Enrollment Fails To Reach Mark Set Last Winter

Second semester enrollment at the University stood at 6840, with one remaining registration day. The enrollment for the College of Pharmacy was 212, and registration at the Northern Kentucky Extension Center, Covington, numbered 145, for a total registration of 7197.

The enrollment is expected to be slightly over 7000, but it is not expected to reach the 7300 mark set at last year's winter term, according to Miss Maple Moores, assistant registrar.

There are approximately 5223 men students enrolled, according to early figures released by the office of the dean of men. This would indicate an enrollment of approximately 1617 women students, or a ratio of more than 4 to 1.

The number of veterans registering this term was estimated by the Veterans office to be approximately 3500.

Yesterday was the last day of registration and also the last day for entering an organized class.

Want A Missing Link?

A message in this week's 'Letters' column has some valuable words from a student who claims to have been here 10 years of and on.

Occasionally, but rarely enough not to become monotonous, somebody mumbles something about school spirit around the campus.

It's all forgotten here, lost in the limbo of past generations who dwell on the campus some cons ago, dating back at least to times before the War.

That's what makes this letter such a priceless document. If Mr. Martin really did get at UK in 1939, he may be the missing link that can provide some practical means of reviving campus traditions and the spirit they naturally bring forth.

Suky tried an interesting test Tuesday night when it brought up the ancient and colorful card section scheme for a trial. If it needs further hints on how the plan could be worked, perhaps it could get some ideas from Mr. Martin.

If any campus group is at all interested in reviving some of the harmless but entertaining UK customs, now's the time to get to work on it. Next fall's freshmen will be a young crop of students, and consequently eager. A campus organization with ingenuity and interest, if there be any such, could work wonders with them.

At least it would be a novelty from the present "service" schemes which consist mainly of lengthy resolutions (on paper) and campaigns to rid the lavans of cigarette butts.

Possibly UK has some traditions now, but they slip our mind at the moment. It would add a great deal of color and excitement to have, for instance, the proposed freshman cheering section at football games.

And that would be only a starter. There are plenty of other customs that would provide real kicks, yet at the same time not dent our dignity much by such retrogression into the distant past.

Of course, if nobody's interested, let's just drop the subject.

Founders Day Exhibit

To see one of the most interesting displays you've seen in a long time, drop by the library and take a look at the exhibit set up for Founders Day.

Papers dating back to the University's origin are on display, including such articles as the original manuscript for "On, On, U. of K.," a letter from a former University president explaining why he had had a student arrested and later released, and many other interesting catches items.

Not The Strait Jacket

While catching their breaths from the classification madhouse, students relishing those terrible days found to their surprise and delight that the number of registration cards had been greatly cut down.

Gone were the usual maddening cards asking one's preference in 4-H Club membership and the like, and great was the gratitude for the omission.

Now, if there were only some way classification could be speeded up. It's had on the blood pressure for scores of students to stand in a mob for a half an hour, 15 minutes, or longer, while one man calmly goes over each card handed in by each student.

Clem Cockrel, poet and author, checks over his script for "Clem's Notebook" which he broadcasts weekly over WBYK and WLEX.

Childhood Dream Starts Cockrel On Career Of Poet, Radio Artist

Did you ever dream a poem? Clem Cockrel did and it started him on a hobby which has lasted 11 years. When Clem radio arts major at the University was 15 years old he had a dream about a horse. Clem was so impressed with this dream that early the next morning he composed a poem about it. And he has been writing ever since.

While a junior in high school, Clem got on the air for the first time with a program of recorded music intermixed with his poems over a station in Bowling Green. Later he conducted a program of the same type for WOMI in Owensboro.

Shortly before entering the Navy, where he spent two years, Clem received word that his name was to be listed in "Who's Who In American Poets."

Returning from the service in '46, Clem enrolled at the University, studying radio arts because of his experience in broadcast work.

He now does a program for WBYK, the frequency modulation station, every Friday at 8:45 p.m. The program, currently carried over station WLEX, consists of Clem's reading his poems to a background of music, and is similar to WLW's "Moon River."

Clem plans to take up announcing as a career after his graduation in addition to free-lancing his poetry. At the present time, he is working on a book of poems for Avon House Publishing Company.

What does he do in his spare time? Why he's working on a novel. Wonder if he dreamed that, too?

LETTERS

What about us? Sorority girls despite open houses, too. They're the ones who have to make the arrangements and afterward straighten up the house. It might be a pleasure to entertain under some circumstances, but not when nobody enjoys the parties.

Not only do we have to stand around three hours talking to people who don't care anything about us but we are in a bad humor for our dates that night.

Besides, did we ever stop to think that we might enjoy spending our Friday afternoons drinking beer, too?

You brought it on yourselves, and if we can suffer through it surely you can. But if Interfraternity Council brings this up again next year they ought to have their brains, if any, examined.

Dear Editor:

I think you should be taken to task for publishing such an atrocious letter as the one attacking sorority open houses last week.

