Debate, Controversy Mark SGA Meeting

Judiciary Hearings, Honor System Argued

Monday night's session of the Student Government Association broke into a fury of debate and controversy as:

1. A recommendation was made to have the judiciary committee try all disciplinary cases in the open instead of in secret.
2. An honor system for the University was suggested.
3. SGA decided to begin procedures to aid the process of establishing a medical school at UK.

Copp Turner, chairman of a committee formed to study the judiciary committee's functions in January, reported that his committee had outlined three functions of the judiciary body.

First, he said, the judiciary committee handles campus parking, including the issuance of permits and the making of parking rules. Second, if continued, the committee handles disciplinary cases, and third, it interprets SGA's constitution and handles any matters given to it by the assembly.

Three Recommendations Made
Turner next submitted three recommendations concerning the judiciary committee. He recommended that:

1. A report of studies and decisions of the judiciary committee be submitted to the assembly whenever it meets.
2. Minutes or excerpts of minutes from the judiciary committee be read during assembly meetings.
3. That "open door" meetings be held unless the "defendant" or officer of the dean of men objects.

The third recommendation, to hold disciplinary cases as "open door" meetings, was met by a storm of objections and arguments by most SGA members and from Dean of Men A. D. Kirwan.

Dean Kirwan offered the first objection to the suggested policy by saying that it would involve a public announcement of a student's difficulty.

He asked if Turner were recommending that the names of students out for disciplinary action be put on a bulletin board?

Turner replied that his committee made its proposal partly on the basis that a student might want to present to be present during his "hearing."

Class Speaks Against Proposal
President Carter Glass next spoke out against the recommendation, saying that the presence of friends would only tend to hinder a disciplinary hearing.

Turner gave as another reason for having "open door" hearings the possibility of "airing" trials. He argued that, with no secrecy, anyone could attend the session, provided with the "defendant" and the dean of men did not object.

Dean Kirwan again countered with the argument that "open door" sessions would mean public announcement of disciplinary trials, and Palmer added to it by saying that the judiciary committee was often called upon to act at "any time of the day or night."

He pointed out that SGA only meets every two weeks.

Dean Kirwan then said that, as far as is concerned, any student up for disciplinary action can bring a friend or friends to the hearing.

He emphasized that "this isn't a court of law... it's an informal tribunal."

Another member of the Informal Tribunal, Glenn Sandefur, Constable assembly member, "was not trying to make a show out of it. The idea is to keep it from being a secret."

RE Week Will Help Students Gain Insight Of Future Life

Next week has been designated as Religious Emphasis Week on the UK campus. It is the time for students to take stock of themselves, their lives, their goals, and decide just where they are going.

During the five days, outstanding clergymen and laymen will be brought to the campus to speak and to lead discussions on the relation of religion to student life. These men will not speak in vague generalities but will explain how religion can be applied practically to student life and the result thereof.

Comments from student leaders, the administration and faculty have indicated that students show indifference, apathy, and lack of enthusiasm about specific issues and their lives in general. We have been referred to by notable sources as the "silent generation." The purpose of Religious Emphasis Week is to consider this attitude and do something relevant and meaningful about it. The Week will be sponsored by the Interfaith Council which is composed of representatives from the 14 religious groups on the campus.

The Council has studied students on the UK campus and has brought information to light which would seem to bear out this theory. The following is a resume of their findings:

(1) Students are compartmentalized—The major goal of many students is to complete college, trained sufficiently in one area to get a job and financial security. They, therefore, are restricted to one segment of thought and emphasis and are not challenged by other areas of thought so that they have a one-sided approach to life and a rather narrow perspective.

(2) Students feel that their lives are all mapped out and that they have no responsibility for making decisions. This can be seen most clearly in the opinion of many of the men students who feel that their college career is merely an interim between high school and the armed forces, therefore, seeing little need in making plans for the future. Others seem to be overwhelmed by the complexities of life and take the stand, "Oh well, what's the use?"

