

Lexington and Eastern Railway Company,

Samuel M. Wilson

General Counsel.

Legal Department

Lexington, Ky.

Winchester, Ky.

August 23, 1913.

J. A. Edge, Esq., Attorney at law,
McClelland Building,
Lexington, Ky.

Dear Sir:-

In January last an attachment was served on the L & E Ry. Co., at Jackson in favor of J. Wise Hagins against Sam South, an employee at that time of the Railway Company, who, I understand, is a colored man. By this attachment, the plaintiff sought to reach and hold $71.80 of money due South from the Railway Company. The Railway Company has in its hands an amount due South equal to the amount attached and it seems that South has expressly admitted his indebtedness to Hagins and asks that the amount due Hagins be paid him.

I have the impression that you were consulted by South in the matter and have had some connection with the case and, therefore, I hesitate to advise the Railway Company to go ahead and pay the money without knowing exactly what relation you may sustain to the case. Of course the money can be paid into Court under the attachment, but before doing that, or taking any other action regarding it, I will be obliged if you will kindly write me just what your connection, if any, is with the case.

Kindly let me hear from you promptly about the matter,
and oblige,

SMW/A

Yours truly,

COUNSEL.