Obviously the writer was a paranoid schizophrenic type of personality who was under the influence of some exotic drug at the time of the writing. No person in his sane mind could ever belittle the social efforts of our fair UK womenhood.

All fraternities men that I know, including myself, enjoy open houses very much and hope that they will continue into eternity. "Bah!" say we of like sentiments who think your letter-writer is, as he signs himself disgustingly, a CAD!

CHARLES WHALLEY

Dear Miss Editor:

I want to expose some of the hazardous things that lurk in the classroom, especially the lack of an aisle which might at some opportune time afford a place for exit.

Again, I say, one might even break his leg while being pushed by the masses. Don't get me wrong, the room might be all right if it weren't for this. Especially the pink side for girls and green for the boys.

I love this school and I'm ready to leave it. Please don't let me graduate with a broken leg.

Prof. W. Maurice Baker, of the College of Education, took part in a symposium on "Kentucky's Tourist Potential" which was presented on the program of the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers Association Tuesday in Louisville.

Dear Madam Editor:

Isn't anything ever done around this place for the convenience of students? I begin wondering about seeing the pieces of nasty-looking lead pipe which have recently been added to the decorations in front of Patt Hall.

These pipes were installed at intervals which even a tennis-weezy crawler can't squeeze through on its way to the grassy parking place under the trees in the Patt Hall circle. This means that Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Ford, Chevrolet, and all other makes and pieces of cars must be parked as far as a block from the dorm. The last precious 60 seconds before closing, one spent peacefully on the porch with my date, are now spent as I gallop up the driveway proving that I won't have to carry her the last half-mile.

If the wheels of administration are trying to solve the "parking" problem, they are only taking it a few hundred feet away—right out from under their noses in fact.

If Ginnert Pearl McFash were back, I am sure she would call her cohorts to arms to see that the pipes were promptly uprooted and peace and quiet restored in front of Patt Hall.

University High Teacher Aided Revision Of German Curricula

Aiding Bavarian social studies teachers to revise curricula and bring textbooks up to date was the work of Miss Peck, of the University High School faculty, while on a five-month leave of absence during which she served on an educational mission to Germany.

On her tour of duty she was assigned to the education and cultural relations division of the Office of Military Government. Though her headquarters were in Munich, she also conducted teacher conferences in Augsburg and Nuremberg.

Miss Peck explained that German history textbooks seldom went beyond the Bismarck period, and omitted all references to World War I. German educators have been assigned the task of writing new texts which are to be up to date and free of Nazi doctrine. American teachers make a careful check of these books to see that they fulfill Military Government specifications.

Meetings with German teachers had to be scheduled for late afternoons or early evening because a shortage of classrooms forces all teachers to meet with two sessions of students daily, said Miss Peck. There is also a critical teacher shortage caused primarily by the death of many young teachers in the war and the seceding out of others because of their Nazi backgrounds.

Patt Hall Gals Break Bank At Will Lucky Freshmen Drink Their Fill

Patt Hall girls know how to break the bank on the radio give-aways. They pulled the trick successfully last month, but the story never reached the public.

The program concerned is called "Lemonette Musette," broadcast by WLEX. The manager of the Lemonette Company offers a carton of his soft drink to each person who votes for the winning song every week. Usually, since individual tastes differ, he gives away around twenty cartons a week.

But the Patt girls are different—they all love a song called "It's Too Soon To Know." They mailed their votes and sat back to wait. At the week's end, the place was flooded with mail. 121 cards rolled in—each good for a carton of Lemonette (minus deposit).

According to a former employee of the station, another scheme had once been attempted, but didn't work. A girl sent in 100 cards herself, but as they were all from the same person, they were void. But the Patt system works—which might ruin the program if the rest of the big residence units like the leverage.

The Spice Of Life

By Ruby Graham and Jobie Anderson

As the Phi Tans always say, it's certainly good to be back among the magnolias — especially since there won't be any finals to think about for another few weeks. Nothing to do any more but sweat out lines!

Hearts are saddened by the passing of Cliff Miller to a home where he can loaf without being disturbed. By the way, Cliff struck a new note in fashion Saturday night when he went out to mail a letter to Fat-overcoat minus trousers.

A charming SAE is wearing bandages on his feet — the walk from Danville was plenty far.

Egg Barbee and Betty Millett are back this semester — both unattached. Two returns from Covington are Lobs O'Brien and Carl Falk.

Lon Fanning is good but not forgotten.

After five years at UK Dick Beal decided he just couldn't tear himself away. He'll cheer the Sigma and Chi clan for a new semester.

Patt Residents Plan Semi-Formal Dance

Patterson Hall will hold its traditional Valentine's dance tonight from 9-12 in the lounge. The dance is semi-formal. An orchestra will play for dancing.

Chaperones include Mrs. William Turner, head resident; Dean Sarah B. Holmes, Dean and Mrs. L. J. Forchler, Dean and Mrs. A. B. Kirwan, Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise, and Miss Chlo Gifford.

