The KENTUCKY KERNEL

University of Kentucky, Lexington

VOL. XXXIII Z246

FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1942

NO. 6

REGISTRATION ON THURSDAY

Leo M. Chamberlain, University registrar, has issued the following instructions regarding registration for the second term of the summer quarter, on Thursday, July 23.

All persons who registered during the first term, but paid fees for only one term, and all persons who wish to take work in the second term, but were not enrolled during the first term, should report to the basement hall of the Administration building on Thursday, according to the following alphabetical schedule:

A through G, 9:00-9:50 a. m.; H through N, 10:00-10:50 a. m.; O through Z, 1:30-2:20 p. m.; Miscellaneous, A through Z, 2:30-3:30 p. m.

Following registration they should report to the main floor of the men's gymnasium for classification.

Before registering all new undergraduate students must take the University classification tests by Thursday noon in Room 9 of the Administration building.

Those who paid fees for the entire quarter at the June enrollment should report to the Dean's of their respective colleges on the main floor of the men's gymnasium, Thursday, July 23, from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. for verification of changes in their schedule of work.

Dr. Chamberlain announced last week that he expected a probable attendance of 1,250 students for the second term of the University's first summer quarter.

Dramatics Lecture Presented Today

"How To See A Play", an open class lecture by Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, will be presented at 11:15 a. m. today in Room 54, of McVey Hall.

Miss McLaughlin makes a regular pilgrimage to New York each theatrical season to see the current Broadway stage productions. Her lectures dealing with these plays are much in demand at the University and are record breakers for open class attendance.

Kilpatrick Speaks On "Morale", Tonight

Dr. William Heard Kilpatrick, professor of educational philosophy at Columbia University, will speak on "Morale on the Home Front and on the War Front" at a summer quarter lecture to be held in Memorial hall today at 7:30 p. m.

Following the address by Dr. Kilpatrick, who is conducting a special class on the campus at the present time, there will be an opportunity for discussion and questions on the international situation.

Students Asked To Get Mail Boxes

All students planning to enroll for the second quarter of the summer term are asked by Miss Carris Bean, postmaster, to renew their postoffice box before the end of the first term.

This will prevent delay in the delivery of student's mail, she explained.

President Herman L. Donovan

... says fieldhouse case will be carried to the State Court of Appeals.

Ordnance Graduates 'In The Army Now'

By Pat Oldham

Nearly thirty graduates of the Ordnance Inspection course are planning to buy railroad tickets sometime this week—destination unknown.

These inspectors, who started the course last April, are now really in Uncle Sam's war—for the duration and six months, subject to be sent any place in the United States or her possessions.

The group which has just completed the three months' training will receive marching orders from the Cincinnati Ordnance District. They will probably be stationed in Kentucky, Indiana or Ohio, as inspectors of shells, ammunitions, trench mortars, machine parts, or any of the numberless cogs in our tremendous war machine.

According to John McGarvey, timekeeper for the ordnance workers in the machine shop, the enrollees range anywhere from 18 to 53 years of age and consist of women as well as men. Middle-aged business men, teen-aged daughters, boys not in the army, they all are ordnance workers now.

The men may be drafted before they get their appointments but once assigned to a factory they are inspectors for the duration of the war.

Paula Strother, 19-year-old Central Kentuckian, speaks for the women when she says the course isn't child's play. She reports that they have classes from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., and study "in between." "But", she says, "It's interesting, and I'm being paid to go to school for the first time in my life."

"HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU!"

Singing Messenger Disrupts Clark's History Class

By John Hutcheson

During the summer session, hot weather and lazy students annoy and weaken professors, but when crooning messenger boys interrupt classes, that's too much!

Students in Dr. Tom D. Clark's history class found out that he had a birthday, so arrangements were made to have the telegraph office send a singing messenger boy around to deliver a birthday greeting.

The boy appeared on Tuesday afternoon and sang, with all the gusto of a Western Union fiddler, while Dr. Clark vainly tried to push the boy out the door.

