Dr. Otis A. Singletary University of Kentucky President

Now in his ninth year as president of the University of Kentucky, DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY is a Mississippian whose route to the Bluegrass State curled through Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina and Washington, D. C.

He came to Lexington from a position as University of Texas vice-chancellor for academic affairs. Previously, in Washington, he had been director of the U. S. Job Corps in the early stages of its development before moving to the American Council on Education as vice-president. He had gone to the capital in 1964 after three years as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The UNC appointment terminated Dr. Singletary's first association with the University of Texas, this a seven-year stay that saw him, as a young historian, rise rapidly in rank from instructor to full professor and begin the shift to administrative work, first as associate dean and later as assistant to the president.

The Kentucky president, and his wife the former Gloria Walton, met when both were students at Millsaps College. He later earned master's and doctoral degrees at Louisiana State. The Singletarys have two daughters, Bonnie and Kendall, and a son, Scott.

Cliff Hagan

Director of Athletics

"I've been preparing for this all my life," CLIFF HAGAN said before taking over as athletics director at the University of Kentucky in 1975. Hagan succeeded Harry Lancaster as director after serving as assistant director for three years.

Hagan's path to the athletics directorship began in Owensboro, Kentucky, where he established a then state high school tournament record of 41 points in leading Owensboro to victory over Lafayette in the championship game of the 1949 high school tournament.

At UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to participate in the national tournament.

Under his leadership, the UK athletics department continues to develop success in all areas of endeavor including a strong dedication to the academic well-being of the athletes.

JOE B. HALL

LEONARD HAMILTON is beginning his fifth year at Kentucky after serving three years as assistant coach at Austin Peay. An outstanding recruiter with seemingly tireless energy, Hamilton has contributed heavily to maintaining a high level of young talent at UK. Specializing in coaching defense, Hamilton has had a positive impact on Wildcat defensive

JOE DEAN, JR., played against the Wildcats for three years at Mississippi State University, before serving as Bulldog assistant coach while earning a masters degree in physical education. An outstanding student, Dean was named to the 1976 Academic All-SEC second team. A native of Baton Rouge,

Joe B. Hall University of Kentucky Wildcats Head Basketball Coach

JOE B. HALL is beginning his seventh season as mentor of the Wildcats, coming off a year in which his senior dominated team captured the 1978 NCAA Championship. Since becoming head coach in 1972, succeeding the legendary Adolph F. Rupp, Hall has accumulated a record of 135 wins against 42 losses. His eleven year coaching record stands at 211-98. Broken down, it shows a 57-50 five year mark at Regis College, a 19-6 record at Central Missouri, and a 135-42 record at UK.

Hall became Rupp's top assistant in 1969 when Harry C. Lancaster was named athletics director. His record as freshmen coach was 60-15, including an undefeated (22-0) season (1971-72) which resulted in the Kittens being crowned National Freshmen Champions by Basketball News.

A popular personality on the clinic and convention circuits, Hall also has had much international exposure. In addition to the Globetrotters tour in 1951, and the "Down Under" tour in 1974, he has helped conduct basketball clinics for the U. S. Army in Anchorage and Fairbanks, Alaska (1968) and at Ramstein Air Base in Frankfurt, Germany and the RAF Base at Mildenhall, England in 1975. He also was Olympic Trials coach under Hank Iba at the Air Force Academy in July 1972 and was a member of the 1976 Olympic Basketball Committee. In 1978 he coached the U.S.A. team that hosted the first International Invitational Tournament.

philosophy. A native of Gastonia, N. C., he lettered three years in football and twice in basketball. An outstanding collegiate player, he starred at Gaston Community College in Dallas, N. C., and at University of Tennessee-Martin. He is married to the former Claudette Hale. They have a son, Lenny, 7.

La., he attended Baton Rouge High School where he earned letters in basketball and football. In addition to regular coaching duties with the Wildcats, Dean's primary responsibilities will be recruiting and scouting. He is married to the former Ellen Elizabeth Anger of Jackson, Miss.

DICK PARSONS

DICK PARSONS, in his seventh year as Joe B. Hall's No. 1 assistant, returned to the University as baseball coach in 1969. Before giving up his position to join the basketball staff on a full time basis, he molded a baseball team (1971) which established or tied 15 school records. He is a graduate of UK where he played guard under former Coach Adolph F. Rupp.

Parsons came to the University in 1958 after an outstanding career as a four-sports star at Harlan High School, where he had a three-year basketball scoring total of 1,276 points.

He was a two-time (1960-61) recipient of the coveted A. B. Chandler award, given annually for the player best exemplifying the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character and ability. Only four other Wildcats have twice been so honored since the award was originated in 1951.

He is married to the former Celia Cawood of Harlan. They have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, Ed.