McCann Is Elected To Head Phi Dels

Phi Upsilon Omicron To Hold Luncheon

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary will observe Foundings Day with a luncheon tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of home demonstration work at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will speak on "Adventures in Learning."

Dance Is Tomorrow

Jewell Hall will entertain with a ball dance tomorrow from 3-6 p.m. Dave Parry will furnish music.

Blanket bids have been issued to all fraternities on campus.

Kappas Plan Banquet

Kappa Kappa Gamma will hold a Founders Day banquet at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday in the Gold Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Betty Wiley, chapter president, will be toastmistress. Following a song presented by the active members, the pledge class will be presented.

Formal Planned By Lambda Chi

Lambda Chi Alpha will hold its winter formal tonight from 9-12 in the Ballroom of the Phoenix Hotel. The dance was formerly scheduled for the Fireside Room.

Tinker Baggerley and his orchestra will play.

Chaperones are Mrs. Theodore Douglas, Mrs. Esther Carter, and Mrs. Vera Byrd.

Approximately 200 guests are expected at the dance, which has been arranged by Art Eideman, social chairman.

Faculty Honored At Tea

The faculty will be honored with a tea at the Sigma Xi chapter house on Euclid Avenue Sunday afternoon from 4-6.

J. V. Larkin is chairman of arrangements.

Engineering Library To Hold Open House

An open house was held in the new engineering library during the holidays to mark the transfer of the library to its new location on the second floor of the southeast wing of the new engineering building.

The library was formerly located on the first floor of the old section of the quadrangle. The capacity of the library has been increased to accommodate sixty readers at one time.

Survey Shows Education Majors Stress Importance Of Teaching

More than half of the University of Kentucky students currently preparing themselves for a teaching career give as their chief reason for doing so "the importance of teaching."

That primary motive along with other reasons mentioned by the respondents was revealed in a recent survey conducted by Dr. Ellis F. Hartford, professor of education at the University.

Dr. Hartford has long been of the opinion that the basic reasons impelling college students to enter the teaching profession would be of great benefit to educators.

Why The Lack Of Interest?

We realize," he said, "the importance of studying the reasons underlying the lack of interest on the part of potentially good candidates. Conversely, the basic reasons for the choice of teaching by education students should also be the subject of study by educators who are concerned with problems of teacher selection and recruitment."

Convinced of the practicability of gathering such information, Dr. Hartford two years ago began interviewing students who had successfully completed the introductory course in education at UK as to why they had chosen teaching as a career. Since then he has compiled the answers given by 207 undergraduate students—103 men and 104 women. "The average number of reasons submitted by each student was five.

Teaching important work" was the most frequent response, being given by 106 students. Second and third places went to "interest in and liking for children" (92) and "teaching is interesting work" (87). Fourth and fifth choices were "teaching offers great personal satisfaction" (60) and "teaching offers opportunity for advancement" (59).

TIL BET . . . you thought I was dead or sumpt' but I am still alive and kicking (even if it is with only one foot) and I certainly have missed writing this little bit of chat and nonsense. You see I took myself off on a wee bit of a vacation and am just now getting back to the normal run of things . . . had to come back . . . money ran out.

EARLY BIRD . . . catches the worm and the person that does their Spring Suit shopping early catches the plumb . . . so to speak. I have received some of my new Spring Suits by TIMELY and I'd put their PLATEAU cloth suits against any on the market. It is known as "the suit with the weightless feel" This suit can be worn the year round and in that way you get your full dollar worth. What colors does it come in? Well, it comes in Dark Brown, Light Tan, Beige, Navy Blue, Grey and Green. If you are down town and have nothing else to do . . . drop in and give them the suit!

CARDIGANS . . . While I was on my little trip, I noticed lots and lots of Cardigan coats and suits being worn by some of the sharpest dressers (and you know me . . . I couldn't resist so I got one in Navy Blue with matching slacks. These suits give you that dressed look with a casual air. I have ordered some of these sets for the store and if I don't have your size and color, I can order it for you. ESQUIRE and PIC are playing them up for Spring and Summer and that's good enough for me.

THANKS . . . to the Interfraternity Pledge Council Committee, for asking me to dance in their show last Friday night at Joyland Casino. 'Twas an honor.

UK's Prof. W. G. Haag Supervises Indian Excavation At Wolf Creek

Supervision of the excavation of an Indian mound site in the Wolf Creek dam area has been the job of Prof. William G. Haag, who has recently returned from a field trip begun in August.

Phalanx To Sponsor Drive for Records

Phalanx fraternity is conducting a drive to collect old phonograph records to be given to local orphanages.

First Farmers of Kentucky

Remains indicate that two different peoples once resided there. The first, a group of primitive agriculturists, probably were members of the Indian civilization common in the eastern United States from approximately 900 to 1500 A.D.

War Surplus Material Widely Used At UK

The University of Kentucky, along with other educational institutions the nation over, has benefited greatly from the federal government's program for disposition of war surplus materials.