(3) Students refuse to face the real question about the meaning of their lives, is there something worth giving allegiance to, worth getting excited about? Is it sufficient just to live or is there something which makes things fit together and remain whole even in the midst of confusion?

Religious Emphasis speakers will discuss the problem in classes, clubs, dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses throughout the week. They will also be available for personal conferences. There will be daily afternoon discussions in the Student Union on where have you been, where are you going, and how will you go?

UK students will benefit greatly from these sessions if they will attend as many as possible and with an open mind. Religion is too often taken for granted by the average person. Most people feel, college students included, that they can stick their religion away in a tidy little corner until trouble approaches and then quickly retrieve it and hold it high until the all-clear sounds.

Religion cannot truly be called by that name unless it is lived every day. Students should stop and take a look at themselves now while there is still time and decide if they measure up to what they would like to be, and just where they are going. The discussions next week will prove an excellent way of gaining an insight of the situation. Support Religious Emphasis Week.

Guest Editorial

Dr. Massie Outlines Expense Of Building Med School At UK

In a previous guest editorial we attempted to show that a second medical school was badly needed in the State of Kentucky. The Medical Advisory Committee to the Governor's Legislative Commission recommended in December 1953 that more help be given immediately to the medical school in Louisville so that this school could educate more students but that a second medical school be built at UK as soon as financially practicable.

We stated that the number of physicians in this state has been steadily declining since 1910 and that the deficit will be serious by 1965.

To build and maintain a medical school anywhere is going to cost a lot of money and we may as well face this at the onset. The University's own Committee on Medical Education of which Dr.

Leo Chamberlain is chairman has made a careful study of the whole problem and has come up with a figure of $15,731,000 which would be the cost of the first nine years.

This would make the average amount per year for the building and maintenance about $1,750,000. They estimate the annual cost of maintenance after the first six years of building, at $650,000. Of this $15,731,000 between five and six million would come from federal aid under the Hill-Burton Act and the rest from the state of Kentucky by act of the Legislature.

Where will the state of Kentucky get the money for building and maintaining a medical school at UK?

We have made no study of the source of tax money in this state but we assume that there is enough wealth in Kentucky to do this. Of the 14 Southern states, Kentucky stands ninth in the per capita income for 1952. All except Kentucky have or are building state supported medical schools. South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas all are below Kentucky in per capita wealth. They have State Medical Schools, why can't we? Perhaps a complete revision of our tax system will be necessary. Many other states have a sales tax, why shouldn't we?

A general sales tax would bring in to the State Treasury between 15 and 20 million dollars per year. Kentucky stands ninth in the per capita income for 1952. Leland Hayward, Ethel Merman Re-Crete Broadway Hit On TV

By LESLIE MORRIS

Leland Hayward, in his first coaching assignment since the smash triumph of the Ford Anniversary Show, scored again last Sunday with his super-TV production of Cole Porter's "Anything Goes," on the Colgate Comedy Hour.

Re-creating one of her first Broadway roles, Ethel Merman was spectacularly wonderful. The spirit and vigor of this show-biz phenomenon seemed to infect the whole cast, and made the hour show the brightest spot the cable-ways have seen this season. Frank Sinatra was at his musical best, and the incomparable Bert Lahr was terrific as always. A bevy of chorus cutes headed by Sheree North, and the great score, complimented the performances of the three stars, but it was Miss Merman, herself, who stole the show—her voice may not be the best in the show world, but it is the loudest and liveliest.

We have a hunch we'll soon be treated to a lot of Broadway oldies done-up TV-style—but it'll be hard to top this first effort by the new team of Merman and Hayward.

Last week we made the comment that "even Guinness doesn't make 'The Captain's Paradise' more than a moderately entertaining comedy." Lack of space prevented us from explaining our remarks, but we've been given another opportunity since the theatre which booked it originally for last week didn't open it locally until yesterday.

Now this will probably reveal us as a bum critic, indeed, since the British import has drawn raves from people who ought to know—but we're entitled to our humble opinion, and Guinness fans are entitled to know why our opinion is as is.

