Rupp Praises Students For Encouraging Team

By NEWTON SPENCER
Sports Editor

Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp referred yesterday to student reaction at the Florida State game as "some of the finest encouragement I have ever seen."

A year ago, Coach Rupp kicked about the empty seats in the student section at the basketball games. Last week, he asked the students to "raise hell" at the games—and they did.

"The students and public did everything they could to pull the team through and I am only sorry that the team let them down. I want to thank the students for what they did."

Coach Rupp singled out the band as one of the biggest noise-makers among the students. "Those bandsmen really let go out there," Rupp recalled.

Some observers have thought that the noise-making of the crowd had disturbed junior college transfer Vince Del Negro and other younger players unaccustomed to such noise.

Rupp, however, discounts this. "The fans were real peaceful at the start while Del Negro was in the game and didn't really break loose until they saw that Kentucky was going to lose," the coach said.

Rupp intends to stick to the same basic lineup which he has used in the first two games with Ned Jennings possibly replacing Del Negro at center.

"I may start Jennings in place of Del Negro because Del Negro just hasn't been getting the job done," Rupp said.

"Against Notre Dame tomorrow night, this would leave Roger Newman and Larry Pursiful at guards and Billy Ray Lickert and Allen Feldhaus at the forwards.

Captain Dick Parsons will not start because of the height advantage Notre Dame will have over Kentucky.

Princeton Professor Speaks On Diplomacy

A specialist in diplomatic and military history at Princeton University, Dr. Gordon A. Craig, will speak at 8 o'clock tonight in the Taylor Education Building auditorium.

The program, sponsored by the Blazer Lecture Series, will concern "The Role of Diplomacy in the East-West Struggle." One of this country's most distinguished historians, Dr. Craig joined the Princeton University department of History in 1941. After twice interrupting his career for public service, he was made a full professor when he was 37 years old.

He has written numerous historical works that have attracted attention both in this country and in Europe.

Princeton undergraduates rate Dr. Craig as one of the University's most inspiring lecturers, and he is a frequent speaker at the National War College.

Dr. Craig has won the H. B. Adams Prize of the American Historical Association, served as visiting professor at Columbia University, participated in various studies, and taught at Yale.

He was valedictorian of the 1936 Princeton class and received the Bachelor of Letters from Oxford where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar. He received both his master's and doctor's degree from Princeton.

Accidents Spoil Yuletide

By GEORGE J. McNULTY
Kernel Staff Writer

Every year hundreds of American families have their Christmas holidays marred by accidental poisonings. The really tragic part of this is that the greatest incidence of poisoning occurs in children of the preschool age group.

Dr. Charles A. Walton, head of the Department of Materia Medica in the College of Pharmacy and chairman of the Kentucky Poison Control Program, pointed out recently that many of the accidental poisonings in children during the Christmas season are due to the toxic ingredients found in various Christmas decorations.

Such ornaments, he said, as bubble light, fire-place colors, snow sprays, icicles, holly berries, and mistletoe have been known to cause poisoning in children.

Other things, he said as certain bead-like seeds used in floral displays and powdered-bronze paint used in gilding Christmas cards, which are often within the grasp of small children, have also been found to contain toxic ingredients.

But beside these seasonal dangers, Dr. Walton cautioned, adults and parents should also be aware of the more common causes of accidental poisoning.

Referring to a recent report of the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers, he showed that approximately 50 percent of all poisoning cases in children five years of age and under are due to

Directories Not Expected To Be Out By Christmas

William Grote, manager of the Kernel Printing Plant, expressed doubt yesterday that the 1960-61 edition of the student directory will be ready for distribution before Christmas holidays.

Grote couldn't estimate when the directory will be finished but said it is "doubtful" that it will be ready before Christmas.

Acting Student Congress President Bob Wainscott, said his committee in charge of the printing of the telephone book hopes "they're out by Dec. 13."

"We need them for our election. Maybe that's asking for the impossible—I don't know."

Defending the late publication of the new edition, Wainscott said, "We had it ready to roll several days after we began working on it." This was in late October.

Marvin Dunn, chairman of the committee, said that the Office of Machine Statistics has had the material since "six weeks ago last Friday."