Architecture steeved

The Wolf Creek excavation reveals plainly the architecture used by the Indians who lived there in the 16th and 17th centuries, Prof. Haag said. Ditches about seven inches wide and six inches deep were dug, and into them were placed upright poles about six inches in diameter.

Site Will Be Flooded

There are approximately 50 of these mounds in the Wolf Creek area, all of which will be flooded when the dam is completed, Prof. Haag reported. He plans to return in the summer and get in two or three more months of excavating before the site is lost to further excavation.

6 Bama And Ole Miss Meet Cats Next Week

Kentucky's top-ranked Wildcats will try to make it two in a row over Alabama and Mississippi next week in games scheduled for Alumni gym.

Bodies trying to raise their season record to 21 wins, and one loss, the Cats will go after their ninth and tenth conference wins of the period and their 70th and 71st consecutive wins over a five-year period, and their sixth and 70th consecutive victories on the home court.

On February 2, in Tusculoo, Kentucky had to solve Alabama's ball-hogging tactics, before pulling away in the second half to win 66-48.

Playing on their home court, the Cats are expected to have a little trouble with either team, although Coach Bump is wary of the Tide's slow Oklahoma type style of ball, and probably expects them to offer the stiffest competition in Alumni gym, however, it is doubtful if the Cats will have much luck in slowing down the play, unless they decide never to shoot. The Rebels should afford the Cats nothing but a stiff scrimmage.

In the first game against Bama, Groza labbed 23 points, Jones 13, Barnstable and Barker six each, and Hirsch and Beard four each.

Guard Dick McKenzie paced the Crimson cagers with 13 points.

Coach Floyd Burdette's team has won ten and lost eight against exclusively Southern competition. Mutual foes of Kentucky and Alabama have been Georgia Tech, Tulane, Vanderbilt, and Ole Miss.

Tulane, beaten twice by Kentucky, and once by a landslide, barely took a 51-46 victory from the Tide. Ole Miss scored them out, 42-37, Handy did the same thing, 38-31, and Tech beat them soundly, 51-38.

It is interesting to note that Oklahoma and M. M. the team which have done the best of play is copied by Burdette, had plenty of trouble before winning 44-31 over them. The Abies are currently rated third in the nation.

Bama Coach Is Ex-Murray Star The Alabama coach, Floyd Burdette, graduated from Murray College tomorrow night in a preliminary game beginning at 6 p.m.

Thursday, Feb. 24, a preliminary game to the Xavier-Kentucky game is scheduled with the Xavier frosh. The game will be played in the new Cincinnati Gardens.

ALEX GROZA, UK's 6-8 pivorman, is currently the nation's top collegiate basketball player. He has hit over 30 points in each of his last six games and has scored a total of 335 points so far this season in 19 encounters.

Ruppen Whip Bradley, Tennessee; Groza Breaks SEC Scoring Mark

The clock stopped with a minute and a half to go as Tennessee's Big Al was fouled by Ed Montgomery, trying to get away a shot.

As the players surrounded him in front of the bench, the man in the brown suit said, "Now boys, let's let Alex get a couple of points here. He's got 30 and only needs two more for a conference record... so feed Groza the ball."

Walt Hirsch passed to Groza as soon as the ball was brought into the Kentucky end of the court and Big Al was fouled by Ed Montgomery, trying to get away a shot.

As the e 8' senior lifted his first free throw through the hoop all 2200 students shrieked encouragement; his second hit the front of the basket and toppled in to set a new SEC scoring record.

The Volunteers quickly took the ball out and in a rush to score, sent up a wild shot. Cliff Barker nabbed the rebound and threw a base ball shot. A symphony of fans groaned as Big Al scrambled to the other side of the basket and grabbed the rebound from two Tennesseans and put in a shot that no one but a connoisseur's wrestler, or Alex Groza, could have scored on.

Thirty-four points: Groza beat Vols, 71-56. Tennessee fell for the second time this season as the Wildcats racked up their ninth SEC win of the year, 71-56.

All-Conference Paul Walther led the Volunteers, who closed the gap to 40-46 with seven minutes remaining. He scored 21 points, 12 of them on his famous left-handed jump shot at the foul circle.

Hugh Jones did most of the ball handling for Tennessee and stashed away 11 points. Big Art Burris took all the rebounds Groza left.

More than 150 students were turned away from the Cats first home game in almost two months.

Sophomore Walt Hirsch started his second game of the season... Barker attempted another long, long shot as the final buzzer sounded and missed by inches.

Tennessee-56 Kentucky-71 F Walther-27 Jones-9 F Keenan-2 Groza-34 C Burris-11 Barker-5 G H. Jones-11 Barnstable-8 G Montgomery-7

Substitutions: Kentucky: Beard-6; and Line-3. Tennessee: Graham-4, Kinzel-2, and Keeling-1.

