2,000 EXPECTED AT ANNUAL FARM, HOME ASSEMBLY

Convention To Begin January 26 at Experiment Station Farm

PROGRAM INCLUDES SPEECHES, BANQUET

Agriculture and Economic Problems Will Be Discussed

More than 2,000 farmers, home demonstration and county agents, and other persons interested in agriculture are expected to attend the 20th annual Farm and Home convention to be held January 26 to 29 on the Experiment Station farm.

All subjects that pertain to the farmer and his home will be discussed by prominent speakers of Kentucky and elsewhere.

Some of the subjects to be discussed include the tobacco situation, soil improvement, economic production, cattle, sheep, and hog production, drying, fruit growing, and utilization, and child rearing.

Speakers on the opening day will include Pres. Frank L. McVey, Grace E. Frysinger, and O. E. Baker, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington; Harry Purcell, College of Agriculture; Jess Rowe, St. Paul, Minnesota; and Clara Ingram Judson, Evansville, Illinois.

Speakers on the opening day will include Pres. Frank L. McVey, Grace E. Frysinger, and O. E. Baker, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington; Harry Purcell, College of Agriculture; Jess Rowe, St. Paul, Minnesota; and Clara Ingram Judson, Evansville, Illinois.

A special session for dairymen also will be held Wednesday, O. E. Reed, L. R. Jones, and Fordyce Ely, College of Agriculture, will be the principal speakers.

The outstanding feature of Thursday's program will be the get-together banquet which will be held at the Lafayette hotel. The general routine of the meetings to be held throughout the days will be directed by speakers. The Hon. R. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of Agriculture, Washington, and Carl C. Taylor, North Carolina State College, Raleigh, North Carolina, and Clara Judson, women's session.

A special session for beekeepers will be held Friday. Speakers at the meeting will be James H. Hambleton, United States Department of Agriculture, and O. W. Burs, president, Memphis, Tenn.

President McVey, P. O. Wilson, National Livestock Marketing Association, Chicago; and Ernest L. German will speak at the general session to be held Friday. Dean Cooper will be the principal speaker at the women's session, the same day.

A. D. Zanis, National Recreational association, New York, will direct the singing and other music in the daily sessions.

Visitors to the convention will be furnished with guides for inspection tours over the campus. All buildings on the Experiment Station farm will be included in the inspection.

Personal Bureau To Conduct Tests

Students May Be Quizzed To Determine Aptitude for Professions

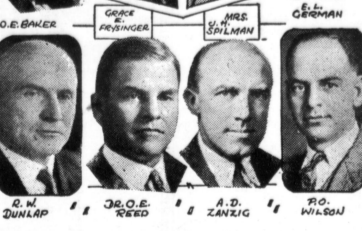

Students desire to know what profession they are best fitted for will be given an aptitude test by the personnel bureau, according to Dr. Henri Beaumont, head of the bureau.

According to Doctor Beaumont the test, given to determine a student's aptitude for a profession, was developed by Doctor Strong of Stanford University. It is based on the theory that the person best in the profession in which he is fundamentally interested. The quiz endeavors to discover the student's basic interest and compare them with the interests of men actively engaged in those professions.

The tests are scored on a mechanical device that is in use at the University of Minnesota. The cost of such scoring is $1.00 and the students aptitude for 25 professions is given. The test, which is being forwarded to Minnesota several of the tests that students recently have taken and others which they are taking. Doctor Beaumont announced

Men Nominate Sponsors for R. O. T. C. Unit

Thirteen Co-eds Selected by Cadets; Nominations Close at Noon

A total of 13 nominations for sponsorships in the R. O. T. C. unit of the university were announced Thursday by Capt. Clyde Grady. Nominations will close at noon today.

Captain Grady reported that one nomination has been turned in for the first battalion and one for each of the other battalions, two for the second battalion and one for each of the other six companies.

Election will be held in February following the announcement of grades which will indicate the eligibility of the nominees. The sponsor will be represented at the annual military ball, which will be held Friday night, February 26, under the sponsorship of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity.

The sponsors who are elected will be given honorary commissions in the unit. The regimental sponsor will hold the honorary rank of colonel, the battalion sponsor that of major, and the company sponsors that of captain.

The university unit of the R. O. T. C. was one of the first units of its kind in the United States to adopt the custom of having sponsors. The institution was inaugurated during the term of 1920-1921 under Col. G. D. Freeman, commandant of the unit at that time. Since the unit was composed of one battalion, three companies, and six platoons, it was decided that there should be a sponsor for each of these. The first battalion sponsor was Mary Elizabeth Downing.

