

The University Faculty met in the Assembly Room of Lafferty Hall Monday, November 13, at 4:00 p.m. President Donovan presided. Members absent were C. S. Crouse, E. F. Farquhar, E. N. Fergus, W. D. Funkhouser, James H. Graham, Carsie Hammonds, M. E. Ligon, H. B. Price, L. L. Quill, R. E. Shaver, Bernie Shively, R. L. Stivers, D. V. Terrell, and Leo M. Chamberlain.

The minutes of October 9 were read and approved.

Resolutions were read for the following members of the University staff who have recently died: Professor Ellery L. Hall, Professor Edward Fisk, and Mr. Gordon O. Thurman. These resolutions, read by Professors R. G. Lunde, E. W. Rannels, and Perry West respectively, are as follows:

"Ellery Lewis Hall, Assistant Professor of history, died on October 10, 1944. His death came at the end of a long illness in which he endured intense suffering. During much of this illness Professor Hall continued to meet his classes, and to give his students close personal attention.

"Professor Hall was born May 23, 1895, near Mount Olivet in Robertson County, Kentucky. He received his education in the common schools of that county and at the Robertson County High School. Before he could enter the University he was called to service in the First World War where he served from April, 1917, until May, 1918, when he was given an honorable discharge. He entered the University in the fall of 1921, and in June, 1924, he was granted the Bachelor of Arts degree. Professor Hall returned to northern Kentucky where for two years he was principal of the Orangeburg school. In 1926 he returned to the University of Kentucky as a graduate assistant in the Department of History, and in 1927 he was granted the Master of Arts degree. During the summers of 1928, 1929, and 1930, he was a student in the Graduate School of the University of Chicago. He transferred from the University of Chicago in 1931 to the University of Wisconsin in order to continue his work in British imperial history under the direction of Professor Paul Knaplund. During two summer terms and the academic year, 1934-35, Professor Hall remained in continuous residence at Wisconsin. He had completed the necessary residence work and had completed all the work that could be done in this country preparatory to the writing of his thesis. He was writing on British imperial fiscal policies in Egypt during the latter part of the nineteenth century. In 1939 he had made arrangements, even to securing a passport and passage to England, to complete his dissertation when the Second World War began and he was unable to leave the country. This misfortune came as a stunning blow to him, and until the day of his death he hoped to be able to make his trip. To him the journey to study in the British Public Records Office and the British Museum would be one to a veritable intellectual mecca.

"As a member of the Department of History Professor Hall maintained a high standard of academic interest. At one time he was research assistant in Kentucky for the Social Science Research Council in which he did work dealing with crime development. He was a member of the American Society of International Law, the Kentucky Academy of Social Sciences, the Kentucky Educational Association, and the Mississippi Valley and Southern Historical Associations. He had a great faculty for retaining bibliographical information. Much of this was acquired from his omnivorous habit of reading. He spent most of his time outside of his classroom with his books. His retentive memory enabled him not only to retain bibliographical data, but likewise an enormous amount of factual material. Both his students and the University profited from his fine scholarly mind. He was able at all times to give his students advice and instruction which steered them into the proper channels of sound historical investigation. As the chief factor in collecting materials for the Patterson Library in British History he assembled in the University of Kentucky Library an excellent basic collection of research materials on the history of the British Empire.

Professor Hall was ever a shy and modest man whose presence beyond the classroom was seldom noticed. In his classes he established a well deserved reputation for being one of the most effective teachers at the University. Unanimously his students held him in high regard. He stimulated them to expend considerable effort in preparation for his courses, and then they left the University they took with him rich intellectual memories of the shy man who had a never failing source of information on his subject and who was able to present it with clarity and simplicity in his classes. In the loss of Professor Hall both the Department of History and the University have had to give up a great asset, in so fine a teacher and scholar."

"Mr. Edward Fisk, artist, and assistant-professor in the Department of Art, a member of the University staff since 1926, died October 8, 1944, after a long illness. He had been on sick leave since the summer of 1942.

"Mr. Fisk was in his 57th year. He was a native of New York and he had his early training and experience as an artist there, studying at the National Academy, the Art Students League and with Robert Henry, a great teacher of that day. Later, in Paris, Mr. Fisk studied with Othon Reisz and Pierre Laprade and especially he studied and knew the work of the modern French masters. Following his sojourn in Paris he went to Italy and lived for a time in Siena and Florence where he absorbed the traditions of Italian painting until he knew them as completely as he knew those of France. Thus his training as an artist was both catholic and thorough, and his teaching was informed by an exceptional knowledge of painting.