Kentucky 62, Bradley 32. Bradley University gave the Wildcats a run for their money last Saturday night before leaving, 62-52, in Owensboro's new Recreation Center.

Bradley, rated by team members as second only to Bowling Green in cage powers met this season, hooped in a fantastic 48 percent of their shots.

Cliff Barker, in his own casual way, slammed in a 57-foot long shot

Groza Running Wild Against Opposition

All-American Alex Groza continues well on his way to becoming Kentucky's all-time greatest basketball player, and quite possibly one of America's all-time greats.

The 6-8 "Player of the Year" in 1948 has burned the nets for 161 points in the last six games, an amazing average of 26.8 points per game.

Starting with his 22-point performance against Notre Dame and continuing through his record smashing 34 points against Tennessee Tuesday night, Big Al poured it on from every angle in some great defensive play, and amazed spectators everywhere he went with his brilliant ball-handling.

Besides being named Sport Magazine's player of the year over amateur and professional cagers alike, Big Al was named "Most Valuable Player" in the NCAA tournament last spring, and is well on his way toward winning All-American honors for the third consecutive year, a feat equaled only by Oklahoma A. & M.'s Bob Kurland and DePaul's George Mikan in recent years.

Alex's teammate, Guard Ralph Beard, winner of Sport Magazine's 1947 player of the year award, also stands an excellent chance of making All-America for the third year.

Alex has 187 Average. His 34 points against the Vols established three new records: the individual record for a single game as the first half ended, making the score read 20-35.

Ball-bearing Ralph Beard played most of the game on a sprained ankle, the distinction of probably being the most efficient the Cats have met all year... Owensboro's Lee Truman and Bobby Watson, former All State high school athletes and now heroes at UK, witnessed the game.

Big Al has averaged 26 points in the last six contests. Kentucky-62, Bradley-52, Barnstable-6, F Melchiorre-13, Jones-12, F Mann-6, Groza-30, C P. Urub-11, Beard-6, G Humerikhouse-12, Barker-4, G Chianakas-6.

Substitutes: Kentucky: Hirsch-4, and Stough. Bradley: D. Urub-2, and Grover-1.

Wallace Jones and Manager Henry Yesin were teammates on Harlan, Kentucky's state high school championship team of 1944-45. Jones was a center and Yesin, a guard.

The best defensive score made by a Rupp-coached Kentucky team was during the 1944-45 season, when the Cats walked Arkansas, State 75-6.

UN Delegate Speaks At Roundtable Forum

Israel may soon become a full-pledged member of the United Nations, Dr. Jorge Gramados said in a speech in Memorial Hall Tuesday night.

Dr. Gramados, the UN delegate from Guatemala, was introduced by Bart Peak, University YMCA secretary, who presided. The speech was sponsored by the Lexington President's Roundtable.

Strengthening the Palestine problem in a discussion of UN activities, Gramados, former Guatemalan ambassador to the United States, outlined the work of the United Nations Special Commission on Palestine.

Gramados served on the 11-nation commission investigating Jewish-Arab problems in Palestine. Partition of the country was advised after the commission compared a highly westernized Jewish state against a "backwoods" Arab nation, he said.

The citizens of Israel have made agricultural and industrial strides which eventually will win the Arabs to their side, the Guatemalan statesman said. He remarked that differences between Jews and Arabs would disappear when the Arabs realize how much they can profit.

The delegate from Guatemala said appointment of the small-nations commission on Palestine took the case "out of power politics."

He praised the democratic spirit of the UN and said creation of Israel

WAH WAH JONES

Kentucky Basketeers: Wah Wah Jones

By Dudley Saunders

So much has been written about the incomparable Wah Wah Jones that we felt rather awkward when we started writing this article. Almost as if we were announcing in 1949 the invention of the airplane.

Wah's exploits for the past several years is common knowledge and candidly makes this side of Tin-buroo.

Every sports man knows that he has been a variety regular in football, basketball and baseball for four years, and that he is the greatest all-around athlete in Kentucky — and possibly American — sports history.

Wah first played on a team when he was in the third grade. He was small and had to play guard, but he did so well that he won a small bronze basketball — the first of many trophies he has collected in fourteen years of competition, and still his favorite.

In high school he was moved to forward, and it was there that he made his reputation as a high-scorer and rebounder. Upon his graduation from high school, he was swamped with offers from colleges all over the country.

There is a love story behind Wah's coming to Kentucky. For a while it looked as if he would go to Tennessee, where his brother Hugh eventually made camp. But Alva Ball, Middleboro, Ky., businessman had a pretty daughter named Edna, and it seems that Edna was already enrolled at Kentucky.

Wah decided that Tennessee, or for that matter, any place without Edna would be just the opposite of heaven. So, Wallace Jones came to Kentucky, and Kentuckians have been thanking Edna and Wah ever since.

They were married in July of 1947, right after she graduated from UK. While Wah has been conquering the sports world, Edna has been content to be the hero's wife and later the mother of Wallace Jr.

