A PROGRESSIVE IDEA IN JOURNALISM

It has been suggested, by a noted British editor, that the United States found an institute of journalists comparable to the Royal Institute of British Journalists.

The purpose of such an institution would be to exploit efficiency and promote professional pride through meritorious work. This is an age of specialization, and with the burden of the press growing daily more cumbersome and complex, steps must be taken to cope with the situation. A school where nothing but journalism is taught would be of aid. An institution where only professional men are graduated would be even better. Combining, as it would, theoretical and practical work, this country would soon have a noticeable improvement in the field of journalistic endeavor.

At present, conditions are none too favorable. Attempts to promote efficiency only meet partial success. In talking with several editors at a convention last summer, it was learned that the average newspaper man has no high opinion of college-trained journalists. As a rule, they are not efficient. They are careless, and think they know it all. It is unfortunate that such conditions exist, but it is due almost entirely to the lack of adequate methods of training.

If the proposed institute should be established, with strict rules of training and a certain amount of practical experience on a recognized newspaper required before graduation, this annoying condition of general debility would be avoided. There would come a new era in the field of journalism in the United States. The Kernel is in full accord with any movement to secure such an era.

TO "BLUE" FRESHMEN

The editor of The Kernel recently received a letter from a freshman of the University in which he states that he is very lonesome and homesick. It is sincere and was written, no doubt, when the freshman was in the very depths of despondency. The Kernel regrets that it cannot reproduce the letter in its entirety, for it probably expresses the feeling of a great many new students. The freshman, in giving his reason for not signing the letter, writes: "I don't want to be known."

If the freshman who wrote the letter had signed it, we could have helped him, perhaps, to overcome this temporary "blue spell." As it is, The Kernel can do nothing but give general advice to all of the freshmen who are prone to become despondent. We suggest, as a remedy for such illness, that the student take part in some outside activity. Keep busy, don't allow yourself to become idle and you won't have time to think how "blue" you are.

Freshman, if you are the one who wrote this letter, The Kernel hopes that you are over the "blue spell." If you are not, we hope that you will come to the office of The Kernel and we will try to "chase those blues away."

LITERARY SECTION

(MELVINA HEAVENRIDGE, Editor)

I DO NOT DESPAIR

They say
That you are dead
And I must place a marker at your grave,
Of granite, cold and gray.
To give my choice in finish and design,
What words I wish inscribed and how arranged.
I look at them quite stupidly—
I do not know—or care—
But I do not despair.
Because they say
That you are dead.
You do not lie beneath the sod
Where earthly things decay,
And memory of you does not depend
On stone or clay.
But you will be remembered for the way
You loved and hoped and worked,
And still you love and hope and work
Somewhere today.
That's all I know—or care—
So I do not despair.
Though you are dead,
They say.

—HELEN HUTCHCRAFT.

SUMMER

Oh, should the summer last away
I'd rise before each early dawn
And hide within the dew-drop spray
That slumbers on the grass-leaved lawn,
And there each sunbeam's ray surprise—
As they come dancing, one by one—
And play at make-believe disguise
With them until the day was done.

But I have garnered golden hours
And buried them in a window-jar—
Like seeds of gamut colored flowers—
To grow beneath the winter star;
And I have treasured every smile
That lept across thy lips this day
And placed them in my heart erewhile.
Ah... so may summer last away!

—BERTRAND P. RAMSAY.

SILENCE

There is only silence, dear, and you,
No joyful crash of music in the ear,
No noise and blare confusing you,
Nor is there a sound for us to hear.

Ah, there is vast quietude, the moon upon the lake;
Soft murmurs of our talk
Can carry all the import of love at stake.
Together through eternity we will walk.

There is only silence, dear, and you,
But just we two can make a world of love,
Where we may dream forever. There is true
Silence now, when the stars are alone above.

—MARGARET CUNDIFF.

SPRING

My little yellow crocus bloomed today,
And I forgot what I had said and gay—
I had forgotten what a lovely thing
Is Spring!

—HELEN HUTCHCRAFT.

Music, Stage and Screen

(By Thomas L. Riley)

Owing to the increased demand on the part of the public—no, Oscar, this is not one of a local theater's advertisements as to the value of the motion pictures previewed in this column. Of the pictures this week we will place "Two Lovers" in first place, "Beggars of Life" second, and "Oh Kay" third.

"Two Lovers" at the Strand Sunday. Once in a while we like to balance our movie diet with an elaborately filmed romance and "Two Lovers," which opens at the Strand Sunday, is just the required element. This is the last co-starring picture of Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky who started so successfully in "The Dark Angel." We are sorry that these two have been made individual stars by Samuel Goldwyn. For tender love stories they cannot be equaled and "Two Lovers" has been exceptionally well treated for having Fred Niblo as the director and a very good supporting cast.

