

Campus outreach

Give Golden Key your Yellow Pages

The Golden Key National Honor Society is collecting old phone books to recycle to benefit a local elementary school. Bring them to 228 Student Center on March 11, 7:30 p.m. Dorms can save them at the dorms and a representative will pick them up on that day if they are notified. For more information, contact Heidi Downes at hdown00@pop.uky.edu

Campus health

Careful kids

The risk of contracting meningitis is very small, even if you have been in contact with someone who has developed the infection. The bacteria which cause meningitis are very common. Most of us will carry them at some stage of our lives without developing any illness. Only a tiny proportion of the population will develop meningitis if they come into contact with the bacteria. This is because the bacteria are very weak.

They survive for only a short period of time outside the body, so they cannot live long in the air and are not carried on household objects such as clothes, furniture or toys. This means that you must be in very close contact with someone before the bacteria can pass between you. This can happen quite regularly but it is unlikely you will develop meningitis because most people have a natural resistance to the bacteria.

—Source: <http://www.meningitis.org/frame1.html>

—Ron Norton

Rail food

Any thoughts?

We love our rail, and we know you love it too. So come on students, help us out by sending in some ideas for rail fodder. It does not necessarily have to be humorous, we take all subjects seriously and want students to take part in what goes into this newspaper. Heck, we'll even let faculty and staff join in on this quest for rail information and fun for everyone. Just send it to kernel@pop.uky.edu. We'll even give you credit for it.

THE 411

Tomorrow's weather

40 34
Hi Lo

And the snow keeps tumbling down and down until you can't take it anymore. And then, it snows some more.

Kentucky Kernel

VOL. #104 ISSUE #107

ESTABLISHED IN 1892
INDEPENDENT SINCE 1971

News tips?

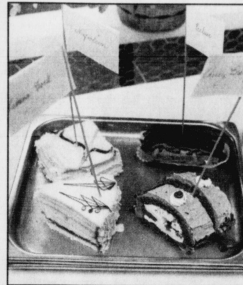

Call: 257-1915 or write: kernel@pop.uky.edu

WEDNESDAY KENTUCKY KERNEL

February 24, 1999

<http://www.kykernel.com>

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

PHOTOS BY JAMES CRISP | KERNEL STAFF

Delicate sweets

Computer center staff members (from left) Joe Tietjen, Craig Brunson, Diane Brunson and Steve Stanley all enjoyed a tasty dessert at the European Pastry Café, which is in the Student Center through Friday. Many of the pastries (above) are labeled so students, faculty and staff can see what country each treat originated from.

Oh, the sweetest thing

Getting a taste of treats from the European Pastry Café, part of the ongoing Cultural Diversity Festival on campus

By Manish Bhatia

STAFF WRITER

After more than two decades of existence, the European Pastry Café returned to the Student Center this week as part of the ongoing celebrations for Diversity Week.

Delectable apple strudels, fluffy Napoleon cakes and mouth-watering quiches are just a few of the items laid out in a European café style atmosphere, complete with live music and fresh carnations.

"We just love the Grenache!," was the unanimous vote of approval from Ron Pen and Jonathan Glixon, both professors of musicology at UK.

The smooth toffee and chocolate pastry from France was the reason they kept returning to the café for the last 10 years, Glixon said.

Amanda Shaw, a foreign language and international economics freshman, relished the ambience of European pictures set among red and white tapestry. "I really like the music," said Shaw, as she scooped a helping of her cherry brandy tort, a chocolate cake with cherry filling.

Organized by the Cosmopolitan Club and the International Hospitality Program, the annual event is catered by Servatti Bakery from Cincinnati. The café adds a European flavor to the Cultural Diversity Festival, which runs from Feb. 22 through March 6.

"It's more than the food. It is the atmosphere and the experience," said Lily Arasaratnam, a graduate student in communications and adviser for the Cosmopolitan Club.

The organization functions as a social club that facilitates friendships between American and international students, she said. Students interested in joining the club can contact Arasaratnam at 257-4067, Ext. 235.

"(The café) is a unique setting served by international student members of the club," Arasaratnam said.

"During lunch, we serve quiche which is a pastry crust with meat or vegetable filling," she said.

All benefits from the café go to the Cosmopolitan Club and the International Hospitality Program. The program matches international students with American host families and gives them an experience of American homes, Arasaratnam said.

Individuals wanting to become a host parent can contact the International Office at 257-1655.

"(The café) creates cultural awareness on campus," said Carolyn Holmes, foreign student adviser at the Office of International Affairs.

"Sometimes, language professors bring their class in here, we had two classes here on Monday," Holmes said.

The café offers seating for about 40 people and includes coffee and lemonade as part of its menu.

The European Pastry Café continues its operation through Friday and is open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. It is located in 245 Student Center.

PRESIDENT'S INITIATIVE

Swift makes another change, passing torch

Committee chair says its time to let someone else lead way

By Michael Downs

STAFF WRITER

Dean Louis Swift is ready to pass the torch carrying the President's Initiative on Undergraduate Education.

"It's time for another person to come in with his or her own ideas," Swift said. Swift is on the steering committee for the President's Initiative and is still putting the finishing touches on the final proposal, which he hopes to submit to President Charles Wethington and his staff in the next couple weeks.

Swift formed the committee to design proposals to improve undergraduate education at UK. He said that, although he was glad he had the opportunity to form the committee, he is ready for someone else to take charge of implementing the proposals.

"It was a nice thing to do with my last year and I am very grateful," Swift said.

The proposal has now become something larger than the committee that formed it, said Shirley Raines, vice chancellor for Academic Affairs.

"The initiative will move forward whether Dr. Swift is involved or not," Raines said.

The proposal will benefit from the expertise and reputation of Swift, Raines said. "It will add more credence to it (the proposal) because he's such a respected campus leader."

Raines said the search for a new dean has begun. Candidates for the position will be drawn from both on and off UK's campus. The candidates will be reviewed by a Faculty Search Committee which will include staff and students.

The Faculty Search Committee is being chaired by Michael Nietzel, dean of the graduate school.

Nietzel said the committee was formed at the beginning of this month and it will begin reviewing applications for the position shortly after March 1.

An applicant's ability to implement and orchestrate changes outlined in the proposal will be a determining factor in selecting a new dean, Nietzel said.

"We will provide finalists for the position with a draft of those proposals," Nietzel said. "We would be interested in how a prospective dean would view and prioritize them."

Lexington Chancellor Elisabeth Zinser will make the final recommendation for an applicant to the president and board of trustees.

Swift said his leaving will not effect the proposals. They will be finished and submitted before he leaves. The President's Initiative Committee will dissolve after they submit the finished proposal, Swift said.

Although some of the proposed changes will be done administratively, many will have to go through other channels, such as the University Senate, Swift said.

"It's important to see this as a plan for the future," Swift said.

Swift said he would be willing to continue helping with the initiative if it was necessary, but expects that he will be most useful in his absence.

"They need to have me out of the picture," he said.

New administrators need to be free to exercise their creativity in planning and decision making, Swift said.

INDUSTRY

LCC, UK center pair to make companies more efficient

By Richard Cook

ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

"Time flies when you're having fun."

And that is what Lexington Community College and the UK Center for Robotics and Manufacturing Systems is doing with its lean manufacturing system.

"We are tapping into the lost creativity and intellectual capacity of the work force," said Jim Dean, senior trainer for lean manufacturing at LCC and lean manufacturing core team member at the UKCRMS.

Lean manufacturing is a philosophy for reducing time and resource waste. It is a process of eliminating waste, whether in manufacturing, administration, or even accounting, Dean said.

"If you have to bend over to pick up a part, that is time that is wasted," said Donna Davis, the director of community partnership at LCC.

Lean manufacturing streamlines the manufacturing process and eliminates these wasted movements by arranging the workspace, allowing workers to double or even triple their output with less effort.

The process is modeled after the Toyota plant in Georgetown, which has the distinction of being the most efficient production line in the world, Dean said.

"The planning for the lean manufacturing process began with a grant from Toyota given to the Center for Robotics and Manufacturing Systems," he said.

By modeling the Toyota production line and teaching the non-automotive world the methods Toyota uses to reduce wasted movements and time, Dean said, the lean manufacturing team can streamline the process and save manufacturers millions of dollars.

"It can bring substantial cost savings to manufacturers," Davis said.