Captain Henry St. James, played by the great Alec Guinness, has apparently discovered the perfect life. He realizes there is a bit of the best and best in every man, and so he conveniently locates a wife in each of the ports between which his vessel plys. In Gibraltar he has a warm homebody (Celia Johnson), and in Kalk, North Africa, he (helps) Yvonne DeCarlo. So the good Cap'n lives a rich, full life, indulging his opposite desires in a somewhat gluttonous fashion.

Then things go wrong. His homely little woman starts living it up on the Rock of Gibraltar, and Miss DeCarlo decides to get domesticated. As you can see this is an intriguing, if unoriginal, plot, but—unfortunately—we got sea-sick somewhere off the coast of Morocco. Guinness's St. James is not a very likeable fellow, and the going-on get a little weary. And in the course of this "comedy" his British prin runs off with a cousin, leaving a host of off-spring in a Britannian college, and his French pastry gets murdered, and Guinness takes the rap and gets stood up before a firing squad, and—well, stay around for the hilarious wind-up. In fact, be sure and see the last five minutes—don't bother about the rest.

Best scene we've seen in months was the hazy jam session in "The Clem Miller Story." When Armstrong Krupa, and company turned on the jazz—while revolving lights, trumpets, drums, and a crazy crowd threw the screen into a frenzy of color and sound—we felt we were really in the bowels of Basin Street.

But the picture was slightly tilted. It took friend Miller so long to find the "sound" he was looking for that too much plot and dialogue belabored the first 60 minutes, and too much music and song turned the last 60 into a musical short. And the closing scene must have been a commercial advertisement for Kleenex. We like to cry in movies too, but not when the people-on-screen kick us when we're already down.

All-in-all this latest Hollywood "Story" is an entertaining film-biog, and we hope it does for the old Glenn Miller mood music what another movie did for Jolson.

To set the record straight: A lot of people who didn't take time to read, are under the erroneous impression that Earl Ruby changed his policy in regard to UK's Big Three in a widely bally-hooped column last week in the C-J. Ruby only agreed with the official SEC ruling which long ago declared that the Kentucky grads were eligible for the LSU-playoff. This latest business strikes us as a lot of fol-de-rol.

Hack Writers, English Majors Differ In Style

By BONNIE BUTLER

(Now and then a few of our friends majoring in English drop by to ask us why hack writing is so popular in this country. Naturally, no reputable journalism major—or newspaperman—endorses hack writing. But we can see why "hack" writing might not be too interesting. Let's compare a hack writer with an English major.)

HW: Mike flipped his rod from his coat and blasted Sam's brains all over the wall. Blood and brains and bone dotted the wallpaper. Mike laughed and walked out the door.

EM: The automatic, having been evicted from the inner lining of Mike's outer garment, was discharged several times, inflicting injuries to Samuel's cranium. Samuel fell to the floor and Mike, giddily with a pleasant sensation of accomplishment, left by the exit.

HW: Nasty weather smacked him in the face. He cursed, drunk in a bar to fire up a nail, and decided to drink a brew before going out to put the bite on Martha. The barkeep slid the suds to him. He washed it down with a double on the rocks, flipped a buck on the counter, belched, and went out to grab a cab.

EM: Inclement weather greeted Mike. He established disparaging terms and walked into an establishment dealing with the sale of alcoholic beverages in order to ignite a cigarette. He decided to imitate a glass of beer before attempting to blackmail Martha. The bartender handed him a glass of beer, which he drank with relish. He paid for the beverage, then left to hail a taxicab.

HW: Martha's shack stunk—reeked of whiskey and boiled cabbage. It stunk so bad Mike felt like tossing right there. But he braced himself and walked into the kitchen. She was standing there, drinking a fifth of moonshine. Mike snorted, lashed out his rod and shot rotgut all over the ceiling. Martha yelled.

This hacked Mike. He shot her in the gut five times.

"Mike, how could you?"

"It was easy, &S: you!" He kicked her teeth in as she died.