By 1923-24 the battalion had grown to be as big as 12 color troops. It was then that Helen King, who is now assistant director of the publicity bureau, was a sponsor for each of the three battalions, three companies, with a sponsor for each doing away with the platoon sponsors.

This will be the eighth election of sponsors under the regimental form. All nominations for this election must be in by 12 o'clock noon today. Each petition must be signed by 10 men.

A study shows 66 per cent of the men and 25 per cent of the women are in football, basketball, and other sports.

Wildcats Beat Chattanooga in Eighth Victory

Ruppman Defeat Opponents 51 to 17 in Fast Floor and Passing Contest

Sensational Long Shots Feature Game

Half Ends With a 36-11 Lead for Kentucky; Johnson Leads Scoring

Repelling a meager attack of the Chattanooga University last night, the Wildcats quintet showed Kentucky fans some of the best passing and floor work of the season to win its eighth straight victory by a 51 to 17 count last night.

When Kentucky's team meets with the Generals of Washington and Lee in their next conference game on January 31, a much stronger team will take the floor than at any time this season. "Frenchie" DeMoisey, one of the best centers in Southern Conference, and Davis, Kentucky's back guard, both ineligible this season, have been ruled out with the Wildcat team the last few weeks and will be eligible to take the floor in that game.

The game last night was featured by the outstanding play of Johnson, whose position as guard rarely affords him the opportunity of much scoring. Johnson scored 13 points to lead the Wildcats out. Sensational long shots by Darby and Johnson were featured by Worthington featured the first half.

For the first few minutes it looked as if Kentucky would have a game on its hands. Darby tied it up at two all. But after that ran the scoring with long shots and Johnson scored eight to four to a Kentucky lead of 26 before the Tennesseeans scored again. Johnson, Wildcat captain, was responsible for the Kentucky victory.

From all over the floor the Wildcat team rang shot after shot at the Wildcats. Johnson and his long shots featured the first few minutes of play. Johnson and his long shots featured the first few minutes of play.

Olinger, regular Chattanooga center, who entered the game after the first half, scored two of the score to 22-10. Sale, who seemed pretty well jolted up during the first half, scored two more and five more by Johnson, Kreuter and Darby gave Kentucky a lead of 36 to 11 at the end of the first half.

The lead that the Wildcats took after the first half was again in effect. Returning from the show-off (Continued on Page Four)

Representative of W. T. Grant Co. Will Be at U. K.

Dr. Henry Beaumont, secretary of the university personnel bureau, announced Wednesday that a representative of the W. T. Grant company, New York department store chain, will visit the university Tuesday, February 8, to interview persons interested in obtaining positions as department managers and employment for university graduates.

The W. T. Grant company owns several hundred department stores throughout the United States. Last year the company had 1,000 employees and the seniors of the university and employed four of them. The company is now seeking to take an executive training course given by the company in New York.

Persons who have applied for the position of house mothers have filed their applications in the dean's office that the rule be continued. Failure of the fraternity to abide by the decision, the board ruled, would result in the abolishing of pledging and initiation privileges.

Phi Phi Phi, local social fraternity, will become Sigma chapter in Alpha Lambda Tau when installation services will be conducted by national officers Saturday, January 30, in the chapter house on Maxwell street.

Sports participated in at the university are: football, basketball, track, golf, and rifle shooting.

Mite Boxes Distributed As Sorority Drive Begins

Needy Students Will Benefit From Campaign Sponsored by Alpha Gamma Delta

Mite boxes, designed to hold "A Penny a Meal" were distributed on the campus Thursday as the opening measure of the fund drive for needy students and the unemployed of Lexington, which is being sponsored by members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Each student and every member of the faculty is being asked to cooperate to make the drive a success.

The drive is being sponsored by the organization because the usual source of relief, the student loan fund, almost has been exhausted. Students in many instances have been doing without meals that they may complete their education and many of them are unable to return to the university next semester unless adequate financial aid is available.

All funds which are obtained from the drive will be turned over to the distribution to a committee composed of Dean Sarah Blanding, Prof. W. S. Webb, and Mr. Barrett. That the sorority will in no way benefit from the drive was explained in a statement made by Mrs. Marion Outstard, president of the organization.

"We want the students and faculty of the university to understand that the sorority will in no way benefit from the fund and that we are advising personally on what for what we consider a worthy cause."

President McVey has given his approval of the measure and has made the following statement concerning the drive: "I think it is a very good thing. I think we should all take part in it."