"We did what we had to do immediately."

The SC committee had to compile an alphabetical list of names, addresses, and telephone numbers to give to the IBM operators. They were to punch out and photograph the lists; then send them to the Kernel Press.

Grote reported yesterday that he had not received the material. David Sheets, director of the Office of Machine Statistics, said that his department will get the copies to the printers either today or tomorrow at the latest.

He said, "It was just a matter of time. We had to alphabetize the list of names, addresses, and telephone numbers.

Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin and Wainscott have been keeping in touch with Sheets trying to get him to hurry the process.

But "they let this thing ride in favor of other things," was the

Speaker Emphasizes Jobs Open To Fashion Students

Josephine Portong Riggs, Admissions Counselor and Executive Director at Tobe Coburn fashion school, spoke to students interested in the field of fashion yesterday.

She emphasized the important aspects of the field. The counselor mentioned many of the important jobs in the field today and the vast openings for young persons who have an interest in fashion.

Background was one of the important things which she emphasized. Mrs. Riggs emphasized background, saying, "Summer jobs in the volume stores are the best experience."

"Reading the fashion magazines and the fashion newspapers such as Women's Wear Daily will be helpful in learning the fashion lingo and the current trends."

While in college, student activities are one of the greatest exoverdoses of medicine, and that in half of these cases, aspirin is the medicine involved.

Other major causes of poison in the order of their frequency listed were cleaning and polishing agents, 17 percent; pesticides, 10 percent; petroleum products such as kerosene and gasoline, 6 percent; paints and varnishes, 5 percent; and cosmetics, 5 percent.

In the pesticide group, Dr. Walton explained the most common product encountered is mothballs, which children have a tendency to pick up and swallow.

"Four hundred children die annually," he added, "as a result of accidental poisoning, and for every fatal case there are 500 non-fatal ones."

The National Clearinghouse's report estimated that within the next 12 months more than 600,000 Americans will be poisoned through accidental ingestion of solid and liquid chemicals, and of these, 1,500 will die.

Dr. Walton advised that anyone involved in a case of poisoning should phone their physician immediately or call the emergency ward of the nearest hospital.

"The first 30 minutes after poison is taken are of vital importance," he said. "Too often people wait to see what will happen and by then it's too late to be of any help."

Pharmacists Discuss Curriculum Change

Discussion of the various problems involved in the conversion of the pharmacy curriculum from a four year program to a five year program was the main business at the Kappa Psi, Pharmaceutical Fraternity Convention here.

Chapters from Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee, and Kentucky were represented at the province seven convention held Saturday at the College of Pharmacy.

The 50 delegates to the convention, held every two years, exchanged ideas and reported on their individual problems. R. M. Doughty, assistant professor of Materia Medica, was elected secretary-treasurer of province seven.

Circulation Swells Medical Library

The Medical Center Library, a storehouse of literature about the health sciences and related subjects, has had a steady increase in circulation since its opening.

When it opened last January, the monthly circulation was 110 books and 116 journals; at the end of October the circulation had grown to 927 books and 293 journals a month. This gives the library an average monthly circulation of 360 books and journals.

The library now contains some 50,000 volumes and subscribes to 1,200 periodicals. Alfred Brandon, Medical Librarian, stated that this is a better collection than half the medical schools in the country.

Manpower Shortage

We found last week that the ever-changing tides of campus politics have taken a new and interesting turn and seem to have reached their ebb.

Student Congress President Bob Wainscott issued what amounted to an appeal for candidates to run for the congress assembly in the Dec. 13 general elections. This is, we feel, a terribly sad state of affairs.

In the past, when Student Congress membership held a greater appeal to fraternities and sororities, Greeks fell all over themselves trying to get elected to the organization. Congress membership in those days, we must admit, did have a certain charm it has lacked in the past year or two.

Membership was an honorary sort of thing; work was not expected of most members. Elections were popularity contests—something to occupy students frustrated because the University is not represented in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Most students of late have felt that the results of Congress elections indicate little more than whose friends can stuff the most ballots.