LCC is sponsoring a "Train the Trainer" program this week to branch out the program. "Train the Trainer" is designed to train managers from industries around the country and the world to implement the lean manufacturing concept within their own companies.

"The program is very popular these days," Dean said. "We travel all over the world teaching the process, but we can't go everywhere."

So, Dean said, they developed the Train the Trainer program to make better use of their time and resources. The Square D company has brought top level managers, including their senior vice president of operations, to Lexington to learn the process and take it back to their plants throughout the United States, in England and in Ireland.

"We started one week by taking the trainees to a simulated factory floor," he said.

The trainees work the simulated factory floor and then they analyze how well they worked. After three or four sessions, the team plots their progress. The broad lean manufacturing techniques learned the first day are analyzed the remainder of the week in classes.

"They learn to map the process, learn the tools," Dean said. "Throughout the week, it continues to improve."

The 130-hour class taught by the LCC instructors and the UKCRMS team is unique among programs of its type throughout the country. This lean manufacturing process focuses its efforts on drawing those who will be affected by the changes, into the planning process.

"This is not about eliminating jobs," said Davis, "but about finding better ways to do a job."

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

The Low-down

U.S. rejects China satellite sale

WASHINGTON — After years of promoting satellite exports to China, the Clinton administration abruptly reversed course, rejecting a $450 million commercial satellite sale to a Chinese-controlled consortium amid concerns about valuable military know-how. The decision, confirmed yesterday by senior administration officials, comes a week before Secretary of State Madeleine Albright travels to Beijing for talks with Chinese leaders and amid congressional and executive branch probes of whether past satellite deals helped the Chinese military.

KNIGHTED: Nigel Hawthorne had a little flash-back to his television stardom when he was knighted Tuesday by Queen Elizabeth II.

Hawthorne, 70, said the ceremony at Buckingham Palace was less intimidating than an Academy Award night.

Clinton urges Medicaid for children

WASHINGTON — President Clinton appealed yesterday for poor parents to seek Medicaid or state health coverage for their children. The president kicked off the national Insure Kids Now campaign, which seeks to educate families on obtaining coverage under Medicaid and the new Children's Health Insurance Program. The goal is to enroll the millions of children thought to be eligible. Clinton said it is "inconceivable" that the United States, with all its prosperity, has nearly 11 million children who lack health insurance.

Man found guilty in dragging death

JASPER, Texas — A white supremacist was convicted of murder yesterday and could get the death penalty for chaining a black man to a pickup truck and dragging him until his body was torn to pieces in a crime that shocked the nation with its savagery. The jury of 11 whites and one black took less than 2 1/2 hours to reach a verdict against John William King in the slaying last June of James Byrd Jr., "I am relieved," said Stella Bramley, Byrd's sister. "That's all we wanted, was justice."

Avalanche in Austrian Alps kills 8

INNSBRUCK, Austria — Tons of snow tumbled down upon a small village in the Austrian Alps yesterday, killing at least eight people. It was one of dozens of avalanches to strike Central Europe as the region endured its worst snowfall in 50 years.

The Austrian Press Agency said up to 30 people remained missing. Tens of thousands of travelers were stranded in train stations, traffic jams and isolated resort towns across France, Italy, Switzerland and Austria as the avalanches buried homes, roads and railways. At least 59 people have died in Alpine avalanches across Europe this winter.

Partial Kosovo peace deal reached

RAMBOUILLET, France — A partial settlement in the Kosovo conflict was reached yesterday as Serbs agreed in principle to give limited self-rule to majority ethnic Albanians. The agreement puts on hold, at least temporarily, NATO's threats to bomb Serb targets if they don't adopt the complex plan that would force them to withdraw troops from Kosovo and accept NATO peacekeepers. For more on this issue, turn to page 4 for related story.

Georgia, Chicago hold elections

ATLANTA — A Republican with a reputation for consensus-building instead of partisan trench warfare was favored to win a special election yesterday for the House seat vacated by Newt Gingrich. The only suspense for front-runner Johnny Isakson was whether he would get a majority of the vote in the seven-way race and avoid a runoff. Elsewhere around the country yesterday, Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley sought a third full term in a race against Rep. Bobby Rush, a fellow Democrat and a former Black Panther.

Internet auctions blamed for fraud

TRENTON, N.J. — Consumer complaints of online fraud jumped sixfold last year, with Internet auctions prompting two out of every three complaints, a consumer group reported yesterday. The number of consumers complaining that they were defrauded online went from 1,280 in 1997 to 7,752 last year, according to Internet Fraud Watch, an online fraud reporting system created by the National Consumers League.

Dow closes down 8.26; NASDAQ up

NEW YORK — The Dow industrials gave some ground yesterday, but technology shares pushed the broad market higher after Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan hinted that the central bank is more inclined to lift interest rates than cut them.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.26 to 9,544.42. The NASDAQ up 34.36 to 2,376.37.

NCAA wins sex-bias lawsuit

WASHINGTON — The NCAA is not subject to a federal sex-bias law just because it collects dues from federally aided colleges and universities, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday. But the justices' unanimous decision left open the possibility the governing body for college sports may for other reasons be covered by the law known as Title IX of the Education Acts of 1972.

Leakey named new head of museum

NAIROBI, Kenya — Richard Leakey has been named head of the struggling National Museums of Kenya, a television station reported Tuesday.

President Daniel arap Moi appointed Leakey, a third-generation Kenyan, to take over the cash-strapped agency, the Kenya Television Network said. Leakey has headed the NMK before and his father founded it.

Compiled from wire reports.

The gentlemen in front and behind me were senior civil servants, so I was in good company."

— Nigel Hawthorne, actor, who was knighted yesterday. Hawthorne played the imperious civil servant Sir Humphrey Appleby on the shows Yes, Minister and Yes, Prime Minister.

BEATING THE FAVORITE: Lucinda Williams' trip down the back roads of the South took her to the top of the Village Voice music critics poll. Her Car Wheels on a Gravel Road was named best album of 1998 in the weekly's annual poll, narrowly beating Grammy favorite Lauryn Hill's solo debut, The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill.

VISIT OUR

OPEN HOUSE

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27
10 am - 4 pm
FREE UNIVERSITY COMMONS T-SHIRT WITH EACH LEASE

UNIVERSITY COMMONS

845 RED MILE ROAD
606-258-2039
HOURS: M-F 9-6, SAT 10-4
HTTP://WWW.CAPSTONE-DEV.COM

Voted #1 Apartment Complex by UK Students, Since 1996.

WITH LOCATIONS AT: U. OF GEORGIA, LSU, TEXAS A&M, U. OF SOUTH CAROLINA, U. OF FLORIDA, U. OF KENTUCKY, KANSAS STATE, U. OF OKLAHOMA, OLE MISS, MIAMI OF OHIO, MISSISSIPPI STATE, PENN STATE, FLORIDA STATE, U. OF ALABAMA, INDIANA U.

RECOGNITION

Awards up for grabs

Applications available for Singletary Awards, given to several outstanding UK students

By Robert Quan
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Wanted: Outstanding student for recognition by the University.

Applications for the Otis A. Singletary Awards are now available.

The Singletary Award, named in honor of one of the University's former presidents, recognizes one outstanding freshman, sophomore and junior and a male and female senior for outstanding leadership contributions to the University.

Rhonda Strouse, director of the Student Activities Office, said winners are chosen on the strength of the interview and the essay accompanying the application.

She said previous winners have come from a variety of student organizations. "No one organization is a feeder for the award," Strouse said. "They could come from Residence Life, academics or leadership in any organization."

Strouse and Amy Broghamer, a psychology and integrated strategic communications senior and member of the selection committee, have worked to increase the applicant pool this year.

"Freshman, sophomore and junior winners are chosen based on contributions they made during that academic year," Broghamer said. "The senior recipients must demonstrate outstanding leadership and contributions during the course of their career as students at UK."

For seniors, the tougher requirement of being outstanding for the duration of their academic career merits $1,000 and having their name placed on the plaque in the Student Center as part of the award, according to the application information.

Winners receive an invitation to the Honors Program Award Dinner April 19, Broghamer said.

Like the Academy Awards, they are not notified that they won until their names are called by the presenter. This year's award will be presented by Broghamer and UK President Dr. Charles Wethington.

