Varsity "B" Team Defeats Kittens by Score of 34 to 28 DEMOISEY MARKS UP TOTAL OF 16 POINTS Coach Rupp Well Pleased with Showing Made by Wildcats

By NORMAN GARLING Coach Adolph Rupp's Varsity basketball team won a successful debut to the current hardwood court season Tuesday night when the first string Wildcat team trounced the Alumni to the tune of 33 to 20. The Varsity "B" team defeated the Kittens by the score of 34 to 28 in the preliminary game.

The Varsity passing and floor work clicked with surprising accuracy considering the fact that this was the first game of the season. The Alumni team, being composed of four all-Southern and one all-American players, distinctly showed that, when out of condition, a team cannot play winning ball, although they did put up a fair fight during the first half.

On the whole, Coach Rupp seemed rather pleased with the performance of both Wildcat teams, although the first stringers had a bit of tough luck with the majority of their shots, making 22 goals out of a possible 66. The shooting seemed to be accurate, but the ball rarely hit the hoop and rolled off.

With a little polishing this week, Wildcats should not have any trouble in defeating the Georgetown Tigers when they play here tomorrow night.

The Kittens led the Varsity "B" team a merry chase throughout the entire game, and both teams played a rough and vigorous game as often displaying football tactics.

The rivalry between these two teams is ages old. The Varsity "B" team was rather ineffective, but toward the end they picked up considerably.

Tom Conroy, Dorothy Teagarden, and Miles Davis have been appointed by Smith Broadbent, president of the senior class, as dean of and invitation committee for the senior class.

Bids for rings and invitations should be turned in as soon as possible to members of the committee or to the office of the dean of men. All bids which are submitted will be checked by the dean of men and by the president of the senior class.

Other officers of the senior class are: Ann Jones, vice-president; Billy Nichols, secretary; and Eugene Cowley, treasurer.

BOOKS OF POETRY RECEIVED Several popular new books of poetry are on the rental shelves (at three cents a day) at the University Library. Those received this week are: "The Poet's Eye" by Robinson; "Strange Victory," Sara Masada; "Bird of Dawning," John Masada; "The Old Man Dies," Elizabeth Sprague; and "Testament of Youth," Vera Brittain's autobiography. Due to the demand for these new books ten others have been ordered and will be ready for circulation within the next two weeks.

Kampus Kernels There will be an important meeting of Phi Mu Alpha, men's national music fraternity, at 9 o'clock Saturday at 8 p. m. in the Art Center.

There will be a meeting of Pan-Politikon at 4 p. m. in the Kentuckian office in McVey hall. Members of the executive committee and of the sub-committees will make reports.

CONVOCAION President Frank L. McVey will address students of the University at a convocation program, 10 a. m., Monday, December 18, in Memorial Hall.

His subject will be the annual "Between Us" talk. Thomas Scott, member of the junior class, will sing several selections. This convocation program will be the last one before the Christmas holidays.

COE NOUN NAMES 1933 LETTER MEN

Freshmen Who Will Receive Numerals Also Announced; North Carolina Game Is Scheduled

McCOWN IS MANAGER Those members of the University Wildcat varsity squad, and members of the freshman team, who are to receive letters and numerals for the 1933 football season, were announced by the Athletic Council at Wednesday's meeting.

Considering the 1934 gridiron schedule, the council further announced that the open date, on October 20, had been filled by a game with the University of North Carolina, to be played at Chapel Hill, N. C. There remains now only one date, October 15, on next year's schedule.

Lucille Thornton will represent the University chapter of Cowens at the national convention which will be held in January at Oxford, Ohio, according to plans which were approved by the local organization at a meeting Tuesday.

New officers of Cowens who will serve for the remainder of the scholastic year are: Mary Gunn Webb, president; Bettie Moffett, vice-president; and Lucille Thornton, secretary-treasurer. Meetings of Cowens will be held at 3 p. m. each alternate Tuesday throughout the year. Regular meetings are scheduled to be held in the Boyd hall reading room.

Press Delegates To Be Entertained High School Journalists to Be Honor Guests at Banquet

The University Department of Journalism, in cooperation with U-H-I-Highs, University High school newspaper, will entertain visiting delegates of the Kentucky High School Press association at a banquet at 8:30 tonight at the Lafayette hotel. Prof. Enoch Grehan, head of the journalism department, will preside as toastmaster.

Several short talks will be made by persons prominent in newspaper work. The Three Nightingales, vocal trio singing and A. L. Henry, senior math major, will perform several slight-of-hand feats.

An invitation is extended to every member of the press association to bring a $1 per plate in room 83, McVey hall, anytime before noon today.