But regardless of the past foibles of the congress, its representatives, and the campus electorate, the newly reorganized congress would have much to offer students.

By placing students on committees of the University Faculty, the Faculty will be made better aware of students' needs and desires in making decisions.

In dealing with the Faculty committees, congress members will gain knowledge of the workings of the University and will learn how to effectively deal with people with conflicting views. They will actually take an active part in helping to determine University policy.

If they would organize, campus political parties could become as strong as they were under the old congress. Where there were once bitterly divisive battles over party nominees among the fraternities and sororities that comprised the parties' memberships, there are now enough seats up for grabs at each election to satisfy everyone. The parties could have a greater degree of unity than ever before and much more to fight for.

Independent students could take a greater role than ever before in campus politics with the enlarged congress. Fraternity and sorority blocs will not be as instrumental in selecting representatives as they have in past elections. Thus, the unaffiliated student tends to stand a far better chance of election.

All in all, we feel that all campus groups stand to gain quite a bit under a new congress. And now if we can just find 99 interested students who aren't afraid of work . . .

A Democratic Definition

Democracy in America is many wonderful things. But there are some things that it is not, and this needs to be understood better than it is.

Democracy is privilege but it is not license.

In its name, individual Americans are not free to violate or show disrespect for the property of others. A surprising number today seem to feel that democracy justifies a kind of "what's yours is mine" approach.

Nothing in the democratic way of life is intended, furthermore, to endorse unwarranted invasions of personal privacy. These often include rude excesses which appear to presume that the strict personal sense, every man is every other man's friend.

Actually, the right to reject men and ideas is a strong element in our freedom.

Nor should democracy be taken as an abandonment of standards of character and performance. If we do not respect excellence and the virtues of man, freedom cannot flourish. For it is not an invitation to enthrone mediocrity.

In our land there has been of late too great a tendency to accept failure as the proof of humaneness and therefore to excuse it and to countenance error almost as if these things were in fact achievements.

To err may be human, but this old saying hardly qualifies as a fit national motto for a vibrant democracy.

There are sharp distinctions among men as to both ability and character. Democracy is not a system dedicated to blotting out these differences in a destructive leveling process.

By education and every other reasonable means, democracy must foster—not smother—the development of men according to their capacity.

The equality in democracy is equality of opportunity. All must have the chance to develop the best that is in them.

Democracy is not a warrant to others to make your life and your property a community possession. Nor is it a giant mixer that renders all men alike in talent and purpose.

It is simply an opening of the door. Those who pass through must be free to walk at their own pace in their own way—The (Biloxi) Daily Herald

School Spirit—Humbug?

By NORRIS JOHNSON

Another football season has drawn to a close and we move directly into a season of basketball. And students are urged immediately to "raise hell at the games." The constant clamor about our lack of school spirit begins anew.

We have had Kernel editorialists deplore our lack of school spirit, heard cheerleaders implore us to show more activity at football games, and the local pep club reprehend us for coming to games in such attire that we aren't free to lose all inhibitions and raise a tremendous din when a Wildcat breaks away for a two-yard gain or a field goal, depending on the sport. Such concern deserves an answer.

Through some perverted thought process, school spirit now connotes just one thing—enthusiasm at athletic events. No one entreats us to demonstrate our spirit in any other manner. We are never encouraged to be proud of, or be concerned over, the school's academic reputation.

We devote one hour each spring to the recognition of students' academic achievements and complain because the Grill is closed during the program. We are never asked to dress casually on Honors Day so we can scream when honor students are introduced.

I submit that were a graduate to be seen at the Nobel Prize, no one would beseech us to rejoice at the success of a fellow or glory in the honor reflected on our school. But let an athlete earn All-America recognition and certain groups will condemn our lack of spirit if there is no dancing in the streets and no bonfire in Stoll Field.

We subordinate academic excellence to athletic prowess and I question our sense of values.

The argument can be raised that athletic teams bring in a great deal of money and that our outstanding basketball teams have brought national recognition to UK.

True. The athletic program does bring in much money for the athletic program and UK's basketball team has gained the school a national reputation—as a school that produces outstanding basketball teams.

