Bitter Political Fight Expected With Engineers in Annual Election of Officers on November 6 and 7

Announce Candidates

Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors Also Name Men for Honor Positions

Quite a degree of interest has been created on the campus by the Arts and Sciences freshmen organizing for the first time as a body to oppose the ever strong Engineers in the coming class election.

The Engineering freshmen have selected Warren Bate for their candidate and Ollie Sample is the third nominee in the race for president so the election will undoubtedly be very interesting.

Invite Student Dramatic Organizations To Participate in National American Theater Conference at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Student dramatic organizations that give serious plays have been invited to participate prominently in the first national conference on the American theater to be held at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh on November 27 and 28 of this year.

Announcement of the conference is considered a recognition of the changing conditions in the theater in this country, especially with regard to the growth of the community playhouse movement and the widespread interest in college theaters.

Get Your Ticket

Athletic Association Asks Cooperation of Students

Tickets for members of the faculty to the Kentucky-Centre football game may be obtained at the book store and it is the wish of the athletic association that these be taken as soon as possible. Students who have made reservations are asked to get their tickets immediately from the book store. It is the earnest desire of the athletic association that those students who have not yet purchased their tickets for the game and wish to get them please do so as soon as possible instead of waiting until the day before the contest, as the association will be so busy with other things at that time that they will not have the time from their other work to fill with the tickets. There are still plenty of good seats left and any employee of the book store will be glad to sell any number of them to any student.

GIVE NEW RULES FOR TEA DANCES

Pan Hellenic Rules Against Overcrowded Entertainment; Confetti and Inflammable Decorations Barred

No More Chapter Bids

Alas! The death-knell of the "moby" bid at the numerous and delightful tea-dances to be given this year has been sounded. No more will collegiate young men, upon sighting the dancing partners of their choice, have to struggle, push, batter and wind their way across the erstwhile crowded recreation hall of Pat hall to reach her. Instead, they may unconcernedly saunter across the hall, tag no lady and dance calmly off, with the spirit of competitive contest. This new rule is due to a recent decision of Miss Franke, dean of women, who deems it wise to restrict numbers to avoid invitations to be sent to the men students to only 150—much to the disappointment of equally many boys and girls on the campus. It is the best course to follow for the following reasons:

1. The crowd in the last few years have been too large.

2. The parties could not be held in Patterson hall unless some plan of limiting numbers is agreed upon.

The following regulations will go into effect this year:

- 1. There shall be no parking of automobiles on the grounds. Use Winslow and Pine streets.
2. Decorations will not be interfered with or hang from the lights. Confetti shall not be used.
3. For tea dances—
a. No general invitations may be issued.
b. Each sorority may extend 150 invitations to members of the district. No guest will be admitted without an invitation.

These rules have been presented to Pat and will be in effect on Monday. He will return the willingness to abide by them.

KAVANAUGH AT WASHINGTON

George Kavanaugh, University Y. M. C. A. secretary, is en route to Washington, D. C., to attend the International Convention of the Y. M. C. A., which opens in that city tomorrow and on Monday. He will return on Tuesday. All branches of the "Y" will be represented in the convention. The opening address will be made by President Coolidge.

SPEAKS TO "Y" CABINET

The Y. M. C. A. Cabinet met in its regular business meeting Tuesday evening in the "Y" rooms in the Alumni building. Frank B. Lenz, who has been a Y. M. C. A. secretary in China for the last six years, made a short talk on the "Problems Facing the Y. M. C. A. in China."

ROMANY OPENS WITH 'CANDIDA' TUESDAY NIGHT

Performance Postponed From Monday on Account of Paul Whiteman Concert at Woodland Auditorium

Is Married Life Comedy

Dress Rehearsals Will Begin This Evening at Playhouse on Winslow

The opening performance of "Candida," by George Bernard Shaw, will be given at the Romany theater Tuesday evening, as it was postponed from Monday evening on account of the Paul Whiteman concert at the Woodland auditorium. Dress rehearsals begin this evening at the theater.

The costume of the play will be of the period of 1890 with the high collars, large sleeves, full, trailing skirts and hats having high and luxuriant coils and braids of the women's hair. The season is the autumn, requiring decorations in the rich fall colors. The scene is the home of a cultured family of the middle class English society of that period.

Comedy of Married Life

"Candida" is a delightful comedy of married life wherein, as usual, the husband's greatest appeal to his wife's vanity is his own admiration of her. Mr. Morel, Candida's husband, thinks he can do anything. The brilliant but physically weak 18-year-old poet, Marchbanks, is in love with Candida and tries to point out that she is throwing herself away on the Rev. Mr. Morel. Candida, however, is so fond of the fun in everything, but she is motherly and kind in her reproaches and observations.

The cast of characters is as follows: Candida Morel—Mrs. J. H. Powers The Rev. Mr. Morel—W. R. Sutherland Miss Popsy—Mary Lee from Lexy Mills Lee Buckley Marchbanks—Addison Yeaman Mr. Burgess—Wallace Saunders

200 Apply to Try-Out For Stroller Eligibles

All Students Interested Requested to Watch Bulletin Board in White Hall

Approximately two hundred students, of whom a large proportion are freshmen, have turned in their applications and are trying out for Stroller eligibles, according to Al. Weinman, director of the dramatic organization. Try-outs will start on Tuesday instead of Monday, as was originally announced, and will continue through Friday.

All students trying out for the Strollers are requested to watch the bulletin board in White hall, as each evening the schedule of try-outs for the next day will be posted thereon. In addition Frank Brown, chairman of the try-out committee, will notify all candidates of the time of their try-out. Promptness of appearance at all try-outs is essential, and in case of tardiness an excuse must be submitted to and approved by Phillip Rusch, president of the Strollers, or else the applicant will forfeit their rights to try-out this year.