Mite boxes for donations have been placed in fraternity and sorority buildings to which students, officers of the faculty members, the University Commons, and other groups are invited to contribute to the campaign. Town students have been requested to take mite boxes to obtain contributions from as many townpeople as possible. Additional boxes will be placed in the city during the drive from the Alpha Gamma Delta house.

An earnest appeal is being made that everyone will make a small contribution. That a large fund will accumulate if each student does a little during the campaign, which closes February 12, is the basis of the appeal for the campaign. "An Earnest Appeal for a Penny a Meal."

Art Department Will Offer Five Famous Pictures

Application by Campus Organizations Must Be In January 28

Facsimile reproductions of five famous pictures will be offered to five fraternities or sororities on the campus for use during the coming year. The pictures are: "Boy with Fish," "Landscape," "Sisley," "Landscape," "Pissarro," "Geranium," "Van Gogh," "A Road Through Degas," "Landscape," "Cezanne," and "The Life of Flowers," "Cezanne."

The pictures are accurate reproductions of the actual paintings, and often show the surface of the original. The color of the print which one usually sees in a book illustration, according to Professor Rannels, is so reduced in size as compared to the original painting that the colors do not show. This means that the book examples are inaccurate reproductions of what the color of the real painting really is.

Baccalaureate Services Sunday to Begin Mid-Year Commencement

DR. HOMER CARPENTER TO DELIVER ADDRESS

Dr. Cotton Noel Will Speak at Final Exercises, Friday, January 29

Mid-year commencement exercises will begin at 4 o'clock Sunday, January 24, with baccalaureate services in Memorial hall. Rev. Homer Carpenter, First Methodist church, Louisville, will deliver the baccalaureate address. The commencement exercises will be concluded Friday night, January 29, with a baccalaureate service under the auspices of the alumni association.

According to the registrar, 66 persons will receive degrees from the university. The candidates for the degrees will meet for baccalaureate services at 2:30 o'clock in the College of Agriculture building on the walk leading to Memorial hall, where the baccalaureate will form. They will proceed to Memorial auditorium where the Rev. Homer Carpenter will deliver the address on "A Mind to Match the Age."

After the address the faculty club will entertain the graduates at 5:30 o'clock in a tea in the faculty club rooms in McVey hall. The tea will complete the program for the day.

GUIDANCE GROUP HOLDS MEETING

Dean Sarah G. Blanding Presides at Vocational Committee Meeting in McVey Hall

ORGANIZATION REVIVED

Dean Sarah G. Blanding presided over a called meeting of the women's vocational guidance committee, which was held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in McVey hall. Mrs. S. W. Webb, president of the committee, presided at the business meeting.

The members of the committee received names of the students that they are to advise personally concerning the choice of vocations. Plans were made to sponsor several special addresses to be made by eminent professional leaders at the university during the months of April and May.

The object of the committee is to give women students useful information about various vocations in regard to their opportunities, salaries and requirements. On request, a list of graduates has been prepared, and the registrar's office will deliver the banquet address. A list of graduates has not been prepared, and the registrar's office will deliver the banquet address.

Three commencements are now being held at the university each year with supplementary commencements in August, and at the close of the first semester, in January. Definite Action on U. K. Nine Delayed

Athletic Council RENEWS Pledge Contract; Changes Checking Concession

Whether the university will have a baseball team or not depends entirely on the schedule that can be arranged, it was decided Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the Athletic Council. Definite and final action, however, was deferred until after the second semester is begun. The council granted the petition have curtailed their playing trips, and many southern conference schools have dropped the sport, making it difficult to arrange a satisfactory schedule. Due to the low level of gate receipts and the amount given to charity the team this year can not be kept heavily on the finances of the council.

Other action by the council yesterday afternoon was to renew the contract of freshman coach Birkett Lee Prible for two years. Coach Prible has served in the capacity of freshman coach for 10 years and his work has been satisfactory. Freshman teams he has turned out have topped the state, and have continued to rank well with the best freshmen aggregations in the south.

The council granted the petition made by eight campus organizations that they be allowed the privilege of picking the persons to live in the dorms at the dances. Skiky formerly had the privilege and deducted 10 per cent of the receipts of the petition stated that they would continue to give the 40 per cent cut to Skiky.

SORORITY DRIVE

Members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority this week are instituting a finance drive which will bring direct benefit to the needy students of the university, and which also will assist in the relief of the unemployed of Lexington. The method which has been selected, whereby contributors donate one cent each time they eat a meal, is one which makes it possible for everyone to assist.