Personally, I feel no more obligated to root for the UK team than for my favorite professional teams. My sympathies lay with each and my contact with UK athletes is on a par with my association with members of the Baltimore Colts or Boston Celtics.

If athletic squads represented a student body, there might be a legitimate reason for us to feel in some way related to the team's success or failure. But under the modern athletic program, normal procedure has been reversed. Teams are not selected from among the students. Athletes are selected and then induced into becoming students. One can hardly avoid thinking that possibly the school exists merely as a base of operations for the football and basketball teams.

Still I shall continue attending games because I enjoy watching sports events. I will yell when I witness a well executed play but not just at UK games, and I'll rise to establish my loyalty when the "All for Kentucky, stand up and holler" yell is done. But will the cheerleaders please refrain from asking me to reaffirm my allegiance every few minutes? I will begin to think they doubt me.

And if the game is dull, or if the weather is cold and rainy, or if my flask is exhausted of its contents, I will leave early with no guilt feelings about my lack of school spirit.

Perhaps I do lack school spirit but possibly school spirit as it is popularly defined will be examined one day and found incompatible with the ideals of a new generation. Then perhaps educational institutions can get back to the one thing they do best—educating.

Challenging The Student

It is clear that there is in American education today a new emphasis upon the pursuit of excellence. There appear to be several things implied by the pursuit of excellence that have relevance not only to what we teach, but to how we teach and how we arouse the interest of our students.

The view has already been expressed that the pursuit of excellence must not be limited to the gifted student. But the idea that teaching should be aimed at the average student in order to provide something for everybody is an equally inadequate formula. The quest, it seems to many of us, is to devise materials that will challenge the superior student while not destroying the confidence and will-to-learn of those who are less fortunate. We have no illusions about the difficulty of such a course, yet it is the only one open to us if we are to pursue excellence and at the same time honor the diversity of talents we must educate. . . .

One of the least discussed ways of carrying a student through a hard unit of material is to challenge him with a chance to exercise his full powers, so that he may discover the pleasure of full and effective functioning. Good teachers know the power of this lure. Students should know what it feels like to be completely absorbed in a problem. They seldom experience this feeling in school. Given enough absorption in class, some students may be able to carry over the feeling to work done on their own.

(Excerpted from the book "The Process of Education" by Jerome Bruner, published by the Harvard University Press.)

periences that one could obtain. Mrs. Riggs also placed great emphasis on the leadership which would be gained by the activities.

Mrs. Riggs said, "One of the most important things to be aware of when applying for a job is to look the part. The merchandising field is a very business type field in which one must appear that way. One must be a real go getter."

She feels it is better to stay near your own home town or fairly near when applying for a job. A store is more likely to hire a person who is familiar with the area.

She emphasized that if a student wants to go into the fashion world as a buyer, marriage is not a good idea.

Opportunities in the fashion world are not limited to just department stores. Many automobile companies hire women in the field of interior decorating for designing purposes. Advertising agencies are very good positions for people who enjoy publicity or public relations type work.

Chess Club Plans First Tournament

Chess players are requested to sign up in Room 122 of the SUB by Dec. 9 for the first annual Chess Club tournament.

Students should not hesitate to sign because of lack of experience, according to Gene Lewter, Arts and Sciences freshman from Louisville, president of the recently organized Chess Club. All students not on probation, who are familiar with the game, are urged to participate.

The tournament, sponsored by the SUB Recreation Committee and backed by the YMCA, will be held Dec. 12-15. The finals will be after the holidays, and trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up.

Players may contact opponents, whose names will be posted on the

Senior Officers

The election of Arts and Sciences senior class officers will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 111, McVey Hall.

A nominating committee headed by Geri Denbo will present a slate of candidates. Miss Denbo said, however, that the committee "encourages students to make nominations from the floor at the meeting."

Serving with Miss Denbo on the committee are Sue Ball, Bill Fortune, and Bob Anderson.

Speaking Contest To Be Tonight

The Patterson Literary Society will hold the "Crum Extemporaneous Speaking Contest" at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Laboratory Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

Home Ec Club Discusses Gift Problems

What to buy your boy friend, mother, father, sister, and brother are questions being asked by the home economics girls this week.