Horn Tooters Will Name Band Sponsor at Dance

By SUNNY DAY Names of the candidates for sponsor of the "Best Band in Dixie" are being kept a deep dark secret in spite of the fact that campus politicians maintain that they can prognosticate the winner without more than half of their vituperous brain power. The big puff and blow men will choose their sponsor this afternoon. All votes will be counted, and the winner announced at the "Horn Tooters Hop" tonight.

Pan-Politikon Will Make Study of China Plans for Next Semester's Work Are Discussed by Group

Preliminary plans for an intensive study of China next semester in a program sponsored by Pan-Politikon were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of that organization last Friday.

Pan-Politikon, trying to secure Mr. Chih Meng, of the China Institute in America, author of the book "China Speaks," or Mr. Fitz-Brockman, head of the committee on Promotion of Friendship between the United States and China, as speaker for the convocation sponsored by Pan-Politikon next semester.

The committee made a survey of all instructors and professors and divided lists among the members of the sub-committees. The only member who doesn't devote at least two class periods of next semester to a discussion of Chinese influence in this country is the aim of the organization is to show in each department that China has at some time had connection with that particular field, and to promote a knowledge of that country as an adjunct to the study of the two hemispheres.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTESTS HELD Lucille Hancy, Morton Junior High School, Is First in Senior Division of State High School Contest

The senior division of the public speaking contest, being sponsored in high schools throughout the state by the University Extension department and the Kentucky Education Association, was held Wednesday at Morton Junior high school, was chosen winner over several other contestants in the final round. CLYDE EXAMINES JAPAN IN TOKIO Professor of History at University Has Headquarters in Tokio During Stay in Far East

Paul H. Clyde, professor of history at the University, is in Tokio, Japan, where he is doing research in the history of the Japanese and Manchurian relations.

Professor Clyde went to Japan the latter part of last June, and has made Tokio his headquarters during the five months that he has been in the East. He made one trip to Manchuria since his return from August 10 to September 15. According to Prof. A. L. Hall of the University of Chicago, the purpose of this trip was to gather material for a book which he is intending to write covering the period of Japanese expansion from 1922 to 1929.

At present Professor Clyde is searching through Japanese records in an attempt to find out something about the Japanese intervention in Siberia in 1918. Professor Hall said that General W. S. Graves was commander of the American Expedition into Russia in the only person who has written anything on the subject.

Professor Clyde wrote an article on "Contemporary Japan" which was published last August and he expects to have another article soon which will be published in the American Journal of International Law.

Brewer Says Boots Are Not Compulsory

Wearing of boots will not be compulsory for senior officers, Major Brewer, head of the military department, announced yesterday afternoon.

Boots may be purchased and worn at any time except for marching if the officers so desire. If a majority of the students have purchased boots by next spring a dress parade will be held.

In summer camps, senior officers are required to wear boots so all new recruits are planning to go to camp next year will probably buy their boots now. Major Brewer added.

The Athletic association controls athletic affairs at the University. No matter whose sports are classified, student you might happen to be, if you own an athletic ticket book or pass book, you are a member of the Athletic association, the body that governs the affairs of all the competitive sports sponsored by the University. The Athletic council is a group of men, appointed by the president of the University and ratified by the Board of Trustees, to manage the affairs of the Athletic association.

In the season of 1932, the total receipts of the Athletic association were $14,951.54. This sum includes $22,938.82, the total amount paid for student books, which means that the students pay into the association more than 20 per cent of the receipts during an average season, which includes football, basketball, and other sports. This is the average cost of tickets for two home games would more than cover that amount whereas the student is privileged to see as many as six games on the coupons contained in his pass book.

This information is given to the students so that they might benefit by it to the extent of not unjustly criticizing any person or group of persons for endeavoring to carry out an increasingly difficult undertaking to the best of their ability. From these facts, which have been carefully verified as to the truth, it will readily appear that the students are in the wrong in their more or less reckless criticism of their own association. The Kernel hopes that in the future the student body will first seek the facts in such matters before uttering their denunciations through ignorance or conceit.

The personnel and method of selections the athletic council will be dealt with in the next article in the series, which will be printed in the forthcoming edition of The Kernel.

LET'S MEET OUR PROFS
 One of the most broadening and stimulating aspects of a college education is found in the opportunities which offer themselves to students of meeting their professors outside the classroom where relations can be on a more personal and natural basis.

Many lasting and mutually edifying friendships can be formed between professor and student when they are able to get acquainted away from the rather formal atmosphere of the lecture hall.