After the messenger finished the first strains of "Happy Birthday To You", he removed his foot from the door and hurried away.

Dr. Clark reddened to the ears and dismissed the class.

Case Will Be Taken To Court Of Appeals

By "Sonny" White

Student dreams of a fieldhouse brightened this week when President H. L. Donovan declared that the unfavorable decision of Circuit Judge William B. Ardery would be appealed.

President Donovan said the case "will be carried to the State Court of Appeals where it is hoped a favorable ruling will be secured."

Dr. Donovan referred to Judge Ardery's decision declaring unconstitutional a $200,000 appropriation for capital outlay, in the University budget.

Judge Ardery stated in his decision that this money was intended for use in building a fieldhouse and was in no sense an emergency appropriation.

"The appropriation was not made specifically for a fieldhouse," Dr. Donovan said. "The sum was set aside by the General Assembly, for capital outlay, which means the University Board of Trustees could spend the money for any building it might choose to erect on the campus."

"It was the intention, however, of the Board of Trustees, at the time the appropriation was made to construct a combination auditorium and field house," he continued.

The Court of Appeals has now recessed for the summer so the case will not be brought before that body until it convenes this fall.

The Board of Trustees, had been negotiating for a site for the field house, but had delayed purchasing any property until after July 1. Judge Ardery's decision cancelled any action they may have planned.

In declaring the appropriation invalid, Judge Ardery said: "It is an evident fact that enrollment at the University is decreasing because so many young men are leaving for the war. It is further evident that as enrollment decreases, to that extent, present facilities will become more adequate."

On the campus, it was commonly believed that one reason for building a fieldhouse was to attract the State High School and Southeastern basketball tournaments to Lexington. Present University facilities are inadequate for handling the large capacity crowds that throng to these sports events.

The appropriation was one of several passed by the General Assembly last January with a reservation giving the Governor authority to withhold the expenditure in case war-time conditions should cause a decrease in state revenue and funds were not available.

Brewer And Hill Attend Conference

Colonel B. E. Brewer, ROTC commandant at the University, and Dr. Henry H. Hill, Dean of the University, left this week for Columbus, Ohio, to attend a conference of the joint Army-Navy Board for the Fifth Corps Area.

Colonel Brewer is a member of the board, which will determine future quotas of the Army Enlisted Reserve for all schools in this area. It is believed that the Board may also set up an allotment at the University for the Naval Reserve.

U.K. Engineers Marooned When Flash Flood Struck

By "Sonny" White

Noah and his Ark had nothing on the experience of twenty civil engineering students from the University when a flash flood in Breathitt county last week overran the land surrounding Camp Robinson.

They were marooned for five days, with practically all means of communication and avenues of supplies cut off.

Under the leadership of Professors D. V. Terrell and R. E. Shaver, of the Engineering college, the party left the campus early this summer for their annual seven week surveying trip, in the 15,000 acre Robinson forest, near Jackson, Kentucky.

On Wednesday, July 7, the rains came... setting a record for that area of 5.7 inches in two hours. Buckhorn creek, located nearby, overflowed its banks, and although the camp escaped damage, everything else along the stream's course was destroyed including homes and bridges.

Camp Robinson is located five miles from Kentucky highway No.

15, and the only way the students could bring in food was by walking or riding a mule. Coming and going, they waded across the raging creek holding to a rope.

Professor Terrell, jokingly commented that although there was no food rationing, they subsisted mainly on bacon and beans during their sojourn.

Sunday, the boys started to dig their way out. They removed approximately 15 landslides and built a bridge 80 feet long, before reaching the highway late that night.

The engineers who turned sailors were: James Corigan, Lloyd Thompson, James Gardner, Jack Boston, James Caywood, Coleman Clements, Thomas Combs, Ben Eubank, Jr., Howard Freer, Augusta Green, James Gillim, John McElroy, William Nickell, Ralph Pickard, Forrest Rowe, Donald Stalle, Robert Short, Jr., Joseph Stanton, Richard Storey, and William Wichman.

