Week For Pledges To Be Inaugurated

Work Day, Banquet Set By IFC, Panhell

UK's first annual Greek Week will begin Saturday with a Work Day and end March 6 with a banquet.

Greek Week, designed to cut down fraternity and sorority hazing preceding initiation, is sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council. Plans call for the program to be widely expanded in later years to include a full week of co-ordinated activities for pledges.

All fraternity and sorority pledges will meet at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow morning at the Student Union for their pledge parties.

The banquet will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Ballroom. All pledge presidents, and pledge trainers will attend, and Dean of Men A. D. Kirwan, Sarah E. Holmes, dean of women, President H. L. Donovan and faculty advisors will be present.

The Greek organizations have nominated a candidate for outstanding pledge from each of their pledge classes. The two winners will be chosen on scholarship, enthusiasm, and all around ability and will each receive a silver cup. Voting will take place in the Student Union from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The nominees include Justin Barrett, 25, Alpha Delta Pi; Joan Collins, 22, Alpha Gamma Delta; Alice Rose Bringer, 2, Alpha Xi Delta; Marilyn Marquette, 18, Chi Omega; Mary Tippy Daniels, 26, Kappa Alpha Theta; Jane Cole, 22, Kappa Delta; Elizabeth Ann Bell, 24, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Carol Conrad, 19, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Charles Yancy, 17, Alpha Gamma Rho; Ted Creedman, 2, Alpha Tau Omega; Joe Lamkin, 23, Farm House; Ray McWhorter, 15, Kappa Sigma; Charles Scott, 17, Phi Delta Theta; Al Arney, 15, Phi Kappa Tau; Bob Florence, 17, Phi Sigma Kappa.

Tom Frymire, Phi Kappa Alpha; David Allen, 2, Sigma Chi; Bob Link, 16, Sigma Nu; Phil Berbee, 12, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Phil Pendley, 24, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The organization without outstanding pledge is not in the above list either would not release the name until sometime later in the year or could not be contacted by phone Wednesday night.

Dr. Chamberlain Attends Meeting Of Educators

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice-president of the University, is attending a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, in Atlanta, Ga., today.

He will work with a committee on the application of the new graduate standards of the association. Meeting with Dr. Chamberlain on the committee will be Dr. Lewis A. Purdie, a former member of the UK Physics department now vice-president and dean of the graduate school at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. Chamberlain will also represent UK at the ninth annual national conference on higher education, March 2, in Chicago.

The group, composed of representatives from colleges and universities throughout the United States, will study problems of common interest arising in the educational program.

Suky Sponsors Try-out Party

In a combined effort to arouse interest in Suky, students in the try-out period will be invited to the try-out party which will be held in the recreation lounge of the men's dorms.

During the evening, motion pictures of the card sections at home football games were shown, after which the purposes and the aims of the club were explained by various Suky members.

Membership in Suky is based on a semester of point-raising. Last semester 22 new members were admitted into the organization.

Try-out meetings are being held at 5 p.m. each Tuesday in the Student Union.

Roundtable To Discuss West's Art

UK Roundtable, an informal radio discussion program series produced by the University Broadcasting Service, explores the idea of art in the western world in the broadcast next week.

This panel discussion marks the sixth program in a special series devoted to "Foundations of Western Civilization." The half-hour broadcast, cast as planned and moderated by Dr. Jonah W. D. Skiles, head of the Department of Ancient Languages and Literature.

UK Roundtable is aired over radio station WHAS, Louisville, each Sunday morning at 10, and over WBKY, the University station, each Monday night at 7:30.

Appearing as guest panelists with Dr. Skiles next week to discuss art in the western world will be Dr. Donald L. Weisman, head of the Department of Art, Clifford Amey, C. Raymond Barnhart, and Edward W. Rasmussen, all members of the Art Department.

The special series of broadcasts dealing with Foundations of Western Civilization was originated to review the great ideas that have set the character and direction of our culture.

In explaining the purpose of the discussion program, Dr. Skiles pointed to a study of the western foundations in order to understand and build today's civilization.

"There is a direct contrast between the character of western civilization and the character of the Communist ideology with which we are contending today," the program moderator said.

Dr. Skiles noted that the Communist ideology is primarily an Oriental cast in which kings ruled with a ruth party longer than that of the West.

Members of the Delta Delta Delta society reported the Chi Omega's to Panhellenic last Wednesday night for violating a rule which states that no rush shall remain for more than 20 minutes after the prescribed amount of time.

In the upcoming programs Dr. Skiles plans for the panel to discuss ethics, immortality, law, and other phases of past civilization that built our western world.

UK Roundtable is now in its 25th year of broadcasting over WHAS.

Rule Infraction Halts Chi Omega Initiation

By BONNIE BUTLER

Panhellenic Council cracked down on the Chi Omega sorority this week, delaying its initiation date for one calendar month as a penalty for breaking a rush rule.