We feel, too, that the advantages of the fellowship are reciprocal, for the professors are better able in this manner to catch the tempo of the student activities and catch their point of view. It seems quite logical to think that a better understanding between learner and learned, reached through congenial "extra-mural" fellowship would be conducive to greater progress within the institution.

It is one of the arguments often set forth by smaller colleges that there is a closer relationship between the instructor and student in their small institutions than can ever be possible in a large university.

In a manner this is true, but we can do much to remedy the situation. Certain organizations provide occasions for making personal contacts with your instructors, but after all it is the duty of the student himself to create opportunities so that he make these all important contacts.

Freshmen are told upon entering the University that they have been assigned a professor who is to be their advisor and to whom they may take their problems, but in too many cases the method of faculty advising is more form and nothing else. All too few take advantage of this opportunity which will gain them the advice, friendship, and sympathy of a man or men who have had experience in the problems of life.

Don't stop at being able to recognize a few of your professors on the campus or at feeling pretty good if you happen to be able to think of the names of the instructors if you see them downtown! Don't look on them as some sort of monstrosities or automatons placed in the school to teach you and possibly bore you! They are just as human as anybody, and make the best of friends—friends that are well worth the trouble of seeking for.

NEEDED, A WALK
 It is the duty of the University to protect the welfare of its students. Because of lack of walks in certain parking areas, there exists a constant menace for pedestrians. Particularly is this true at the south end of McVey and Kastle halls, where persons connected with the University are forced to walk either on the roadway or on the grass.

Were there no space for the construction of a walk we should have less cause to complain. However, by narrowing the strip of lawn bordering the roadway, a sidewalk of sufficient width could be made. This would in no way detract from appearance of the University grounds, and would be a boon to those who daily risk their lives in attempting to reach their classes.

Not only in the McVey hall area, but also in other parts of the campus is there a need for walks. Must we wait until some unfortunate person has been hurt or perhaps killed before the deplorable conditions are remedied? University authorities have done an excellent piece of work in restricting parking areas on the campus. It is hoped that they will go a step farther, and insure against possible future accidents that might be prevented.

WELCOME, JOURNALISTS
 Welcome, delegates of the Kentucky High School Press association! It is our privilege to extend to you a cordial reception, and the wish that you may, in your measure, benefit by your brief visit with us.

Cooperating with U-Hi - Lights, University High school newspaper, The Kernel and the department of journalism at the University will be host to representatives of high school publications of the state in a meeting here today and tomorrow.

Because of a similarity in organization of The Kernel with municipal newspapers, a splendid opportunity for becoming acquainted with the various phases of journalism will be afforded the visiting students. The delegates will be conducted on a tour of inspection through The Kernel printing plant, and this evening they will be guests at a banquet at the Lafayette hotel.

Among the speakers who will address the press group will be Dr. Frank L. McVey, Miss Marguerite McLaughlin of the state Department of Journalism, Thomas R. Underwood, managing editor of the Lexington Herald, and Joe Jordan, Lexington Leader. Everyone who is interested is invited to attend the meetings.

As co-sponsor of the conclave, we shall endeavor to be entertaining, as well as instructive hosts. So, greetings from The Kernel, the department of journalism, and the University of Kentucky.

THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL
 As was promised, we are presenting the second in the series of editorials written for the purpose of enlightening the student body concerning the set-up and the workings of the Athletic association and the Athletic council. It is a contrary to popular opinion, S. A. "Daddy" Boles is not a member of the Athletic council and is not athletic director of the athletic association but is athletic director for the University in the department of physical education. Some thoughtless persons among the members of the student body, have called "Daddy" the "graduate manager" of the athletic association and various titles but his only official cognomen is athletic director of the University in the physical education department.

THE LAST DAYS
The russet leaves of the sycamore lie at last on the valley floor—by the autumn wind swept to and fro like ghosts in a tale of long ago. Shadow and clear the forest glades where the willows droop on its vine-walled sides.

Days departing linger and sigh:
Stars come soon to the quiet sky:
Buried voices, intimate, strange:
Cry to body and soul of change:
Beauty, eternal, fugitive,
Seeks the home that we cannot give.
—GEORGE STERLING.

For economic reasons the former Prince Matchabelli of Russia has turned to perfumes. "Duchess of York," a light scent that is suggestive of an English garden, is for blondes and for morning wear. "Ave Maria," more spicy, is for brunettes. The perfume comes in a Crown bottle copied from the ancient crest of the Matchabelli family, an asset to your dressing table. The size and color vary but the large white container with its gold trimming is quite regal. The crest is on the compacts and lipsticks also. Ask for the stores behind this line which is carried by Denton.