A Glamour Gal Reminisces

By Tommye Stewart

It was enough of a problem trying to be a beauty back in '41 and that was before a gal had to cope with wartime restrictions.

Not that I know much about being beautiful—but, brother, what I don't know about trying! I've run the gamut of hair stylists and body contortionists and face glorifiers, and being a glamor puss is a hard job, even without the government's interfering.

In the old pre-war days I wistfully remember flipping lipsticks in and out of handbags, letting them roll under the bed without scrambling after them, tossing away old colors for the latest by Tussy—and writing my name in Raspberry Red in the most public of places.

I used to shake my powder puff after using—tossing three or four valuable grains of powder to the winds—I used face tissues for everything from polishing my shoes to unpolishing my face. I kept twenty nails polished in the very latest—not to mention the paint job I did on the family porch.

Now comes the day when I find my make-up cabinet just another "Hubbard Cupboard"—without a grain of powder, lipsticks flat with the rim of the tube, cold cream that's only a smear on the lid of the jar, and my last tissues crumpled and lipstick-smearred.

Once I was optimistic about the whole thing. I slipped an empty lipstick case uncomfortably into my glove, as a reminder, and trucked into the largest local drug store. "Two lipsticks, one firecracker red and one cherry. A box of special Rachel powder, two packages of face tissues, two jars of cold cream, and a jar of rouge..." People stopped to stare. The clerk spluttered, reddened with rage, and muttered something about "the nerve of hair-brained women."

I came home sadly. I scooped every blob of cream from the lids of fifteen jars and put them in the lid on one jar. I dug out all remaining lipstick butts, melted them down, and with much gusto filled another empty jar. I stole some nursery cotton from the baby upstairs—and now have some tissues—of a sort.

I can remember back in '41 when people wore eye-shadow and mascara and, occasionally—hose. Now we all look like the "befores", in the "before and after" ads.

No more bulge-control—the girdle we might have worn is just another jeep tire. No more up-sweeps—we're pulling very poor facsimiles of Veronica Lake while fifty million bobby pins make a gun or something.

No more glamor—or allure—or appeal—just a lot of priority drips and droops—

Women know "war is hell!"

Vice of the People

By Bill Goodloe, Guest Columnist

Something must be done about this rubber shortage. The situation has become acute.

It's already to the point where the first thing your date does is inspect the tread. If the tread is O. K., she then speaks to you and clambers into the vehicle. If your tires are about gone and this girl will still go out with you—you know it's love.

FROM THE MOB:

A certain Kernel worker, who demands to remain unknown, has been a victim of tragic circumstances. It seems he had met a very interesting gal, "_____" Hill, but he couldn't remember her phone number.

Resorting to desperate measure, he proceeded to call every number in the city directory under the "Hills" until he finally found the right party. After much confusion and explanation—he asked her for a date. Her lovely Southern drawl fascinated him—but then he remembered she was from the North.

He became panic-stricken... made rapid investigations... and promptly hung up. (This he insists upon.)

All because this gal's suntan was permanent. The dusky maiden is probably still waiting for her would-be lover.

Talkie Talk

By "Marky"

"Mrs. Miniver", a fitting companion piece to "Mr. Chips" opens Tuesday at the Kentucky theater, for one week's showing.

The story deals with Mrs. Miniver and her husband, Clem, played by Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, living in a quiet English village. When war is declared, their son, played by Richard Ney, joins the R. A. F. How the family manages to do their best to carry on life as usual; their bravery under raid alarms; and the rescue at Dunkirk figure in the moving human interest episodes mingled with comedy.

Miss Garson's title role is touchingly human and Pidgeon typifies the valor of the British under fire. Dame May Whitty, as the village noblewoman presents a whimsical and at times earnest characterization. Teresa Wright and Richard Ney carry the young love interest.