As he was heading home, a cop loomed out of nowhere, shouting for him to stop. Mike reached for his rod, but two slugs caught him, tearing his right arm off at the elbow. As the blood spurted out of the jagged wound, Mike grabbed the gun with his other hand and shot the cop's ears off, via the brain. Just as he was ready to leave, he slipped in the blood and broke his leg.

EM: A law enforcement officer urged Michael to cease moving, then wounded Mike in the arm with his pistol. Mike uttered a harsh cry of pain, but managed to return the officer's fire, killing him in the process. As he was preparing to leave, he slipped and suffered multiple fractures of his lower limbs.

HW: The cops caught Mike later, after he'd passed out on his way to a doctor. He was tried and found guilty. A month later, they strapped his sweating body in the hot seat and fried the life out of him with 2200 volts of searing juice. Thirty to a thing.

EM: Michael was eventually captured, after he had lost consciousness on his way to seek a physician. He was put on trial and pronounced guilty by the jury. After an interval of one month, they forcibly placed his freely perspiring body in the electric chair and caused his breathing and heart to end their functioning by allowing a rather high electrical current to pass through his body. Homi soit qui mal y pense.

Dr. Romanovitz said that the 23 students, and C. T. Mason and N. B. Allison, professors in the department, left Wednesday on the annual spring inspection trip and will return Saturday.

"I want you to do as I tell you," said the doctor.

"That's what my boyfriend said," replied the blonde, "and that's why I'm here."

Bad Weather Stalls Cat Baseball Drills

By DAVE NAKIMEN
 The March lion this week put a dent in UK baseball practice as well as stalling spring football plans. Drills have been halted almost entirely until better weather sets in.

What practice that has taken place has been strictly informal. Formal practice will begin only after Coach Harry Lancaster's basketball duties are over. At present, the team has been divided into two sections and will practice at different times because of the large number of turn-outs.

Last year's club, which won 7 and lost 11, was also hampered by bad weather, and did most of its practicing indoors. There will be no indoor drills this year so the weather will be the sole factor on how much practice the team gets in.

Games this year will be held on Still Field. Starting time for weekday games will be 3 p.m., Saturday games will begin at 2 p.m.; all doubleheaders will start at 1:30 p.m.

Chances for a successful season will probably depend on the pitching staff entirely, unless some of the new men can fill the shoes of the departed Frank Ramsey, Harry and Larry Jones, and Billy Evans. Ramsey has completed his eligibility, the Jones boys have graduated, and Evans will not have time because of practice teaching.

Two pitchers on last year's club have signed contracts with the Cincinnati Reds. Don House, a southpaw from London, Ky., and Bill Markesberry, a righthander from Florence, Ky., will go to spring training with the Reds this year, and will probably be assigned to a Cincinnati farm club in either October or November.

Kentucky's first outing will be against Eastern at Richmond on April 2. The rest of the schedule is as follows:

- April 3 — Transylvania, home.
- April 9 — Georgia, home.
- April 10 — Georgia, home.
- April 12 — Vanderbilt, away.

- April 30 — Centre, away.
- May 1 — Tennessee, home.

COACH ADOLPH RUPP AND THE "BIG THREE" are pictured in front of Memorial Coliseum, following the pep rally held upon the team's return from Alabama. The Alabama victory gave the Cats an undefeated regular season. The victory was the last regular season contest for Cliff Hagan, Lou Tsioropoulos, and Frank Ramsey.

Cats Close Season With Win Over Bama

By BILL BURLESON
 The Big Blue of Kentucky ebbed the Tide of Alabama 68-43 and set a national record for major undefeated quints last Monday night at Tuscaloosa.

No major college has ever won 24 games without a defeat before. The Cats, led by the "Big Three," were ahead at all of the stops and were never pushed or troubled by the stalling tactics of Bama coach Johnny Dee.

The Cats were led in scoring by Cliff Hagan who dumped in 24 big points. The two other outstanding seniors, Ramsey and Tsioropoulos, got 12 and 11 points respectively.