Emby has in some new knitted one or two piece dresses for afternoon which are not strictly sport. It has been said that only the beautiful can wear the purple shades. If you have clear cut features, you will want the pansy bud dress with the square neck. A two piece green dress with a lattice weave yoke has gold nutmeg buttons at the neck opening in the back. Hand crocheted tabs at the front of the neck and sleeve edges add a dressy touch.

At Wolf Wile, did you notice the Scotty stationery? The box is a Scotty with a red bow and the oblong paper has a Scotty in the upper corner. Speaking of animals, the Mickey Mouse Toy seat serves as a toy chest and a seat, as the name implies. Mickey Mouse scenes are depicted on all sides. Mothers would appreciate it too.

Mitchell, Baker, & Smith know that women like to vary their dresses, so they are showing velvet collars in rich colors, some with buttons and some plain. Velvet touches are quite the thing.

Three major studios simultaneously started production of pictures dealing with the life and adventures of spies during the world war. RKO managed to get the jump on the other two by first releasing "Act of Treason," which is now headlining the bill at the Kentucky theater. This film was originally called "Without Glory"; later it was called "Woman Spy"; but finally the present title was chosen as being the most suitable.

The story deals with espionage behind the Russian and Austrian lines during the Great War, and is filled with all sorts of intrigues and counter intrigues. Constance Bennett plays the part of Carla, the beautiful, clever and daring Russian spy. Gilbert Roland plays opposite her as Rudi, an American officer who is also a spy. For a time it looks as if Rudi must kill his loved one, until—but that's all too exciting to expose.

It is hard to say who has been quoted the most during the last eight months, Shakespeare or Mae West. "Why don'tcha come up some time?" has become a classical phrase; and everywhere one goes, it, or another one just as good, is heard. And now "I'm No Angel," the latest Western picture, has been brought back to Lexington by the Phoenix Amusement Company for a second run. It opened yesterday, and will be shown through today at the Strand theater.

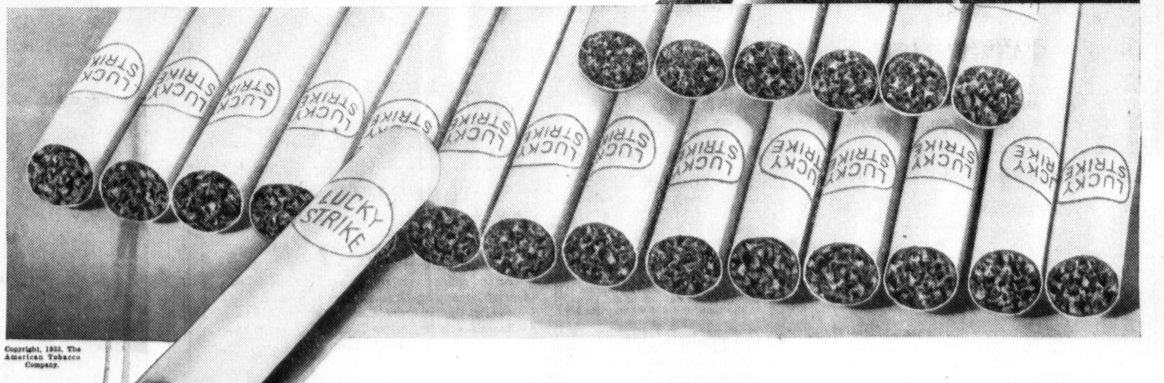

Of course the West is all over the picture with curves, hip-slinging, seduction and pleasantry in some of the most daring action ever filmed. This time Mae is Tira, the lion tamer and carnival dancer, who breaks into bigtime and the hearts of Park Avenue millionaires with equal ease. Cary Grant, the tall, dark and handsome "She Done Him Wrong" again plays opposite her and carries in as good performance as he did in the previous picture.

The story really hasn't much plot, and what there is of it hasn't much chance against the general air of naughtiness in the whole play. Briefly Tira starts out as a carnival dancer and lion tamer with big ideas. She breaks into big-time by being the only woman lion tamer to place her head in a lion's mouth. Along the way she has a good many affairs until she meets Edward Arnold, as Bill Barton, and becomes his paramour. Cary Grant, as Jack Clayton, attempts to get Barton out of her clutches and falls in love with her himself. They quarrel and Tira sees Jack for breach of promise. She acts as her own lawyer during the trial, and then it all ends with Tira and Jack locked in each other's arms; but for how long we don't know.

The present attraction at the Ben All is "Hell and High Water." This picture co-stars Richard Arlen and Judith Allen. There is plenty of action and thrills in it; and the two principal characters turn in very creditable performances.
