEOUS
	No. Rushes	Yds. Gain	TD's	KO Rets.	Yds.	Punt Rets.	Yds.	Passes Caught	Yds.	TD's
1952 .....	33	112	0	4	100	14	156	3	39	0
1953 .....	17	48	0	3	80	6	76	3	34	1
Totals	50	160	0	7	180	20	232	6	73	1

MOLONEY, Dick—Junior—Covington, Ky.

A top prospect for the starting assignment at right half as running mate to Dick Mitchell . . . Moloney made the conversion from defensive specialist to double-duty with surprising ease last season and was a starter at right half in some games during 1953 . . . His hustle and determination to play plus the fact that he hits much harder than his size (5-11, 175) would indicate have established the former Dixie Heights High star as a tough man to beat . . . He's best classed as one of football's "blood and guts" guys who make up for lack of size and superior native ability by old-fashioned, driving desire . . . Dick also played some fullback in relief roles last year, but seems more at home in a halfback spot . . . Moloney lost his starting assignment after the first few games last year when unheralded senior Joe Platt suddenly came through (as attested by a final 8.3 yards per try rushing average), but with Platt gone and his own play much improved he appeared tops among the right halfbacks in spring practice . . . The Covington youth captained both the football and basketball squads at Dixie Heights in his senior year and won an honorable mention spot on the All-State grid squad . . . He scratched in several departments of play as a soph last season, with his best effort a 31-yard average on four punts . . . Carried the ball 12 times for 35 yards, but has yet to score his first TD as a collegian.

NETOSKIE, Don—Sophomore—Martinsburg, W. Va.

A sophomore who showed exceptional promise during his yearling campaign and in spring practice workouts this season . . . He could give Moloney stiff competition for the right halfback job and should provide welcome depth as a relief man barring success in winning a starting berth . . . Started out the '53 season as a candidate for fullback duty, but switched to halfback in order to make more effective use of his ability . . . He made a creditable showing while carrying the ball, picking up 28 yards and one touchdown during eight jaunts from scrimmage . . . His lone punt of the season travelled a better-than-average 34 yards . . . Although not a sizeable back, Netoskie uses his 5-10 height and 175 pounds with good effectiveness and doesn't shy from contact . . . An All-State performer as a halfback at Martinsburg High, he is a brother to ex-UK end John Netoskie (1948-51) who will be remembered for his 80-yard touchdown runback of an interception in the '49 Miami game that clinched a bid to the Orange Bowl.

PLAU, Jerre—Sophomore—Henderson, Ky.

Failed to see action as a freshman last season, but he looked good this spring and seems almost certain to be called on for vital reserve duty at left half this year . . . Fair speed, good footwork and a fighting heart will stand him in good stead and only the absence of game experience in his background can be expected to hold him back to any extent . . . Played halfback for four years at Barrett High in Henderson and was an honorable mention All-State selection . . . Also was a dash man on the track team.

FULLBACKS

BREWER, Don—Junior—Ashland, Ky.

It's been quite a while since Brewer last saw action under competitive conditions, but he looked potentially good during his absence from competition last season and in spring drills this year . . . Has the size (6-0, 175) to get the job done and if he could suddenly find himself, the surprise would be a pleasant solution to Coach Collier's fullback worries . . . Don played three years of football at Ashland (1946-48) and attended North Carolina State the next season before seeing three years of Army duty with the First Infantry Division in Europe . . . Returning from service, he transferred to Kentucky and layed out the necessary transfer season last year . . . He was an honorable mention All-State back at Ashland High.

CALLAHAN, Ray—Junior—Lebanon, Ky.

A sure-fire competitor who could provide much needed reserve strength at the weak fullback position if he comes through this year . . . He's one of only two fullback candidates who have any experience under game conditions at the post . . . A high school halfback at Lebanon and honorable mention All-State for two years, he was switched to fullback at Kentucky and has improved steadily despite a lack of what is considered average size for players operating at this spot in the backfield . . . Ray is only 5-11 and 185 . . . A linebacker on the defensive platoon two years ago, he made the conversion to two-way play a smooth one last season and ranked right behind starter Ralph Paolone in the fullback picture at the end of the campaign . . . He had a creditable 4.7 rushing average on eight trips with the pigskin in '53.