A committee is at work now and it is expected that the play selected for this year's production will be announced before Thanksgiving. Last year the organization enlarged its program by making a tour of western as well as of eastern Kentucky and the officials hope to carry out a program just as elaborate this year.

Students Installed

Two Minute System in Busy Hours to Solve Telephone Problem

A switchboard has been installed in Boyd hall for the use of students in both Patterson and Boyd halls. The switchboard is of the same type as used last year. The telephone office is at present a center of great interest to those who cannot imagine how the thing works. These phones however, can only be used sometimes after the call is received. If the girl does not answer her room bell, her call is written out and delivered to her when she returns or when she inquires for the same. Mrs. Gile's private phone number is 4063 and Miss Berkeley's number is 4655.

Attention! Students

Leave Your Lexington Address at Registrar's Office

All students are asked to call at the registrar's office immediately and leave their Lexington address and telephone number so that the student and faculty directories may be completed as soon as possible. According to Miss Grad, who is in charge of the office, the directories are ready to go to the printers but are being held up in order that the addresses and telephone numbers of all the students in the university may be obtained. If you want your name in the directory, call at the registrar's office at your earliest convenience and leave the desired information.

FRESHMAN GIRLS TO MEET MONDAY

Women's Administrative Council Calls Mass Meeting to Discuss Activities for Women on Campus

Attendance Compulsory

At a compulsory mass meeting of freshman girls, which is to be held in the assembly room in Dicker hall on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the members of the Women's Administrative council of the university will speak to the members of the class of '26 on student activities.

The council is composed of representatives from the various organizations on the campus, among these being: Kappa staff, Su-Ky, Strollers, Y. W. C. A. and Student Council. In their first game this season they defeated the Tennessee State eleven by a score of 53 to 0, followed by a tie with Texas Aggies, 6 to 6. The only mishap they have encountered so far occurred last Saturday when they were defeated by the University of Alabama, 27 to 0.

When the whistle sounds tomorrow afternoon, Kentucky will probably be without the services of "Moco" Edwards, who is out with an injured knee, sustained in the last play of the Washington and Lee game. But the rest of the gang will be ready to step into the positions readily to redeem themselves for the miserable showing they presented on last Saturday.

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR SUPT. SECTION OF K. E. A.

Provisions of Bill Will Not Be Known Until It Is Adopted

The executive committee of the superintendent's section of the Kentucky Educational Association met Tuesday, October 17, in the office of Prof. M. E. Ligon, principal of the University High school, associate president of the Educational Association and president of the Kentucky Educational Association, and drafted a new constitution for the superintendent's section.

The provisions of the newly drafted constitution will not be made known until the bill is presented for adoption at the next meeting of the superintendent's section at Frankfort.

Supt. C. E. Birkhead, of the Winchester city schools, requested that the meeting be held with Professor Ligon, so that the new section constitution would be in conformity with the K. E. A. constitution.

Members of the committee attending the meeting were: City Superintendent Birkhead; J. W. Wesley, of Nicholasville; J. W. Lancaster, of Georgetown; J. H. Payne, of Richmond; and Lee Kirkpatrick, of Paris. Other superintendents of counties are Boone county, Miss Mattie Dalton, of Fayette county; J. W. Rainey, of Campbell county; and J. E. Paxton, of Shelby county.

SEWANEE TIGERS MEET WILDCATS HERE TOMORROW

Kentucky Defeated Tennessee Mountaineers by Lone Tugboat Down Last Year; Tigers Back for Revenge

Edwards Out of Line-Up

Alabama Only Eleven to Beat Tigers So Far This Season

The Sewanee Tigers, hailing from their stronghold in the Tennessee mountains, will invade the confines of McLean stadium tomorrow afternoon to meet the Wildcats in an important football classic, which promises to be one of the most hotly contested games on the Kentucky campus. Play will be called promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The Sewanee team, which received last year at the hands of the Wildcats, Kentucky defeated them 7 to 0, but the Tigers made that one touchdown game nearly earned to the Wildcats. Three weeks later Sewanee upset the largest crowd in the South and Middle West by virtue of their defeat over Vanderbilt, the conquerors of Minnesota. Minnesota, in turn, subdued Illinois and Red Grange. Therefore, in the final analysis, Kentucky could boast of a 53 point advantage over Illinois.

Many Veterans in Line-Up The University of the South has an array of old veterans back in line. The team includes a hefty bunch of last year's freshmen material filling in the gaps, predictions point to some strong contenders for the Southern Conference title. In their first game this season they defeated the Tennessee State eleven by a score of 53 to 0, followed by a tie with Texas Aggies, 6 to 6. The only mishap they have encountered so far occurred last Saturday when they were defeated by the University of Alabama, 27 to 0.

When the whistle sounds tomorrow afternoon, Kentucky will probably be without the services of "Moco" Edwards, who is out with an injured knee, sustained in the last play of the Washington and Lee game. But the rest of the gang will be ready to step into the positions readily to redeem themselves for the miserable showing they presented on last Saturday.

EDUCATORS OPEN ANNUAL MEETING

Several Prominent Speakers on Program for Conference Being Held Under Auspices of College of Education

Closes Saturday Noon The second annual Kentucky Educational conference opened at the University of Kentucky this morning. The program will continue through Saturday, and the members will conclude the conference by attending the Sewanee-State game. The conference is under the auspices of the College of Education of the university, and Dean W. S. Taylor, head of the department, has secured a number of out-of-state speakers, among whom are: Dr. J. W. Ladd, professor of rural education at Cornell University; Dr. George K. Arps, dean of the College of Elementary Education at State University; and Dean H. L. Donovan, professor of elementary education at Peabody College.