FRANK HAM
Assistant Director
of Athletics

FRANK HAM became Assistant Director of Athletics in July 1975 soon after Cliff Hagan succeeded Harry C. Lancaster as Director of Athletics.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Ham came to the University in 1969 as Administrative Assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the Athletic Director's staff in 1972 when Ray resigned.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Michigan, and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend in 1944-46 and then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

In 1951, he became assistant to the president at Olivet, with responsibilities in public and alumni relations. He was in private business from 1954 until 1968.

SUSAN FEAMSTER
Assistant Director
of Athletics

SUE FEAMSTER joined the athletics association July 1 with the merger of the men's and women's programs. Feamster had been the director of women's athletics prior to her appointment as assistant director of athletics.

A native of Frankfort, she came to the University as a graduate student in 1970, was named assistant director of campus recreation in 1972 and director of women's athletics in 1974.

Feamster graduated from Franklin County High School where she was an outstanding tennis player and athlete. While in college she earned letters in tennis, field hockey, basketball and track from Indiana University and Kentucky State University, where she earned her B.S. degree and graduated with honors.

LARRY IVY
Assistant Director of
Athletics For Finance

Adding a new dimension to UK athletics was the appointment two years ago of LARRY IVY as Assistant Director of Athletics for Finance.

1978 NCAA CHAMPIONS

Will Denote Rupp, UK Basketball

Public Donations To Build Museum To House Memorabilia

Adjacent to the entrance to Rupp Arena in the Lexington Center will be located the Adolph F. Rupp-UK Basketball Museum.

The purpose of the museum is to relive some of the past Wildcat teams' exploits and those of its great players. Included in the museum will be photographs, trophies, tape recordings, films and other memorabilia reflecting on past Kentucky teams.

"We have a unique opportunity to perpetuate the legend of the late Adolph Rupp and the rich basketball tradition that has been established by the University of Kentucky," commented DeWitt Hisle, chairman of the museum. "The museum will give basketball fans every where a fascinating insight into what this game has meant to followers of the UK Wildcats."

Rupp coached teams compiled an 880-190 record. He guided the Wildcats to four NCAA titles, an NIT championship and 27 SEC crowns.

The museum will cover Kentucky basketball teams from the first season in 1903, when the team recorded a 1-2 record, through the most recently completed season.

A small theatre area will be located in the museum and used to show films on the changing style of basketball over the past 75 years.

The material found in the museum is coming from the official archives of UK, Memorial Coliseum, the family of the late Adolph Rupp and from the public.

"Obviously one of the major advantages we have in establishing this museam is the fact that we can build it around a central figure, the late Adolph Rupp, whose 41 seasons as UK head coach resulted in some of the greatest accomplishments in the history of collegiate basketball," said Charles Atcher, archivist of the University of Kentucky.

Atcher says one of the guiding principles in planning for the Rupp-UK Basketball Museum is that the museum will show the continuing history of basketball at UK, which means the museum will be capable of expanding to display accomplishments of future teams.

The UK tradition is being continued by Joe B. Hall who replaced Rupp as head coach beginning with the 1972-73 season. In six years, Hall has led the Cats to four SEC championships, an NIT championship, the 1978 NCAA title and an overall 135-42 record.

Costing an approximate $200,000, the projects' funding will come from tax-deductible donations from the public. Operation of the museum will be funded by a small admission charge, "not to exceed $1," according to Hisle.

Donations to help establish the museum may be mailed to: Rupp-UK Museum, P. O. Box RUPP, Lexington, Ky. 40512.

Life in Collegiate Basketball Offers Rewards for Responsibility, Maturity

At the University of Kentucky, players learn how to compete, win and lose, and to live with the pressure of needing to do a job well—all commodities that will contribute to their well-being as adults. It's hectic but most players find the rewards greater than the sacrifices.

The life of playing basketball at one of the nation's leading powers requires dedication to the effort that is needed to compete at that level. The rewards come from being well-known around the U. S. upon graduation, of having a bright business future, of possibly making a professional team and of having had the experience of living with responsibility.

The fraternity to which they belong has as its membership dues days filled with strenuous practice, tutoring, mandatory curfews, commitments for weekends, bed checks, required meals, and a heavy slate of personal appearances. And, unlike most students, there are supervisors to make certain that they attend class and maintain good grades.

Their organization has as its code the idea that sacrifice and hard work will pay dividends for life. Part of the sacrifice is the absence of the relatively free life styles of their classmates as compared to their more stoic existences.

A typical day gives one an idea of the restricted life that collegiate players live.

At Kentucky, the players are awakened in time for breakfast in the Joe B. Hall Wildcat Lodge at 7:45 a.m. Its then off to class with a break for lunch in the Student Center. A brief rest period back at the Lodge precedes mid-afternoon practice at either Memorial Coliseum or at Rupp Arena. Practice finishes at 5:30 p.m. so that the players can get to the Student Center before the dinner line closes at 6 p.m. Supper is followed by appointments with tutors who help with specialized courses and help to bridge the gap caused by missed classes during road trips.