Panhellenic is a policy making organization made up of all the UK sororities.

Members of the Delta Delta Delta society reported the Chi Omega's to Panhellenic last Wednesday night for violating a rule which states that no rush shall remain for more than 20 minutes after the prescribed amount of time.

Stylus Officers To Be Selected

Members for the spring staff of Stylus, UK literary magazine, will be selected at 3 p.m. today in Room 206 of the Journalism Building.

The spring edition will include short stories, plays, essays, and poems written by students and other contributors, she said.

Deadline for campus contributions is March 25. Contributors are asked to submit their manuscripts on standard size paper, either typed or in legible handwriting. No change will be made in any material without the author's approval.

Top Med Student To Receive Award

An award of $50 will be given annually to the outstanding upperclassman in the College of Arts and Sciences who has chosen medicine as a career. The award will be donated by Dr. A. J. Whitehouse of Lexington.

The purposes of the award are to give recognition to a distinguished student and to encourage a more adequate preparation for the study and practice of medicine. The award is made on the basis of scholastic achievement, personality, social service, ability, and integrity.

A plaque bearing the recipient's name will be placed near the bulletin board on the first floor of the Pankfouer building. Each year a student's name will be added to this plaque.

The procedure for determining the student is as follows: Students with junior or senior standing will be screened to select the seven or eight who have the highest grades. These students will be rated individually by the Pre-Medical Committee; these ratings will be combined to make an overall rating, and investigation will be made concerning the student's social service activities.

UK Mascot Retired; Got A Replacement?

The Kernel was highly instrumental in getting the mascot. It was not until November of 1947, however, that the drive for a wildcat mascot began.

A premature announcement at the Alabama game in 1947 stated that the 'cat had arrived, but it was not true. When Colonel finally arrived two weeks after the jump-gun announcement the Kernel ran a picture of the animal and featured space on the front page about the new mascot.

Suky was given official charge of Colonel, which in turn entrusted her care to Jack Tinscher, animal caretaker at the Pankfouer Building. Tinscher cared for the mascot during the entire six years, feeding and exercising that of the band.

Suky officers explained that Colonel was retired to the Frankfort reserve because the animal was no longer in condition to stand the strains that go with a mascot.

The "wildcat" Suky explained, no longer paid in her case during athletic events. Old age was setting in.

Never Missed A Game

The fierce little animal, as mascot, never missed a game, rain or shine, when Kentucky's teams played. The cat would screech and snarl in its special built cage at the opposing side, and the entrance of Colonel at football games was as regular and expected as that of the band.

Colonel was a gift to Suky from Glen W. Denham, a Williamsburg attorney. Denham purchased the cat from a filling station owner near Williamsburg who had the animal cared as an attraction.

Late in 1946 a move was started at UK to obtain a live wildcat as an official mascot. Bryant was the first to believe that a mascot was needed to symbolize the strength of the rising football team.

Dean Spivey Sets Examination Dates

Foreign language reading exams for graduate students, announced last week by Dean Herman E. Spivey of the Graduate School, appeared incorrectly in the Kernel. The correct schedule is as follows:

French, April 12; German, April 14, and Spanish, April 15. All examinations will be held at 2 p.m. in Room 202 of Miller Hall.

Dean Spivey urged that students planning to take the exams enter in advance of the examinations with Prof. Thomas Walker, French, or Prof. Albert Swerker to get appropriate books approved.

UK Places Second In Rifle Contest

UK placed second in the 33rd annual William Randolph Hearst ROTC Rifle Competition for 1951-52, which was recently announced by the Air Force.

The University of Louisville had the winning team with a total score of 915, as compared with UK's score of 919.

A&S, Engineering Degrees May Now Be Combined

All specified requirements of Arts and Sciences must be met and at least 20 credits must be earned in the field of concentration before the completion of his Arts and Sciences requirements, and must have earned at least 30 credits in Arts and Sciences subjects.

At least one year must be spent in the College of Engineering in a curriculum approved by the Engineer's Council for Professional Development.

Professional courses duplicating Arts and Sciences courses or duplicating courses elected in other colleges of the University by the student while registered in the College of Arts and Science will not be counted in the total.

Fraternities Get Scholarship Honor

UK fraternities ranked above all other state universities in the Dutton Series in fraternity scholarship for 1952-53, according to figures just released by the College Fraternity Scholarship Processing organization with headquarters in Lexington.

University fraternities also made the greatest improvement in 1952-53 over the previous year, a double honor believed to be an all-time state university record by the scholarship processing group.

In making the announcement, Col. Ralph W. Wilson, executive director of the scholarship organization, told the Kernel that a search through records dating back to 1929 failed to reveal another similar double record.