The program will be as follows: These conferences were started at the University in 1924, and the program was so successful, and so well attended, that the University department has been encouraged to make it an annual affair. Copies of the program have been mailed to the teachers of the state, and preparations have been made to take care of a thousand visitors.

Annual Freshman-Sophomore Classic Will Be Demonstrated in Tug-of-War At Clifton Pond, October 30, at 2:30

Students Installed victory. Then, at 2:30 p. m., the signal was given and the deadly struggle for class superiority will begin. The results lie in the laps of the gods but certain it is that some hundreds of young athletes of one group or the other will taste the icy waters of defeat.

Old-timers on the campus maintain that the present tug-of-war "ain't nothing compared to what it used to be" in the early days. According to the early 'teens when Bob Mitchell was a new figure on the campus—then was the good old days. According to these ancient authorities, no Marquis of Queensberry rules prevailed in those times but the victory went to the force with the greater strength and ingenuity.

It was the year 1912 the faculty, believing the supply of iodine and salt was exhausted, voted to abolish the annual class rush. The student body voted to support the plan. Doctor Barker, then president of the university, donated an 800-foot steel cable and inaugurated University teachers and alumni and former students hold a peculiarly fine relationship of friendship that time and distance cannot destroy. You and we worked together, with no selfish motives, for pure objectives, and with mutual satisfaction. We may not clasp hands often nor address one another by letter, but as the years speed by we do continue to greet one another in thought, with friend- ly curiosity as to how goes the battle of life and what cheer the prospect holds.

Personally, I find myself after thirteen years of work here, held by strong ties to the University of Ken- tucky, to her present students and to you who have gone on to other fields of work. It would be hard for me to break the connections. And I find, that my own interest is not con- fined to those whom I have taught or who have been students of the Col- lege of Arts and Sciences, but extends to every student of the University, whatever may have been his college.

Whatever you "took" at the Uni- versity were at some time a stu- dent in the classes of the College of Arts and Sciences. You came to know and respect some of the fine men and women of the faculty, you caught some of their vision of life's possibilities, some of their evalua- tion of things and people, some of their devotion to ideals and principles. You cannot help but be interested in the work and the growth and the needs of this college.

You cannot help but be proud of the fine records that are being made by her graduates and former stu- dents. You will be glad to hear that our graduates are up to the standard of the work and the college is con- tinuing to hold her good name, thru her graduates, in the profes- sional colleges and graduate schools of the land, that full recognition is ac- corded her by the large accrediting agencies both North and South, that the faculty is gaining wider recog- nition because of the increasing output in the arts and sciences. It will be a source of satisfaction to you to know, also, that the faculty is study- ing constantly the new ideas of col- lege administration and curriculum, trying to make her work more effec- tive and better fitted to student needs. There's not so much cynicism as to student possibilities; there's an in- creasing desire to know better how to train students. The old college is "carryin' on."

The College of Arts and Sciences, historically, has been the mother of professional schools. Here in Ken- tucky she existed from the start, with embryo professional colleges as departments. Later, the professional schools were separated from the parental home, but with strong con- nections to the parent college, be- cause of the basic courses still taught in Arts and Sciences. This process of growth continues.

Two or three years ago the old department of education developed into a real College of Education, whose rapid growth under the ef- ficient guidance of Dean Taylor is a source of gratification to us all. This year, the department of economics expanded into a College of Commerce, which cannot fail to do great work with Dean West in charge. Just lately our department of Zoology has shared Dr. Funkhouser's valuable services with the Graduate School.

With him as Dean, we confidently expect great things in the graduate field. Before long, perhaps, other de- partments may grow into schools or colleges.

While this process seems always to be working in the College, yet we who are left are not lonesome.

So you see that some one must come to our aid soon before the fast- growing student body embarrasses us too much. "Hope springs eternal." We are looking hopefully to the com- ing legislature for relief. The impres- sion seems to be general that good feeling for the University is growing throughout the State, and surely no College of the University has so many alumni and former students in the State as has the College of Arts and Sciences. While they are working for the University, as a whole, may they not forget to lend a hand to- ward the relief of their own particu- lar college.

I hope to live long enough to see relief and support for this college come from another source also—that is from private benefactors. Other state universities are receiving nu- merous gifts from their alumni, and it is only a question of time before the University of Kentucky and its College of Arts and Sciences will fare in the same fortunate way. Ken- tuckians are loyal and generous and appreciative. Some one, some day, will turn attention in this direction by making a generous gift of a build- ing or an endowment. And then, others!

In the meanwhile, come to see us. Cordially yours,

PAUL P. BOYD, Dean

We still have twenty-two depart- ments, and ninety-three teachers, and something like a thousand students, approximately half of the student body. We still have a real mission in the world—the training for a lib- eral education. Rather, we still have a three-fold mission—a cultural educa- tion, pre-professional training, and professional training, such as Jour- nalism and industrial chemistry.

We are gaining slowly in equip- ment also. You all know that the Old Dormitory is now White Hall (named in honor of Professor J. G. White) and houses the departments of botany and music and sociology, as well as the new College of Com- merce. You recall that the "New Dorm" is used for instruction in hygiene, Romance languages, psy- chology, bacteriology, and houses the University health service of Castle Hall, the "New Chemistry Building," named in honor of one of the illus- trious alumni of this College, is near- ing completion and will be ample for the work in chemistry, for a few years at least. The art department now has a very attractive home on Winslow Street, almost across from the new basketball building. The Kernel has lately acquired a lin- otype machine and press.