DOUGHERTY, Bob—Junior—Bellevue, Ky.

Ineligible this season under the rule requiring a year's sojourn on the bench after transferring from another school . . . In Dougherty's case, the other institution was University of Cincinnati where he played one year (1951) before entering the service . . . He elected to transfer to Kentucky shortly after returning from 14 months with the Marines in Korea . . . At a husky six-foot and 220 pounds, with speed and bruising power to match, he would be the answer to the Wildcats' fullback problem this year but under NCAA rules will not be eligible to play until 1955 . . . Meanwhile, he is being groomed for the eventual stardom predicted on the basis of his outstanding record . . . Three years All-State fullback at Bellevue High, Dougherty set three school records at Cincinnati by plunging for 10 touchdowns, receiving another through the air and scoring a total of 66 points in a single season . . . The Los Angeles Rams picked him in the National Football League draft last January since his original class was to graduate in June . . . Dougherty, who is married and the father of two children, will pass up the pro game for the present, however, in order to complete his education at UK.

GIBSON, Jim—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Virtually untested during his yearling campaign as a Wildcat, Gibson nevertheless ranks high in the confused fullback picture . . . He is one of a promising pair of sophs at the position who are sure to be heard from before the season is too old . . . An intelligent youngster on the football field and off, the former Louisville Manual High standout played end, fullback and quarterback as a schoolboy and was honored by selection on the All-City team and honorable mention All-State in 1952 . . . He's studying engineering with the thought of passing up possible pro offers or coaching . . . Gibson stands 5-11 and weighs 183.

HOOPER, Hayden—Junior—Rockmart, Ga.

The probable number one choice for the starting assignment at fullback despite the fact that he missed action all last season due to a broken leg suffered just before the campaign opened . . . Hooper is the smallest candidate of the lot in the fullback ranks, tipping the scales at only 168 when wringing wet and standing about 5-9 in his stocking feet, but has the most gridiron savvy and qualifies with a lot of ability as well . . . At the time he was hurt last year, he was considered the second string fullback and was figuring prominently in plans for the team . . . He was rapidly developing into a good offensive player and surprisingly (because of his size) had few peers among teammates as a linebacker—in fact, it was the sudden shift of Hooper to linebacking duty in the Tennessee game two years ago that played a great part in Kentucky's surprise tie of the Vols . . .

He came to the Wildcats virtually unsung from Rockmart High, but soon proved himself a coach's ballplayer—one who likes to play football, gives it all he's got all the time and displays courage far beyond the call of duty . . . He's a driving, twisting, elusive runner who's hard to bring down past the line of scrimmage . . . Most observers are confident that Hooper will come back better than ever this year.

PHILLIPS, Bob—Junior—Pikeville, Ky.

Willing and able, but yet to hit his expected stride, Phillips was transferred from halfback to fullback in spring practice in a move designed to make better use of his particular abilities and to bolster the weak fullback position . . . He was held out of competition in '52 to gain additional size and seasoning . . . Last season, as a third-year soph, he showed possibilities of developing into a reliable back and should continue the improvement with considerable relief work during the present season . . . "Hooker," as he is known to teammates, was an All-Conference and honorable mention All-State selection at Pikeville High for two years and also won All-State honors in basketball . . . On four carries last season, he picked up 25 yards for a respectable 6.2 average in the rushing department . . . He stands 5-11, weighs 185.

WALKER, Bobby—Sophomore—Middlesboro, Ky.

A highly-promising second-year performer who has shown signs of becoming a big help in the fullback picture before too long . . . Although he did not see much game action as a freshman last season, Walker looked improved in spring practice and should make his presence felt in a high-level reserve role during 1954 . . . With extraordinary effort, he might even be the "darkhorse" on this year's squad . . . He came to UK ranked as one of the top schoolboy fullbacks in many years . . . Walker's sensational running led Middlesboro High to a perfect season two years ago and earned him personal honors as an All-State first team selection . . . He tallied 72 points as a junior and racked up 114 points in his final campaign, averaging 9.3 yards every time he carried the ball and gaining a net total of 1,065 yards . . . A powerful and speedy runner, Walker is 5-10, 180.