He was pretty worried at the beginning of the season after he got married, for fear of having a bad year. He knew that married life would get the blame for it. But, it seems he was as good as ever in both football and basketball.

DisKintucky Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

The Kentucky Wildcats' 68 consecutive wins in Summit Gym almost certainly constitutes the longest record ever made by any college team, past or present, on a home court.

However, there are two other teams that have compiled lengthy chains of consecutive home triumphs. Westminster College, of New Wilmington, Penna., now have won 34 straight home games. They have five more quints left on their court, with Washington and Jefferson the only quintet having a fair chance to knock them off.

Another is West Virginia University, of Morgantown, W. Va., whose basketball team has now copied 51 consecutive frays in the WVU gym. No. 50 was an 81-63 whipping of the strong Cincinnati Bearcats.

The West Virginia Mountaineers have six contests remaining in their gym, one being with Washington and Jefferson and another with Pitt. These two teams are given just a slight hope of upsetting the high-scoring Virginia five.

The Cats last defeat was a 45-40 decision by Ohio State in January of 1948.

Gayle Talbot, of the Associated Press, summed up the country's top basketball teams thusly: "Kentucky's wondrous Wildcats poured it on four more rivals last week, and just about convinced the nation's basketball experts that they are the best of the college fives."

"Of 72 writers and broadcasters who participated in the AP fourth weekly poll, 47 voted Kentucky the No. 1 team, while only 13 stuck to the St. Louis Billikens and another eight cast their ballots for the Oklahoma Aggies."

Hamline, rated No. 5 in this poll, is certain to drop down considerably after its defeat, Monday, Jan. 10, by Thomas College, 45-33. Hamline was the last of the country's unbeaten quintets.

Here is AP's rating of the teams: 1. Kentucky; 2. St. Louis; 3. Oklahoma A and M; 4. Illinois; 5. Hamline; 6. Western Kentucky; 7. Minnesota; 8. Tulane.

For G. S. Simpson, the St. Louis Billikens have two seniors and three juniors on its starting quintet. Easy Ed MacCauley, 6-8, and 8-6 Marv Schatzman are playing their final season.

6-2 Joe Ossola, 6-2 Bob Schmidt and 6-1 Lou Lehman, other starters, are all juniors. Incidentally, these everybody's all-American second or third team.

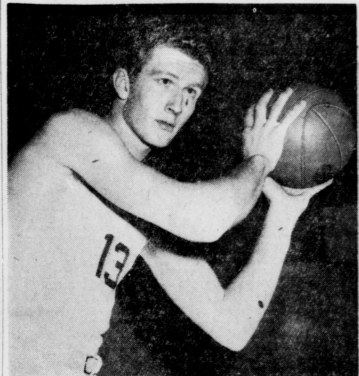

This far he has 180 points in 17 games this year, to give him a four-year point total of 1022 points. Wah rounded into cage condition faster than ever before, this season, and his fine play was largely responsible for Kentucky's early-season winning streak over the nation's best teams.

His ball-handling and rebounding is better than ever before, and his shooting eye seems to have improved also. Wah is notoriously a great clutch-player, turning in his best performances when the chips are down and every point counts.

Kentucky fans have gotten used to Wah playing his best ball during the post-season tournaments, and needless to say, they and Coach Rupp are counting on him more than ever when the tournaments start next month.

Western Kentucky has only two seniors on its squad—6-2 Charley Parsley and 6-2 Johnny Oldham. 6-6 Bob Lavo, starting center, is a sophomore; 6-5 Buddy Cate is also a sophomore, while 6-5 Roy Mann is a junior.

Xavier's head cage coach, Lew Hart, is in his third season at XU. He was graduated from DePaul (of Indiana) in 1925. Later, in 1930-37, as basketball mentor at Hamilton College, he was the head coach of the State championship. Nine years later, he produced a great team at Hamilton College, which won 21 straight this but later lost to Middletown in the state tourney.

MALCOLM McMULLEN, Xavier center, will have his toughest assignment of the season tomorrow night when XU tangles with the Wildcats. Captain McMullen will be out to hold down the red-hot Alex Groza, captain of the Kentucky five. Big Mac is rated as an outstanding defensive pivotman, in addition to the Muc'seters' leading scorer this season. McMullen has hit over 20 points in three different games and has a season's average of over 12-points-per-tilt.

The March issue of SPORT magazine, one of the top sports publications in the nation, will have UK's Ralph Beard on its cover. A feature story the Louisville lad will also be contained in the same issue.

SPORT Magazine recently sponsored a selection board of experts who named Alex Groza as basketball Top Performer for 1948. Groza was featured in the December issue of this magazine.

Meanwhile, Time and Life seemingly went all out to make Easy Ed MacCauley the outstanding player of this season and the St. Louis Billikens the nation's top team.

For in the Jan. 3 issue of Life, a four-page spread was given MacCauley, including a full page of him in color.

Then three weeks later, Time came out with a 14-inch story on the St. Louis Billikens plus a two-column picture of Coach Hickey and his starting five.