A panel discussion will be held during the Home Economics Club meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in Erikson Hall lounge discussing "What to get your Boy Friend for Christmas." Earl, Campbell, Harvey Crouch, and Herbert McComas will answer questions presented to them by club members.

The rest of the week will be spent preparing for the annual Christmas Bazaar. Each member of the club is making a gift to be sold at the Bazaar which begins at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday.

Following the bazaar, a luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale today through Thursday at the entrance of Erikson Hall lounge for $1.25.

 impression received by Wainscott. Grote emphasized that his printers will begin work on the directory immediately when they receive the completed list of names.

Dunn said his committee has received some compensation from an offer by the University Computing Service to do all the work for next year's directory.

They guarantee to have the lists ready by Oct. 15. Dunn said this does no good for this year, but it is some relief to have this offer available for consideration.

There is nothing so easy but that it becomes difficult when you do it with reluctance.—Terence.

The Dope Sheet

By Scottie Helt

The date for the annual Spiked Shoe Relays has been set for April 22, 1961, and the Relays are expected to present another leading personality from the track-and-field world.

One of the persons under consideration by the Society now is Wilma Rudolph, the Tennessee A & I woman athlete who gained Olympic fame last summer in Rome, Italy.

Miss Rudolph was the only U. S. runner to win three gold medals at Rome and one of only two U. S. team members in all to win three. Another talented miss, Chris Von Salz, was the other U. S. athlete to win three gold medals—hers coming in swimming competition.

This column sincerely hopes that Press Whelan, chairman of the local Spiked Shoe Society, can get Miss Rudolph here for the Relays. She's one of the world's greatest athletes.

Whelan, who made his coaching debut this fall as head of the Kentucky freshman cross country team, directed his Kitten runners to 5-2 season to rank as the winningest UK fall sports team.

The frosh lost their first two meets of the season, losing to the Ohio University freshmen, 37½-18½, and falling before Huntington (West Va.) High School, 28-27.

Then, the Kittens rounded into form and racked up wins in all five of their remaining meets. They bested Eastern's varsity, 25-30, Berea Foundation, 25-30, Elizabethtown, 22-33, St. Xavier, 26-29, and St. Joe Prep, 17-38.

Low score wins in cross country.

Whelan has recommended four members of the squad for freshman numerals. These are Owen Basham, John Berend, Paul Kiel, and John Knapp.

Two-game statistics on Coach Adolph Rupp's "Feeble Five" show three men averaging in double figures. Roger Newman, who scored 20 points against VMI in his first varsity game, added eight against Florida State before fouling out for a team-leading 14.0 average.

Larry Pursiful's 16 points against FSU gives him 22 for the two games and an 11.0 average while Bill Lickert has hit for nine and 12 points in the first two encounters for 21 points and a 10.5 average.

Captain Dick Parsons has a 9.8 average, Allen Feldhaus and Vince Del Negro a 5.5 mean, Ned Jennings 3.5, Carroll Burckett and Bernie Butts 3.0, and Jim McDonald 1.0.

Scotty Baesler, who played briefly against the Seminoles, is the only Wildcat of 11 who has played thus far that has failed to score.

Then, there was the headline on a story in a nudist camp newspaper, telling of a recent sporting event which read, "VOLLEY BALL TEAM MAKES GOOD SHOWING."

Kittens Top Stubborn Xavier; Team Praised By Lancaster

By DAN OMLOR

The Kentucky freshmen, a reckless band of daredevils, won their second straight game Saturday night by overcoming a stubborn Xavier quintet, 98-84, before 4,000 fans at Memorial Coliseum.

Cotton Nash again paced the UKittens' free-wheeling offense as he had 28 points and 16 rebounds. Charles Ishmael had 16 points, Ted Deeken scored 15, and Paul Wyatt was next with 11. Tom Harper finished with nine and Tom Gobel had six. Deeken was rebounding runnerup with 11.

The Musketeers were more determined and in better physical shape than the Lexington YMCA which the UKittens trounced, 101-62, in their opener, but after putting up a gallant fight in the opening minutes, the Cincinnati team fell gradually behind, trailing 53-40 at the half.