A timely film, crammed with action, romance and excitement will open Sunday at the Ben Ali theater when "Wings For The Eagle", starring Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan, makes its local debut.

The majority of the story is set in the Lockheed Aircraft Plant. Here Morgan meets an old friend of his, played by Jack Carson, and his wife, portrayed by Miss Sheridan. Because Carson is cheated by phony engineering school he has a falling out with both Ann and Dennis which culminated by Ann walking out on him, and getting a job at the plant.

Dennis, who needed no encouragement to make a play for Ann, now goes to it without pulling any punches. Love entanglements follow and a surprise ending gives zest to the film.

Lloyd Bacon, who has directed many a hit film, comes across with another in "Wings For The Eagle."

Hooley Polloi

By Lys Wallace

Wilma Harper and Bob Davis are at the "butterfly catching stage", at least, that is what they do with their spare time anyway.

Sigma Nu "Doek" Lassie must have a priority on cars and women, for he showed up with a new car and a new woman, the other day.

SAE Jim Purser lost his pin, and a girl found it, now that is a new way to get pinned, but, we hear that she returned it.

Alphagam Margaret Jare Wayne, brunette, and blonde Phi Tau Harold Devtr make quite a pretty combination.

Sigma Nu Bill Blanton and Delta Chi Bill Carroll are both that way about "Lil" Cook.

Kappa Epie Hughes looked quite charming barefooted in the deluge. We hear she is kinda lonesome for Squire, who has left for the Navy.

Chio Coco Carhart ought to be real happy 'cause John Neville Holman dropped in suddenly to see her the other night.

Milt Ticeo and Betty Adams looked mighty happy and mighty cool out at Castlewood the other day.

"Pretty Pat" Gable's young man in the air corps keeps the postman busy—laden down with daily special delivery letters.

LIFE'S PARADE

• By Jay Wilson

I've tried to be a good student under war-time conditions. I've attended military classes regularly each day... I've read book after book on what to do during a blackout... Every spare moment I dash to the movies to catch upon the latest propaganda about the enemy—but I'm discouraged.

We've been fighting over seven months and the only constructive thing I seem to have done is to drive my best friend's car, instead of my own.

Not that tire rationing isn't important... not that drinking sugarless coffee is bad... not that driving without gasoline... or going without my girdle... or wearing cuffless britches... or going to school in the middle of the night are too much to do.

I'm glad to do it—but I'm discouraged.

What will all my preparation... my sacrifices... and my tense anxiety over the whole affair... I still am two submarines, a bomber or so, and practically a regiment of Japs behind "Orphan Annie," "Alley Oop," and the rest of the comic cavalry.

Don't get me wrong... I love the comics. It's just this uncertainty... this daily dread that some poor, unfortunate enemy soldier—who has been expertly trained—will do away with one of my heroes.

Not since Raven Sherman dropped out of the war picture have I been quite the same, and I'm confident that one more obituary on the "funny" page would be a death blow. I'm just waiting for Dagwood to get his draft papers and I'm going to give them up altogether. I'd rather see my best friend leave.

SEEN ROAMIN'

That sign at the Alpha Xi house still has me worried. The sign—"Rooms For Rent."

The women in Civilian Defense evacuating their bridge tables to sell bonds and stamps in booths in local stores.

If you think the guy is patriotic who gave the government the raincoat from his back, what about the little baby who gave his little rubber panties for the cause. That's what I call patriotism.

A Decent Peace...

If our generation wants to live in a decent world, it will work for decent peace terms at the end of this war.

A "decent" peace is not going to be enough. To construct a democratic world out of the blood, the hatred, the chaos of this war, we must set our sights on peace plans that are more than decent—plans that are absolutely revolutionary.

If we try to crush and humiliate the German people, or if we slap a haphazard "peace" together and then retire into our shell, we will spawn another Hitler, or worse.