The great fraternity scholarship record may come as a surprise to those who have thought Kentucky is just good in basketball. The executive director commented.

The processing group praised the recent faculty adopted rule requiring fraternities to maintain an average standing of 1.3. "The faculty deserves the thanks of every loyal fraternity man," Col. Wilson said.

History Honorary To Hear Dr. Bull

Dr. Jacqueline Hill, head of the UK Archives Department, will discuss "Using the Archives For Research Projects" at the next meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday in Room 205 of the Student Union, adjacent to Monroe Hallway, present.

Youth Has Earned Its Rights; Voting Age Should Be Lowered

Should the voting age be lowered to 18? President Eisenhower has proposed such a plan and it should be followed through. Too much talk and not enough action has been given to this subject. The American youth has certainly earned its right to vote.

Due to better educational facilities and travel opportunities, the youth of today is much better equipped to act and speak his part in the play of democracy. The old cliché, old enough to fight, old enough to vote, though overdue, is still true.

Some contemporaries take the view that the fighting-voting angle should bear no weight whatever, that the two are entirely separate actions and should be considered as such. "An annual can fight voting, ideally, requires an exercise of the human intellect." We agree wholeheartedly that casting a ballot does require use of the human intellect but we also believe even more firmly that the 18-year-old of today has achieved and knows how to use that intellect in action.

The average 18-year-old today is a high school graduate employed in his first full-time job or working for Uncle Sam. The enrollment of this age group in college is larger than ever before. Those enrolled in college are actively preparing for military life through ROTC courses. Why, then, shouldn't they be allowed to vote before going abroad to serve for their country?

Constant campaigns are waged before each election urging and pleading for U. S. citizens to take full advantage of their rights. A small percentage of the older generation is active, an equally small percentage may be shaken out of its lethargy by the campaigns, but others, many others, take the old attitude, "Let the other fellow do it, my one vote doesn't count much anyway."

This is the same generation which casually dismisses the youth voting question with a wave of the hand and a glib "Vote"—those kids—too young, no experience, don't know what it's all about." Yet all accredited high schools today have current event and civic classes. Our colleges have excellent political science courses which delve into every complex nook of city, state, and national government.

Youth is an enthusiastic and courageous group. Why not put this enthusiasm to good use? Civic-mindedness is not inherited—it has to be learned. Those just out of high school have the incentive to go out and vote that they often don't have three years later. This incentive, like everything else, will stagnate if not put to use.

Age should not and cannot be the sole criterion in determining the voting age. In America literacy is important for voting, yet a percent illiterates vote, and over four times as large a percentage of Americans over 65 are illiterate as those from 18 to 21.

The hope of the future is vested in the youth of today. If they are to have such great responsibility in the future, then they should have the opportunity to start proving themselves now. The time has come for action. President Eisenhower should not let his proposal be staked away to gather dust like many other empty political promises. The voting age should be lowered. Eighteen-year-olds should be allowed to vote.

UK Students Will Decide Fate Of Annual All-Campus Sing

One of UK's traditions of more than 20 years standing faces extinction this year unless the students come out with a little active support and participation. The annual All-Campus Sing, coming up on March 24, may well be the last of its kind on the University campus.

Each year Phi Beta and Phi Mu Alpha, professional music fraternities, along with Mortar Board and ODK, senior men's and women's honoraries, sponsor the event.

The purpose of the sing is to encourage singing and promote musical interests among the fraternities and sororities on the campus. The best musical talent in the state is brought in each year to judge these contests.

Participation in this event has been dropping off until near limits have been reached. One of the first criticisms raised was that one organization on campus was winning all the time and that the others didn't have a chance.

A rule was passed that limited a participant to two consecutive wins. In spite of this rule, active student participation declined. Last year 11 of the 22 fraternities on campus entered the sing. Before the date of competition, eight of the 11 withdrew for one reason or another. The sorority participation last year was a little better than 50 per cent.

Another point of criticism arose after the sing last year. This was that the type of music performed by one organization was of such a high level of difficulty and seriousness that the nature of it exerted undue influence on the judges.

This year a rule has been passed drastically limiting the scope of the performance selections. The music has been placed on the level where the majority of possible contenders said that they would like to see it.

After the sing last year, an invitation was extended to all groups that would like to enter an All-Campus Sing to meet and discuss rules and operating conditions. The only four groups that were represented at that meeting were the four groups that had placed first and second in the 1953 sing.

All possible fairness and consideration has been given in the formation of rules and operating procedures. Those that do most of the criticizing are those who do not have enough interest to voice their opinion when they have an opportunity to do something about it.

Rules have been made that drastically limit the conditions and give a more than fair chance to all groups. Make the All-Campus Sing something for the student. Get into it and sing. Participate and make it worthwhile.