The story is laid around the 18th century and the sets and costumes are particularly enchanting. The story is a perfect romance with the villain and all other necessary components of a picture of this type. The gentleman referred to as the villain is played by none other than the dean of that category, Noah Berry. Nigel de Bruiler, Virginia Bradford, Helen Jerome Eddy, and Paul Lukas are some of the bigger names in the cast. See "Two Lovers," Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, a most colorful picture, to their list of triumphs. "Two Lovers" is a United Artists picture.

"Oh Kay" at the Kentucky Sunday. The fans who think that Colleen Moore is a great actress will be satisfied with her latest offering, "Oh Kay," which opens at the Kentucky Sunday. This picture is an adaptation from the famous musical comedy that rocked Broadway a couple of seasons ago. We enjoyed the stage attraction. Colleen Moore is the star of the screen version. However, it is a very good picture due principally to the adaptation, cast, story, titles and direction. Of course Colleen attempts to be a star. She has plenty of opportunities to do this especially as she appears in a sailor's uniform in most of the picture. George Marion, Jr., Hollywood's highest paid title writer, supplies many laughs by his abundant winks cracks throughout the attraction. Mervyn LeRoy directed the picture. The scenario is by Carey Wilson, Lawrence Gray, Ford Sterling, and Claude Gillinwater, complete the cast of this First National picture.

University Students, Mistaken for Al, Are Cheered by Crowd

(By Beecher Adams)

Well, the Chicago trip is over and now that all University students have a new supply of soap, towels, sheets and even telephone directories from the Edgewater Beach hotel, we can listen in on "bull sessions" for years to come and still pick up information concerning the antics pulled off on that never-to-be-forgotten journey. Some things probably happened that we will never hear of, but one little trick pulled by some of our respected students is too good to keep.

It was Friday afternoon, October 20, in Chicago. On Michigan boulevard thousands were jammed along the sidewalks, watching hopefully for the big parade led by Governor Fred E. Smith, "the man of the people," who was to speak in the Windy City that night. Eyes eagerly scanned the street held open by the blustering, whistling traffic cops, but there was no sign of "The Happy Warrior."

Suddenly the inspiring strains of "The Sidewalks of New York" were heard in the distance, and the parade appeared. Nearer and nearer it came, and to the surprise of all who were close by the foremost car, Governor Smith's supposed conveyance, was a 1914 model of the collegiate wreck type, shooing its way slowly down the street while six gentlemen doffed

Richmond, Va. Gentlemen: Since I first started to smoke, I have always smoked cigarettes. "Ed, dear, why don't you smoke a pipe, think those long straight-stemmed pipes so much better than those short ones." So, naturally, I had to buy a long-stemmed pipe and a can of well, we'll call it "Blue Mistake" pipe tobacco. I tried almost every brand I had heard of, but none of them suited me. Saddy, I had a confidante to HER that as a pipe smoker I was a good dilettante.

"Did you try Edgeworth's?" she asked. "That is what dad smoked, and I always smoked a Ed." So I was forced to try Edgeworth, and all that I can say is that I never felt that I had tried a pipe, started with Edgeworth, there would be very few that would go back to cigarettes.

just a poor guy like us," and the crowd redoubled its cheers as the ancient automobile moved slowly down the street. "Ray for Al" and "We want Al" filled the air, while from the offices above, loads of confetti and reams of paper fell upon the car glorified by the presence of the extremely youthful-looking candidate who still bowed very low and waved to the crowd.

Somehow the enthusiastic throng failed to notice the second car of the parade where the real "Al" sat, unnoticed by all, and as the angry traffic cops roared down the street to remove the brown derbyed youngsters, the driver stepped on the gas, for supposed Governor, threw his derby into the air, yelled "Give 'em hell, Wildcats," and the old bus tore down the street to the Edgewater Beach hotel where "Tom" Riley, "Bill" Durbeck, "Doc" Crame, Taylor Iron, "Dope" Noel, and "Bill" Keith jumped out and immediately began to look for a clean way to get into the Northwestern-Kentucky football game.

NEW AND UNIQUE MAGAZINE IS OFF PRESS THIS WEEK

Appearance Innovates Original Ideas of Literary Production in Publishing Field

"THE BOOK LEAGUE MONTHLY" IS TITLE Will Function Under Board of Editors Who Are Specialists in Chosen Fields

A new literary magazine is appearing this week, The Book League Monthly, which presents a unique idea in the publishing field. Each issue will contain a complete book hitherto unpublished in America in addition to other literary material. The magazine forms part of the plan of The Book League of America, just launched.

Combining new and old books in its program, The Book League of America is the perfection of the book club movement in America. The organization will supply members with 24 books a year, 12 new books to be published in The Book League Monthly, and 12 established masterpieces from all periods of literature, printed and bound in fine library editions. The subject matter of the new and old books will include fiction, history, poetry, drama, biography, popular science—everything that appeals to the cultured reader.