Peace is not a mere absence of war. Peace is an achievement. And this time, as last time, the world's people will be looking to the United States to lead the way.

This time, we won't let them down. If we really want the kind of world we say we do.

Do Gentlemen Really Prefer Blonds?
Dick Eubanks-Arts and Sciences-Junior

No, I don't because I'm pinned to a brunette.

Bob Hilfenmeyer-Commerce-Senior
Hair coloring hasn't anything to do with it. It's a girl's personality that matters. However, I don't like obvious 'bottle' blonds.

George Barker-Commerce-Junior
No, not unless the blond hair is accompanied by big blue eyes, which combine to have a chemical effect upon the blood, causing the heart to beat much faster.

George Catlett-Engineering-Freshman

I'm no gentleman, and, therefore, in no position to know.

Joe Hall-Agriculture-Junior
I don't think they do. Blonds really haven't a thing over brunettes when it comes to charm, its just that they're more striking at first

Marvin Meyers-Commerce - Sophomore

It depends upon what's under the blond hair.

Ralph Farmer - Agriculture - Sophomore

I think the blonds are o. k. but you usually can get along better with brunettes

Ben Pumphreys-Commerce - Sophomore

I'm scared of all blonds 'cause you can't tell which one is really blond, and which one is artificial.

Don Hayes-Commerce-Sophomore
It depends on the blond. Gentlemen fall in love with blonds, but they marry brunettes.

David Mahanes-Commerce-Junior
Most of the men in the world have dark hair, and since opposites attract — gentlemen must prefer blonds.

J. C. Doyle-Pre-Med-Freshman
No, Brunettes (1) look better when they're suntanned, (2) look better in lipstick, (3) kiss much better.

James E. Moore-Commerce-Junior
Yes. They're more appealing and have got something you just can't put into words.

K. S. Bruce-Commerce Junior
I'm indifferent to the color of a girl's hair. They're all alike as far as hair goes, and I don't really think it makes any difference.

Small Training Plane For Bombers

A wicked-looking AT-9 twin motored advanced training plane roars over Ellington Field, Texas, where today new pilots are receiving their wings in the Army Air Force. These sharp nosed, hump-backed craft have all flying characteristics of the giant bombers the graduating class at the Texas airrome soon will be piloting.

World In Review

BY JIM CARROLL

This past week of war in Russia has seen the Soviet army withdrawing on all fronts, allowing the Germans to sweep into the Don River basin and pour in reinforcements in order to develop a pincher offensive pointed at the Volga River territory and the Caucasus, the rich oil fields of the South.

This vast Nazi offensive, definitely aimed at cutting off the oil-bearing Caucasus, would sever the vital Russian supply lines and would stake off a neat reserve to rely on for winter conquest.

The paralyzing of southern Russia is a great threat to the Allied nations. The Nazi thrust from the north, which is meeting with greater success than that against the British in the southern battle fields of northern Africa, tends to join Rommel's forces in northern Africa; the British are making this absolutely impossible.

Although the scene looks black in Russia, the Reds are far from being defeated. They are continuing strong resistance, despite a grave lack of equipment.

Slowly but definitely, time has begun to work against Hitler again.

He must, if he ever expects to make an all-out effort, hammer the Russians to their knees before the next two months slip by.

The great British Eighth Army received a shot in the arm upon the arrival of Australian troops in Egypt. The British have taken the offensive after being badly man-handled by Rommel.

They are glad to see the reappearance of these troops who were born with their trousers on and are fearless enough to take the chance of losing against any kind of enemy.

It is hoped that in the very near future that General Sir Claude Auchinleck can receive enough supplies to enable him to make a big scale attack on Rommel before the Nazi leader is able to resume the offensive he so surely held a few weeks ago.

Auchinleck, who took over the command of the Eighth Army from Ritchie, has halted the British retreat at what might be called the 11th hour and delivered the Allies from almost sure defeat.