But with all of these changes and additions we are hard put to find room for our work. It is difficult to describe. If I could take you around, I could quickly make you realize the need for more recitation rooms. The mathematics department is still in- truding upon the hospitality of the civil engineering and the physics de- partment by occupying the third floor of the Civil and Physics Build- ing. The geology department sorely needs laboratory space. The physi- cology departments needs more room for laboratory and recitation. The zoology department has had to ex- clude students this semester because of lack of laboratory desk room. There is no place to put our really fine museum material. The bacteriology work is being done in a wholly in- adequate space. Romance language work is scattered in two buildings. English work, our largest department, is done in several buildings. The dispensar is cramped for room. The music department is cramped. And so it goes. We need more room.

We should have two new buildings just as quickly as they can be built. We need a large combined office and recitation building as a room for the College of Arts and Sciences. Here we would like to have the Dean's offices and ample recitation and office accommodation for some of the larger departments, such as English, history and political science, mathe- matics and logic.

We need also a large building for the biological sciences, and perhaps ge- ology, with plenty of room for museum and also Journalism building where the student publica- tion work can find lodging. We need a separate building for the physics department—one built in the most up-to-date fashion, fitted for work with delicate instruments and afford- ing opportunity for research. In fact, there is hardly a department in the College that does not need more room.

We are looking hopefully to the com- ing legislature for relief. The impres- sion seems to be general that good feeling for the University is growing throughout the State, and surely no College of the University has so many alumni and former students in the State as has the College of Arts and Sciences. "TEAM, TEAM, TEAM!"

Last Saturday afternoon, on Stoll field, the University of Kentucky Wildcats went down in defeat by a 23 to 0 count before the long Washington and Lee Generals. The Kernel feels that this stinging defeat is, nevertheless, not to be ashamed of because, in its opinion, Washington and Lee played the best balanced game on the gridiron Saturday that has appeared on Stoll field since the days of the Centre College eleven, headed by the indomitable "Bo" McMillan and "Red" Roberts.

Although the scoring was done by only one side, the fighting spirit shown by each team was evenly divided. Kentucky was simply outclassed and thoroughly beaten but both its team and the student body went down fighting gamely to the last. The sportsmanship shown by the Virginians and Kentuckians was of the highest class and, although the three-year contract expired with this game, those who saw the game Saturday morning have expressed the hope that this clean, manly team may return each year to Lexington to do battle with the Wildcats.

This defeat will of course not vitiate the fighting temper of the Cats and their adherents and next Saturday will see both back on the field to give battle to Sewanee with the same old never-say-die spirit, that, after all, is necessary to gridiron success.

The weak-kneed, the luke-warm, the disloyal will, of course, as a result of Saturday's defeat, engage in the customary beating of the tom-toms and hurling of the javelins of unkind criticism, but the loyal fight on, knowing that sooner or later the tide must turn.

Stand by the team, fight for it, boost it. Let it know that in either defeat or triumph those who have enlisted under the banner of the blue and white are entitled for a fight to the finish, come what may.

Not only has the Kernel neither excuse nor apology to offer for Saturday's justice but desires here to express anew its faith in our team and its positive conviction that the future has better things in store.

WILL YOU SUPPORT A LITERARY JOURNAL?

Will you support a literary journal? Last year the Kernel published an editorial calling attention to the fact that we have no literary journal at the university. Suggestion was made that we have one. The editorial was short, but it excited comment; students were interested and many promised support. A year has passed and the need for one has become more and more apparent.

Interest in literary work has steadily increased. The recent appearance of the first number of the Kentucky Outlook indicates that writers in the community are seeking to express themselves and that they have something to write about.

One may have promise of becoming a successful writer; but if a gift is not nurtured there will be no fruition. A student who has talent for essays, story or verse will write if encouraged by the prospect of submitting his work to readers.

The Kernel is ably edited; it gives students opportunity for expression and is developing writers, but it cannot do its work and at the same time be a literary magazine.

Those interested in the enterprise have now essays, stories, poems sufficient for a first number, but students must remain interested and continue to write if the university is ever to have a literary organ that we may be proud of. Will you support a literary magazine? Continue to write; you may be called on for something before you know it.

FRESHMAN CROP A FINE ONE

Common report on the campus has it that the freshmen are a fine body of students—better than the average run of freshmen. This may or may not be true but it has been our general experience that a rumor is seldom started without some foundation, and this one, to all outward appearances at least, has been based, on fact.

The freshmen have been weighed in balance by the most critical judges on the campus and have not been found wanting. If you ask a senior for his opinion of the freshmen he will smile indulgently and say, "They are a great group of youngsters—the best we've had for two or three years. If it should chance to be a junior giving his views he will remark that they are pretty good—much better than last year"—and he will think with pride of his own freshman year and the remarkable deeds his class accomplished. And a sophisticated sophomore—well, we are afraid he will be inclined to deny hotly anything in favor of the freshmen.

But many of the faculty—the professors who have seen freshmen come and go, year in and year out, who have come into intimate contact with succeeding freshman classes, who know their ideals and standards, their aims and interests, who can judge them with fairness—say they are an excellent group, the best that have ever entered the university. Their attendance at classes is a better than usual; they are more interested in their work and their attitude and spirit is better than that of the typical freshman who is willing to leave it said of him that he is only a freshman and will catch on, after a while.

These, we think, are the general characteristics of the present freshman class of the University of Kentucky. It is their opportunity to strive that these characteristics may be kept uppermost and to credit to their university, for from the character of the freshman comes the character of the senior and by its graduates is the University known.