As we have pointed out in a previous editorial, present economic conditions are a challenge to our entire social order, of which our educational system is an integral part. The situation in the world of business cannot but extend into the college and the university, and here, as in the business world, the unequal distribution of wealth is cited as the basis of existing evils. In the current campaign for funds we believe that those students who are more financially fortunate than their fellows should contribute more than the sum which is asked. Only by this means, and by the assistance and cooperation of the entire student body, can the drive be a success.

The present plan which Alpha Gamma Delta has formulated has the commendation of the administrators of the university student body. It is evident that the proceeds of the drive will go to the beneficiaries who have been named, and that, unlike similar movements in the past, funds will not be prostituted to the selfish interest of a small group.

It is to be hoped that the movement will receive the hearty support of the undergraduate group. An opportunity for giving that will work no hardship is offered. Certainly we should do all that is within our power to make the drive a success.

KERNEL ADVERTISERS

Lexington merchants who buy advertising space in The Kernel do so because they believe that the money so invested will bring them a definite return in increased student patronage. They know that The Kernel is owned and operated by students of the university, and that in reaching students the most effective medium is their own official newspaper.

Those merchants who advertise in this publication are the ones who are awake to the opportunity which exists for them in procuring student trade, and it is this understanding, coupled with an interest in the school and the paper, which sells advertising. Every student of the university is a part owner of The Kernel. Its merit or its lack of merit should mean something to every undergraduate.

There are several ways in which students can help their publication, and we believe that there are indeed few who will not do all that is within their power to improve it. Of primary importance is the patronage of the merchants who advertise in the publication. If students made it a practice to buy as much as possible from Kernel advertisers the advertising would be more effective and would sell more readily, thus benefiting the paper.

FRESHMAN CAPS

The freshman cap seems to be coming into disuse at Kentucky. Year by year there are fewer caps being worn by incoming freshmen. To be sure, as many as ever are procured at the beginning of the year, but as the close of the first semester draws near, sight of the blue insignia becomes a rarity. Perhaps such a generalization is a bit extravagant; nevertheless, the freshman cap regulation is not being enforced as it should be.

This prerogative of first year students wearing the freshman cap is not an idle or casual one based alone on tradition; it is one fixed and controlled by student government. Section 2, Article 1. By-laws of the men's student council constitution definitely states: "Freshmen shall wear the regulation cap from the time of enrollment until the first Friday in May following." Non-compliance with this rule is punishable, at the discretion of the council, by reprimand, deprivation of social privileges, suspension from the university or even summary dismissal.

From time to time, violators of this ruling have been called to appear before the council. Although comparatively few of the offenders have experienced this humiliation—for the council with its limited membership is not an all-seeing body—it is inexplicable, in the face of these regulations, why many freshmen lightly dispense with their caps.

Supplying caps to students is not a money making proposition. Stores selling them receive small recompense for the trouble they are put to in handling them. Rather, it is an advertising proposition; students wearing the blue headdress not only make public the fact that they are freshmen, but also that they are students of the University of Kentucky. In doing the first, they are helping themselves; for a considerable upperclassman will always answer the freshman's queries however senseless they seem—incoming students must become acclimated. In doing the second, they are showing pride in their university. All in all, the wearing of the freshman cap is a laudible business; one not to be thoughtlessly dispensed with.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Dear Mr. Editor: During the past few weeks I have continually heard gripes and griefs relative to the intramural department. These came from several different groups of boys. It is my understanding that a complete outline of the different athletic games was prepared and that all decisions were made in accordance with the laws in this outline. Further, that protests are allowed consideration by a special committee if they are sent in within 24 hours after the contest named, and finally, that should any mistakes occur relative to points garnered in any sport, the contestants should be permitted to present their corrections and receive due consideration.

The above statements are in brief some of the rules the intramural department has sent out. However, I know of at least one incident, relative to the three rules above, where the department gave absolutely no consideration. Promises were made verbally, and within 24 hours these same promises were denied.

Intramural sports are great fun, and I heartily approve of them, but real cooperation, promises were made verbally, and within 24 hours these same promises were denied. For his catechism he must use a set of iron clad rules.

KITTENS DEFEAT
LITTLE MAROONS
BY 44-24 SCORE

Davis High Man With 13;
Taylor and Tucker Score

LAWRENCE GUARDED

By DELMAR ADAMS
Aided by the superb playing of every man on the team, the Kittens defeated the Eastern freshmen in the university gymnasium Wednesday night before a scant crowd, 44-24.