Later, there are often films, scouting reports and scull-sessions with the coaches, or the players try to get in some study before bed time. A midnight curfew is usually in affect and during special periods such as tournaments when they are playing games on several successive nights, bedcheck is at 10:30 p.m.

Kentucky players Dwane Casey, left, and Jay Shidler pause in their busy schedules to chat with cheerleader Jennifer Parks on the UK campus. During basketball season, such free moments are rare.

to make you happy

Into that schedule the players fit personal appearances such as speaking to church youth groups, television show appearances, press interviews, photographic sessions, various medical treatments and telephone calls from friends seeking tickets. After all is accomplished and only then come dates, trips home, guests for parties at the Lodge, a visit to a local disco, or time to indulge in a hobby.

So, how do the players find solitude?

In 1977, Mike Phillips went deer hunting during the Christmas holidays and killed a buck at Bluegrass Army Depot near Richmond. Dwane Casey has an active church life. LaVon Williams enjoys making clothes and is an adept tailor. Others have recorded music collections and Freddie Cowan is an avid fisherman who enjoys sitting beside a pond drowning worms.

However, the coaches feel the players should not be isolated from campus and public activities and though their schedules are strenuous, they have time for personal recreation. The players consider Lexington an attractive place to attend college and find life in the Blue Grass region a pleasure. It is a plus that Kentucky recruiters have to offer. Many of Kentucky's former players have found close attachments to the city and have elected to make it their home upon graduation.

UK Researchers Seek Answers to Back Pain

By Betty Tevis

Lower back pain distresses Dr. Stephen Smith as much as it does any advertising pitchman.

Smith, moreover, is a University of Kentucky anatomy faculty member who is doing something about the ailment that he says afflicts one of every two adult Americans and last year cost the U. S. economy billions of dollars in lost employee time.

Smith, aided by UK mechanical engineering professor James Lafferty, UK orthopedic surgeon William G. Winter and UK research associate Betty Sisler, is developing an animal model which will, the researchers hope, shed valuable light on the problem of lower back pain degeneration.

Smith and company want to "find out, stage by stage, the steps leading to degeneration" of bone and disc that lead to lower back pain and disability.

It's the pressure of standing upright that, basically, causes lower back pain in humans; we were physiologically designed to go about on all fours. Smith explains.

Dr. Stephen Smith's research on lower back pain hopes to answer the question of how much pressure the vertebrae can take before pain and damage set in.

Between each vertebra of the spinal column is a disc, composed of a shell (annulus fibrosus) filled with a viscous nucleus (nucleus pulposus) which acts as a cushion between bones. Pressure, however, makes it difficult for the nucleus to take in the nutrients it needs.

The nucleus and the rest of the disc degenerate without the needed nutrients. Then, says Smith, the nucleus "may expel its material against the spinal nerves up and down the spinal column, and that's not only painful, but it may also cause paralysis."

Susbequent pressure of vertebra on vertebra, without any cushion, is "very painful."

Heretofore, most data on the history of lower back pain has come from human autopsy studies. Now, however, Smith and his team hope with their animal model—a Rhesus monkey—to observe the condition as it develops, and to note the gradual biochemical and mechanical changes which characterize the condition.

One obvious question Smith would like to answer is: how much pressure can the vertebrae of the lower back take before pain and/or damage begin?

Smith is using mechanical devices, and radioactive trace studies, among other things, to measure the ingredients of lower back pain.

The UK study is being funded for the third year by the National Institute of Oc-

WVLK

After an 81-76 upset win over No. 2 Notre Dame, Kentucky took the road for its first Southeastern Conference game of the year. The Wildcats ventured into Alligator Alley on Jan. 3 and came away a 76-65 loser.

Kentucky was hampered by poor outside shooting and a lack of rebounding in the second half. For the game, guards

Dwight Anderson and Jay Shidler went 0-for-9 from the field, while Kyle Macy could connect on only one of five field goals.

The Wildcats were led in scoring by Chuck Aleksinas and freshman Clarence Tillman with 14 points apiece. Truman Claytor added 12 points.

A Year At The Top

A Year
 At The Top
 Kentucky Wildcats '77-'78

by John McGill and Walt Johnson, photography by Walt Johnson

This book is not just about basketball nor just about Kentucky basketball. In 144 pages, including 45 color and 170 black and white photographs, you can follow the Kentucky Wildcats from the beginning of the 1977-78 season to the finals of the NCAA Basketball Championship in St. Louis. Many inside stories reveal the pressures associated with being the nation's #1 college team from the start of the season to the end. Only once in the weekly polls was Kentucky ranked below #1 and proved in March that they deserved this ranking by winning the National Championship. It was truly a great year for the players, coaches and fans. You can relive these exciting moments in "A Year at the Top." Also available, our new 33 1/3 LP album, "Wildcat Basketball '77-'78". The highlights of the '77-'78 basketball season are recalled with exciting play-by-play excerpts from Cawood Ledford's game broadcasts and comments by Coach Joe Hall.