This issue of Time came out the day after Oklahoma A and M upset the Missouri quintet.

But now with Kentucky ranked No. 1 in all the major polls and Groza averaging well over 25 points-per-game for his last seven appearances, the editors of Time and Life have undoubtedly experienced a change of heart.

While on magazines, the initial issue of Sports Illustrated contained two series by local sportswriters, Larry Shropshire, sports editor, The Lexington Leader, wrote an interesting article on Wildcat basketball team titled "Kentucky's Pore Little Boys."

Another Lexingtonian, Joe H. Palmer, had a story on Larry MacPhail, former New York Yankee general manager, who is now breeding racehorses and cattle on his Maryland farm.

Both Shropshire and Palmer were graduated from the University of Kentucky. Palmer also taught English here for four years.

In the last seven games, Alex Groza has scored 179 points for an average of slightly over 25 markers per tilt.

Here is his scoring for the seven

One star on the knickerbocker basketball team is Paul Noel, who played for UK one season. Noel, who hails from Midway, Ky., scored 17 points in one game last week but his team lost to Joe Pullis and his Philadelphia Warriors, 102-96. Pullis, another Kentuckian, flipped in 39 tallies in this tilt.

Entries to these contests must be in by noon of Friday, March 11, and play begins in the two on Monday, March 14.

Ex-Wildcat Star Ken Rollins Named On Pro All-Frosch Team

Ken Rollins, who was captain of the Kentucky Wildcat basketball team for the 1946-47 and the 1947-48 seasons was recently named on the Basketball Association of America (BAA) all-freshmen team by Joe Lapchick, famed coach of the New York Knickerbockers pro cage basketball team.

Now playing with the Chicago Stags, in the BAA league, Rollins was named at one of the guard posts along with Wall Busko, former Columbia player, now with the Baltimore Bullets.

Lapchick placed Ray Lumpp, who was a member of the U.S. Olympic team last summer and now with Indianapolis, at the forward position with Bowie Shannon (ex-Kansas State) of the Providence Steamrollers.

Says Lapchick: "Only now, when you see him in our league do you realize just what Ken Rollins meant to the University of Kentucky team for the past three years. The headlines were for Ralph Beard, Alex Greza and Wah Wah Jones. They were the leading scorers. Playing the backcourt, Rollins didn't get much opportunity to shoot. But with the Stags he has been a revelation, helping off a sound floor game with an accurate jump shot similar to the one employed by Kenny Sailors."

John Palmer, captain of the Knickerbockers, also put in a few good words for Rollins, who was voted UK's Most Valuable Player after the 1946-47 season by his teammates.

"Kenny Rollins is fitting in nicely with the Chicago Stags. I think he and our Mel McGaha are the two shiftest dribblers in the BAA."

Meyer Lauds Rollins

According to Ray Meyer, head coach of DePaul University, Rollins is the best play-maker that his team has ever faced.

Tip in the Windy City, the sports-writers have tagged the six-foot, 175-pound Kentuckian, "Racehorse" Rollins. He is the smallest player on the high-flying Stags, who form one of the top professional basketball teams in America today.

Rollins is two inches shorter than any of the other players on the Stags, which incidentally are the youngest team in the league averaging just 22 years of age. "The Baltimore Bullets are high with a 28-year-old average per player."

Also on the Chicago team are the famed University of Illinois "Whiz Kids" of a few years ago. They are: 6-3 Andy Phillip, a forward, and Gen Vance, a 6-3 guard.

Other starters are Ed Mikas, 6-8 center and brother of the great George of the Minneapolis Lakers team, and Max Zaslofsky, a 6-2 forward, formerly of St. John's.

Zaslofsky is the team's high scorer with an average this season of almost 20 points and is immediately behind Mikas and Joe Fuks, ace pivotman of the Philadelphia Warriors, for total points scored in BAA competition. Zaslofsky last year scored 1,007 tallies in 48 tilts for a 20.9 average.

Also on the team is Odie (Sleepy) Spears, a 6-5 forward, who led the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers in scoring last season.

Gordon Expected To Pace Strong ZBT Cage Team

One of the many strong basketball teams in the intramural competition will be the Zeta Beta Tau (ZBT) fraternity quintet.

The biggest worry of this team will be a shortage of reserves. ZBT will floor a starting five that might give any team in play a good tussle.

Spearhead of the team is expected to be 6-4 Joe Gordon, an All-State starter from Crofton, Ky. Gordon, who was formerly on UK's B team of 1946-47, was the top high school basketball scorer in Kentucky in his final year at Crofton High for the 1945-46 campaign. That season, the raring center slipped in 329 points, scoring 52 in one tilt against Eddyville.

Forwards on the ZBT aggregation will probably be 6-3 Bob Fraiman, who made all-city after leading his high school team to the championship of New York City. The other forward will be Sol Weisenberg, who made all-regional while playing for Owenion High.