You're Another One

By JIM BARRICKMAN

A widely read state newspaper last week designated Marianne Wilson, Purdue University coed, as a member of Alpha Tau Omega and her fiancé, John Hoeker, as a Kappa Kappa Gamma active. Such an arrangement, if all concerned are happy, would be alright, we suppose, but we foresee stupendous numbers of pledges to both organizations.

That fence, barbed wire and all, continues to mar the campus between the Journalism and Engineering buildings, in spite of our suggestions that it be replaced by a nice level walk.

We'd never thought of it, but could that be what holds the Mining Engineering building up?

Note to the students of Texas A. and M.: You can sit down now. Whatever it was you were looking for, "Bear" will find for you.

All cars owned by students, according to an announcement from the Dean of Men, must be registered. That, boys and girls, is so the powers that he may know how many persons have been refused parking permits.

Our Readers Speak: McCarthy Is Big Issue

Anti-McCarthy

Dear Editor: While reading the editorial page of the Kernel this week I came across a letter written by one Mr. DeWitt O. Burke condemning Ronnie Butler for an article he had written concerning Sen. McCarthy.

Mr. Burke stated that the Senator had recently been named as one of the 10 most admired Americans by the Gallup Poll. I think it is important that we remember how accurate the Poll was in 1948 when it told the American people that Governor Dewey was going to be their next President. . . .

I feel sure that Mr. Burke will get 100 per cent on his loyalty test now that he has proved that he is 100 per cent blue and white. My opinion is that Ronnie Butler deserved the award a lot more than McCarthy.

Pro-McCarthy

Dear Editor: I wonder if the person who wrote so destructively about Senator McCarthy signed his name "R.B." because he was afraid the Senator might subpoena him.

He speaks as if the fair pink skin of our country which McCarthy believes may break out into an evil red rash. That pink color is the small amount of Red which F.D.R. obtained from old Joe Hin-

Earl Ruby Avoids Valid Argument In Letter Answering Accusation

The Gallery

By LESLIE MORRIS

It seems that poor Earl Ruby, the sports-ed of a certain Louisville daily, has been getting quite a raking over on this page in the last few weeks. Well, it was long overdue, but since the season is about over—let this be the last word:

In a cordial letter to yours truly, Mr. Ruby has attempted to answer several of our prior accusations, and put himself on record as being a charter member of the Kentucky minority who think the Wildcats should not be permitted to play in the NCAA championships next month. This he has never admitted—in so many words—in his daily column.

Now we state in our column (Feb. 12) that we realized a rule forbade grad students from participating in the post-season playoffs, but that said rule did not take into consideration the status of athletes whose universities had been barred from a year's play, and—therefore—an exception could be justifiably made. Ruby ignored this valid argument and commented only that "they didn't change the rule for North Carolina State two years ago. Or for Eastern last year." Well, if Missr. Ruby can't see the difference in the cases, we don't guess he ever will—but, after all, those two mentioned institutions played their ineligible athletes on the varsity as freshmen. And even at that, they still had three years of NCAA tournament eligibility, while Hagan apparently had only a year-and-a-half, and Ramsey and Big Lou had but two years.

Ruby, in his letter, agreed that Kentucky's Big Three "have suffered too much for the sins of other people" and "richly deserve a chance to play in this last big tournament." But, never-the-less, he says that the rules do not permit them to play, and that's that—sir. Personally, we believe he is mistaking the NCAA paper weight for the U. S. Constitution. The association, itself, doesn't show much respect for its own rule-book—they ignore it, in fact, when UK was booted out of a year's competition. And who can stand in awe of a constitution that permits so much confusion and numerous injustices? For instance—by the sacred rules which Ruby admires—Don Schlundt, the Indiana giant, is allowed not two, not three, but four years to romp in the NCAA tournaments.

Ruby made one statement we didn't catch, to wit: "Do you suggest (says he piously) that if we had not run the story (about the ineligibility of the players), that UK would have tried to get by with using these boys? I am sure the school would have been courageous and sportsmanlike enough to drop them when the time came."

Well, if a sports writer as talented and popular as Earl Ruby, representing the most influential journal in Kentucky, takes this attitude—how is Bernie Shively, or anybody else, going to win a bunch of indifferent Chicago scribes over to Kentucky's side, as was attempted last week? Mr. Ruby, for whose ability we have the utmost respect, may have many cardinal virtues, but he apparently doesn't subscribe to the old adage: Charity begins at home. . . .

It seems to be a popular past-time for sophisticates now-a-days to shake their collective heads over this raging controversy, and moan that nobody gets this excited over academics, lack of school funds, etc. We think it is regrettably true, but that is somewhat beside the point. The point is that, in this particular instance, it is not basketball, football, or squash, but unadulterated "principle" at stake, a principle of fair play, and it could be equally applied to professors' pay checks as well as to the game of roundball—we'd be all for it. . . .