Finalists are picked by a selection committee comprised of Lou Swift, dean of students; Randall Gonzalez, vice chancellor of Student Affairs; Broghamer, of Student Activities Board; Kelly Sullivan, a previous recipient of the award; an Omicron Delta Kappa Honors Society member, and a previous recipient of the Great Teacher Award. Finalists must then go through an interview process with the selection committee.

Applications are available in 106 or 203 Student Center, the Dean's Office of every college, and all other major academic offices.

Applicants need to fill out the application, respond to the essay and turn it in to 203 Student Center by noon March 3.

WORLD

ASSOCIATED PRESS

French and Mirage aircraft are parked at the Istrana Airbase in Northern Italy as part of NATO's show of force aimed at possible intervention in conflict-ridden Kosovo. A partial agreement was reached yesterday, but nation leaders are worried conflicts may still happen.

Kosovo stalemate broken

A settlement? Though partial agreement has been made, threats of violence still loom

ASSOCIATED PRESS

RAMBOUILLET, France — Serbs agreed in principle yesterday to give limited self-rule to majority ethnic Albanians in Kosovo, but the two sides failed after 17 days of intense negotiations to conclude a deal for ending their yearlong conflict. More talks were scheduled for March as a new round of violence shook the province.

The partial settlement puts on hold, at least temporarily, NATO's threats to bomb Serb targets if they don't adopt the complex plan that would force them to withdraw troops from Kosovo and accept NATO peacekeepers.

After four days of strenuous diplomacy, shuffling between the two sides and even enlisting the help of 1996 GOP presidential candidate Bob Dole, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright accepted less than she had insisted on.

There was no agreement on deploying NATO peacekeepers in the tense province to enforce the settlement, and the Serbs refused to give their consent to major elements of the self-rule sought by the ethnic Albanians.

According to senior U.S. officials, the Serbs still insist on Serbian courts for Serbs accused of crimes, refuse to permit the ethnic Albanians to have a president and are unwilling to cooperate with a war crimes tribunal looking into atrocities against civilians committed during the war that has claimed some 2,000 lives.

"But we have broken the stalemate that hung over Kosovo for so long," Albright said.

The Albanians also heeded. They were given two weeks for "consultations" with people in the province, and still are insisting on a referendum to vote for independence and secession from Serbia at the end of the three-year autonomy trial period envisioned by the accord formulated by the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Russia.

The settlement also calls for a restoration of the ceasefire that was arranged by U.S. envoy Richard Holbrooke last October and for the staged removal of Serbian troops and special police units — but only after a NATO force is deployed to enforce the agreement.

In order to put a halt to the protracted negotiations, which ran through two deadlines, the ethnic Albanians and Serbs agreed to another round of talks in France, beginning March 15.

In Washington, President Clinton noted that NATO Secretary-General Javier Solana still "has the authority in his pocket now" to order airstrikes. "That depends upon the actions of the Serbs," he said. "What we need is continued restraint."

"I believe that the Kosovar Albanian people will strongly support what their negotiators have done, because the agreement represents the opportunity for a better life after years of repression and fear," Clinton said in a statement issued by the White House later.

At the same time, he warned, "the Serbs should be prepared to return to the negotiations on March 15 with a commitment to sign the full agreement."

British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook, who co-chaired the talks with French Foreign Minister Hubert Vedrine, said: "We have done a lot here even if we have not done enough."

"We will use the next three weeks to convince the Serbs and to convince the Albanians that the agreement is a good bargain for both sides," Cook said.

The Serbs gave no indication they would agree to NATO peacekeepers, arguing that they could not be sure the Serb minority — the province is about 90 percent ethnic Albanian — would be protected.

In a concession, the 81-page accord permits the Serbs to keep troops along the Kosovo border.

Final approval by the ethnic Albanians also is a question mark.

Albright arranged for Dole to call Adem Demaci, an ethnic Albanian hard-liner who boycotted the negotiations, to ask him to endorse the settlement.

There was no word on whether Demaci or other ethnic Albanians who are fighting for secession from Serbia would go along.

Meanwhile, the violence continued.

In Pristina, Yugoslavia, five Serb policemen were wounded when suspected rebels opened fire on Serb mourners, who gathered under police escort at the home of Mirko Milosevic, a civilian killed Monday allegedly by the rebel Kosovo Liberation Army.

Albright on Sunday called Milosevic's refusal to accept a NATO peacekeeping force to guarantee security a "non-starter."

"We accept nothing less than a complete agreement, including a NATO-led force," she declared at the time. "Without that element," she said, the agreement is "just a piece of paper."

Deadline approaches for Kosovo resolution

If talks between the Yugoslav government and the Kosovar ethnic Albanians fail, NATO is ready to begin bombing Serb military targets throughout Yugoslavia as soon as Saturday.

Serb military installations

- NATO will bomb Serbian targets if Serbs refuse peace terms. Ethnic Albanians fear this will trigger retaliation against their people by Serb forces currently in the region.
- More than 1,000 international monitors would be evacuated from Kosovo before the bombing begins.
- Albania has offered NATO full use of its ports and airports.

MAJOR INFLUENCES

Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic maintained his refusal to budge even in the face of threatened airstrikes, participating over the issue of deploying NATO troops in Kosovo.

Head of the ethnic Albanian delegation, Hashim Thaci, criticized the final draft agreement as being so heavily weighted toward Serbs that it sets up ethnic Albanians for blame if talks fail.

U.S. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright told Milosevic that NATO would hit hard if the negotiations fail and urged him to allow NATO to deploy peacekeepers to Yugoslavia.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin cautioned the United States against taking military action against Yugoslavia. The Russians strongly opposed NATO airstrikes on Yugoslavia.

Source: AP

Read the paper, don't eat it

CAMPUS CALENDAR

The Campus Calendar is produced weekly by the Office of Student Activities. Postings in the calendar are free to all registered student organizations and UK Departments. Information can be submitted in Rm. 203, Student Center or by completing a request form on line at <http://www.uk.edu/StudentCenter/>. Posting requests are due ONE WEEK PRIOR to the Monday information is to appear in the calendar. For more information call 257-8866

- ### Wednesday 2/24
- ACADEMIC
- E.A.P. Learning Skills Program, 3-3:50 pm, 203 Frazee Hall
- MEETINGS
- Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting, 9 pm, CSE Bldg. (corner of Woodland & Columbia)
 - Student Meal and Discussion 5pm, Newman Center
 - French Conversation Table 4:30-6pm, Ovid's Cafe
 - UK Snowski and Snowboard meeting, 7pm, Rm 228 Student Center
 - Psi Chi meeting, 4 pm, Rm. 213 Kastle Hall
- ARTS/MOVIES
- Master Recital featuring Benjamin Smolder, 8pm, Singletary Center
 - Movie: Heavenly Creatures 7pm, Worsham Theatre, $1
- INTRAMURALS/RECREATION
- Aikido Classes: UK Aikido Club, 6:30-8:30 pm, Alumni Gym
 - Loft, call Chris @ 245-5887 for info.
- SPECIAL EVENTS
- Eating Disorder Awareness Week Information Tables 11-1 pm, Student Center and 4-6 pm, Seaton Center
 - European Pastry Cafe sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club, 10-4 pm, Room 245 Student Center
 - Cultural Diversity Festival, 11 am-1:30 pm, Student Center Grand Ballroom. Ethnic Foods, entertainment, and international displays.