Dorothy Love Elliot, as a flirtatious newcomer to the town, deserves special mention for her frequent scene stealing.

Hal Hackett, as the traffic officer, Lorraine Landrus, the wallflower, Hogan Trammell, a "wordly wise" youth, and C. Edwin Barnes, as the "Homer of Henry Aldrich"—all gave creditable performances.

SIGNAL CORPS INSTALLS PHONE

By Juanita Murphy

Field switchboards and telephones, similar to those used in the front line defenses, have been installed on the campus and are operated by R. O. T. C. Signal Corps students.

Approximately 30 students, sophomores, juniors and seniors, are now enrolled in the University Signal Corps Unit under the direction of Lieutenant Murray M. Montgomery. The allotted quota of 200 is expected to be reached in the fall with the increase in school enrollment.

The shortage of Signal Corps Officers in the Army has led to the establishment of this unit, as well as about 10 other schools throughout the country.

As officers, these men will never be required to operate radios, switchboards, telegraphs, etc., or to lay wire, but they will have to know how such things are done to enable them to coordinate the efforts and skill of the specialists who do the jobs.

This R.O.T.C. unit is normally a four-year course, consisting of two years basic and two years advanced training, but it has been shortened in the case of Electrical Engineering Seniors in order to hasten

Platter Chatter

BY KELLER DUNN

Lovers of Bob Crosby's old Dixieland style will be glad to see the familiar names of the bobcats grouped together again under "Sweethearts on Parade" and "Tipperary". Muggsy Spanier's great Chicago trumpet imparts a great deal of heat and drive to his new, large orchestra in "America Patrol" which is backed by a very large pleasant version of "More Than You Know".

If your jazz palate has become somewhat jaded of late, you might try getting your kicks from the Millinder band. This group can use all the commercial tricks, but goes the older and better-known hand-clappers one better in its slap-happy treatments of such jive tunes as "Shout, Sister, Shout", and "I Want a Tall, Skinny Papa" behind Rosetta Tharpe's holler-shoutin'.

KAY KYSER

Kay Kyser organized his first band while in college. His "College of Musical Knowledge" program, and his general style have always been directed toward college students, which form the bulk of his following. His movie appearances have been more successful than those of most band leaders.

'Growing Pains' Entertaining As Gay, Youthful Comedy

By Jay Wilson

"Growing Pains", a rather clever comedy on adolescent youth, kept Guignol patrons literally in stitches during its brief run here this week.

Braving a heavy downpour on Monday evening, and sweltering temperatures on Tuesday and Wednesday evening, Lexington's theatre patrons filled the auditorium at every performance.

Noticeably styled after the "Henry Aldrich" series, the play was equally as effective.

Joe Famularo creating the awkward, young boy whose poise and creating have failed to keep up with his age and emotions. His "hypocritical" vocabulary constantly drew ripples of laughter.

Miss Beth Caddy, as Joe's younger sister, gave the outstanding performance of the evening. Her complete failure to understand the peculiar quirks of civilization and its many restrictions on women was very ably portrayed. Her transfiguration from a "tom-boy" to a lovely, young lady was "super."

Muriel Bartholomew and Irving Spaulding gave excellent interpretations of the flustered parents who find their "baby boy and girl"—a young man and woman.

SOLDIERS TO RECEIVE KERNEL

As a first step toward presenting a clearer picture of the service of Kentuckians in the present war, a list of approximately 1,200 names of former University students in the armed forces was recently compiled and released.

Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, chairman of a special committee for the survey, alphabetized the names and is collecting information about each man's record in preparation for a book to be printed following the war.

Special effort is being made to obtain additional names of former students now in active duty to complete the list. All men in the armed forces are urged to write to the University so that a record of their experiences can be compiled.

This issue of the Kernel will be distributed to over a hundred camps and will be placed in the reading rooms so Kentuckians may have an opportunity to check the list and make additions, or present information about those listed.