The star for the Crimson Tide was another Kentuckian, six-foot-eight inch Jerry Harger, who garnered 17 points. Harper is from Louisville and played his high school ball at Ellettsville.

Alabama tried three different attacks in attempting to stop the Wildcats, alternating with deliberate, weave-attack game, a complete stall, and a fast break. According to observers, the fast break was the better of the three.

Kentucky walked off the floor at halftime with a 29-20 lead. Alabama refused to run with Kentucky and spent up to three minutes trying to get a shot away or just freezing it and trying to make the Cats come out after it. With a comfortable margin the Kentuckians declined the invitation and the Tide would then try to get a good shot.

Kentucky had to turn in one of its sharpest efforts of the season to whip a sophomore-laden squad before a noisy, peanut, and paper-linoving crowd.

As Kentucky began to pull away and build up a 48-29 lead early in the fourth stanza forcing Bama to quit their stalling tactics and run with the Cats.

The stalling tactics of the Tide did hold Kentucky to its lowest point total of the season. The Wildcats previous low was the 71 they lost against St. Louis.

Kentucky made only one substitution. That came with only seven minutes of game time left when Lou Tsioropoulos picked up his fourth foul, and Coach Grovesmore relieved him.

The Big Blue was red hot in the field goal department. They connected on 25 of 56 shots for a brilliant 45 per cent.

Alabama, not being able to work the ball in very effectively, could sink only 13 or 14 shots for a meagre 25.4 per cent.

The victory clinched at least a tie with Louisiana State for the South-eastern Conference Championship. LSU closes their season tomorrow night against Tulane on the Tulane home floor.

If the Bengals triumph, and thus also finish undefeated in league play, they'll meet the Wildcats in the Vanderbilt Gym at Nashville, March 9 in a play-off for the conference crown. The winner will automatically qualify for the NCAA tournament.

The Cats can point with pride to the record of this year, and it has made quite a soothing save for the wounds perpetrated last year.

Weightlifting Try-Outs Will Be Held Monday

Tryouts for the weightlifting team will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday, John Iselman, president of the UK Weightlifting Club, has announced.

For further information, Iselman may be contacted.

The first meet of the season will be held March 27 at Notre Dame, he said.

Wildcat Fencers Defeat Cincinnati And Vanderbilt

By BILL KNIGHT
 The Wildcats' fencing team, coached by Col. Rogers brought its overall season's record to 5-1 by winning over the University of Cincinnati's team by the score of 18-9, and again doubling the score, beating Vanderbilt's foil team 6-3.

The meet, held in the Mechanical Room of the Coliseum, began with UK versus Cincinnati. The score was chiefly piled up in two weapons, sabre and epee, both being won by scores of 7-2, while foil was lost to Cincinnati 4-3. Fencing against Vanderbilt's foil team only UK won 5-3. Fencers making a clean sweep, winning all their bouts, were Capt. Tom Prather, Bob Dodson and Charles Wittnee. John Wittenburg also won all his Cincinnati bouts.

Excellent directing (equivalent to umpiring, but even more an important part of fencing) was available for both sabre by two notable fencers, Bill Seiler, an ex-UK fencer and captain of the last two seasons' team, and Albert Wolfe, a fencer on America's epee team in the last Olympics, both came down from Louisville to officiate.

Tomorrow the swordsmen again play the host, this time to Lincoln Memorial University of Harrogate, Tennessee. The meet will start in the Mechanical Room at 2:00 p.m.

Summary of individual scoring:
 Against Cincinnati—
 Tom Prather—5-0, 5-4, 5-2
 Lee Shine—5-0, 5-2, 2-5
 Ed Schreiner—5-0, 3-3, 2-5
 Bob Dodson—3-2, 3-1, 3-1
 Charles Wittnee—2-0, 2-1, 3-1

THE COXSWIN WHO WANTED TO BE A NUDIST

The coxswain of a leading university crew doesn't like to be tossed in the water after a victory. He didn't like it so much the crew started tossing him in the water any old time they saw him near it.