LITERARY JOURNAL NEEDED

Two years ago the Kernel instituted a plan for increasing the literary output of university students by offering prizes for and publishing from time to time the best stories and poems offered by the students. There is talent for writing, at present latent, on this campus but there is no means by which it may be given expression and recognition.

The university is recognized as an up-and-coming school in all its colleges and departments but there is just a shade of an uncertainty in the public's mind concerning its scholastic and artistic life. Therefore, we feel that the time is ripe for some measures to be taken for promoting our literary standing.

Why can we not have a monthly or quarterly magazine or paper containing efforts of our coming young writers? The Kernel, with its new plant, feels capable of lending aid to a project of this kind and will be proud to help initiate such a paper into our university life.

The students, we think, would do their bit willingly toward having a literary paper if members of the faculty and especially of the English department would lend the encouragement of its positive and forceful leadership.

When the proposition of such a magazine was suggested last winter it was discouraged because of the amount of money needed to forward such an undertaking. Its promoters' fervor, and rightly so, that the expense of publication would be too great and that the students would not be interested enough in the business end of it. As before stated, the Kernel, with its new equipment, can and will help, for by using its machinery the expense of such an enterprise, we believe, could be brought within feasible bounds.

The Kernel offers the idea for consideration, for we want to assist in any project that is as worthy as this. We await further developments.

Dr. Rush to Cut Down On Excusing Students

Will Not Give Leave from Classes Unless Acute or Serious Condition Arises

The health and hygiene department on account of such an excess in excuses given both last year and the first of this, has announced that possibly no leave of classes will be given unless an acute or serious condition arises in which the person must have prompt medical attention. To make this possible the dispensary will be open all noon hour and pupils having a full all-day schedule will be promptly treated at this time.

This department of the university is a very important one and a much overworked one due to the pupils taking advantage of their excuse-giving which condition they are trying to overcome. From now on the dispensary will be open continuously from 8:30 until 3:30 o'clock and as much longer as it is necessary to treat the patients.

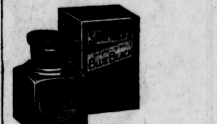

All students please cooperate with the department in this respect and more prompt attention will result.

DEAN OF WOMEN TALKS TO GIRLS
Miss Franke Explains Value of Budget System and Suggests Its Use by All College Girls
Stresses Behavior
On Monday night, October 19, Miss Franke, dean of women, talked at a mass meeting of girl students of the university held at Patterson hall. At the close of the meeting the W. S.
G. A. rule books were distributed.
Miss Franke spoke on the value of budgeting in the life of the college girl, and said that time and energy should be accounted for as well as money. She also called attention to the fact that it is necessary to consider comparative values in planning a budget and asked the girls to consider their choice well. "Shall it be sturdy, well-tried fundamentals like health, fine scholarship, respect of professors and students, or shall it be ill health, poor scholarship and cheap popularity?"
Miss Franke closed her talk with a brief discussion of traditions of the university. This community is one that was established long before its present citizens came here and it is the duty and should be the pleasure of each newcomer to live up to the standards traditional in the university. The honor systems existing at Princeton and the University of Chicago are so backed by public opinion that their standards are maintained and Miss Franke asked the women of the University of Kentucky to remember their obligation to each other in every day life as well as in the class room. In conclusion Miss Franke quoted the "Code for Wisconsin Women" and said she wished that the Kentucky women would adopt a similar one. "The Wisconsin woman is thoughtful of her obligation to help establish and maintain high social and moral standards. To this end:
1. She is loyal to herself; she is loyal to others; she is thoughtful of their happiness. She is careful of her word in all her obligations.
2. She is scrupulously honest in scholarship, both in every day work and in examinations.
3. She dances in such a way as to offend neither herself nor anyone within our community.
4. She refuses to associate with men who have been drinking.
5. She conducts herself in such a way so that she can be honestly willing to have every girl in the community adopt her standards."

Defies Evolution
S. C. Tapp Edits Pamphlet Denouncing Darwin's Theory
"Let the Bible, the Earth, and the Sea, Answer Charles Darwin, and His Disciples" is the title of a pamphlet that was received at the Kernel office several days ago. It is here then not another side to the discussion on the theory of evolution?
This little book was written and published by Sidney C. Tapp, Ph. B., L. L. D. of Kansas City, Mo., and was sent personally from him to the Kernel.
Mr. Tapp is the author of "The Answer to Evolution and Its Fallacy," and some forty other volumes on political science, the Bible and science.
Should anyone be interested in reading what he has to say on evolution the pamphlet can be found at any time in the Kernel office.

Old Astronomy Book Added to Collection
S. S. Hare Presents Text Printed in 1856 to Professor Downing Professor Downing, of the department of mathematics, has a very interesting old astronomy textbook which is supplemented by an interesting and odd atlas. The book and atlas were written by Elijah H. Burrett and printed in 1856. The atlas is especially interesting as it shows that constellations for each month in the year and gives the human and animal representations of the stars by the ancient people. The atlas also gives the planets and their satellites as they were thought to have existed in those days. This book and atlas were presented to Professor Downing by S. S. Hare, of this city, a former student of the university.
Another old astronomy text book was presented to Professor Downing by Sergeant Knight, of the military staff of the university. This book was written by Thomas Dick and was printed in 1848.
After comparing these text books with the ones of the present day, it is interesting to note the advances in this branch of science and how the text books of today have been simplified for the student. Professor Downing requests that any one having old astronomy books bring them so they may be placed with the other old books in his library.