The Book League of America will function under a board of editors whose diversity of type assures a committee of unusual balance. The board now includes Edwin Arlington Robinson, Gamaliel Bradford, Van Wyck Brooks, Hamilton Holt and Edwin E. Slosson. Other distinguished names will be added in the near future.

Another important feature of the board is the post of Advisory Editor, which Frank L. Polk, prominent attorney and member of Wilson's cabinet, will fill. There has been a demand on the part of many founder members of The Book League that an outstanding layman, not himself engaged in the profession of literature, should aid in guiding its general editorial policy.

Each Editor a Specialist It is significant that each member of the editorial board is a specialist in his own chosen field. Each member of the committee not only stands for creative achievement of the first order, but also is recognized as an essential force in directing the course of American culture.

Edwin Arlington Robinson, dean of American poets is perhaps the greatest poet of our day who can be thoroughly modern and yet remain rooted in the best literary traditions of the past. Whatever he writes is

Fifth Educational Conference Holds Meeting at U. K.

The fifth annual educational conference, sponsored by the College of Education, was held here Friday and Saturday with an attendance of approximately 600 superintendents, principals, and teachers.

Five groups met at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and each one was addressed by a prominent educator. Among the speakers were Professor M. E. Ligon, of the University High school, Dean Boyd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. W. S. Taylor, dean of the College of Education of the University.

These meetings were followed by a luncheon and the football game in the afternoon.

On Friday night Dr. Frank L. McVey presided at the conference and lectures were heard on problems of curriculum making.

colored by a subtle blend of modern virility and classical beauty.

Gamaliel Bradford, critic, biographer and historian, is often called the Lytton Strachey of America. His portraits and biographies of famous Americans are among the most authoritative and brilliant in our literature.

Van Wyck Brooks, a challenging critic and interpreter of American life and letters, is more than a mere critic. He has broken new ground by adding the discoveries of psychoanalysis to the methods of Taine and Sainte-Beuve.

Hamilton Holt, noted writer, educator and president of Rollins College, was for 24 years editor of The Independent. He established at Rollins College the conference plan of study, an innovation that is being watched with great interest by progressive educators.

Edwin E. Slosson, scientist, educator and editor, combines the rare qualities of literary man and scientist. He can make the abstruse philosophy of Bergson and the complicated mathematical theory of Einstein as lucid and comprehensible as a fairy story.

Samuel W. Craig, president of The Book League of America, is a seasoned pioneer in the book club field, having been one of the founders and first president of The Literary Guild of America. He has also had a wide experience in the publishing of magazines.

Isaac Don Levine, publicist and author, who has achieved international distinction as a foreign correspondent, is managing editor of the new organization.

Brilliant Biography in Initial Publication

The first publication of The Book League of America is "Zola and His Times," by Matthew Josephson. It has been left to an American of our generation to write the first adequate life of Zola. This brilliant biography is not only a history of Zola's martial career, but a vivid chronicle of the political, social and literary life of the last century in France, its ramifications extending to the ends of Europe.

The other material in The Book Monthly is a magazine in itself. In the introduction to "Zola and His Times," Van Wyck Brooks says: "It must rank among the conspicuous biographical works of our generation." He goes on to trace the effect of Zola's career on present day letters. "Matthew Josephson," by himself, outlines the events in the author's life that led up to the two years' research and writing of the monumental biography.

"The Literary Scene," the book review department of The Book League Monthly, aims at the highest standards of literary criticism. "Miss Milly Grows Older," by Mark Van Doren, "H. G. Wells Speaks Out," by Max Eastman, reviews by Gordon Munson, Alexander Goldenweiser, Leon Whipple, and other competent authorities indicate the flavor of the department.

Offers Guide to Reviews "A Review of Reviews," another department of The Book League Monthly, is a distinct innovation in its field. It is a guide to current reviews by well-known critics. "Our Book Shop" constitutes a book buying service and aims to develop brief reviews by members of their favorite books. "The Book League Forum," subscribers may express themselves regarding the policies of The Book League of America. The department will also contain literary chat and comment and other material of interest.

The Book League Monthly will not be for sale at news stands. LOST - Ladies' Waltham wrist watch. Reward. Call 2242-X, Elizabeth Depew.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

YOUNG PEOPLE AND RELIGION

(By Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, University of Illinois)

It is said by many of our young people of today that they are less religious than were the young people of former generations. I do not believe it.

As young people, we went to church pretty regularly in the country community in which I lived, but it was more for social than for religious reasons. I am sure. We listened to dry sermons, not one of which, as I now recall, made any permanent impression upon my conduct or my character. It was habit and the possibility of social contact with my friends which camouflaged as religious interest. Whatever religious ideas I adopted came from the lives and teachings of my parents. Theological dogma formed the basis of most preaching when I was young, and that most of us had little real interest in.

