FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK:

Beginning with the next issue of the GB, we will start a new series that will continue for some time. This addition to the regular parts of the GB will feature different units within the Library system. Next issue I will enclose a better description. I just wanted to remind unit heads that your descriptions are due July 11 (TODAY!) If you don't get them in soon, I'll get mean.....

I would also like to put in a brief ALA report. The convention ran from June 27 - July 3, with most things going on between June 28 - July 1. The "hot" item was the new CD-ROM technology. For those of you unfamiliar with it, CD-ROM is Compact-Disc Read-Only Memory. A compact disc is a laser disc, "read-only" means it can only be read (like microfiche) and you can't write on it (like a floppy disc). New acronyms and jargon were everywhere, and products like Infotrac were demonstrated. Toni Powell got in act with the National Agriculture Library's compact disc program (Pork Industry Handbook) and R. R. Bowker demonstrated a prototype Books-in-Print on compact disc.

Tech services types were debating standards and public services types were wrestling with fee-based reference services, among the hundreds of meetings and presentations offered during the conference.

The champagne reception at New York Public Library was also very nice. Guess what - their air conditioning system isn't perfect, either!

NETWORKING IN KENTUCKY--NIK NEWS

Networking in Kentucky, the newsletter of the Kentucky Library Network, recently published its Spring 1986 issue. It featured a report of the first KLN Board of Directors Meeting, of which Gail Kennedy and Omer Hamlin are members. Other news included a progress report on the development of the union database. On April 16, 1986, KLN announced the proposal of the database to vendors for methods and prices of creating such a file. The four most important requirements are: 1) Creation and Maintenance of MARC records from Kentucky libraries; 2) production of a COM (computer output microform) catalog, with updates; 3) provisions for producing tapes of a subset of the database (e.g. the holdings of a particular library); 4) management reports, such as error and statistical reports. For more information, or a copy of the newsletter, please call the Director's Office or Kentucky Library Network, Box 537, Frankfort, KY 40602-0537.

THANK YOU

The family of Frank Stanger, Special Collections, are most appreciative of the many kind expressions of sympathy by members of the Library administration and staff, upon the occasion of the death in April of Frank's father.

SOMETHING INTERESTING ABOUT....

Bill James. Bill, head of UK's Law Library, is running for Treasurer of the Southeastern Chapter, American Association of Law Libraries for the 1986/1987 year. Bill is very active in AALL, serving on a variety of committees within the organization, including the program committee. This past year Bill served as a site evaluator for the accreditation of the City University of New York Law School at Queen's College. Closer to home, Bill participates in the UK Freshman Summer Program coordinated by Minority Affairs, and the UK RISE Program, offering 12 high school students an inside view of the College of Law.

Toni Powell. Toni, head of the Agriculture Library, is chair of the Newsletter Committee of the ACRL Science & Technology Section. The newsletter is called the STS Signal. The premier issue of the newsletter features news, executive committee meetings and division group summaries.

Kerry Kresse. Kerry, head of the Chemistry/Physics Library & newsletter editor, prepared an invited paper for the 1986 annual meeting of the American Scientific Glassblowers Society in Cincinnati on Thursday, June 26. The paper entitled "Obtaining the Elusive Journal Article," was on document delivery for glassblowers.

CARNAHAN CONFERENCE CENTER WORKSHOP

Their latest offering -- "Training for New Managers"--looks great. Specially designed for those in their present supervisory roles for two years or less, the workshop promises to help new supervisors:

- Learn more effective time management
- Learn to accomplish work through others
- Develop skills in motivating people
- Learn to give and receive feedback in an objective, non-threatening manner

Featured speakers include Dr. Larry Crouch, University Placement Service; Dr. Jack Blanton, Vice Chancellor for Administration; and Major William A. Stull, Adjutant, Army ROTC. The conference is Thursday, July 31, 1986. Cost is $50.00. For more info call Nell Westbrook, Director, at 257-1528. To register call Susan Carr at 257-3290.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

It is in this section that we hope to publish the annual reports of the various faculty committees, as well as a few others. We'll publish a few at a time. The first one is the Gallery Series Committee Report.

1985/1986 Gallery Series Committee Report

The Gallery Series Committee is charged with developing and carrying out the Library's Friday noon lecture and recital programs known as the Gallery Series.

The Committee seeks out and invites presenters to participate in the series, arranges for any special needs (A/V equipment, etc.) for the presentations, and publicizes each Gallery Series program. These responsibilities are divided among the committee members and coordinated by the Committee chairman.

This year's committee was comprised of Karl Boewe, Evelyn Evans, Joyce Gilmore, Meg Shaw, and chaired by Paula Pope.

Twenty-five Gallery Series programs were presented from October 4 through May 2. The program topics ranged from musical presentations and music theory to theater, history, political science, art, civil rights, photography and journalism. Attendance at the programs varied from capacity crowds for the Fall Semester music programs to a sparse half dozen for the Spring Semester Haydn series. The series was promoted through a mailing to the Lexington Campus Faculty, Press Releases by U. K. Information Services, the publishing of weekly flyers throughout the campus, announcements in the Lexington Herald Arts Calendar, the Green Bean, and the Communi-K calendar.