- ### Thursday 2/25
- ACADEMIC
- Math 109 & 123 Tutoring, 203 Frazee Hall, FREE call 7-6959 for more info.
- MEETINGS
- Campus Crusade for Christ weekly meeting, 7:30 pm, Worsham Theatre
 - UK Lambda meeting to Lesbians/trans people, 7:30 pm, Room 231 Stud. Ctr.
 - Thursday Night Live, 7pm, Christian Student Fellowship, call 233-9313 for info.
 - UK Snowski and Snowboard meeting, 7pm, Room 228 Student Center
- ARTS
- UK Orchestra Pre-Concept Lecture, 7pm, Fine Arts Room 17
 - UK Orchestra with Steve Moore, conductor, 8pm, Singletary Center, FREE
 - Mother Courage and Her Children presented by the UK Theatre Department, 8pm, Gulgnol Theatre, call 257-4929 for ticket info.
- SPORTS
- UK Ultimate Frisbee Practice, 6-8pm, Band Field, call Nick at 261-1256 for info
- SPECIAL EVENTS
- European Pastry Cafe sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club, 10-4 pm, Room 245 Student Center
 - Art Workshop: Creative Writing, Sponsored by the MLK Cultural Center, 7

- ### Friday 2/26
- pm, MLKCC
- ACADEMIC
- MBA Program Open House sponsored by UK's Gatton College of Business and Economics, 5-7 pm and 2/27 1-3pm, call Jamie at 257-4605 for info
- MEETINGS
- Sigma Gamma Rho Bookclub Meeting, 7 pm, MLK Cultural Center
- LECTURES
- Robert C. May Photography Endowment Series Presents Keith Carter, 4pm, UK Art Museum
 - "Evolution of the Horse" Presented by Dr. Bruce MacFadden 7:30 pm, Singletary Center Recital Hall
 - "The End of the Golden Age of the Black Athlete" presented by Dr. Harry Edwards, 7:30 pm, Worsham Theatre, FREE
- SPECIAL EVENTS
- Themed Celebration presented by the French Dept, 5-6:30pm, Blanding 1 Basement
 - European Pastry Cafe sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club, 10-4 pm, Room 245 Student Center
 - International Talent Night, 7pm, Memorial Hall, tickets $3 in advance and $4 at the door, call Mark at 257-4662 for more info.
- ARTS
- UK Regional Tabla-Euphonium Conference (Thu 2/26), Singletary Center, call 257-8822 for registration info
 - Mother Courage and Her Children presented by the UK Theatre Department, 8pm, Gulgnol Theatre, call 257-4929 for ticket info

- ### Saturday 2/27
- RELIGIOUS
- Catholic Mass 6 pm, Newman Center
- ARTS
- Mother Courage and Her Children presented by the UK Theatre Dept, 8pm, Gulgnol Theatre, call 257-4929 for ticket info
- SPECIAL EVENTS
- UK Folklore Story Telling Closing and Luncheon Sponsored by the MLK Cultural Center, 11 am, MLKCC
 - Contemporary Affairs Committee presents KENGO: African Drummer, Dancer, Storyteller, 8pm, Center Theatre, Dance and Drumming Workshop, 2pm, Center Theatre, call 257-8867 to sign up for Workshop w/ 2/26

- ### Sunday 2/28
- RELIGIOUS
- Catholic Mass 9 am, 11:30 am, 5 pm, 8:30 pm, Newman Center
 - Sunday Morning Worship, 11 am, Christian Student Fellowship
- MEETINGS
- Phi Sigma Pi meeting, 7pm, 230 Stud. Ctr.
- INTRAMURALS/RECREATION
- Aikido Classes: UK Aikido Club, 1-3 pm, Alumni Gym Loft, call Chris @ 245-5887 for info
 - SAB presents Second City Comedy Troupe, 800 pm, Memorial Hall, Students $8, faculty/staff $10, General Public, $12, call 257-1165

MEN'S HOOPS

Senior Day needs a 'W'

Despite the fanfare of a UK Senior Day, Cats just want to get back on track versus Vandy

By Jen Smith
SENIOR STAFF WRITER

Forget the hype. Senior Night just isn't as important to the men's basketball team as an outright No. 1 seed in the Southeastern Conference Tournament's East Division. A win over Vanderbilt tonight at 8 in Rupp Arena would help the Cats' momentum heading into an end of the season game

Border battle
Tonight, 8 p.m. Rupp Arena TV: J2 (live) Radio: 590 AM
Last meeting: UK won 73-57 in Nashville
#13 Kentucky (21-7, 10-4 SEC)
Probable Starters	PPG RPG
G Wayne Turner	9.9 2.4
G Desmond Allison	4.4 2.0
F Heshimu Evans	11.7 5.4
F Scott Padgett	11.8 5.9
C Michael Bradley	11.3 5.2
Vanderbilt (13-13, 4-10 SEC)
Probable Starters	PPG RPG
G James Strong	9.2 3.0
G Aliba Prater	5.8 2.3
F Vince Ford	9.3 3.4
F Dan Langhi	17.6 7.2
C Greg LaPointe	9.3 4.3

against co-No. 1 Tennessee.

So, forget the hype and the hoops that Wayne Turner, Scott Padgett and Heshimu Evans will jump through before the game. Forget the tears and the parents and the friends and the fans.

Remember Vanderbilt (13-13, 4-10 SEC), which is coming

SENIOR DAY

Three seniors have last hurrah

Wayne Turner, Heshimu Evans and Scott Padgett say goodbye to Rupp Arena tonight

By Matt May
SPORTSDAILY EDITOR

It is the ultimate appreciation day in college sports, a time when the fans can give back to the players they have watched bring home victory after victory, and in some cases, national title after national title.

In Kentucky, it is perhaps the biggest sporting event of the year that doesn't involve horse racing, Churchill Downs and a certain first Saturday in May.

It is UK basketball's Senior Day. A day where every little boy from Paducah to Ashland fantasizes about being a part of someday. A time when the Bluegrass honors the boys in blue who have given their heart and soul to basketball, the official religion of Kentucky, but must now move on.

In recent memory, it has been a day to honor players who returned the NCAA Championship back to its rightful spot in Lexington. In 1996, it was off a tough road swing. The Commodores will play their fourth road game in two weeks tonight. They are 1-10 away from Memorial Gym this season. And they are hungry.

"Tomorrow's a game that's dedicated to the seniors," said senior tri-captain Wayne Turner, who will play in his first place-tying 143rd game for UK tonight. That ties him with ex-teammate Jared Prickett. "But after all the fanfare and the celebration, we have a job to do."

That job has seemed a little tougher lately. UK (21-7, 10-4) is coming off a tough loss on the road to Arkansas. That win has Coach Tubby Smith working out the kinks again.

But it's not hard work. "Just a little tweaking, adapting, tinkering with some offensive things here and there," Smith said. "Everybody needs to be tweaked."

Some of the tinkering will include less minutes seen by the starting lineup. Smith said he has been overplaying them. He thinks for the team to go far in the tournaments, the bench will have to contribute. He also said the team has been working on last-minute game situations. The other thing Smith said they have been working on is the mental aspect of the game.

"The psyche of knowing we are as good as any team in the country," Smith said. "Certainly, the urgency of playing well and playing better as far as the SEC bye (is important). It'd be a lot better for us going into the tournament on the emotion of the win, not a loss."

That's the kind of Comeback Cats attitude that has VU Coach Jan van Breda Kolff wor-

FILE PHOTO
Former UK player Cameron Mills broke through a hoop at last year's Senior Day festivities. Three Cat seniors will play their last home game tonight.

ried. He knows UK has something to prove.

"It's obviously a big game against Kentucky and for Kentucky," he said. "They're tied with Tennessee for the No. 1 spot. Plus, it's senior night. And they've got three great players in Wayne Turner, Scott Padgett and Heshimu Evans."

VU has a great player or two of its own.

One that has come a long way in a short time is junior forward Dan Langhi.

He is second in the league in scoring with 17.6 points a game and seventh in rebounding with 7.2. He leads the conference in free-throw percentage, shooting 85 percent.

Langhi was this week's SEC Player of the Week. The Benton, Ky., native scored 30 points and pulled down 11 rebounds in VU's overtime win over Alabama, including five of the team's 10 points in OT. He scored 29 points and a perfect 9-for-9 from the free-throw line in a losing effort vs. Auburn.

"We did a good job of making him take some difficult shots," Smith said.

The last game shouldn't even be talked about. It is all in the past, though, Turner said. And Vanderbilt is the kind of team that can put a wrinkle in the Cats' plans of postseason domination.

"This is our chance to prove to ourselves and the people who doubt us, that we can win," Turner said. "That's the good thing about basketball, you always get another chance."

Smith said Turner may be the player who has accomplished the most.

"Wayne has the most respect of everyone because of what he's achieved," Smith said. "It's amazing what he has accomplished. His competitiveness is second to none. He's a difference maker."

The three seniors reflected back upon some of their fondest memories of their time at UK. "I've been through a lot of wild things," Padgett said. "Being able to come back and make academic All-SEC is probably the most impressive thing I've done. But winning the national championship and that picture of Shep getting a rebound and Wayne dunking will always be special."

Evans' favorite memory was quite unusual, considering he was part of a title winner in 1998.

"My first individual workout, I wanted to do really well and show Coach Pitino it was worthwhile to bring me here," Evans said. "I nearly blacked out. When I came to, coach said, 'Don't try to impress me, just learn the system.'"