He complained bitterly that it was ruining all his sports shirts. He liked nice sports shirts, but all he owned had either shrunk or streaked or spotted. He was not a happy coxswain. With no more sports shirts, he contemplated pinning a nudist colony.

He told the whole wretched tale to the Dean of Men.

The Dean said, "You like really good sports shirts, eh? Something like a fine gabardine?"

"Uh huh," the coxswain beamed.

"Try this—take $2.95 down to the nearest men's store and get a Van Heusen Van Gal. It's the best-looking gabardine sports shirt you've ever owned and it's completely washable—any kind of water. What's more, it's got real pick-stitching on the collar, pockets and cuffs... it's got a Sportsman collar that looks as smart with a tie as without. Van Heusen really knows how to make 'em."

Said coxswain is now sports shirt king of the campus. Does Van Gal's all smart new fade colors. Called best-tanned coxswain on row boat. Doesn't want to be dunked by crew. Jumps in. Van Gal and all.

Cats Whip Plainsmen

The rampaging Wildcats copped their 23rd straight victory of the season last Saturday night as they routed over the Auburn Tigers 109-79. This was Kentucky's lucky 13th, in conference games.

Led by All-American Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey the Wildcats were never pressed as they led by 30-10 at the first stop and by 53-26 at the half. The Tigers cut the lead slightly in the third period as they outscored the Cats 24 points to 30, but were unable to keep up with the torrid pace set by Kentucky as the Cats dropped in 34 points to 27 for the Tigers in the final period.

Coch Rupp played substitutes for the most part of the final period but they kept the bombardment going as the Cats went on the widest scoring spree of the season.

Ramsey pushed the Cats within one point of the century mark as he dropped in 11 consecutive points. Harold Hurst, substitute center for the Cats, dropped in a free throw to make it 100-70 with less than three minutes remaining.

Ramsey led all scoring with 29 points to his credit. He was closely followed by teammate Hagan who scored 24. Miller and Martin led the Tiger's scoring with 12 points each.

UK Billiard Team Cops Eighth Place In Collegiate Meet

The University of Kentucky's billiard team placed eighth in the recent National Intercollegiate Billiard tournament held February 22. The team score was 225 in comparison with the winning score of 266 posted by the University of Wyoming.

The tournament is a key-shot affair, with the players playing for score individually and not in direct competition with others. The scores are then tallied in to central headquarters in Chicago.

High man for the Kentucky team was John Kelly who tallied 86. Next in line on the three-man team was Duval Naldimen, with 79. Mills Boone, who was forced to a playoff for the team against Tom Fowler, was third with 60.

The winning team, Wyoming, also had the high individual score, 2 Mulvehill came in with a 97. The record for individual score is held by Leroy Kluman, a former Eastern cue man, who posted a perfect score of 100 for three straight years.

Playoffs for the team were held last semester on the same key-shot basis. Kelly again was high man with a 72, beating out Naldimen, who tallied 72. Boone and Fowler tied for third with 64's and Boone took the fourth position in a playoff. Kelly received a trophy, the other two team members received gold medals.

SIDELINE SLANTZ!

John K. Ryons

Coach Adolph Rupp's UK Wildcats have accomplished the supposedly impossible! Earlier in the season many veteran coaches, including the coach of Duquesne, said that it was impossible for a team to go undefeated in major college basketball. However, Coach Rupp could not agree with these so-called experts and led his Wildcats through a 24 game schedule, without even coming close to suffering a setback.

Possibly the closest squeezes the Cats had this season were against Xavier, LaSalle (ranked eighth nationally by AP), and Minnesota, but even in these games they were never really extended to win. Also numbered among the Cats victims with 11th ranked Duke, proving what the team can do against other top flight competition.

Perhaps what the Duquesne coach meant about a team not being able to go undefeated was true to some extent, but only as far as his own team was concerned. After winning 22 games in a row the Dukes suffered two consecutive losses to Ohio teams last week. It was not surprising that they were beaten by highly regarded Dayton; but the loss to the Cincinnati Bearcats came as a surprise to many people. The Bearcats have a good team, but their season's record has not been too impressive.