What the young people of today are very vitally interested in is what religion has to present as a way of life. What Jesus did most for the world was to set an example of perfect living, was to point out the proper relationship between man and man. It was that he had in mind when he said, "I am the way, the truth and the life." It was a way of living which he was setting before us, and that is something young people of today are quite vitally interested in, and if they would live most happily, most successfully, they must find it, and they will find it only, I am convinced, in religion.

H. C. Hillen, of the class of 1923, College of Engineering, instructor at the University in 1926 and 1927, and now in charge of a special training school for engineers conducted by the Carrier Engineering corporation, of New Jersey, has been assigned by the Carrier corporation to give a course in air conditioning to the present engineering seniors throughout the country during the first two weeks of February. Mr. Hillen has also been assigned to give the apprentice engineers of the General Electric company of Lynn, Mass., a similar course.

In this special course which Mr. Hillen is conducting for the Carrier Engineering corporation, there are engineering graduates from all parts of the country. Word has been received by Dean Anderson that the highest grade this year in this course conducted by Mr. Hillen was made by C. M. Wert, and the second highest made by E. O. McGary. C. M. Wert, known as "Charley" to many on the campus, was captain of the football team, and "Bib" McGary was president of the Men's student council, and president of the S.K.Y. circle last year. Both of these men were graduated from the College of Engineering last year.

Wildcats Have Tough Time Downing Centre, 8 to 0, on Slippery Field

TRADITIONAL FOE RETURNS TO FORM

(By Laurence Shropshire)
Although they were doped to be at least 30 points superior to their traditional foe and most bitter rival, the Wildcats ran amuck of an inspired team of Colons from Centre College last Saturday on stiff field and closed out another victory, this one by an 8-0 score. However, there is no doubt but that the Praying Colons gained the "moral triumph."

Some 6,000 football fans endured the cold, drizzling rain to witness the annual gridiron classic and supporters of both teams were mutually surprised as the Colons checked the Kentucky scoring machine and held its margin of victory to a minimum. Fighting as a Centre eleven always fights against a Wildcat team, even though it is the underdog, the Yellow and White warriors successfully repulsed every threat but one that the Blue team had to offer. Covington's touchdown in the second quarter and a safety achieved just before the final gun, accounted for the Wildcats' meager scoring activity.

Mad Retards Ball Carriers
Rain, which began early in the morning and continued throughout the playing time, made the footing exceedingly uncertain and the oval somewhat elusive. An open field meant nothing to the ball carrier for the mud was more deadly than any opposing tackler. Once in motion, the back could gain more ground by sliding than by attempting to buck the line.
The only man on either team who performed with any degree of consistency was Will Ed Covington, Kentucky's nearest approach to a genuine triple-threat back, and whose brother, the famous "Flash" Covington, starred in Centre moneyskins a few years ago. "Covey" looted the home with uncommon skill, averaging over 30 yards in each attempt which is worth considering the slippery condition of the ball. The way that young gentleman back the Colons punts was indeed a treat for the Kentucky follower. Receiving all of the Centre kicks, he returned the oval for a total of 17 yards, which is a whole lot of territory on anybody's football field.

Colons Outclassed
The Colons, clearly outclassed the statistics will show, mustered strength when the occasion demanded and three held the Blue and White for downs when the latter had pushed the ball to the dangerous side of the 10-yard strip. The timer's gun at the end of the first half also halted a Wildcat drive after "Baldy" Gil had placed the leather on the four yard mark with three more downs y unused.

Kentucky counted first in the second quarter when Covington gathered in one of Shearer's punts and returned it 25 yards to the 19-yard region. On the fourth down he stepped off nine yards and a first down on the one-yard line. The next play was again Covington's and he pedaled through tackle and went over the goal standing up. This ended the scoring until the game had neared passed into history. Gil had taken the ball almost single-handedly to scoring distance only to lose the piskki when the Colons line refused to be pushed back. Shearer, whose punt was a feature of the fray, tried to kick out of danger but three "Cat smothered the ball and Captain Dee fell on it beyond the end zone for safety and two more points.

Covington Is Star
Gilb and Covington were the backbone of the Kentucky offense although Toth, a sophomore, starting his fire game, performed satisfactorily in

NEW INTRA-MURAL CUP ON DISPLAY

S. A. E.'s Lead in Points For Tennis Tournament; Volleyball Games Will Start In Four Divisions on November 12.

The long-awaited and much-heralded participation trophy has at last arrived and is now on display in the show windows of Graves, Cox and company where everyone interested or curious may view it. This trophy, which has been provided by the intramural department, will be awarded each year to the fraternity accumulating the most points in all branches of sports and will become the permanent property of the first organization to win it three times.
The new trophy is a silver, covered loving cup, 42 inches tall, suitably engraved, and bearing raised figures representing each form of athletic activity sponsored by the intra-mural department. The point basis for making the awards is undergoing its first year at the University and has already encouraged the various fraternities to engage in a wider field of sports.