The guard positions will be handled by Norm Klein and Herbert Marshall. The latter was a starter on the McMullen high team of 1946 which went on to win the State championship.

Klein, a speedy 5-9 1/2 player, starred with Louisville Manual High in both football and basketball before coming to UK. He was a halfback for the Wildcat football teams of '44, '46, '47, and '48.

These five should combine to be one of the biggest threats in IM play this winter.

Against the nation's best opposition, the Wildcats have posted a 3008 winning average with 130 victories against 14 setbacks during the past five years.

SAE Has Two Players Back From Last Year

The SAE's ascending fraternity basketball champs, started the intramural basketball season with only two members from last year's undefeated squad.

Center Doc Ferrell and forward Johnny Crockett were the two veterans in the starting line up which also included Charlie Holland, brother of former Wildcat Joe Holland, Tony Dallas, and Billy Raiford.

The SAE's last tryout to the Deits, 23-24, on Jack Ballantines last second push shot from the foul circle, but intramural manager Charlie Hunston said the team was sure to improve as the season progresses.

McMullen At Pivotal Point

One face among the Musketeer quintet will certainly be recognized by members of the Wildcat '96. That will be none other than Malcolm McMullen, former Kentucky player, McMullen played for the Cats in 1946-47.

Historians contend that the human being will lose his little toe within the next 50 million years.

Wildcats Seek 69th Straight Home Win Saturday Against XU

The Kentucky Wildcats will be gunning for their 19th victory of the current season and their 69th consecutive win on the home court tomorrow night when they tangle with the Musketeers from Xavier University of Cincinnati.

The tilt will be the 25th meeting of the teams since the rivalry started in 1924. In this time Xavier has managed to defeat the Cats only twice, those wins coming in 1938 and 1941, while the Big Blue has won 22 games from the boys "from the Rhineland."

The Musketeers have improved rapidly after a slow start this season. In spite of an unimpressive record of eight wins and six losses they show signs of becoming a great team. After holding the mighty Bowling Green to a four point victory, which came via the free throw route in the last four minutes the Muskies turned about and walloped Cincinnati University and the strong Long Island in successive games.

Low Hirt, serving his third season as Xavier coach, has ten lettermen this year as the nucleus of his squad. Last year Coach Hirt piloted his boys to a successful season of 24 victories and 8 losses and fourth place in the NAIB Tourney at Kansas City.

McMullen At Pivotal Point

One face among the Musketeer quintet will certainly be recognized by members of the Wildcat '96. That will be none other than Malcolm McMullen, former Kentucky player, McMullen played for the Cats in 1946-47.

No. 21 For Saturday

Ticket number 21 of the student activity book will be good for admission to the Xavier game tomorrow night in Alumni gym.

For other content, it will be No. 25—Alabama, Feb. 14, No. 21—Mississippi, Feb. 16, No. 25—Georgia Tech, Feb. 19, No. 26—Georgia, Feb. 21, No. 27—Vanderbilt, Feb. 26

Later he transferred to Xavier. The big six-foot five center has been playing fine ball for the Muskies, and last year he was second in scoring with 214 points in 22 games. This season Mac started like a house afire and has kept that pace to van the Xavier tallying with 179 points to date.

There is little doubt that McMullen will be a great loss to Xavier when he graduates this year, but Coach Hirt may be consoled by the fact that Mac is the only senior in the squad.

Turning the other part of the double-pivot type of offense employed by Hirt is Sophomore Bill Cady, a lad who earned a starting berth in his first year of varsity ball. Cady stands six feet, four inches, and in spite of an injured ankle he has maintained second place in the scoring column with 139 points. Besides being a good ball handler and a fine defensive player, Cady's torrid play under the basket and his consistent rebounding are contributing factors to the success of the Xavier team.

If the Wildcats continue to play their championship brand of basketball they should have little trouble in downing the Musketeers. But if they let up too much, there may be an upset and a Xavier victory in the making.

It may be a wise move on the part of Coach Hirt to use double pivot on defense as well as offense in order to stop the mighty Alex Greza. The record-breaking Mount-tain from Martin's Ferry has been playing a brand of ball that certainly allows him to live up to the name of Player of the Year.

Tip-off time for the fray tomorrow night is set for 8 o'clock and those students holding tickets No. 21 will get to see the game.

SEVEN GAMES REMAIN

Seven UK basketball games are left for the 1948-49 season. The Xavier tilt at the Cincinnati Gardens was not listed on the Wildcats' original schedule because of the uncertainty of the date of completion of the new arena. However, it now appears that the structure will be finished in time.

Here is the remaining card for the Cats:

Feb. 12 (Sat.)—Xavier, here
 Feb. 16 (Wed.)—Alabama, here
 Feb. 19 (Sat.)—Ga. Tech, here
 Feb. 21 (Mon.)—Georgia, here
 Feb. 24 (Thurs.)—Xavier, at Cincinnati
 Feb. 28 (Sat.)—Vanderbilt, here