When asked if he would choose a similarly unusual experience like the time he got lost snowmobiling, Turner laughed and declined.

"I wouldn't go that far," Turner said of the incident. "My first Midnight Madness is something I won't forget. Walking across the street and seeing all the tents on the sidewalk. The lines were ridiculous. I was in awe. I couldn't believe how many people were there."

Each player will have plenty of friends and family in attendance, but none more than Louisville-native Padgett, who may fill an entire section himself.

"I have like 55, 45 of which are family," he said. "They're all aunts, uncles, cousins, grandparents. My father's mother is coming for the first time. She only lives in (Elizabethtown), but she doesn't like to go anywhere. She's an artist, likes to stay home, really into nature. She doesn't like TV, unless I'm on."

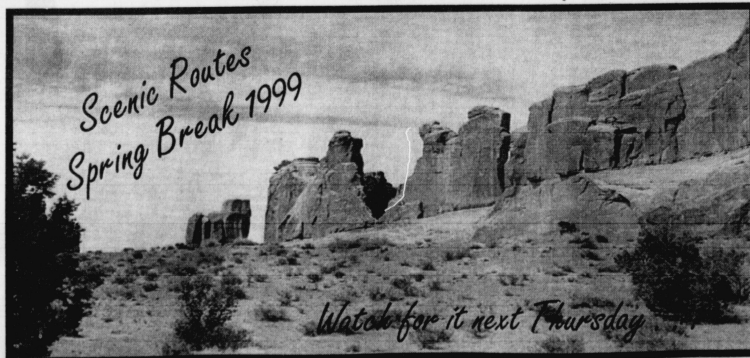

Smith said he will take the departures hard. "It's like an empty feeling," he said. "They are all wonderful young men who you'd want your daughter to date. I look at them as sons. It's a special bond."

All new Kernel chat
on-line @
kykernel.com
SURE
FIRE

FLORIDA SPRING BREAK
FROM $159 PER WEEK*
SANDPIPER BEACON BEACH RESORT
PANAMA CITY BEACH
www.sandpiperbeacon.com (*rates per person)
HOME OF THE WORLD'S LONGEST BEER PARTY
FREE DRAFT BEER ALL WEEK LONG-CALL FOR INFO!
1-800-488-8828

Sunsessions Tanning Salon
5 Visits Regular Beds $12.95
5 Visits Super Beds $15.45
With Ad-Special Expires 3/22/99
20 Beds with New Bulbs
(no appointment needed)
Latest Swimwear and
Tanning Lotions All on Sale!
Stonewall Shopping Center
(near Tumbleweed)
3101 Clays Mill Rd. between Harrodsburg
& Nicholasville) Suite 105
223-8888

50%
OFF*
8 Types of Strength
Equipment
Group Exercise Classes
Full Court Basketball
Over 100 pieces of
cardiovascular equipment
$400,000 in expansion &
equipment
Now Open 24 hrs
Kick Boxing
Body Pump
Offer expires
2/26
WORLD
GYM
269-2492
2909 Richmond Road
276-2492
1859 Alexandria Drive
Both locations 10 minutes
from campus!
*with enrollment fee

Watch for it next Thursday

FEBRUARY
27
EIGHT O'CLOCK
ADMISSION
FREE TO ALL
DANCE AND DRUMMING
WORKSHOP
20 SPOTS
AVAILABLE
FOR WORKSHOP
SIGNUP CALL
STUDENT ACTIVITIES
BOARD OFFICE AT
257-8867

KENGMO
AFRICANDRUMS
STUDENT CENTER THEATER
DANCE • RHYTHMS • STORYTELLING

KERNEL GO CATS!

GO

GO CATS!

Step 1. After the first Commodore is announced, yell: "So what?"

Step 2. After the second Commodore is announced, yell: "Who cares?"

Step 3. After the third Commodore is announced, yell: "Who's that?"

Step 4. After the fourth Commodore is announced, yell: "Go Home!"

Step 5. After the fifth Commodore is announced, yell: "Welcome to Rupp!"

Step 6. After the Commodore Coach Jan van Breda Kolff is announced begin chanting:

GO BIG BLUE

KYKERNEL.COM ONLINE NEWS

Serving home-made Root Beer & Floats, hot dogs, sausage, sandwiches, Fish and Chicken Basket meals, and a variety of snacks. Fast Service at a reasonable price. Located in the food court at the Civic Center.

Graduate and Family Housing has an opening for a Resident Manager for the Cooperstown apt. complex

Applicants must be a full time student and preferably a graduate student

Tentative start date is no later than April 1, 1999.

Deadline to submit resume is March 5, 1999.
Remit application on campus: Cooperstown "C"
Building 0132
or off campus:
700 Woodland Avenue,
Lexington, KY 40508-3440

Online @ <http://www.kykernel.com>

Limestone

Try these specials

- 2 for Tuesday 1 6 inch sub, another of equal or lesser value for free w/medium drink.
- *$1 OFF any footlong sub
- *$.50 OFF any 6" sub
- *Late Night Special buy 1 footlong w/medium drink and get another of equal or lesser value for 99¢ (every night) after 5 pm.

Downtown Lexington's multilevel party palace

Tonight
Catawampus
25¢ Draft

The latest in dance upstairs
* Every Wednesday 25¢ Drafts*

225-9194 156 W. MAIN ST. OPEN 8-1-30 a.m.

Computer Connection

Building Computers Your Way

169 E. Reynolds Rd.
Suite 106
Lexington, KY 40517
(Behind Captain D's)

0% discount w/student ID

New & Used Custom Computer Systems As Low As $399.95

(includes monitor, mouse, keyboard, full multimedia, and operating system)

Software Titles as low as $4.99

Games Utilities, Educational,
Business and More!

Computer Peripherals
Printers, Scanners, Tape Drives, Multimedia and
Other Accessories

Local Service and Support!
Open Mon. - Sat. 11am
245-8671

Financing Available

1999 Singletary Awards

APPLY TODAY

Applications available now for outstanding male and female senior, and outstanding junior, sophomore & freshman.

Applications available in Rooms 203 & 106 Student Center and all College Dean's Offices.

Deadline: March 3, Noon

Questions? Call 257-8867

MAD MUSHROOM PIZZA

252-FAST (3278)

NOW OPEN FOR LUNCH

"Home of the original Cheesestix"

THREE POINT PLAY

14" Large Cheese Pizza $3.99

*Mondays & UK Basketball Game Days ONLY

Toppings $1.00 ea.

University Commons

The Wildcats' Best Living Experience

VOTED
Lexington's #1 apartment complex for
2 consecutive years

<http://www.capstone-dev.com>

FEATURING:

- 2 & 4 bedrooms
- fully furnished
- fitness center
- rec room
- alarm systems
- washer & dryer
- swimming pool
- individual leases
- private bedrooms
- fully equipped kitchen
- tennis, volleyball, & basketball courts
- computer lab, copier & fax available
- voted #1 by UK students

UNIVERSITY COMMONS

CALL TODAY!
258-2039

Locations also at:
U of Alabama • Kansas State U • Louisiana State U • Miami U • U of Mississippi • Mississippi State U • Pennsylvania State U • College Station, Texas • U of Florida • U of Georgia • U of Illinois • U of Oklahoma • U of South Carolina • Austin, Texas • U of West Florida Village

Kitty O'Shea's Irish Pub
 Official spot for the Guinness Toast
 this Friday Feb. 26

LIVE MUSIC
 by
Galloglass Irish Band
 8 PM

DRINK SPECIALS DAILY!

HAPPY HOUR DAILY!
 3-7 P.M. Mon-Thurs. &
 3-6 P.M. Fri. & Sat.