WILLIAMS, Ken—Junior—Lebanon, Tenn.

A sturdy, dependable junior who has spent his collegiate career alternating between fullback and center in a "utility" role and doing a creditable job wherever placed . . . Switched from fullback to center in pre-season practice last year, Williams operated as number three man at this position but a shortage of fullbacks caused his transfer back to his former spot this spring and he seems sure to be high in contention for considerable duty—possibly even a starter . . . He has the size (6-1, 180) to stand him in good stead and appears certain to be a dangerous runner if he picks up getaway speed . . . Last year was his first varsity campaign as a Wildcat . . . Transferred from Middle Tennessee State College and layed out the required year in 1952.

Series History and Information

Kentucky and Maryland have squared off on the gridiron only once before, battling to a 6-6 deadlock in a 1931 match staged at College Park, and the visit of the powerful Terps to Lexington will mark a resumption of the rivalry on a two-game basis. The Wildcats are carded for a return visit to College Park in 1956. Graduation supposedly riddled the ranks of last season's undefeated (prior to Orange Bowl loss to Oklahoma) National Champions, but Coach Tatum still has plentiful, experienced material that is tabbed by the experts as capable of adequately making up for the loss of the first string backfield and three other starters. Talk of the town among the holdovers is big Dick Bielski, battering ram fullback, and brilliant line-backer, Co-Captain John Irvine. At the vital quarterback slot, vacated by All-America Bernie Faloney, it looks like a dead heat between Charley Boxold and Lynn Beightol. The experts also give out with the prediction that if the Terps can get by Kentucky and UCLA, they may go all the way again. All told, it shapes up as the biggest opening game test in Wildcat history.

Series History and Information

One of the youngest football series among Southeastern Conference foes, the Kentucky-Louisiana State rivalry was not begun until 1949 and only four meetings have been recorded. UK holds the edge with two shut-outs opening up the series. The Tigers had a win in '52 and last year's meeting resulted in a 6-6 tie that will be remembered as producing one of the sidelight oddities of the year. UK's Coach Bryant thought LSU had won seven to six and did not learn differently until more than an hour after the game ended. The Bayou Bengals' prospects for '54 closely parallel those of the Wildcats—both face very difficult schedules with lineups riddled by graduation losses. However, LSU has some excellent personnel like Sid Fournet, called the best tackle in America, and veteran quarterback Al Doggett. If they thrive on tough competition, the Tigers may break into the SEC's first division.

Series History and Information

The football rivalry between former Southeastern Conference doormats Kentucky and Auburn resumes this season after nearly a 20-year interruption with both now very much in the championship picture. Since the Plainsmen and Wildcats each own one of the victories in their only previous meetings, back in 1934-35, the contest this year will have the added flavor of being something of a "rubber" game in addition to deciding which of the pair stands a chance of breaking into the top division in final SEC standings. Auburn is openly pointing for at least third place with a young, hungry team that could surprise if they can find a few more hands like top-notch end Jim Pyburn and ace tackle Frank D'Agostino. Coach Jordan, for one, is surprisingly optimistic over his team's strength and chances and that could be a bad omen for opponents.

Series History and Information

Last season's meeting with the Gators from the Sunshine State was the 13th (and supposedly unlucky) in a rivalry dating back to World War I days. Far from succumbing to superstition, the Wildcats pulled one of the luckiest tricks of the year by using the Florida game as the jumping off point for an eight-game lucky streak. Having lost their first two starts, Kentucky bounced back to win from the favored Gators and continued the luck through the rest of the schedule, marred only by a tie with LSU, to rank at season's end as the SEC's best team in the minds of a lot of folks. Coach Collier's youngsters are hoping for similar good fortune this season, but the Florida folks look to be pretty dangerous if they find some help in a forward wall cut up by graduation losses. There's plenty of grid savvy at end and center plus some hustling, capable backs who could give Florida a better than average club.