CHURCH WOMEN

Committee Composed of Representative From Every De-

Stimulate Interest
Will Meet Next Week
Mrs. Preston P. Johnston, chairman of a committee from the Federation of Church Women in Lexington, appointed to work up interest in the city's churches among all college and the university students here, has taken active steps toward starting this work on October 26.
It is the plan of that committee to urge the students to continue their church work while in college just as they carried it on in their homes and cities. Mrs. Johnston has appointed a committee consisting of one woman from every denomination in the city to assist her in directing this work.
This committee is composed of Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, Roman Catholic; Mrs. Charles J. Smith, Episcopal; Mrs. L. D. Best, Presbyterian; Mrs. L. L. Roberts, Baptist; Mrs.
Cromley Elliott, Methodist Episcopal; Miss Dudley Hume, Christian, and Mrs. Maurice Weil, Jewish.
Will Hold Call Meeting
A call meeting will be held early next week for the purpose of suggesting plans and talking over matters pertaining to the work. The committee will have as its field the University of Kentucky, Transylvania College, Hamilton College and Sayre College. The plan was suggested recently at a meeting of the Federation of Church Women, of which Mrs.
Clara Cochran is president. George Kavanaugh, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., was a speaker at the meeting which brought forth immediate results.
Mrs. Johnston stated that she hopes through the work of her committee all students in Lexington will become interested in going to church, thus not losing their home church life.

SEEN FROM the PRESS BOX by HOOVER

RAH! RAH! RAH!
WONDER WHO GIVE 'WAY THE SIGNALS THIS YEAR?

IT MUST BE GREAT!

I know it must be great to have a team like Washington & Lee has! I know it must be great to come up to Lexington, after losing three straight games—one to a weak team—and push our cats out of their warm corner by the finest out into the cold, cold sea—of defeat.

I know it must be great for the Wildcats to create enough interest by holding Chicago to a low score and beating Maryville and Clemson to bring out close to 8,000 football fans and then let a visiting team play rings around them.

ABOUT WHAT I READ IN THE PAPERS

I'm sorter lak Will Rogers now—all I know is what I read in the papers. Just couldn't stand to sit up there in the press box and hear that telegraph instrument click that glad news back to W. & L.'s gridgraph and see those husky Virginians outpunch our huskies all the afternoon at the same time. So I just shut my eyes and hoped for some calamity to happen.

JUST FORGOT, MAYBE

And speaking of what I see in the papers—I saw that some sport writer in talking about the game said:

"Two of all the warriors selected to do battle for Kentucky, we can say without hurting other consciences, upheld the noble color they wore. The work of Petie Derrick, dynamic little substitute halfback, and Smith, the same Frank who does his work well, game in and game out, was the only consolation to the Kentucky fans."

We agree with this writer as far as he went but he didn't go far enough—he didn't, in my mind, pick the real star of the game.

In any game, there generally is some player whose exhibition stands out above all others and in the Kentucky-Washington and Lee struggle, I want to say, with all fairness to the entire Wildcat team, that nobody but Ray Schulte was the only illuminating factor in our defeat. When a player deserves credit, he should be given credit and if any man ever rated mention, this first term varsity man deserves it. He was the only Wildcat on the team who was able to sneer the Generals' end runs and he went down under punts like a streak and generally brought down his man. Taking into consideration that he stopped 80 per cent of the end runs attempted we don't see how anybody could help but praise the work of this end.

OH, WHAT A MISTAKE!

With the courtesy for which Kentucky is noted, Sergeant Kennedy strutted his forty and two in front of the W. & L., side preceding the game, playing the Washington and Lee swing with all their might and how those birds did rave over the song! All the players stood up and clapped and the fans made more noise than a pack of hyenas! And even the Kentucky side stood up and took off their hats.

SIX OF ONE — HALF DOZEN OF ANOTHER!

I thought when we got rid of Cameron last year that we might have a ghost of a chance with those Generals this year.

But, my Lord! Better a Cameron than a Rauber and a Wilson and a Thomas.

DIDN'T HAVE ANY MERCY 'TALL

It certainly does seem this Wilson boy would have had a little mercy on our team, being that he is from down in Owensboro, Kentucky. But doggone him, he just ruint us by throwing them passes.

And the worst part of it all, was he wouldn't just try to make four or five yards with them but forty and fifty—and often fifty downs—and he succeeded six times out of eight—somebody said.

JUST FORGOT

That band of ours didn't do a bit of good when the Generals were about to score. Seemed like they forgot how to play "My Old Kentucky Home." But the way the passes were flying through the air, guess all of 'em got sea sick from looking up.

A LITTLE "STATISTICS"

Guess we'll have a little "statistics" now. First, suppose everybody knows Kentucky lost the game.

In the next place just want to remind you that this boy named Len Tracy came through on top again as far as ground gained is concerned. Of course he didn't get any 155 yards this time—but by a long shot—but he did get 50, FIFTY three-feet. Then after Tracy came Jenkins with 34, Smith with 30, Hughes with 26, Derrick with 16, Ross with 11, Evans with 10, Rice with 8 and Mohney with 5. These figures include returned kickoffs and punts. All in all Kentucky gained 230 yards in punt and kickoff returns and goodness knows how many those Generals made!

NEW PERIL AT GEORGETOWN! LOOK OUT FROSH!

A new football peril has arisen over at Georgetown. It seems as if the freshmen of that college have the best team in many years, as was evidenced last Saturday when they defeated the Sewanee freshmen at Sewanee by a nice score of 19 to 0. Reports have been coming from the Scott county capital all the year about their wonderful first year team this time and from Saturday's score, these reports are substantiated. Sewanee always has a cracking good freshman eleven and this year is no exception. They whipped Centre last year to a frazzle and you know it took all Eklund could muster to shoot these little Colonels in the Thanksgiving game after they had barely earned a tie with them earlier in the season.