OPEN DAILY
 11AM-10PM
 606-255-3078
 formerly the UClub

Live Music This Wed. with Bluewater

SPOT PRIZES FRIDAY

2 for 1 kamazees

Sunday, February 28
 at 8:00 PM

Memorial Hall
 University of Kentucky

$8 Student Tickets,
 $10 Faculty Tickets,
 $12 General Public

Call 257-TICS Sponsored SAB

University Nights

Eastland Lanes
 750 E. New Circle Rd.
 Lexington, KY 40505

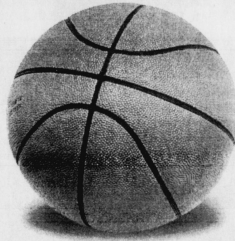

Southland Lanes
 205 Southland Drive
 Lexington, KY 40503

Mon-Thursday Night 9 pm to close
 Open to students and faculty members with I.D.
 $2.00 games and free shoe rentals.
 Based on Lane Availability

JOIN THE FUN
 FOR MORE INFORMATION, CALL

Eastland Lanes
252-3429

Southland Lanes
277-5746

Complete Cat Coverage

www.kentuckyconnect.com

A Service of the Lexington Herald-Leader

319 South Limestone

1 Large 14" 1-topping

$7.99

1 Large 1-topping & two 20 oz. drinks

$9.99

1 Large 1 topping & breadsticks

$9.99

233-0808

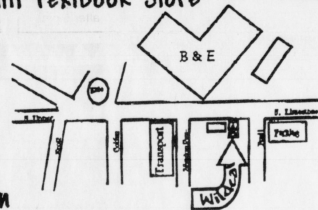

Wildcat Textbooks

UK and LCC's Discount Textbook Store

phone: 225-7711

located:
 563 S. Limestone
 across from the
 B & E bldg.
 (right next to Alfalfa's)

on the web at: www.wildcattext.com

CHECK US OUT!

- Large one, two, & three bedroom townhouses
- Laundry facilities
- Clubhouse with pool table
- Tanning bed
- Large patios/balconies
- Weightroom/sauna
- All utilities paid

272-3481

Tates Creek Village Apts
 3051 Kirklevington Dr.

We've Got Big Blue Fever At Sonnet Cove Apartments!

- Lake, Boating and Swimming
- Fun Social Activities and Parties
- Large 1, 2 and 3 Bedrooms Available
- Basketball, Tennis and Volleyball League

$99.00
 deposit
 with AD
 Expires 3/15/99

266-3123

Get on our waiting list NOW for Fall Semester!

WWW.EQR.COM

BIG BLUE!

The Student Newspaper at the University of Kentucky, Lexington

Jonathan G. Gent
TELEVISION COLUMNIST

Where is the good stuff?

Why your favorite TV shows get canned and the others survive

I quit. I can't do this crap anymore. You try and you try. You watch the shows they put on. You get a show you like and what happens? It gets canceled. Never fails.

"Twin Peaks." Second season. The show got a little too dark for people. Wah. Go home and cry to mommy.

"Prophet." Critics called it the second coming of J.R. Ewing. Viewers didn't call it, or watch it.

"Class of '96." Never finished their freshman year. The classic is "My So-Called Life." A show that propelled the careers of its stars (Claire Danes, Jared Leto) and garnered praise from critics across the country; however, it took MTV playing in almost non-stop rotation to actually get people to watch it (and those were repeats).

Everyone's had a show that no one else watched. If you have it, you could be a sheep, or a fanboy. That's what marketing is all about. The networks should know what people will watch. If NBC is making a "Frasier" knock-off, should Nathan Lane be in it? Just spin-off "Niles." That's a show the people will watch.

Two good shows this season, both with promise and critical acclaim. One on ABC, the other on Fox. Both rocked. Now, neither are around.

"Brimstone" was dark. Dark dark. Like Seven, but without all the fun and upbeat sentiments to it. Got that this show is dark? Good. A long-dead police officer, named Ezekiel no less, is assigned by the devil (you see, the cop is in Hell) to track down escaped souls. If he gets enough, the devil will let him leave Hell. A show about redemption. After a bumpy start, the show got better and better, a sort of "The X-Files" by way of, I don't know, something dark.

"Cupid." I've talked up this show many a time to you people. So here we go again. Cupid is punished by Zeus. He is placed on Earth among the mortals to reunite 99 couples without his powers. The only problem? He is thought insane (he may be insane), thrown into a mental institution (which he is also released from) and finally, teamed with a couples therapist to spar with. The show's star, Jeremy Piven (you people would recognize Piven), has dragged this show along for its entire existence.

One of my friends blames the show's difficulties on the therapist Claire Allen (Paula Marshall). Marshall's greatest film role to date has been in Warlock: The Armageddon. He may have a point.

Just hope and pray for me. And pray for "The Family Guy," as well. That show had better be a hit. I'm getting tired of watching "The Simpsons" and "Dawson's Creek."

Born to play

Since her solo debut at the age of 7, Maria Kruga, a teaching assistant in the Department of Music, has performed all over Europe and the United States. The Albanian born pianist will be the featured soloist at the UK Symphony Orchestra concert this Thursday night. Kruga was selected to perform with the orchestra after winning a 1st Prize in the UK Symphony Orchestra Solo Concert Competition last year with her rendition of Rachmaninoff's "Piano Concerto No. 2 in C-minor." She has chosen Tchaikovsky's "Concerto No. 1 for Piano and Orchestra in Bb-minor Op. 23" for the concert. The concert will take place in the Simplotary Center for the Arts Concert Hall. The show starts at 8 p.m. and admission is free.

HOBE HILER | KERNEL STAFF

FILM THOUGHTS

'October' lacks in stellar substance

New film starring Jake Gyllenhaal and Laura Dern high on melodrama, low on excitement

Tucky Williams
STAFF CRITIC

October Sky is like milk: pure, wholesome, all-American goodness. The elements that typically draw audiences (sex, action, cute dogs) are absent. Instead, what makes October Sky beautiful is simple characters who are simply being themselves.

The film opens in 1957 in the coal mining town of Coalwood, W.Va. For the young men of Coalwood, college is not an option; they are destined to work at the mine. We meet Homer, a high school senior who will do almost anything to keep from following in his father's footsteps and becoming a miner.

Russia's Sputnik has just become the first satellite to orbit earth. One night, Homer sees it pass over the sky. The vision triggers a passion inside him and he decides to build a rocket. Because he has not studied enough math and science, Homer quickly befriends the smartest boy in school, Quentin.

Homer, Quentin and two of Homer's friends begin building rockets from scratch. Some of the film's lighter moments come when the boys detonate their first rockets, which tend to explode either before or soon after they leave the ground. After one failed launching destroys a fence, Homer's mother says, "I waited six months for the company carpenter to make that fence. Did not I tell you boys not to blow yourselves up?"

This movie draws the audience in from the beginning. There are almost a dozen minor characters either helping or trying to stop Homer from building his rockets. The audience members become well-acquainted with these characters, just as they would if they were actually living in the small town.

The character of Homer is endearing to the point that one can not help but feel compassion for him. He is a kind person who has struck the critical balance of being nothing but sweet and generous to everyone, while also having total respect for himself.

Homer is portrayed by Jake Gyllenhaal, who has been dubbed the next Leonardo DiCaprio. It is not a fair comparison: DiCaprio is the passionate rebel with girlish beauty; Gyllenhaal seems more of an honest, hardy young man who would not get a second look. Gyllenhaal's appeal comes from the fact that he is humble and quiet. His ability to show humility lends perfectly to his role as a good-hearted, small-town boy.

Laura Dern makes an appearance as Miss Riley, the schoolteacher who gives the boys the encouragement they need to build their rockets. She tells them that if they enter the region's science fair they would have a good chance of winning. And if the boys make it to the national science fair, she says, they may be given college scholarships.

Because Homer wants more than anything to get out of Coalwood, making it to the nationals becomes his mission.

There are many people who try to keep him from succeeding, yet the movie portraying these people as two-dimensional.

If there is a weakness, it is in the screenplay. Like Titanic, this is a film where the dialogue is not on the same level as the other elements. For example, Homer at one point shouts to his less-than-encouraging father, "The coal mine is your life, not mine. I'm never going down there again. I want to go into space! Get the picture?"

Dern's performance seems affected. She speaks as if she imagines each line she utters will be a soundbite in the movie's previews. "You can not just dream your way out of Coalwood, Homer," she draws with a cocky smile on her face. Dern is talented and attractive, so the pride she takes in herself is justified. It just comes off kind of weird.

October Sky is the kind of movie I call a "no pee-er," meaning that there are not any slow moments when it would be OK to leave the theater for a few minutes. During the screening, two fellows sitting in my aisle alternately excused themselves from the theater, and each missed a crucial moment of the story.