When Xavier's two best rebounders, Tom Geiger and Duane Pelkington, fouled out toward the end of the game, Kentucky controlled the boards with ease.

shots, but never came closer than 10 points. Xavier outshot Kentucky with a percentage of 42 to Kentucky's 38, but Kentucky took 91 shots to Xavier's 78.

The freshmen play their first road game at Morehead tomorrow night and return to the Coliseum Saturday to play Vanderbilt.

Motto Is 'Getting Even'

Wildcats Scalped By FSU

By SCOTTIE HELT

A renegade band of Florida State Seminoles attacked Memorial Coliseum Saturday night and when the massacre was over, they had taken everything. Gone was a Kentucky Colonel's commission, nets from both baskets—and their greatest confiscation—the pride of Kentucky basketball in the form of a 63-58 upset win over the Wildcats.

This was a well-trained group of renegades, a group that had learned well the shuffle-type offense made famous by Drake and Auburn. Coach J. K. (Bud) Kennedy reigned chief over filled Memorial Coliseum where basketball's great "White Father," Adolph Rupp, has long ruled.

But, the Seminoles were not raiding at random. They knew well in advance who their enemy was, and they were determined to get even for the 61-68 licking the Cats handed them in their only other meeting with a Kentucky basketball team in 1958.

"Getting even" now appears to be the motto of this unpredictable 1960-61 Kentucky team which stands 1-1 on the season and has yet to play a "big-time" opponent.

The Wildcats first evened their all-time battling with little VMI in their season opener, sputtering to a 72-56 win for the second win against two losses in competition with the Keydets.

Kentucky now is "even-steven" with the Seminoles at 1-1.

To continue the pace of evening all-time records will probably become tougher now. Kentucky needs victories in its next two outings against bigwigs Notre Dame and North Carolina to keep the string going.

The Fighting Irish, the Cats' opponents tomorrow night in Louisville's Freedom Hall, hold an 11-10 edge over the Cats while North Carolina, Greensboro, N.C., foe of Dec. 13, has won three of five from Kentucky.

Notre Dame always points for Kentucky, however, and returning lettermen John Dearie, Eddie Schnurr, and Bill Crosby will be seeking revenge for last season's setback.

The Irish opened with a 97-56

win over Western Illinois last Thursday and were scheduled to play Evansville last night.

The story of the Florida State game was merely one of a lackluster Kentucky team being outplayed. The visitors hit 25 of 51 shots from the floor for 49 percent; Kentucky canned only 23 of 70 shots for a 32.9 percent. That was the difference.

Neither team was able to cash in on free throws, Kentucky missing half of its 24 tries and FSU 12 of its 25.

After FSU Coach Kennedy had been presented his Kentucky Colonel commission in pre-game ceremonies, the Seminoles showed weren't intending on rolling over and playing dead for their "gracious" hosts.

Dale Ricketts quickly put Florida State in front, 2-0, with a crisp, and the upset was in the making.

A pair of field goals by Larry Pursiful put Kentucky on top, 4-2, but Ricketts came right back with a fielder to tie the game at 4-4.

The score was knotted at 6-6, 8-8, and 12-12 before FSU began to pull away midway through the period. Then, Kentucky made its run, tied it up at 24-24, on Bill Lickert's hook shot and moved in front, 30-25, behind Pursiful's shooting.

But, Florida State came back to life and scored the last seven points of the half to take a 34-32 lead to the dressing room.

Kentucky never led nor tied the contest again. FSU opened the gap to 50-42, with nine minutes left in the game. Kentucky made a last-ditch challenge, getting as close as one at 51-50.

Florida State spurred again, however, opening the gap to 59-51 and had only to stall and draw Kentucky fouls to gain the victory.

Fans stood unbelieving at the final 63-58 score while the Seminoles went wild, cutting the nets, and carrying Coach Kennedy around the Coliseum floor.

Dave Fedor led the Seminoles with 17 points, followed closely by Bill Cotton with 15, and Ray Swain with 13.

Pursiful led Kentucky with 16 points. Lickert was next with 12—all coming in the first half.