S. A. E.'s Lead
The tennis tournament, which was the first event to come under the new ruling, drew a large number of entries but has already gone into the fourth round of play. Sixteen court stars, survivors of the original 144 entries, remain in competition and eight teams are still contending for the doubles trophy. A check of the points made early in the week showed that the S. A. E. fraternity was far out in front of the pack with 668 points. Their closest rivals are the Sigma Chi with 33 points, Delta Tau Delta has 26, Pi Kappa Alpha 23, Phi Delta Theta 21, and Alpha Sigma Phi 16.

Volleyball Soon
The entries for the annual volleyball tournament, the next sport sponsored by the intramural department, must be in Mr. Potter's hands by next Friday, November 2. The first matches will be held on the following Monday so all groups intending to compete should get the entry blanks from the intra-mural office immediately and have them returned on time.

The fraternity league this year will have two divisions, the winners of which will play for the fraternity championship at the close of their regular schedules. There will also be two more leagues this season, one a Sunday-school league and one for the various companies of the University R. O. T. C. The University champion volleyball team will be determined by matching the winners of the individual sections.

VOLS AGAIN SCORE TOUCHDOWN ON KICKOFF

(By Robert Murphy)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 28.—Repeating for the second week in succession its phenomenal running back of the opening kick-off for a touchdown, Tennessee walked over Washington and Lee's Generals to the tune of 26-7 here yesterday. Hackman took the kickoff under the shadow of his own goal and ran it back 94 yards for the marker, dodging his way through the whole General team.

Tennessee repeated her scoring with a second touchdown in the first quarter, another in the second quarter and a final tally in the fourth. Washington and Lee's only score came in the second period when the Generals succeeded in putting a pass over the Volunteer second team who were sent in early in the game to relieve the regulars.

This pass for 18 yards from Eberhardt to Jones, followed by Jones' 29-yard run, was the only flashy work shown by the Washington and Lee team. The rest of their play consisted in persistent line plunging which when the statistics of the game were compiled, showed that they had amassed 12 first down to four for the Vols.

Ohio State Second Team Tramples on Wildcat Reserves by 38-0 Score

OHIOANS PASS FOR MARGIN OVER SCRUBS

Trampled and trodden on by the Ohio State reserves, the Wildcat reserve football team wended its way back to Lexington with the short end of a 38 to 0 score. The massacre took place in the enormous new Ohio stadium last Saturday and was witnessed by a mere handful of football enthusiasts. Rain ruined an otherwise beautiful day and saved the turtles from their weekly drubbing.

Kentucky put up a miserable offense and its defensive efforts were little better. Time and again the Wildcats were held for downs and forced to punt, and just as many times did they fail in their kicking. As a whole Kentucky's punts averaged about five yards.

The Wildcat line held up creditably, many times repelling the Ohio backs and forcing them to take to the air early in the game. In this department the Wildcats were sadly lacking. The Kentucky backs absolutely failed to break up the victorious aerial attack launched against them by the Buckeyes. Cavanna and Campbell managed to intercept Ohio passes but neither gained ground by the feat. Kentucky's one substantial gain was made when Martin Brown gathered in a long pass from McLemore. For an instant it looked as if Kentucky would score, but the hope of Wildcat adherents was short-lived, as Ohio again tightened their defense and held the Blue team for downs.

Louisville Boy Stars Sacka, a former Louisville Male High school luminary, was the individual star of the conflict. He performed the signal calling duties of the Ohioans as well as doing most of the passing and running. His generalship and fitness combined gave the Kentucky forwards a considerable amount of trouble all afternoon.

KITTENS TO MEET VANDY FROSH SOON

The University Kittens will journey to Nashville on November 10 where they will meet the strong Vanderbilt yearlings. Coach Pribble's Big Green team will seek revenge for the 7 to 2 trouncing the Vandy frosh handed them last year.

The Kitten backfield men, Jack Phipps and "Shipwreck" Kelly, are suffering from injuries received in the Georgetown tilt but are expected to be in shape for the Vandy game. Woody German, another backfield luminary, and Winn, tackle, have been going strong in recent practice sessions. These two men are expected to give the Vanderbilt freshmen some tough sledding.

Recent additions to the Kitten squad are Wilder, Corbin High star, and Martin, who is from Harlan, Martin, who enrolled in Vanderbilt earlier in the year, is now giving the regular tackles a tough fight for their job. Coach Pribble announces that he will take approximately 22 men on the trip.

Ohio scored early in the fray when Dysard, the Kentucky safety man, fumbled an Ohio punt. The Buckeyes ends recovered and Ohio scored on the next play. Dysard, it seems, was playing in tough luck and the elusive, muddy ball again slipped from his arms a few minutes later and an Ohio man recovered, paving the way to a successful touchdown via the fumble route.