There is nothing exciting about October Sky, but it is thoroughly absorbing and entertaining from beginning to end. It would be a shame if this film does not earn more than Patch Adams. Because Patch Adams tried to force emotion out of its audience, it failed to be realistic. Nothing in October Sky is forced. By the time the credits roll, October Sky has gently earned its share of wet eyes.

Rating: B

KENTUCKY
KERNEL
online
@
http://www.kykernel.com

KENTUCKY
KERNEL
online at http://www.kykernel.com

There's a whole world out there.
Explore it with Contiki
Cheap tickets. Great advice.
Nice people.

London	$200
Madrid	$234
Vienna	$278
Paris	$226

Fares are from Louisville each way based on RT purchase. Fares do not include taxes, which total between $1 and $88 (incl. Student ID card required). Fares are valid for departures in March and are subject to change. American agents. Call for our low domestic fares and fares to other world wide destinations.
Don't forget to order your Eurailpass!

Council Travel
CIE: Council on International Educational Exchange

1-800-2Council
www.counciltravel.com

Import Motors
a division of European Motors, Inc.

Lexus * Honda * Toyota * Nissan

FREE Oil Service
You pay for the filter and oil
Most cars only $9.99
Includes top-off of all fluids and inspection of car
Some models do not apply. Expires 2/28/99

10% Student Discount off Parts & Labor!!
With Valid Student ID.

227 Big Run Rd. Lexington, KY 40503 606-277-4510
Serving Lexington and Central Kentucky since 1983

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY
THE COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES
1999 BLAZER LECTURE

Dr. Wade Davis

ETHNOBOTANIST
AUTHOR OF THE SERPENT AND THE RAINBOW,
ONE RIVER, AND SHADOWS IN THE SUN
FEATURED ON 20/20, THE DISCOVERY CHANNEL,
AND CNN

Light at the Edge of the World

FEBRUARY 25, 1999
7:30 PM
OTIS A. SINGLETARY CENTER FOR THE ARTS
RECTAL HALL

ADMISSION IS FREE. OPEN TO THE PUBLIC
FOR INFORMATION, CALL (606) 257-1541

TIME FOR KERNEL
A CHANGE

FINE JEWELRY

COLLEGIATE
JEWELRY
TRUNK SHOWS

Wednesday, February 17
Lexington Mall 11 AM - 7 PM

Thursday, February 18
Turfland Mall 11 AM - 7 PM

Saturday, February 20
Fayette Mall 11 AM - 7 PM

Hey, Cat Fans!
Get Ready For Conference Tournament Time
By Showing Your Spirit NOW With
A Great Collection of Collegiate Jewelry
The Collection 79.00-399.00
FINE JEWELRY
Photo is representative of collection & not actual size.

Dillard's

Pioneers in sports

Everyone knows about Jackie Robinson breaking the color barrier in Major League Baseball. But did you know about these other pioneering blacks in the world of sports?

- Althea Gibson became the first black person to win Wimbledon, taking the women's singles crown in 1957. She also won the U.S. National Title that same year, and she was named the Associated Press' Female Athlete of the Year in both 1957 and 1958.

- Arthur Ashe became the first black male to win the U.S. Open in 1968, and was the first black male to win Wimbledon in 1975. After he retired, he became a champion for improved education for black athletes.

- Jesse Owens won four gold medals in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin. Many felt that Owens was slighted when he was overlooked for the Sullivan Award as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete. That award went to Glenn Morris, the Olympic decathlon champion, who was white.

- Lee Elder was the first black golfer to be invited to the Masters. He joined the PGA Tour in 1967 as one of the first black players in PGA history. He earned his invitation to the 1975 Masters by winning the 1974 Monsanto Open.

- Doug Williams became the first black quarterback to lead his team to the Super Bowl title when he took snaps for the Washington Redskins in Super Bowl XXII. He became head coach at Grambling last year, replacing the legendary Eddie Robinson.

- John Thompson became the first black head coach to win an NCAA basketball championship in 1954, coaching Georgetown University to the title. He also played for the Boston Celtics for two years, and recently resigned after 27 years as head coach.

—Source: A Who's Who of Sports Champions, by Ralph Hickok.

Chain reaction

Readers are encouraged to submit letters to the editor and guest opinions to the dialogue page. Address comments to: "Letters to the Editor" Kentucky Kernel, Editorial Office, 35 Ench J. Gresham Journalism Building, Lexington, Ky. 40506-0042

Send electronic mail to kernel@pop.uky.edu.

Letters should be about 250 words; guest opinions should be no longer than 600 words. All material should be type-written and double-spaced.

Include your name and major classification (for publication), as well as your address and telephone number for verification, which will be kept confidential.

Alvis Johnson, who came to UK after nearly a quarter-century of coaching high school football in Kentucky, offers his insights on why the sports world is one step ahead of the rest of society.

Racism, Rupp and real life

Johnson: Society can learn lessons from teams, athletes

Kentucky Kernel: You grew up in Kentucky while Adolph Rupp was coaching at UK. Was the rest of the state of Kentucky reflective of the racial atmosphere surrounding the basketball program?

Alvis Johnson: I think so. I think Coach Rupp sometimes, because of his prominence, probably gets targeted more for accusations of racism than some other smaller places. But I think, probably, the attitude involving or concerning race and racism was pretty much the same all over the state.

KK: Did you ever have any reservations about sending your two sons here?

AJ: No. Never. I certainly think that UK is one of the most progressive universities when it comes to race relations. This is evidenced by the fact that not only do we have a head men's basketball coach who is African-American, but we have a women's coach who is African-American as well. I think that Coach (Athletic Director C.M.) Newton has shown a record that says he's concerned about the quality of coaching, not about race.

KK: You coached for a number of years on the high school level. Compare the racial atmosphere when you became a head coach (in 1975) with the atmosphere when you retired last year.

AJ: In 1975, when I became head coach at Harrodsburg High School, there just weren't a lot of opportunities for African-Americans in the position of head coach at that time. If my memory serves me correctly, I might have been the only African-American head coach in the state of Kentucky at that time. Gradually, over the years, as the '90s approached, you began to see a sprinkling of African-American coaches at the head position in football. It was very rare to see an African-American head coach in basketball. Even to this day, with basketball being the prestigious sport in the state of Kentucky, there are not many, if any, head basketball coaches in schools that aren't predominantly African-American.

KK: Do you ever feel that at any point throughout your career, in college, when you became involved with high school athletics, that your race was ever used against you?

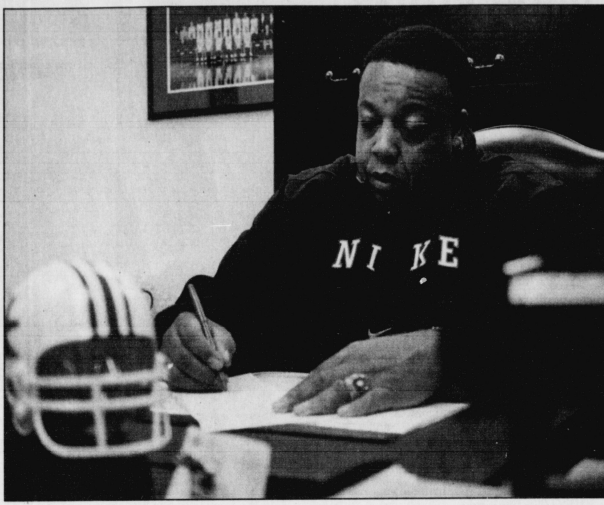

AJ: You know, I guess I feel like I've been extremely blessed throughout my whole life. I don't feel like it was ever holding me back. I'm sure there were times when it probably did, but it was never an overt act as far as I was concerned. I've always believed that if you worked hard and persevered, then good things would happen to you.

So to answer your question, I don't know that I ever viewed race as being a detriment to me. I think that it was more of a motivator than a detriment to be able to become the first at doing some things: becoming the first African-American coach at a predominantly white school, first president to serve on the National Federation of State Associations (a national group of high school coaches). Those things motivated me.

I guess, maybe, that I was fortunate that I didn't run into some of the roadblocks that a lot of African-Americans have run into.

KK: It's been said that in the sports world, race relations are might be a step ahead of the rest of the world. Do you think this is true?

AJ: I'm a firm believer that any progress that's been made in race relations in this country is because of sports, or happened as a result of what happened in the sports arena. I think without sports, and the emphasis that this country puts on it, I think we'd be much, much further behind in race relations than we are now.