The Associated Press's ratings this week give Rupp's Raiders a big first place margin over three beaten Indiana, currently ranked in the number two slot. The UP Coaches' Poll, however, continues to show the jealousy that a few coaches have for the Wildcats. Although the UP has the Wildcats ranked in first place, they only have a two point margin over the Hoosiers, who have been declining steadily in recent games. It appears that some of the coaches are too biased to give the team the rating it deserves for being the only unbeaten college team in the country. This attitude seems obvious when four coaches did not rate the Cats at all on their ballots.

If the Cats find it necessary to play the LSU Tigers in a playoff tilt next Tuesday night, you will see a mass migration of UK students to Nashville to attend the game. The Tigers must still beat arch-rival Tulane on the Green Wave court Saturday night, and a victory by Tulane would make the play off game unnecessary. If the play off is staged, tickets for the contest will be at a premium, as the new gym at Vandy seats only around 7,500.

Mack Hughes, local photographer, can certainly be proud of the fine pictorial spread he did on Cliff Hagan, appearing in this month's Sport magazine. Mack has done a lot of work for various magazines, and this is perhaps his best job of all.

The weather man is certainly taking his toll of spring sports on the UK campus. Coach Blanton Collier was hoping to begin spring football practice last Monday, but he had interference from the snow. Coach Collier is eager to get a look at his prospects for next season, as soon as the weather will permit. Under SEC rules conference members are allowed 20 days of grid practice within a 36 day period. Therefore, he must begin practice at a time when he feels that the weather will permit the 20 days of practice. Cold weather also plays a hardship on the baseball team of Coach Harry Lancaster. Getting a late start in baseball always puts UK at a disadvantage against other SEC teams, who are blessed with a much warmer climate.

Just 27 years ago this week, Coach Blanton Collier was a starting forward on the Georgetown College basketball squad that was proving to be the surprise team of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association tournament. The Tigers upset the tournament favorite, Mississippi College, in the first round, beat a highly favored Furman five in the quarter-finals, and then were defeated in the semi-finals by Mercer College on March 4, 1927. The Tigers possibly would have won the tourney, if the coach's wife had not died the night before the semi-final game. Coach Collier was well known for his ever dangerous long shot and scored a total of 16 points for the tourney, which was quite a number of points before the present day high scoring style of play. Incidentally the Tigers defeated UK that year (in the pre-Rupp era) by a score of 26 to 19.

UK now has a fight manager on the campus in the person of Dave Coapman, a junior majoring in journalism. Jerry Schwartz is making his first appearance under Coapman's management tonight in a four-round bout in Louisville. Schwartz was feather-weight champion of the Army in Europe in 1947, and has had quite a bit of professional experience. He is presently fighting in the lightweight class.

I-M Volleyball In Full Swing

By DON HENRY

The Deltas, Kappa Sigma and the Phi Delta Theta are the leading teams in the volleyball competitions after one week of play.

Each of these three teams holds a two win, no loss record. There are four other teams who haven't lost a game, with 1-0 standings. They are the ZBT's, Triangles, SAE's and PKA's.

The two wins that the Phi Delta Theta and the Kappa Sigma have, threw them into a dead-lock for top place in division I. They each hold victories over the Farm House and Sigma Chi.

The Deltas stand alone at the top of the second division, with wins over the Phi Sigma Kappa and Alpha Gamma Rho. The Sigma Nu and Alpha Gamma Rho are tied for second place in this bracket, having one and one records.

SAE and PKA are tied for first in the third division and the ATO's and the PKT's are sharing second place. SAE defeated ATO last Wednesday, Feb. 24, and PKA won out over PKT.

Top position in the last division are shared by the Triangle and ZBT:

Kentucky May Meet LSU For Loop Title

By GEORGE KOPEL

Kentucky vs. LSU—this much talked about battle appears at last to be a certainty.