Kentucky Outclassed The outcome of the game was never in doubt after the first few minutes, as Ohio again tightened their defense and held the large score would be. Ohio played heads up ball and never failed to grasp opportunity to score, while Kentucky could not develop an offense. Often a Kentucky back would find a hole, only to be thrown back by the Ohio secondary charging up to close the gap.

As this was their first game with a Big Ten opponent, the scrubs can see their relative strength against major opposition.

Southern Conference Teams Run True to Form, Clemson's Victory Being Only Upset of Week.

(By "Topsy" Rose) Southern Conference teams ran true to form last week, with the possible exception of the Clemson-South Carolina game. In one of the most startling upsets of the year Clemson overwhelmed the Gamecocks, who had conquered Chicago and Virginia, for their third conference victory of the season. Georgia Tech downed North Carolina in a rather easy manner, using the second string players almost the entire game. Tennessee smothered Washington and Lee under an avalanche of touchdowns. The Generals made 15 first downs while the Vols were only able to put forth their best efforts to do with the score.

Vanderbilt again showed that they have one of the greatest scoring machines in the country, swamping Virginia by a large score. The Commodores used their first team but fifteen minutes to rout the Cavaliers. Florida struck unexpected resistance in North Carolina State but managed to win by a touchdown.

Georgia won their first conference victory by defeating Tulane. Alabama ran rough-shod over Sewanee for their third conference win of the year. Georgia had to put forth their best efforts to down the fighting Greens of Tulane.

Maryland and V. M. I. fought to a scoreless tie much to the disappointment of the Cadet followers who were expecting a decisive victory.

In games against easy opposition, Louisiana State defeated Springfield; V. P. I. overthrew King College; and Auburn won from Howard. Incidentally it was Auburn's first victory in 18 games.

Kentucky won from Centre in a much harder fray than was expected, the Wildcats playing a rather listless game. Mississippi was badly beaten by the strong Loyola eleven from New Orleans.

This week there are two inter-sectional games scheduled for the conference teams. Alabama travels to the Wisconsin; and the badly battered Mississippi Aggies invade foreign territory to clash with Michigan State. The Alabama-Wisconsin game should be a classic, it will be good comparison of football in the Southern conference with that in the Western conference. Wisconsin seems to have a slight advantage over the Crimson Tide, while Michigan State should win easily from the Aggies.

In the conference there are three outstanding games. Kentucky plays Vanderbilt. Virginia clashes with Washington and Lee, and Maryland meets V. P. I. The most important of these is the Kentucky-Vanderbilt game. This battle will decide which is superior—a great defense or a strong offense. The Commodores have scored 92 points and have had 25 scored against them; the Wildcats have scored 75 points and held their opponents to 7. This game seems a toss-up.

Virginia meets Washington and Lee; when these two rivals battle, most anything can happen. The Cavaliers have the best record this year and are favored to win. V. P. I. should defeat Maryland, judging from past performances, however this so-called "dope" seems to mean very little this year.

Other conference games that seem more likely to produce big scores than upsets are Georgia-Auburn, Tennessee-Carson-Newman, Tulane-Mississippi, V. M. I.-Davidson, South Carolina-Citadel, Clemson-Mississippi, North Carolina-North Carolina State, Florida-Sewanee, and Georgia Tech-Oglethorpe encounters. The following is a schedule of the Southern conference teams and our choice. Our averages for the year: Games, 57; won 49, lost 8. Average, 859.

Michigan State	Mississippi A. & M.

Coach M. E. Potter has issued the call to arms for freshmen basketballers to report on Tuesday, November 6. Mr. Potter has recently been appointed by the athletic counsel to the position of freshman coach and it is expected that he will be able to assemble a strong squad of neitmen.

Practice sessions will be held on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays until later in the season, and Potter urges that all freshmen intending to try out to report promptly on next Tuesday unless otherwise notified.

This early start will give the coaches a better opportunity to look over the new material since squad cuts will not take place so soon as has been frequent in the past. The main purpose of these sessions will be to instruct the yearlings in the manner of play. This will send men to the varsity squad next year who have already had some drill in this difficult system.

Coach Pribble's "Big Green" team contains some basketball material which should prove a welcome addition at the end of football season. Jack Phipps of Ashland, Yates from Elizabethtown, "Woody" German of Louisville, and Thompson, a South Dakota boy, are all highly touted court performers and will try out with Coach Potter's outfit.

Varsity Continues Drill In the meantime the varsity squad will continue to use the gym on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week. There has been no let down on Coach Mauer's part and the squad is slowly rounding into shape. The drill during the past week has centered around the development of a good offense with the White team attempting to carry the ball through the Blue's defense. There has been some improvement but as yet the coach is not bursting with enthusiasm.