Alec Guinness is supposed to be one of the foremost actors of our time, but it takes witcraft to make a palatable blend of light humor, slapstick, and grim seriousness. We stand alone, but it's our opinion that even Guinness doesn't make "The Captain's Paradise," now playing locally, more than a moderately entertaining comedy.

(Editor's note: We saw in Thursday morning's paper that Ruby had changed his politics. Come to have you on our side Earl.)

The Toolbox

Fancy Drill Work Shocks Veterans

By RONNIE BUTLER

"Joe, old buddy, as one vet to another, just what's the use of all the fancy drill those guys are doing out there on the field?"

"I'll tell you, Sam, it teaches the men discipline."

"Discipline, Joe? I must be a bit dense this morning."

"Allow me to expound, Sam, my boy. See those fancy white gloves, the gleaming helmets with the Confederate flags stenciled on them, the sparkling leggings, and the green and pink polka-dotted scarves?"

"Reckon I'd have to be blind not to see them."

"Well, according to some of the best military theory (i.e., guesswork), that training will aid these men (i.e., boys) when and if they ever see combat."

"Interesting, but I still don't understand."

"OK, take those fancy white gloves. Wearing them will teach the men that an officer (please bow East) is always neat, well dressed, and in perfect control of the situation."

"Oh, I see, Joe. For instance, in combat, the men will find that drilling with white gloves has really helped them."

"Correct, Sam. You're extremely astute this morning."

"Now—about those helmets with the Confederate flag smeared all over them."

"That, old buddy, is the direct result of some local psychology from the military (i.e., guesswork)."

"In case an officer is captured, he must seek to withhold all valuable information, even under torture."

"You see, by wearing helmets with Confederate flags on them, these FAOA (Future Army Officers of America) are training themselves to submit nothing but name, rank, serial number, and admissions of 'save your Confederate money, boys, the South will rise again.'"

"Decedently clever, what?"

"Right! There's some local psychology (i.e., guesswork) designed to confuse the enemy."

"Now, about those sparkling leggings worn by some of those. . . ."

"Ah, yes, those sparkling leggings. Another brilliant bit of local psychology. You see, wearing white leggings gives a future officer real, genuine training in leadership."

"And don't forget how practical the leggings are. Made of the finest cloth available, they stop mortar shells, shrapnel, 50-caliber bullets, and gamma rays."

"Umm hmm! And they teach the men how to snap quick, precise orders—all concerning leggings, of course."

"As for the green and pink polka-dotted scarves. . . ."

"Elementary, my boy, elementary! "Those lovely scarves are just another step in the psychological program (i.e., guesswork) to develop leadership and discipline."

"The discipline angle I get. Anyone who has the intestinal fortitude (guts) to appear in public with those things must be pretty well disciplined. That takes real courage."

"You are so right. And, as I was saying, wearing the scarves develops leadership. It teaches the men that an officer's first duty is to his appearance, although some radicals hold that it is to the men under his command."

"Well, don't worry. After all, we who have had experience know that the military welcomes new ideas with open arms (i.e., red tape and KP)."

"Joe, blast my eyes if I don't see some chaps twirling their rifles around in 45 directions, catching them in mid-air, disassembling them, reassembling them—all in one motion."

"Oh, that is clever! How I envy the young men of this nation who will someday have these men for officers."

"Think of the leadership!"

"The discipline."

"The orders!"

"Can't you hear them training the men now?"

"RIFLES . . . HUP . . . DISMANTLE . . . ASSEMBLE . . . TWIRL TO THE RIGHT, TURN TO THE LEFT, GRAB YOUR PARTNER . . . WHOOPS! (DETAIL . . . HALT!)"

"Those lucky (i.e., officers) men. All that training, and so much fun doing it."

"Joe, look, listen, do something. I can't believe it!"

"Jose, are we dreaming?"

"I hope not. Those men out there marching, they're . . . they're. . . ."

" . . . whistling 'DIXIE AS THEY MARCH!' "Sam, do you have a cigarette. I'm a bit shaky, you know."

"Don't blame you. It is a shock. But I'm sure there's a sound psychology (i.e., guesswork) behind it."

"Probably. I suppose it teaches them spirit—you know, whistling while the shells fall and all that sort. . . ."

"Joe, do you think we're being bitter?"

"Yeah, but then, things have changed. What Washington turned out at Valley Forge without all the fancy stuff probably doesn't come anywhere near modern standards of what a good soldier and officer is."

"Yeah, poor guys. Wonder how they managed to pull through?"

THE LOGIC MAJOR WHO HATED ROLLS

Recently a young mid-westerner enrolled at a university as a Logic major. His father had told him, with some understatement, that he was illogical. He refused to squint a pretty girl to a dance because her name was June. He and he was against gambling.

He wouldn't eat avocados because they were also called "alligator pants" and he didn't like alligators.