Any member of the University who can supply information concerning former students in the armed forces is urged to see Prof. Gillis and give him the information.

Serving with Prof. Gillis on the committee for compiling the names and records of students are: Prof. J. S. Horine and Miss Mary Elizabeth Hanson.

Soldiers Given Informal Dance

Social Briefs

Kappa Sigs Honor Fred Hill

Kappa Sigma fraternity entertained last Saturday night at Joyland in honor of Fred Hill who left immediately afterwards for the army. Harry Meador, social chairman, was in charge of arrangements.

Dates of the actives and pledges were Misses Joan Henthorne, Pat Lewis, Peggy Johnson, Helen Johnson, Peggy Newton, Martha Hayman; Alice Murphey, Sally Hudgins, Cecil Hudgins, and Sylvia Seigel.

Phi Delta Kappa Initiates Eleven

Alpha Nu, University chapter of Phi Delta Kappa professional education fraternity, recently initiated the following men:

Ben Ashmore, Maysville; R. P. Brown, Beaver Dam; Fred Conn, Franklin; Arthur Gullette, Lexington; Howard Law, Ft. Thomas; Francis Nuvvar, Delmar, Del; Robert J. Nickle, Ashland; Coleman Reynolds, London; James I. Tichenor, Erlanger; Grant Kennedy, Pie, West Va.; Carl Lampert, Lexington.

The initiation was held in The University Training School library. Afterwards, the new members were guests of the chapter at a fish fry in Castletwood Park.

Roy Steinfort's Father Dies

C. Roy Steinfort of Covington, prominent northern Kentucky real estate man, died this week after a lingering illness. His son, Roy Steinfort Jr., is a senior at the University where he is publicity manager for the University athletic teams and a special writer for the Kernel.

Movie Canceled

The movie previously scheduled for Friday night, July 17, Student Union Building, has been canceled.

Bruckart Leaves For Naval School

Ensign William Bruckart

Ensign William Bruckart, U. S. N. R., has been called to active duty at the Naval Training school at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H. Mrs. Bruckart, formerly Miss Jessie Francis, will remain at the University.

Educational Movies Continue Next Week

Educational motion pictures will continue to be shown next week from 2 to 4 each afternoon in the University school auditorium to acquaint teachers and school administrators with motion pictures for school and community use.

These programs, which are open to faculty members and students, are being sponsored by the Department of University Extension's bureau of audio-visual aids. Civilian defense, social studies, biology, aviation and vocational guidance are among the subjects covered by the films.

A representative of the University audio-visual aids service will be on hand to give any information desired about this service and to answer any questions which patrons of the service may have to ask.

The first in a series of informal dances to provide entertainment for the Fort Knox soldiers will be held tomorrow night from 10-12 p. m. in the women's gym. University women are urged to attend.

Music will be furnished by a record player. Refreshments will be served during intermission.

These dances will be held on July 18 and 25, and August 8 and 16.

"Messiah" Presented By Music Department

"The Messiah", an oratorio by Handel, was presented in Memorial Hall at 7:30 last night, under the direction of Professor C. A. Lampert, head of the music department.

The regular summer chorus, reinforced by some of Lexington's leading singers, furnished the vocalization. They were accompanied by a string orchestra of selected players, the piano and organ.

Soloists included Lorry Koehler, tenor; Miss Ivy Dagley, contralto; Donald Galloway, tenor; and Paul Mathews, base.

Dimock Speaks

Dr. W. W. Dimock, head of the University department of animal pathology and president-elect of the American Association of Veterinary Medicine, was a speaker at the recent meeting of the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association in Louisville.