Dave Lawrence was held to four markers by determined Eastern guard named Kerm Adams, but his great floor work and generalship helped the Kittens to victory.
The Eastern freshmen were of the frosh. Aided by the attention Lawrence was receiving from the Little Maroon's defense, Taylor, Davis, and Tucker rolled up 12, 13, and 12 points respectively to provide the winning margin in the ball game.

Hale and Adams, former Carr High fliers, are playing with the Little Maroons offered the fans some rare entertainment, as they looped the ball into the basket in the vicinity of the key. "Little" Hale's shots were uncanny and looked almost impossible when they dropped. But they all went through without touching the hoop. "Bud"
Adams held the highly touted Lawrence to two field goals, but was aided by two other visiting frosh, for when Dave shifted or broke for the basket, the Maroon frosh immediately surrounded him and the Cornith flash was handled roughly during the evening.

The teamwork of the Eastern boys did not match that displayed by their rivals and were never threatened by their guards. The Kittens worked on the floor was brilliant and was the only difference between the two teams.

The Kentucky frosh jumped into the lead and were never threatened except at the start when the visitors climbed into a 5-5 tie and then took a 6-5 lead. Then Tucker was sent into the game for the frosh and the greenlings immediately brezzed into a commanding lead of 12-0 at the mid-way point, 24-12. The last half witnessed a comeback by the charges of Coach Alford Portwood, but Adams, star guard, was ousted on four personals
and the rally fell short.

The work of the Kittens was ragged on the defense, but their ef-fense clicked well at times and Davis was able to make several easy crips on well executed plays.

The meeting of these two teams renewed an old feud between Alfred Portwood, Eastern freshman mentor, and Baldy Gibb, who holds the same post here. The rivalry between the two teams has always been very intense and the win of the Kittens Wednesday night was revenge in part for defeats administered by Eastern last year.

According to an Associated Press
report appearing in the Courier-Journal Thursday morning, John Sims "Shipwreck" Kelly, University of Kentucky halfback who graduates this year and Turner Greas-former Kentucky quarterback, are among the applicants for football coaching positions at Miami High school, which has announced it will not re-lect Neal Arntson.

When interviewed today by a Kernel reporter concerning his application, "Shipwreck" Kelly denied the report saying, "I have not applied for the job, and I do not intend to apply. The statement is incorrect and I wish it corrected."

Students Found Buried in Books
As Reign of Terror Descends

By JOAN CARIGAN

'Twas the night before exams, and all through the house not a creature was sleeping; not even a mouse.
How could one expect the poor mice to sleep, with the frantic banging of typewriters of students getting up notebooks at the eleventh hour, the rivers of black coffee flowing copiously, and the general atmosphere of tension as the students grimly apply their faculties to books long fallen into disuse in search of the most efficient method of learning the most in the shortest time?
As this chronic Reign of Terror settles over the campus, even the optimist must strive hard to find that ray of light in the gloom. The sage that will begin soon offers little hope—except to the instructors, who will be given another chance to enlarge their knowledge of new and sometimes almost incredible facts as expounded by the enthusiastic embryo savants.

Political science instructor may learn now that "the spoils system was the system whereby the government had to take care of its barbage," and that a moratorium is "a place where dead bones and other relics are kept." It will be interesting to note that "a king who does everything he says he will in an absolute monkey."
Another instructive quotation from an examination paper of the day
"Savages are people who don't know what wrong is until missionaries show them."

If the current farmers are like those of other days, they will as eagerly explain that "corn products are corn meal, corn syrup, and corn feed." These scientific agriculturists firmly believe that "farmers rotate their crops so that they may get sun on all sides."

From the music department comes the information that "Beethoven has remained deaf ever since a conductor boxed his ears and it has shown upon his work."
It may interest Mr. Fowler to find that "Interludes were plays given before people knew how to read.
A man came out on the stage and sold what would happen during the play. He was the Interlude."
The history department are made to realize for the first time that the Magna Charta "is an oak tree near Hartford, Conn., containing the hidden charter of the State of Connecticut," that in the sacking of Rome "the Gauls put the Romans in sacks and carried them away," and that the "famous Rough Rider was Paul Revere." It might be interesting to note that "the first governor of Massachusetts was Mr. Salem Whitecherry."

Doctor Pankhouser may add to his lectures in the future that "food passes from the mouth through the esophagus to the stomach."
And how could the English department have so long overlooked the fact that "Oliver Goldsmith's masterpiece was "The Sermon On The Mount!"
Despite the sleepless state of the house and the ardent burning of midnight oil, the facts set down in text books will continue to elude the pursuers of knowledge, and to warp themselves into new and hitherto unheard-of truths, which will ever be at the fingertips of the examined.