In addition, he was a sloth.

Some of the men in his dorm tried to talk to him. "Look at that shirt," they said. "The material's cheap. Why don't you hop down and get a Van Heusen Oxfordian...it's soft, fine oxford cloth."

"I'm not attending Oxford. I'm attending Old Swah," answered our boy.

"But, look, Buster. This Oxford cloth is woven tighter so it'll last longer. It's a smart investment. And it only costs $4.25."

"So who needs it? I might get hit by a truck. Then what good would it be?" quoth Buster.

"What about your collar? Flat as a pancake! Don't you want a good-looking button-down with that famous Van Heusen relaxed-roll?" one asked.

"I got nothing against pancakes. I hate rolls."

Note: Our man flunked Logic post haste, and was drafted. The Army has him classified under "Secret Weapons."

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER CASE HISTORY

"My first assignment at Bell Labs"

Fresh out of school, Bob Wilson, '53, was put to work on a Transistor project at Bell Laboratories. He explains why he never had time to be awed.

(Reading Time: 39 seconds)

Bob Wilson works on a "breadboard" circuit, studying the electrical properties of a carrier system.

"In some ways it was hard to believe. I had received my B.E.E. at the University of Delaware in June, 1953, and a week later I was working in the world-famous Bell Laboratories.

"But I didn't have time to be awed because they put me right to work. They gave me responsibility fast.

"My group was working on the experimental application of transistors to carrier systems. My assignment was the electrical design of a varactor for the compressor and for the expander to be located in the terminals.

"The supervision I received and the equipment I had were tops. I quickly discovered that I had to rely on my ingenuity as much as on the college courses I had taken. Perhaps that's one reason for the great new discoveries continually turned out by the Labs.

"Now, I'm in the Communication Development Training Program, continuing my technical education and learning what all the Laboratories sections do and how their work is integrated.

"In a year I'll be back working with the group with which I started."

Assuming responsibility fast is a common experience among the engineering, physical science, arts and social science, and business administration graduates who join the Bell System. Bob Wilson went with Bell Laboratories. There also are job opportunities with the operating telephone companies, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation.

Frosh Beat Tigers To Finish Unbeaten

Kentucky's freshman club closed out its regular season last week at Campbellville with a 168-88 victory over Campbellville Junior College. The victory for the Kittens was the sixth straight of the campaign and gave the frosh crew another undefeated season. The win also marked the third straight game in which they had hit the century mark. Coach Harry Lancaster's club had previously scored over 100 points in toppling Cumberland Junior College and whipping Ashland J. C. Center Ray Mills led the Kittens in scoring with 21 points and was closely followed by guard Earl Adkins who pitched in 20. John Brewer contributed 17 to aid in the victory. Curtis Moffett led the losers with 21 points.

I-M Volleyball Action Begins

Sixteen fraternity and five independent teams enter into the intra-mural volleyball competition, which began this week. The fraternities are divided into four divisions. In the first division are the P.D.T., S.K. Farm House, and K.S. The second is composed of D.T.D., P.S.K. A.G.R. and S.N. Division three has in it S.A.E., A.T.D., P.K.A. and P.K.T. The last group is made up of the K.A.S., Z.B.T.'s, L.X.A. and the Triangle. The five independent teams are the Convicts, the Deacons, the B.S.U., the Scott Street Barracks, and the Civil Engineers. The champion in the Independent and Fraternity divisions will be determined by a single elimination tournament. The top three teams in the Frat division will participate in this play off, while the top four teams will play it off in the Independent tournament.

Cats Crush Vandy In Coliseum Finale

Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, Lou Tsoropoulos. Kentucky fans got their last glimpse of the "Terrible Trio" Monday night, as Kentucky whipped Vanderbilt's Commodores handily, 100-64, in Memorial Coliseum.

Although the Wildcats have two road games left before the season closes, an era as well as a season has ended, so far as most Kentucky fans are concerned. Kentucky won as expected, but all in all, it was a pretty sad occasion. Hagan poured in 22 points, Tsoropoulos scored 20, and Ramsey tallied 19, in this last performance. They left the game with 6-40 left with the Wildcats on top, 85 to 31.

UK Defeats Vols, 90-63

Kentucky put on a real show for the capacity crowd of 13,000 as they spurted ahead at the outset, and were never headed. Vanderbilt fought gamely, and at the quarter mark were close at 29-16.

The Cats broke the game open in the second quarter as Hagan hit a pair of buckets and Hugh Coy and Billy Evans each scored once. In the interim, the Commodores got a couple of free throws. Kentucky kept up a hot pace the entire second period and at the end of the half led, 48-31.

Evans, Kentucky's defensive specialist, was as close to Clarence "Babe" Taylor as his numeral, as Taylor picked up three charity losses for his halftime total. The Frankfort, Ky., boy had been red-hot against the Cats in Nashville, picking up 22 points, mostly on one-handed flings of 25 feet or more.