'Hands Up'

Kentucky guard Roger Newman and other players battle for the ball in first half action as Florida State outfought the Cats, 63-58, Saturday night.

A FRAT TO REMEMBER

Every year, as we all know, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Collegiate Fraternities awards a highly coveted prize to the fraternity house which, in its judgment, has done the most to promote and enhance the fraternity way of life. The prize this year—eight hundred pounds of white putty—goes to the Signa Phi Nothing chapter of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art.

The award this year is exceptionally richly deserved, for the Signa Phi Nothing house is the very model of all a fraternity should be. It is, first of all, a most attractive house physically. The outside walls are tastefully covered with sequins. Running along the upper story is a widow's walk, with a widow stationed every three feet. Moored to the chimney pot is the Graf Zeppelin.

Indoors, the house gives an impression of simple, casual charm. The chapter room is furnished in homey maple and chintz, with a dash of verve provided by a carp pool three hundred feet in diameter. A waterspout rises from the center of the pool with the housemother bouncing on the top.

Members' rooms are gracious and airy and are provided with beds which disappear into the wall—permanently. Each room also has a desk, a comfortable chair, a good reading lamp, and a catapult for skeetshooting. Kidney-shaped desks are available for kidney-shaped members.

Perhaps the most fetching feature of the house are the packs of Marlboros stacked in heaps wherever one goes. If one wishes to settle back and enjoy a full-flavored smoke, one needs only to reach out one's hand in any direction and pick a pack of Marlboros—soft pack or flip-top box—and make one's self comfortable with a filtered cigarette with an unfiltered taste—that triumph of the tobaccoist's art, that paragon of smokes, that acme of cigarettes, that employer of mine—Marlboro!

The decor, the grace, the Marlboros, all combine to make Signa Phi Nothing a real gas of a fraternity. But a fraternity is more than things; it is also people. And it is in the people department that Signa Phi Nothing really shines.

Signa Phi Nothing has among its members the biggest BMOCs on the entire campus of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art. There is, for instance, William Makepeace Sigafos, charcoal and bun chairman of the annual Stamp Club outing. Then there is Dun Rovin, winner of last year's All-South Dakota State Monopoly Championship, 135 Pound Class. Then there is Rock Schwartz, who can sleep standing up. Then there is Tremblant Placebo, who can crack pecans in his armpits. Then there is Ralph Tungsten, who went bald at eight.

But why go on? You can see what a splendid bunch of chaps there is in Signa Phi Nothing, and when one sees them at the house in the cool of the evening, all busy with their tasks—some picking locks, some playing Jacks-or-Better, some clipping Playboy—one's heart fills up and one's eyes grow misty, and one cannot but give three cheers and a tiger for Signa Phi Nothing, fraternity of the year!

© 1960 Max Shulman

And while you're cheering, how about a huzzah for the newest member of the Marlboro family of fine cigarettes—untarred, mild, delightful Philip Morris king-size Commander! Have a Commander—welcome aboard!

JACK SAVED HIS COMPANY $10,000 ON HIS FIRST ASSIGNMENT

While Jack Trabert was in college he had some definite career ideas. He knew what he wanted—a job with a payoff for good judgment and hard work.

With a B.S. in Business Administration from the University of Nebraska, Jack knew he could look in many directions. And he did. He talked to 20 companies. And then in August, 1957, joined Northwestern Bell, in Omaha, Nebraska.

His chance to show what he could do was not long in coming. On his first assignment Jack came up with answers that made it possible to handle long distance calls made at night in the Omaha area with less force and equipment than was needed under the old system. This resulted in a $10,000 annual saving.

Next, Jack worked on a training and development program for "mark sensing"—a new method for mechanized processing of long distance charges.

Today, Jack has an important role in planning and developing telephone facilities to keep pace with Omaha's ever-increasing need for long distance services.

Jack puts it this way—"If a guy can keep his average up, there are places to go in this outfit. A man doesn't have to wait around for opportunity to knock—he has all he can handle right from the start."

If you want a job in which you're given a chance to show your stuff, and held strictly accountable for your decisions, right from the start—then you'll want to visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."