Barring an unforeseen upset at the hands of Tulane, LSU and Kentucky will meet Tuesday, March 9 at the Vanderbilt Redhouse.

Though the Cats have assumed the top spot again in national polls, they have yet to win the SEC title. The Cats are out in front with a 14-0 conference record, but the Bengals are close behind with a 13-0 record.

If the Bengals and Wildcats clash, not only the SEC championship will be at stake, but also a bid to the NCAA tourney.

Coach Harry Rabenstein's squad has rolled to an impressive 20-2 overall record this season. The Bengals have in his Bob Pettit the nation's second top scorer with a 34 point per game average. In addition, only Wednesday, Pettit was named the best player in the South by a poll of 110 sportswriters.

The battle between Cliff Hagan and Pettit should provide an interesting sidelight to the game. Hagan set the SEC scoring mark with a 93 point performance against Temple in the Cats opening game but Pettit came back later in the season to break Hagan's record with a 57 point outburst against the Georgia Bulldogs.

Though Pettit has been the Tigers' big gun in most of their games, they have two capable outside marksmen in Don Belcher and Benny McCardie. Other starters for Coach Rabenstein's crew are Ned Clark and Norm Magee.

Conference commissioner Bernie Moore announced playoff plans this week. If the playoff game is necesary, tickets will be sold at LSU, Vanderbilt, and at the ticket office in the Coliseum. The tickets are priced at $3.50 each.

The Cats were to have met LSU in a regular season encounter, but a dispute over the playing site prevented the contest.

The Bengals contended that since Kentucky was to have played at Baton Rouge last year they were still obliged to play there this season. Mississippi State, Georgia, and Tulane also felt that the Cats should meet them at home.

The latter three finally agreed to meet Kentucky at Lexington, but LSU, held steadfast in their refusal to play Kentucky at home, despite the opinion of the conference schedule committee that the game should be played on Kentucky's court.

The conflict left both Kentucky and the Tigers with only 13 SEC contests but Georgia agreed to play both teams, giving them a full 14 game schedule.

The Cats, who wound up their season with the 69-43 win over Alabama Monday night, set a modern record for the number of victories.

compiled by an undefeated team. They also were the first team to complete an undefeated season since Columbia in 1951. The Lions had a season record of 21-0, but most of these victories were gained over small Eastern colleges.

Students and townspeople welcomed the Cats back Tuesday with a rally at the Coliseum. About 1,500 were on hand for the brief ceremony which included short talks by Coach Rupp, co-captains Hagan and Ramsey, and Mayor Fred Fugazzi.

Added laurels were gained last week by the "big three" when it was announced that Hagan had been placed on the first string all-American squad, and Ramsey on the second team. Left Taboropoulos received honorable mention.

He who gets too big for his britches will be exposed in the end.

The Spartan Band that held the pass, The Knights of Arthur's train, The Light Brigade that charged the guns, Across the battle plain, Can claim no greater glory than The dedicated few Who wear the Wings of Silver ... on a field of Air Force Blue.

For Fellowship... High Adventure... and a proud mission... wear the wings of the U. S. Air Force!

8 1/2 days gone by, young men in shining armor ruled the age. Today, a new kind of man rules the age—America's Knights of the Sky, the Aviation Cadets! They ride from on high, in flashing silver-winged Air Force jets ... a gallant band that all America looks up to! Like the Knights of old, they are few in number, but they represent their Nation's greatest strength.

If you are single, between the ages of 19 and 26 1/2, you can join this select flying team and serve with the first. You will be given the best jet training in the world and you'll earn an Air Force Lieutenant, earning $5,000 a year. Your silver wings will mark you as one of the chosen few, who ride the skies in Air Force jets.

As an Aviation Cadet, your kingdom is space—a jet is your charger and your mission is the highest. You are a key defender of the American faith, with a guaranteed future, both in military and commercial aviation.

Join America's Knights of the Sky, the new men of a new age. Be an Aviation Cadet!