Tsoropoulos, who was shackled with only five points in the first half, came back with a vengeance in the third period. The 6-6 forward paced a third quarter Wildcat surge with six field goals. The Commodores were left limp as Kentucky's fast breaks, mostly on one-handed flings of 25 feet or more.

Although it was no contest at this point, the fourth quarter still held plenty of excitement. The crowd, sensing a hundred plus, was roaring with each basket. Kentucky reserves took over with 6:40 remaining but scoring did not slacken. At 2:40, the score had mounted to 82-56. Dan Chandler and Clay Evans added field goals to make it 90 and a minute to go.

With 29 seconds left, Evans missed a pair of free tosses. Vanderbilt got the rebound but Pete Grigsby stole the ball and fouled Grigsby. He hit the first one and the night was complete. Kentucky hit 39 of 90 shots from the field for 43.3 per cent. Vanderbilt, off their territorial pace at Nashville, hit only 25.7 per cent, 18 for 70. Dan Finch, the Vandy center, tallied 20 points to lead his team. Taylor netched 14, 13 of them in the second half.

Hagan, Ramsey, and Tsoropoulos were introduced to the crowd between the halves and received a standing ovation. Two Vanderbilt seniors, Finch and Tom MacKenzie, were also introduced. Another well-known face made his last appearance on the Coliseum

LINVILLE PUCKETT and BILL BIBB go for the ball along with three unidentified Commodores.

UK Closes Regular Season With Auburn And Alabama

By BILL BUBLESON
The "Big Three," Tsoropoulos, Ramsey, and Hagan will close out their last season of round ball, when they lead the Cats against Auburn tomorrow night and Alabama on Monday.

The Cats will take on Auburn at Montgomery before 9,000 enthusiastic fans. This will be the largest crowd to see a basketball game in the deep south. The Plainsmen from Alabama Poly are not too well known in the country, but they possess a better than average 16-4 record. In the conference they have a 7-2 record.

The starting five for Auburn will be Pickling and Slayden at forwards, Martin will start at center, He is their second highest scorer. Kirkpatrick and Turner will be the men at the guard posts. Bill Kirkpatrick is the leading scorer on the ball club.

The game was moved to Montgomery, because of the great demand for tickets, and the gym at Auburn is not big enough for the student body.

Monday the Crimson Tide of Alabama is the target. The boys of Johnny Doe will be fighting for all they are worth to close their season with a win over the undefeated Cats.

The big gun of Alabama is a six foot-eight inch Kentucky, Jerry Harper, Jerry Mills from Flager High School in Louisville.
Alabama is currently ranked third in the conference with a 7-3 record. Their overall record stands at 16-5.
Rupp may try to pour it on the Southerners due to some remarks made by Doe, concerning Rupp being a detriment to the coaching profession.
Kentucky will play the same starting five that has been starting. Puckett and Ramsey at the guards, Tsoropoulos and Evans at forwards, and "the Cat" Hagan at center. They maybe L.S.T.

Scott, Weaver Are Track Co-Captains

Frank Scott and Don Weaver were recently elected co-captains of UK's 1954 track team. Scott, a senior from Fayetteville, Ark., started for Kemper Junior College before coming to UK. He holds the two-mile record there. Scott ran for two years on the UK cross country team. Weaver came here as a freshman from Pleasantville, New Jersey. He is a senior, and throws in the shot put. Last year, he set a new shot put record against Tennessee with a distance of 43 feet 5/8 inches. Track practice officially opens Monday, March 1, for anyone who expects to go to the Florida Relays on March 27. Coach Straton said he would like for anyone who is interested in track to report for a tryout. He is especially interested in anyone who has competed in high school track or aspires to run distance.

SIDELINE SLANTZ!

by John K. Ryans

As the current season draws to a close, we get closer and closer to the time when the NCAA must make a decision on the "Big Three". The Cats have only two games remaining on the schedule and then a possible title playoff with LSU. Barring the unexpected, UK should win all three games and find themselves in the NCAA tourney, as the SEC representative. Then it will be up to the NCAA to make their decision on Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, and Lou Tsioropoulos. It is our hope that the committee, which will rule on their eligibility, will waive the rule on graduate students and allow the players to play. Actually the three would have completed their eligibility last year, if they had not been forced to set out a year's suspension, which came through no fault of their own. However, because the University allegedly made improper payments to players in the Sugar Bowl tourney a couple of seasons ago, these players, as well as the team, were forced to set out a year.