The squad has increased during the last few days, but Coach Mauer is issuing a last call to any men who intend to report to do so at once.

We believe that any one who would invent concentrated sleep would become great around a college town. Freshmen, here's your best opportunity!—O. C. N. A.

Team Coached by Heber Is Favored To Garner Title

John George Heber's Lexington Blue Devils have been installed favorites to cop the honors in the Central Kentucky High school conference for the 1928 season. The Devils are the only conference team at the present time with four victories and no defeats on their slate. Although tied by the Musketeers from Carlisle High school in a game played three weeks ago, the Hebermen are practically sure of the championship which is decided on a point basis by the Dickinson system.

Coach Heber is a former Wildcat luminary, having entered the University in 1915 and played on the football and baseball teams the three succeeding years. In 1918 he captained the grid team through a successful season and was rated as one of the shrewdest athletes ever to wear a Kentucky uniform. Heber has been head coach of all sports at Lexington High school for the past five years and his teams have always been outstanding in the state sport circles.

Two essays submitted by men and two by women students have been selected in each region, and a final selection is to be made this week by a New York jury. ### Pledge Chiefs Elect Joseph Lilly as Head

Fraternity Members Plan to Have Smoker and Get-Together Meeting

A meeting of all the pledge presidents of the social fraternities on the campus was held Tuesday night at the Pi Kappa Alpha house. The following men represented their respective fraternities: Alpha Tau Omega, Frank Cutler and Clarke Pennington; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Morris Scott; Pi Kappa Alpha, Joseph Lilly; Sigma Xi, Christopher Sandage; Phi Delta Theta, Guthrie Crowe and Buster Yeager; Delta Chi, Derond Dewesse; Phi Kappa Tau, John Veas; Alpha Sigma Phi, Gert Heisburg; Phi Sigma Kappa, Gilbert Demure and Ray Settle; Sigma Chi, Kenneth Kistner; Tri-Alpha, Charles Kastner; Delta Tau Delta, Edward Barclay and Alvin Welling.

An informal business meeting was held with Joseph Lilly, Pi Kappa Alpha, acting as chairman. The following officers were elected: Joseph Lilly, president; Guthrie Crowe, vice president, and Clarke Pennington, secretary.

The idea of a pledge organization was originated by Lilly for the purpose of getting better acquainted and promoting good fellowship among the pledges of the various fraternities. This is the first attempt at organizing pledges. Plans for the future were discussed and all present agreed that the best way to get started would be to have a smoker. The place and date of the smoker will be announced later.

STUDENTS IGNORE U. K. PARKING REGULATIONS

University drives as "short cuts." Several University departments having trucks and tractors are greatly inconvenienced by cars parked in thoroughfares and in front of loading docks.

Mr. Crutcher's department is now engaged in working out a plan with which they hope to solve the traffic problem and to prevent accidents on the University grounds. The system will be as practical as possible and everything will be done for the interests of the motorists and pedestrians. School authorities do not believe that automobiles should be banned from the campus as they are at many of the larger universities. It is thought, however, that the present conditions may be relieved by requiring persons owning automobiles to register them and to obtain permits for parking only in specified places. This would limit the number of cars on the campus and would eliminate the practice of driving from building to building between classes. Some exceptions to this rule will be made, Mr. Crutcher indicated.

University traffic signs have not generally been observed and persons disregarding them have largely been responsible for the present unsatisfactory conditions. Under the new plan a uniformed officer will also see that all rules are enforced and will assist in the proper placing of cars.

Professor Brauer Publishes Article

Alfred Brauer, of the department of zoology is the author of an article which has recently appeared in the Journal of Morphology and Physiology, entitled, "Spermatogenesis of Bruchus Quadrimaculatus" (beetle). This article contains four plates and 61 figures, which illustrate the various stages of metamorphosis of the beetle, from the earliest, to the last stage of development.

RURAL SCHOOLS CONVENE TODAY

Fourth Annual Tournament of State District Students Meet at University For Tests; Trophies to Be Awarded.

The fourth annual Kentucky Rural School Tournament will be held at the University today and Saturday. Trophies will be awarded the counties making the best records at the tournament.

The purpose of the tournament is to stimulate competition and promote education. A series of events, featuring athletics, declamatory, and scholastic tests will comprise the program. A trophy will be presented the county making the highest number of points in scholastic and declamatory tests, and another to the county whose representatives win the highest number of points in athletics. A trophy also will be given the county having the highest number of points in all three of these events.

The tournament is being conducted under the auspices of the University extension department under the direction of Louis Clifton. E. G. Howell, of the State Y. M. C. A., will have charge of the athletic program in co-operation with the extension department.