Series History and Information

The long-standing rivalry with Georgia Tech, one of the nation's foremost grid powers, dates back to 1923. Seven wins in the series belong to the Ramblin' Wreck while the Bluegrass eleven has picked up five victories and one game (the first, in 1923) resulted in a 3-3 tie. The Wildcats lost the last time that the two southern rivals met at Lexington in 1951, but scored one of its most important successes the year before at Atlanta. The convincing 28-14 win proved an important stepping stone to Kentucky's first conference championship and a bid to the Sugar Bowl. This season's edition of the Yellow Jackets figures to be one of the country's best. Fifteen lettermen will be missing from their Sugar Bowl championship crew of the past campaign but there seems no end of talent in sight (witness All-America center Larry Morris) and Coach Dodd should be able to engineer his men into the SEC title spot without great difficulty.

Series History and Information

Football rivalry between the two Wildcat teams dates from their clash in the Great Lakes Bowl at Cleveland in 1947. Kentucky annexed that game, their first post-season venture, and have demonstrated overwhelming superiority in regular season contests held annually (except for 1949) since that time. The tally shows only one win for the Phily Cats, that in the opening game of 1952, but the Main Liners are always sizeable and dangerous. All-America halfback Gene Filipski is gone and prior to the departure of Art Raimo and the arrival on the scene of new head coach Frank Reagan during the summer, Villanova had reported plans to switch to the Split T formation this year. This, plus the presence of a sophomore-studded squad that plays all but one game on the road, paints a confusing picture for '54 and observers are cautiously watching the experiment for signs of growing pains.

Series History and Information

Gridiron relations between the Wildcats and the Commodores started 58 years ago and the rivalry has been perpetuated intermittently ever since that initial meeting in Nashville on Oct. 10, 1896. The series, resumed last year after a four-year lapse, stands solidly favorable to Vandy with the Tennesseans on the top side at the end in 21 of the 27 contests argued to date. An indication of the Commodores' supremacy in days gone by is the fact that they registered no less than 12 shutouts in the first 26 years of the rivalry and UK did not manage to get into the win column until 1939. As for strength in '54, Vandy bemoans the loss of highly-touted quarterback-fullback Bill Krietemeyer to the Army but did not suffer greatly by graduation.

Series History and Information

Kentucky and Memphis State clashed on the gridiron for the first time last season in what was carded as a pre-Tennessee warmup, but somewhere along the line the Tigers forgot to act like they were awed at the sight of Wildcats. The result was that Memphis State's well-learned single wing tactics thoroughly confused Kentucky before succumbing 20 to 7. Many observers ventured the opinion that the difficulty encountered by the Wildcats in dealing with the single wing of the "little Tennessee" team aided materially in getting U.K. ready for their major encounter with the Vols a week later. Last season the Tigers compiled a creditable 6-4 record, including a win over Mississippi Southern which had previously stunned Alabama. This year's Tiger team looks to be about the same calibre as the '53 club with a high-spirited group making up for lack of individual excellence and overall depth.

Series History and Information

One of the oldest and most hotly-contested grid rivalries in the South, the Kentucky-Tennessee series dates from a memorable encounter in Knoxville on Oct. 21, 1893. Significantly, the visiting Kentuckians thoroughly thrashed the Tennessee team by the score of 60-0 to get the football warfare off to an auspicious start. The margin of victory has never been equalled in the 48 games played during the 60 years following that inaugural meeting. The Wildcats and Volunteers have clashed annually on the gridiron since 1906, except for three war years (1917-18 and 1943). Tennessee has the advantage in the series, having won 29 of the contests while UK has been victorious in only 12 and eight tie games have resulted—the last a 14-14 deadlock two seasons ago.

Since 1925, the two educational institutions have stimulated their friendly rivalry on the football field to greater heights by awarding a traditional trophy to rotate with the victor as a means of denoting grid supremacy between them. The battered trophy, donated originally by a group of UK alumni and officially described as the "Old Beer Keg," was held continuously by the Vols from 1936 until last year when the Wildcats overcame the long-standing "jinx" to win possession by a 27-21 score. An interesting anecdote came about a few days later when disgruntled Tennessee students "kegnaped" the barrel and held it in a secret hiding place on the UT campus until persuaded to return it by threats of reprisal against their coon dog mascot by UK students.