Under Big Ten rules the players could have just dropped out of school and then re-enrolled this season and been eligible. However, SEC rules say that a player must complete his eligibility in four out of five years, including freshman play. Therefore, just because the players continued their study and graduated, they could be declared ineligible.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively explained the situation to the Chicago sports writers last week at a press conference and their response was favorable. If more sports writers knew the actual circumstances of the case, and were not blind to the facts, the players chances would be greatly enhanced. The only thing we can hope for is a fair study of the situation, and if that is given, the three will undoubtedly get to play.

Coach Adolph Rupp and the "Big Three" are beginning to get some well-deserved honors bestowed on them. It was announced this week that Coach Rupp will coach the East team in the third annual All-Star East-West game at Kansas City, March 22. The "Big Three" will play for Coach Rupp's East squad in the game, which is sponsored by the Strippers. It was also announced that Hagan, Ramsey, and Tsioropoulos will play for the East team in the New York Herald Tribune's East-West game to be played in Madison Square Garden, March 27. This game is played for the benefit of the fresh air fund. There is a chance that all three players will play in the All-Star series between the College All-Stars and the Harlem Globetrotters. Also the "Big Three" have been invited to play for the Kentucky All-Stars in a game with the Indiana All-Stars, during the Kentucky State Fair next September.

Pete Grigsby could not have picked a better time to score his first marker of the season than he did Monday night. The former Martin High star toed the line for two free throws with only seconds remaining in the game, and UK needing one point to break the century mark. Pete calmly dropped the first one through to bring UK's home season to a thrilling conclusion.

Although happy at beating Vanderbilt by such an impressive score, most UK fans left Monday night's game saddened by the realization that this was the final home game for the "Big Three". The fans showed their appreciation to the wonderful contribution of the three players by their applause at halftime, when the three were introduced. The three certainly have had plenty of hardships to face on their road to glory, but they have proved that they deserve being ranked with the greatest cagers of all time.

Coach Blanton Collier will get his first chance to see the UK gridlers work out Monday afternoon, when spring football practice begins. Coach Collier has a tough season ahead of him, but with the outstanding staff he has selected, he will have plenty of capable help. However, if anyone can come through with a great team next year, it will be him. The more a person studies the background and qualifications of Collier, the more he realizes how fortunate UK is to have him for a football coach. If there ever was a man that knows every phase of football, it is Collier. He will certainly keep UK on the winning side in the grid sport.

Indiana's Hoosiers continue to lose games and still keep a high ranking. This week it was the Iowa Hawkeyes, who handed the Hoosiers an 82 to 64 drubbing. The UP ratings, which were selected before the Indiana massacre, rated the Hoosiers in second place and UK in third position. This defeat was the third for the Indiana five this season. It appears that the Big Ten teams have found that the Hoosiers are not unbeatable.

Coach Ray Meyer of DePaul, who made all sorts of boasts about what his team was going to do to UK last week, did an about face this week in praising the play of Cliff Hagan. Probably most of his boasting last week was made in the hope of drawing a larger crowd to spacious Chicago Stadium.

Wildcats Rip DePaul, 76-61

By DON HENRY
Kentucky's Wildcats succeeded in vaulting what was possibly the biggest single obstacle to an undefeated regular season, when they handed DePaul a 76-61 defeat in Chicago. Ever since the first encounter between these two teams Kentucky fans have been saying DePaul in an under-the-breath manner. A 17-11 record for DePaul in Chicago, including a 76-61 defeat in Chicago, is a record that has not been broken since the first encounter between these two teams. UK Mermen Win Three

By QUENTIN ALLEN
"These boys are the best I've ever had," Algie Reese, UK swim coach, said in reflecting about the Wildcat's record thus far this season. Paul Bollinger and Jack McDonald, newly eligible at the start of the spring semester, have been instrumental in the current win streak that swamped the three latest opponents in the last week. The Cats outdistanced Xavier 22-22 at the Memorial Coliseum last Wednesday as they won every event. Roger Messick topped two easy wins as he took both the 50 yard race and the 100 yard event. Algie Reese saw his swimmers down Eastern College last Saturday 62-22 as his Mermen won nine out of ten events. In winning the Cats broke a pool record in erasing the old mark of 3:44.5, setting the new pool mark in the 440-yard relay at 2:43.8. Paul Bollinger, Jim Hogan, Jack McDonald, and Roger Messick were the Wildcat swimmers who broke the previous record as set by Georgia during the 1952 SEC swimming meet held here.

Grid Drills Begin Monday

The opening of the University of Kentucky spring football drills, scheduled for Monday afternoon, will feature three new assistant coaches, with the naming of ex-Wildcat Charlie Bradshaw as end coach. Bradshaw, who has been an aide at Sidney Lanier High School in Montgomery, Ala., his native city, won three football letters here, 1946-48, the first three years that Paul Bryant tutored the Cats. Coach Blanton Collier, expressed his satisfaction over Bradshaw's acceptance, saying, "Bradshaw impressed me very much with his knowledge of football and his competitive spirit.