Alvis Johnson, who came to UK as an assistant athletic director this year, organized "The Cat's Meow" and several other programs in an attempt to get students more involved in supporting UK's athletic teams.

KK: Why the sports world, in particular?

AJ: The great thing about sports is that, on Friday night, when you line up beside your teammate, you don't care whether he's red, black, orange, blue or white. You all have a common goal, which is to win. In the days when race relations were particularly bad, on team where blacks and whites played together, it was not uncommon to see them fellowshipping, hugging or kissing each other, because they were pulling for that common goal. Sports is the thread that ties all races, creeds and religions together, because it is such an effort to win as a team.

Yes, there have been teams where there was some racism on them. But the progress we've made is because of the attitudes found in sports.

KK: Do you feel that black student athletes are exploited at universities where the athletics department and the NCAA make millions of dollars off of their successes, while the athletes really don't see much of the money?

AJ: I've got to be careful here how I answer this question (chuckling). I don't necessarily think that black student-athletes are exploited any more than white student-athletes.

I think the time has come for us to take a serious look at some of the issues involving giving all student-athletes stipends to play on college campuses.

It is a money-making business, and student-athletes are now aware that they are the impetus for bringing in millions and millions of dollars. I don't know that it's out of the ordinary for them to want to share in a small part of the profits. As far as the exploitation of black athletes versus any other athlete, I don't see that, because again, when they line up on the field, some teams are probably more highly rostered with black athletes than others, but there's a significant number of athletes from both races on all teams.

KK: What major obstacles remain for blacks to overcome in the sports world, such as management positions?

AJ: I feel that there is some thought at the senior executive level that there is some concern about putting African-Americans in the high position of head coach or management. I think that's one of the ladders still to be climbed. I know the NFL and the NBA are all concerned about that. They've issued memorandums to various teams urging them to take a look at the available pool of candidates from the minority races. So I think that has yet to be taken care of. I think that the stigma of perhaps the black athlete not being able to think as well as perhaps some other kinds of athletes is one that is a myth that needs to be overcome.

KK: Much was made, especially in Sports Illustrated, about the fact that when Kentucky was looking to hire a new football coach, there were no African-American candidates that were really taken seriously. In particular, Sherman Lewis, a black man with Kentucky roots, was passed over. Do you think that Sherman Lewis was given serious consideration for the job because of his race?

AJ: I think that Sherman Lewis is an excellent football coach. But he's a traditional football coach. I think what Coach Newton had on his mind, and what he was thinking about at the time, was hiring someone who was innovative, someone who was maybe a rebel. The traditional approach had failed on a number of occasions to get this football program where he (Newton) wanted it. I don't think it was a slap at Sherman Lewis at all. I think it was just the fact that he was a little bit more of a traditional coach.

KK: What are your feelings about schools like Southern Methodist, Cincinnati and Texas Tech who've done an abysmal job of graduating players?

AJ: Obviously, that sickens me and most other administrators who love the sport and love the athletes. Those kind of cases (and I don't know what their numbers are) do border on exploitation. If you're going to use an athlete just to win, and not push him to get a degree, then I do think there is some exploitation that goes on.

Profile

Johnson

Family — Wife, Rosetta; two sons, Derrick and Dennis.

Education — Holds master's and bachelor's degrees from Western Kentucky University.

Coaching — asst. coach, Christian Co. (Ky.) High School, 1970-1973; head coach, Harrodsburg (Ky.) High School, 1973-1998.

IN OUR OPINION

Open your eyes

February is Black History Month. You all know that. We're supposed to be celebrating the accomplishments of blacks in all walks of life.

You know that, too. Blacks have been performing amazing feats in the world of sports for quite some time.

We know you all know about that.

Sadly, that's all many people seem to know about blacks: They're good at sports. There is simply not enough recognition for the accomplishments of all minorities in a society still dominated by people of one race.

Sure, there are barriers that are constantly being broken down. But every few years, some Exxon or Los Angeles Police Department does something to hold back the progress of race relations.

That's why we need to turn to the sports world to take our cues on how to treat racial differences. As Alvis Johnson said above, when you're playing sports on a team, you don't care what color your teammate is, all you want to do is win. The common goal of success is enough to overcome any differences of race, creed, religion or other.

Success in life is not always as easy to determine as success in sports. In life, there's no final score for each epic battle, no sure-fire way of practicing to become better. Sometimes it's hard to get people to play on your team, or to become a team player.

That's why if we all understood what athletic competition is all about, and incorporated that into our personal beliefs, we wouldn't have half the racial animosity we currently have.

There's nothing wrong with celebrating diversity. But there are serious problems when one's diversity gets in the way of accomplishing specific goals.

If we're out to win in life, then it shouldn't matter what the color of one's skin is. Unfortunately, it does for too many people.

And while there still might be stereotypes about athletes of specific races, their teammates really don't care about skin color as long as they're helping them win. Improving race relations is a game that we must win. We all must play the game. And we can't use skin color as a reason not to play together.

Learn more about it

Here are some events at UK concerning African-Americans and sports:

Feb. 24 - Video, "The Black Athlete: Winners or Losers in Academia?" 11:30 a.m., King Cultural Center.

Feb. 25 - Lecture, "Vital Signs," examining the status of black NCAA football coaches, 2 p.m., 230 Student Center.

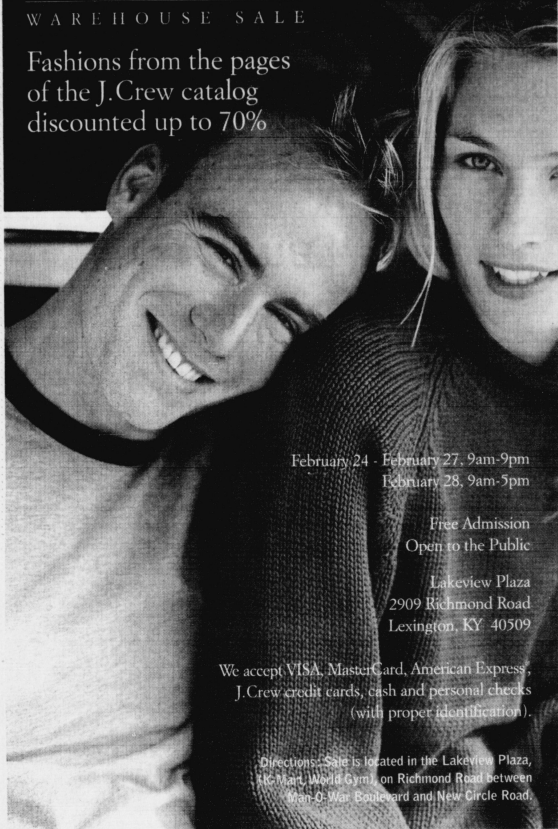

Feb. 26 - Lecture, "The End of the Golden Age of the Black Athlete," 7:30 p.m., Worsham Theatre.

For more information on any of these events, call the UK Office of African-American Studies and Research program at 257-3593.

J.CREW

WAREHOUSE SALE

Fashions from the pages of the J.Crew catalog discounted up to 70%

February 24 - February 27, 9am-9pm
February 28, 9am-5pm

Free Admission
Open to the Public

Lakeview Plaza
2909 Richmond Road
Lexington, KY 40509

We accept VISA, MasterCard, American Express,
J.Crew credit cards, cash and personal checks
(with proper identification).

Directions: Sale is located in the Lakeview Plaza,
UK East World Gym, on Richmond Road between Marion War Boulevard and New Circle Road.

FREE TAX HELP IRS VITA Program

Volunteer Income Tax Assistance
VITA provides FREE tax help in the community. Volunteers help with basic tax returns. There is NO charge for this service.

When: Tuesdays and Thursdays
beginning Mar. 2
4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Where: Student Center 1st Floor

What to bring:

- This year's tax package and / or label
- All forms: W2 & 1099
- Info for other income
- Info for all deductions/credits
- A copy of last year's tax return

IRS Volunteers

For more info call SGA 257-3191

Sponsored by Student Bar Association, UK
College of Law, SGA

Your Campus.

Your Organization.

Your choice.

MAKE IT HAPPEN!

Students may now file to appear on the ballot for the following positions:

President/Vice-President
Senators at Large
College Senators
LCC Senators

Deadline: NOON March 3, 1999
Stop by the SGA office, Rm 120 Student Center

