Addresses a topic of profound importance to libraries, as well as to the general citizenry. Since the Federal Government produces an enormous share of the information explosion, how should that be handled? How much of this information should be distributed electronically? Should the government itself distribute it or should it let the private sector do that? And should it release only raw data or should it enhance it to afford greater accessibility? Ample appendices cover legislation in this area.

FROM THE ARCHIVES of 6/27/1980

From the Staff Development Committee Final Report 1979-1980, submitted by Barbara Galik.

"The Staff Development Committee had a very eventful year.

We sponsored five programs, covering a wide variety of subjects. German for librarians was taught for the first time and was well received. On the evaluation forms for that time and was well received. On the evaluation forms for that class, interest was expressed in the language courses. We sponsored three workshops designed to help the individual.

The first of these was on the nominal group process. This program showed how to work effectively on a committee. The second was concerned with self-development, that is, how you perceive yourself."

On the same date there were 3 job openings in Circulation and the LSD summer picnic was held at Jacobson Park.
