ABBEY OF GETHSEMANI
TRAPPIST, KENTUCKY

July 18 1962

Dear Carolyn:

Today I remembered finally about the text for the cover. It had been gone from my mind for days. So I have got some material on paper. With interlinear English this ought certainly to be long enough. And of course you may even want to cut some of it. I hope it will be satisfactory.

Do you think it would be possible for me to borrow a volume of Speculum (the magazine) out of season, if I promise to get it back in a big hurry?

There is an article by Rand "The New Cassiodorus" in Speculum XIII (1938) p 433 f.

There are also apparently three Columbia dissertations on him. Then there is a book I meant to refer to you, published by Columbia in 1946.

L.W. Jones, An Introduction to Divine and Human Readings by Cassiodorus Senator, trans with an introduction.

I am sending back the large volume of Notker and will keep the small one until I have read some more of the poems.

Are we agreed on August 23rd? Or do you prefer the 30th? The 23rd is slightly better for me, but there is not that much difference.

Is Maritain at Kolbsheim now? I might write to him if he is. In any case please give my warm regards to Alexis, for whom I prayed yesterday, the Feast of St Alexis. And I wish I were coming with you.

With all best wishes as ever
Most cordially in Christ,

Tom.

(I might as well keep the record straight
& be consistently Tom with all my friends outside the monastery.)

P.S. Many thanks for the Jaffa Register our librarian deeply appreciates.
Also of course Nicholas of Cusa