Coach Eklund's freshmen are in extremely bad condition as the result of the game with Eastern Normal two weeks ago and the mentor is dubious as to the outcome of the game with the Cubs October 30.

HOW ABOUT THIS, 'CATS?

Alabama beat Sewanee last Saturday, 27 to 0, after a stubborn fight, which is indicative of two hard battles, one of which is upon us tomorrow. We hope the Wildcats will step from the dormitory to which they were subjected last Saturday and duplicate last year's victory against The University of the South, Sewanee.

SOME PREDICTIONS:

I just thought of something. I predict Transylvania will beat Marshall, Centre will whip Western Normal, Kentucky will beat Sewanee, Georgia Tech will get the best of Alabama by a field goal, Chicago will whip Pennsylvania, Army will mop up with St. Louis University by 40 points, Iowa will whip Ohio State, Vanderbilt will defeat Georgia, and U. of L. will beat Wesleyan.

Make 'em like it, Wildcats. Oh, Myrtle, make 'em like it!

TEAM IS SOLACED BY W. & L.'S GAME AGAINST TIGERS

Under an ill-omened sky, eleven dark blue-shirted clouds from "Ole Virginny" floated over Stoll Field in an aerial attack that obscured Kentucky's hopes for a Southern championship and cost them a 25-0 defeat.

Before 7,000 cheering onlookers last Saturday, the Generals of Washington and Lee triumphed over Kentucky in a game marred by many Wildcat fumbles and intercepted passes. Every pass hurled by Kentucky backs ultimately corkcreaved its way into the snug grasp of a wary General. The Blue and White, with the ball in their possession, would advance to midfield, and then, by that never ending string of mishaps, the pigskin would be lost to the Wildcats and recovered by Washington and Lee who, by forward passing or by the execution of brilliant runs would carry the ball over the line for a touchdown.

The Generals gained only one-half one-half as much yardage by their aerial attack as they did by their puzzling and well executed plays. Rauber and Wilson made more ground through and around the Wildcats than they did over them.

Those two boys and Captain Thomas General fullback, were the shining lights of the game and the certainly had to shine to out-dazzle their lustrious "comrades-at-arms," the other eight men who played for Washington and Lee. "Petey" Derrick, Ray Schulte and Frank Smith were Kentucky's luminaries but they did not equal in ability the three warriors named previously. The Blue and White failed to exhibit the same game against the Generals that they showed against Chicago.

Too little importance was placed on the gaining of a knowledge of the Virginians' versatile plays while for

TIGER CUBS ARE CONTENDERS FOR GRIDIRON TITLE

By C. M. DOWDEN
Next Friday, October 30, Kentucky's Kittens will leave their lair for the second time this season, their destination on this occasion being the Scott county capital, where they will attempt to subdue the hitherto untamed Tiger cubs of Georgetown College. If in this they succeed, then they will be well on the road to the state championship in college freshman football circles, as the Centre Lieutenants appear to be the only other aggregation in the state that looms as a likely contender for the title.

This year, the Georgetown yearlings have developed into a real, honest-to-goodness football machine—powerful, aggressive, and determined. In fact, it is a team which would do credit to any institution in the South.

Their first game was with DuPont Manual of Louisville, whose team is conceded by all authorities as being one of the most finished and dangerous of any high school outfits in the country. This meeting resulted in a 7-7 tie.

In their second encounter of the season, the little Tigers invaded Sewanee, Tennessee, and returned to their native haunts as conquerors of the best freshman team that the Mountaineers could muster, by the decisive score of 19-0.

Less is known of the Kittens' strength, as to date they have had but one opportunity to demonstrate it, this being on October 10, when they tore through Eastern State Normal for two touchdowns, for a 14-0 victory. Their triumph was costly, however, as several outstanding performers sustained injuries which may keep them out of uniform for several weeks.

So, on a careful comparison of the two teams, it appears that Coach Eklund's charges will have to exert themselves if they emerge victorious in the ensuing contest.

It is not the custom for any University of Kentucky delegation to be taken into camp by the Georgetown Tigers, but if members of the present freshman squad are anxious that this year prove no exception, they will be forced to utilize all the football ability they possess when they engage their rival neighbors next week.

Whatever may be the ultimate outcome, we predict that all Cat adherents that follow the team to Georgetown will be rewarded with an exhibition of football that will well repay them for the trip.

"Messiah" to Be Given Again in December

Choral Society forms Plans to Present Another Oratorio Next Spring

According to an announcement made Friday by Professor Lampert, director, and Robert L. Brown, secretary of the Central Kentucky Choral Society, "The Messiah," Handel's greatest oratorio, which was given in Lexington last April by a chorus of 300 singers at the University of Kentucky gymnasium, will be repeated early in December. A decision to repeat the oratorio was made at a meeting of the directors of the society Thursday night at the Phoenix hotel. At the same time the choral society formed plans to present another oratorio in Lexington next spring, although no decision as to when the composition was to be rendered was announced. The first rehearsal of the oratorio chorus will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in Dicker hall on the university campus. All singers who took part in the oratorio last year will again be invited to come to Lexington for the presentation in December.

As an outgrowth of an epidemic of lawlessness that in recent weeks took the form of almost daily armed robberies in dwellings and on the street, the police of Shanghai again are vigorously advocating flogging as a punishment for offenders.