No Stardust At Observatory - - If Visitors Use Telescope

By Lois Ann Markwardt

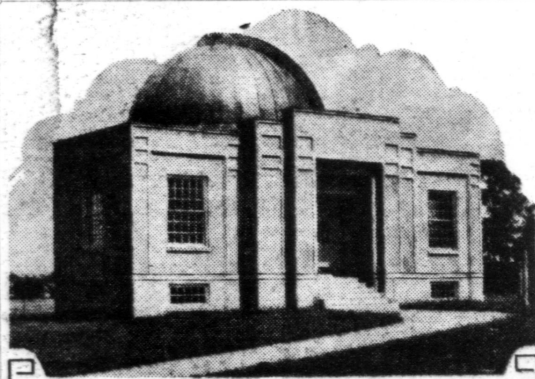

"Observatory Hill" usually brings up thoughts of a look at the moon, but more often through dreamy eyes than through a telescope.

There is much to be gleaned in one evening's visit to the inner chambers of the University observatory for those who venture beyond the front steps.

Seymour Bush, observatory assistant, hints that there are three hunchbacked morons chained in the basement to further aid the mysteriousness of the instruments which bring the stars and moon to the eleventh magnitude.

The University observatory was built in 1931 and contains two refractor telescopes, one equatorially mounted 8-inch, and one 2 1/2-inch. A 20-inch reflector telescope is now being constructed by the Engineering college that will be six times as powerful as the 8-inch refractor.

Through the telescope, now at the observatory, may be seen craters and mountains on the moon, various planets, comets, and stars. A photographic attachment has been added to this instrument for making pictures of astronomical observations.

Students are more likely to see the "man in the moon" through the telescope mounted in the University observatory (above), than by "star gazing." The observatory, located on the experiment station tract just off Rose street, is maintained for the use of students interested in astronomy.

Down Sports' Lane

BY DICK GILLESPIE

A short time ago, Down Sports' Lane outlined briefly some of the contributions of sports to the war effort. Reading the sports sections since that time, no one could fail to recognize the fact that the most publicized, and perhaps the most important contribution of the athletic circles is that of sending its great and near-great, as well as its rank and file off to the war.

This week, Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, was sworn into the Navy as a lieutenant commander. Reputed to be one of the highest paid figures in football, Sutherland stated that he had been hoping to get the commission for months, and that although he regretted leaving the gridiron, was very happy about the whole thing.

A well-known west-coast figure, Sam Dunne, of Santa Clara University athletic department also said goodby to sports for the duration when he accepted a captaincy in the Army.

Also in the news this week was Joe Louis, now a Ft. Riley corporal, who disclaimed any knowledge of plans for a return bout with Billy Conn, saying, "I'm only interested in trying to be a good soldier."

Captain Robert Tyre Jones (Bobby, who plays golf), whose signing on the dotted line to buy a specified amount of war bonds each month was pictured and flashed to every nook and cranny of the country by wirephoto.

Add these to the already voluminous list of athletes in the service, which includes such names as Hank Greenberg, Cecil Travis, Rudy Lewis, Bob Feller, golfers Bud Ward, Ed Oliver, Walter Hagen, football's Frank Foley of Harvard, Grenny Lansdell of Southern Cal, Johnny Mohardt, of Notre Dame, and "Chuck" Fenske, who holds the national indoor mile championship.

No Time For "High-Fangled" Manners

Now that the war is keeping University students busy with special war industry courses, in addition to their regular work, courtesy may become a thing of the past. The above pictures posed by University students illustrate the discourteous habits students may easily acquire.

Prospects Slim — Here

Not expecting to catch anything in particular, these two U. K. sportsmen sharpen up on their ability at casting. The location—behind the Union building.

Up A Tree—

Time was when "Sadie Hawkins Day" created quite a furore on the campus. Pictures above are a trio of former University co-eds who have finally cornered their "Lil Abner."

"Way Back in 1939 A. D."

Not so long ago friends could gather around a table and laugh and be gay . . . without any misgivings. Most of the Kentucky boys pictured above are now in Uncle Sam's forces.

Hey, Girls—That's Not Ice!

University co-eds attracted quite a lot of attention last spring with their "iceless" hockey games on the athletic fields on the campus.

"One For The Money . . ."