Coach Robinson starts his second campaign at the helm of Tennessee in '54 bemoaning the fact that the presence of only 19 lettermen, including but eight seniors, forms the most inexperienced Vol unit in recent history. But those Tennessee backs are dangerously experienced and will have to be reckoned with carefully. The Birmingham News poll picked the Vols to finish right behind the top four (Ga. Tech, Alabama, Mississippi and Auburn), but a lot of folks figure them better—particularly by the time they meet UK in late season with ideas of revenge uppermost in mind.

The University of Kentucky

Located in Lexington, an urban community of 100,000 population, UK is a state supported institution which operates under the direction of the Board of Trustees. Membership of this Board includes the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Commissioner of Agriculture, ex officio, and twelve members appointed by the Governor, three of whom are alumni of the University and three members of the State Board of Agriculture. It is one of a number of institutions known as land-grant colleges, which were established by the Morrill Act of 1862, and which will continue to receive federal assistance under the provisions.

The University is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities, and is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It is accredited in its respective colleges or departments by the Association of American Law Schools, the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, the American Library Association, the National Association of Schools of Music, and the Engineers' Council for Professional Development.

The major function of the University is that of instruction. For the performance of this function it is organized into the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, the College of Engineering, the College of Law, the College of Education, the College of Commerce, the Graduate School, a College of Pharmacy, located at Louisville, and a Northern Kentucky Extension Center at Covington.

The University began as a part of Kentucky University under a cooperative plan authorized by the legislature in 1865. The purpose of this plan was to unite sectarian and public education under one organization. This experiment was tried for a number of years. In the meantime, the Federal funds authorized under the Morrill Act were used to develop agriculture and mechanical arts in Kentucky University. In 1878, when the people of Kentucky decided to establish a state institution of higher learning, the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts was separated from Kentucky University and reestablished on land given by the City of Lexington and the County of Fayette. Thirty years later the legislature changed the name of the institution to the State University of Kentucky, and gave it additional financial support. In 1916 the name was again changed, this time to the present title.

STOLL FIELD 'COW PASTURE' BIRTHPLACE OF DIXIE GRID SPORT

University of Kentucky's campus boasts the distinction of serving as the birth-place of Dixie football. Ironically, however, the forerunners of the present day Wildcats were not involved in the early grid contest.

The first inter-collegiate football game ever played in the South, and probably the first to take place west of the Alleghanies, came about April 9, 1880, on old Stoll Field. This gridiron, located adjacent to the present U.K. stadium and now used as a practice lot, was the site of the early tilt that saw Kentucky University (now known as Transylvania College) take the measure of Centre College, 13¾ to 0. The match, which was said to resemble a combination of soccer and rugby, followed by only six years the introduction of the game of football to the United States.

University of Kentucky (then called A & M College of Kentucky) did not play its first game until a year later on the same field, which once served as the private pasture for University President James Patterson's bovine herd.

Footnote A — Although numerical scoring had not yet been introduced in Rugby football, either here or in Great Britain, when Kentucky and Transylvania (then known as Kentucky University) played their series in 1881, persons in charge of the games obviously had arrived at some sort of agreement assigning numerical values to the various scoring plays. Records never existed and men who played in the games are scattered or dead. All we can do is accept the scores printed in the newspapers — and surmise that a touchdown perhaps counted  $\frac{1}{4}$  point and that a goal or an end-kick (a punt into the modern end zone) counted 1. That seems logical, since in the ratio scoring of that day, a touchdown was worth one-quarter of a goal. The end-kick, a British heritage, undoubtedly was introduced because all realized that green players would score few goals, if any.

Footnote B — The football rules took no official position on the score of a forfeited game until 1908 when it was pegged at 1-0 to make it different from any other score possible in the game. By common consent, forfeited games prior to that were entered into the records as victories by 6-0 for the offended team — everywhere, that is, except in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, predecessor of the Southern Conference and the Southeastern Conference. In the S. I. A. A. the 6-0 practice was followed unless the offended team had a greater number of points. In that case, the offended team won by the greater score to nothing. Thus, Kentucky's forfeiture to Central University in 1900 is 6-0, since Kentucky led by 11-0 at the time. Kentucky led Cumberland by 12-11 in 1905 when the Tennesseans forfeited. The Blue and White, under S. I. A. A. rules, gets credit for a 12-0 victory.