VILLAMIN SPEAKS TO LAW SOCIETY

Manila Journalist Lectures on Question of Filipino Independence; Advocates Change

Dean Turk Entertains

The Henry Clay Law Society, the traditional organization of law students and almost as old as the Law College itself, held the first meeting of the semester Thursday evening, October 15, under auspices which promise unusual success for the society and its activities this year. Forty-five law students, with first-year men in the majority, attended this meeting. The feature of the program was an absorbing address by Vincente Villamin, Manila journalist, attorney and economist, on the question of Filipino independence.

That a complete severance from United States by the Filipinos would mean Japanese dominion and that the question of native government and absolute independence was international in scope were points emphasized by the earnest and learned Filipino.

America should always retain their present relationship with the island government, the speaker declared, for mutual benefit. With the islands a strategic point in the Orient, United States enjoys a lesser peril of western embroilments, he pointed out, while Philippines have all the rights of American citizens and none of the obligations.

Advocates Change in Government
Changes in the form of the present government were advocated by Mr. Villamin who concluded his remarkable address with the declaration that as far as the Filipinos were concerned, the issue lay between American or Japanese sovereignty; "And we prefer America."

Prediction that Mr. Villamin's proposals would be embodied in a bill to be presented at the next congress was made by Dean Charles Turk who stated after a rest period given by Mr. Villamin before a civic organization at Cincinnati, Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives, stated that these questions were being embodied in legislation.

After Mr. Villamin's address, Bill Simpson, president of the society, and Mr. Sims, clerk, explained to the new members the purposes of the society. The organization is effected in the form of a state senate, it was explained, with each member representing their home county. At the next meeting which will be held Thursday, October 29, a bill to abolish capital punishment in the state of Kentucky will be introduced.

At the conclusion of the business session, the society adjourned and refreshments were served by Dean Turk, host to the assemblage at its first meeting.

Maybe you think the profs don't give an extra 10 for neatness. They don't write it out, but it's in their disposition just the same. So for required readings, lecture notes and theses, let us suggest the neat, clear work of the good Wahl Pen. Its big ink capacity won't fail you; its fluent easiness will improve your hand and boost your marks; its slim, trim shapeliness will match that golden key.

W. A. A. NOTES

The Woman's Athletic Association is offering a trophy to the sorority or non-sorority group making the highest score for the year under the point system of the organization. One hundred points will be given for each girl making a team and one credit will be awarded for each per cent of a sorority participating in any sport.

Hockey practice is being held every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 8 o'clock, and a class tournament will be held the last of November. Girls' Greek letter chapters are urged to send their members out for practice in order to gain credit toward the athletic trophy. The following girls have been selected as class leaders of hockey: Senior, Eugenia O'Hara; junior, Mary Louise Taylor; sophomore, Virginia Lee Robinson; freshman, Elizabeth Sheehan.

In order that the records of the association may be verified and completed each present member of the W. A. A. is required to submit before November 1 a list of all the points she has secured up to date. A box will be placed on the bulletin board in the woman's gymnasium for this purpose. Any girl who fails to do this may lose her membership in the association.

According to a new rule of the organization, every member who does not enter at least one sport during the year will be dropped from the roll. All women students are asked to pay particular attention to these notices as ignorance of the new ruling will not be accepted as an excuse.

ANNUAL TUG-OF-WAR TO BE HELD OCT. 30, AT 2:30

the tug-of-war.

It is not to be expected that the student body could subside very quickly from the annual class rush and so those early tug-of-war men anything but tea room affairs. Teams of mules, oxen, etc., Fords and automobiles, trees and posts—all added their strength to man-power in the desperate contest. Every evening for some days before the match freshmen and sophomores alike hiked out to the vicinity of the pond and with post-hole diggers dug large holes for bracers. And then after the victory—the victorious team would march downtown, visit the various colleges and dormitories, and make the old town vibrate with their psalms of victory.

Things Have Changed

But alas! Today all this is changed. No longer does either team employ any means not absolutely fair (? ? ?) and no longer do they celebrate their victory in their former hilarious manner. And yet there is a rumor that the "powers that be" are beginning to feel that this tug-of-war is altogether too rough for the tender children. Indeed, it is hinted that a check is to be made of all students developing colds within several months after said contest, and if this number is too large it is probable that another contest will be substituted. If one believes in evolution he must expect soon to see on the campus a reformation of the spirit of rivalry between the two classes. Perhaps our descendants will gather and wage a similar contest between themselves with checkers. Quid nescit?

WILDCATS BOW TO GENERAL AL'S ATTACK BY 25-0 COUNT

Generals were in full possession of the plays used by Kentucky against Clemson. Therefore, when Kentucky faced her deceptive thrusts she was unable to figure them out and consequently she was swept off of her feet. The Wildcats were distinctly outplayed.

Washington and Lee received the ball by a Kentucky punt after three minutes of play. In a few moments the Wildcat admirers were dumfounded to see the Generals with the ball in their possession on Kentucky's one-yard strip, to which place it had been taken by Rauber, General fullback, in successive gains, totaling 70 yards. He bucked it over for a touchdown on the next play.

Immediately after receiving the ball after the next kick-off, the elusive Virginians started another attack which carried them to State's 10-yard line where the Wildcats "raced and held for downs. However, that sudden flash of the defence shown against Chicago only delayed momentarily the next touchdown. After three more plays Wilson threw a 25-yard pass to Thomas, who ran six yards for a touchdown.

In the second half, after a series of disastrous fumbles and intercepted passes, Washington and Lee made two touchdowns. The game ended as a General halfback plunged through State's line for a nine-yard gain.

That overwhelming defeat of Kentucky may seem terrible to some but when the versatile power of a team that scored as many touchdowns against Princeton as Princeton scored against them—and Princeton tied Navy—is considered, such a defeat loses some of its ignominy.