"As a practicing artist Mr. Fisk's first 'one man' show was held in 1925 at the Daniel Gallery in New York. Again, in the following year, another was held at the New School for Social Research, and it was in the fall of that year, 1926, that he came to the University of Kentucky, to take charge of drawing and painting classes. He soon developed classes in print-making also, and it was his work in this field that attracted a two-year grant from the Carnegie Corporation which he used to build a collection of teaching materials in support of the work in prints and print-making hardly matched elsewhere in southern colleges.

During the school year 1933-34 Mr. Fisk studied and painted in England. He had opportunity to exhibit his work at the Tate Gallery in London and at the Graves Museum in Sheffield. In 1935 it was the University's privilege to sponsor a comprehensive exhibition of his paintings and prints at the University Art Center. Later this collection was featured at the J. B. Speed Memorial Museum in Louisville and during the summer of 1935, also, the prints were shown at the Feragil Galleries in New York.

"A sensitive artist and thorough craftsman, Mr. Fisk was an inspiration to the serious student of painting. He made it plain that in art there can be no compromises. He insisted upon professional standards with the result that the work of the abler students was accepted from time to time in professional shows. Both in the excellence of his work and the integrity of his teaching he represented the best traditions in painting. His passing is a serious loss to the cause of art in this community and the state."

"The faculty of the College of Engineering, the Board of Trustees and the Faculty of the University of Kentucky in memory of Mr. Gordon Owen Thurman, a member of the staff of the College of Engineering, who was known and beloved throughout the University and who passed from us on November 6, 1944, wish to record, with the deepest sense of sorrow and loss, their pleasant associations with and their love and respect for this their worthy associate."

"Mr. Thurman was born in Fayette County, Kentucky, June 14, 1883, and came to the University of Kentucky as assistant in the Wood Shop under the late Dean F. Paul Anderson, in February, 1904. He served thereafter as assistant in the Steam and Electrical Laboratories, 1908 to 1914; instructor in Forge and Machine Shops, 1914 to 1918; instructor in Machine Shop, 1918 to 1930; assistant superintendent of shops, and instructor in Machine Shop, 1930 to 1933; superintendent of shops, 1933 to 1937, and supervisor of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Laboratories, 1937 to the time of his death.

"Mr. Thurman was first of all a gentle man with all that these words mean and imply. His thoughts, his ideals and his expressions were all of the highest order, therefore his influence and impressions upon the young manhood with whom he came into daily contact, were far reaching, elevating and lasting.

"His personality was pleasing and his disposition was cooperative, still his resolves were firm and his judgment was sound, so that he was never swerved by expediency to leave anything undone, to do a poor job, or to fail in the performance of any of his duties.

"His loyalty to the University, to the College of Engineering, and to his work could never be questioned; the welfare and comfort of those with whom he associated came first; he was untiring in the care of the physical property under his supervision.

"During all of his long experience as a member of the staff of the College of Engineering Mr. Thurman gave most freely of his invaluable knowledge, experience and advice to all who came within his influence. His services in connection with the training of soldiers in this and the last World War were notable.

"He was an exemplary husband and a good father to his family and took a fatherly interest in the students. He led an upright, straightforward life, which was manifest in his many activities, in church work and civic affairs.

"It is, therefore, with the deepest feeling of sorrow and a profound realization of loss that we state these facts regarding the passing of our friend and associate, Gordon Owen Thurman, with the wish that these expressions be recorded in the minutes of the Board of Trustees, in the minutes of the Faculty of the University and in the minutes of the Faculty of the College of Engineering, also that a copy of this record be sent to Mrs. Gordon O. Thurman and her family.

In connection with the distribution of this list, President Donovan explained that in making up the personnel of the committees an attempt was made to have as many members of the University staff as possible serve on committees; that some changes were made each year, so that individual staff members could experience different types of committee service.

President Donovan announced that there was a vacancy on the Advisory Athletics Council, owing to the expiration of the term of Professor Terrell. He asked that in accordance with the rule, one person be nominated from each college, from which list of nominations he would make the selection. Persons nominated were A. E. Evans, N. R. Elliott, C. C. Ross, W. W. Jennings, H. H. Downing, and E. A. Budeau. From this list President Donovan subsequently appointed Dean Evans to the Council.

Recommendations from the Post-War Planning Committee were presented and after some discussion and minor amendments, Parts I and II were adopted. Consideration of Part III was postponed to the next meeting. The full text of the Committee's report will be included in the minutes following action on Part III.

Professor Kuiper announced a lecture to be delivered by Dr. Alexander Capurso on Thursday, November 16, at 8:00 p.m., in Memorial Hall, his topic to be "Social and Aesthetic Values in Music."