Representatives are expected from the schools of the following counties: Anderson, Boone, Boyle, Breathitt, Caldwell, Carter, Crittenden, Daviess, Elliott, Fayette, Fleming, Frankfort, Franklin, Grant, Greenup, Harrison, Henderson, Henry, Hopkins, Jefferson, Letcher, Leslie, Lewis, McLean, Madison, Montgomery, Morgan, Nelson, Nicholas, Oldham, Powell, Robertson, Scott, Union, Wayne, Webster, Whitley, Woodford, Bullitt and Washington.

GUILD PLAYERS EARN PRAISE IN 'HAY FEVER'

played the difficult role of the "weary and winsome" Judith Bliss with delightful originality. In every passion which the eccentric reformed actress experienced, from the superb dramatic heights in which this daring and yet attractive woman revealed her softer moments of maternal love for her two queer children, her interpretation was charmingly natural and is undoubtedly one of the most admirable ever given on any stage.

The play also brought back to the stage on which he has played several other strong parts, in past Romney plays, Alvin Hammett, a graduate of the University, who acquitted himself with his customary ability in the role of the temperamental son, Simon Bliss. Miss Alice Spaulding, in the part of his sister, Sorrel, displayed a sparkling vivaciousness which at once made her a favorite with the audience. Charles Blake as an author and the father of this unusual family carried his part with conviction.

Each member of the family invites a guest to their country home to spend the week end—entirely unknown to the other members—and the complications which ensue form the plot of this hilarious drama. The guests are Sandy Tyrell, a prize fighter, played by Melvin Nollan; Myra Arundell, a vamp, played by Margaret Lewis; Jackie Corydon, a flapper, played by Garnet Shouse, and Richard Gretham, a diplomat, played by Leon Wigglesworth. All of these roles were carried off with the skill of professional actors and did credit to Mr. Fowler's direction. The part of the unpretentious maid was well enacted by Verma Law.

The stage set which was designed by Mr. Fowler and executed by Thomas Lyons added much to the charm and atmosphere of the scene. The Lexington papers were high in their praise of both the set and the actors and the University can well be proud of this versatile group. The Guild deserves the support of every student and faculty member so that it may give more plays like "Hay Fever."

Guignol Theater Sponsors Contest

Frank C. Fowler Offers Prize to Student Who Designs Suitable Insignia

At a meeting of the governing board of the Guignol theater last week an official constitution was adopted whereby the organization will be conducted in the future. It was also decided to adopt an insignia for the theater and a contest was conducted under the supervision of Frank C. Fowler for the purpose of giving students an opportunity to submit sketches.

The contest will be open Monday and continue throughout the week and anyone is eligible to enter. Two season tickets to The Guignol will be offered as first prize. The sketches must all be on uniform size white paper and combine the ideals and purposes of the theater in an artistic design. Members of the faculty of the art department will act as judges.

All entries must be left at The Guignol business office in the old Romney building by Monday, November 12. It is hoped that students will take an active interest in helping the theater choose a suitable insignia.

The Chi Delta Phi prizes of twenty dollars each for the best poetry and the best prose by students of the University—George White Pittman, of Paris, and David C. Alexander, of Louisville. The Cale Young Rice prizes have been continued, while Prof. L. L. Dantzier will give a prize of ten dollars for the best prose by a freshman. Mr. Robert Porter, alumnus of the University, who is now a practicing lawyer at Kansas City, Mo., will give a ten dollar prize for the best prose, and the same for the best poetry contributed to the magazine by University students.

The present issue presents, perhaps, more interesting and gripping material than any previous one. For example, a story of the World War, an intense narrative, is told by Dr. George K. Brady, of the English department. David C. Alexander, last year's winner of the Chi Delta Phi prize, and James Leith also contribute short stories. Dr. Glanville Terrell, head of the department of philosophy, contributes a long article on "Science Among the Greeks, and Obitar Diets," showing to what a great extent the Greeks developed their science; and Grant C. Knight continues his series of articles on James Lane Allen, this one "When James Lane Allen Turned to Realism." Florence to the best prose by a student of the department of English, "The Classic Dance as a Fine Art." W. F. Galloway, of the English department, continues his special review service, "Der Teufel" and "Donna Magda" being the books "reviewed." "Bad Girl," "The Closed Garden," and "Catherine Paris" are the other books reviewed.

Edward Fiske, of the department of art, contributes a sketch "Street Scene in Italy," one which he made when he was studying in that country. Mildred Shute, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, contributes the other sketch.

A. M. Miller, professor emeritus of geology, and his brother, M. M. Miller, author, editor, and publisher, appear in their respective styles, poetry and prose, discussing "Our Fractured Universe."

Poets appearing are J. T. C. Noe, George White Pittman, Jessica Bell, Marcus Napier, Robert L. Potter, Clement Byrne, E. F. Farquhar, Leida E. Keyes, Harold H. Woolery, and Lillian Letelle Jones.

Copies of "Letters" may be obtained at the Campus Book Store, Smith Carrol, and the Colony Book Shop.
