

CLEARING HOUSE

By THE EDITOR
How do you overcome that post-holiday drag, anyway? The mail box which once was so bulging has collapsed. Only three or four letters this time, and one of those too long to print in its entirety.

We wish to mention this. We are a member of that journalistic fraternity, Delta Sigma Chi, and journalists are supposed to be up and doing and we thought that the fraternity was really planning some worthwhile projects at the meeting before last, but nothing happened.

Morals
In the last issue of the Kernel certain would-be moralists seemed to have a certain tendency to criticize and condemn the status of morals on the campus.

Not So Bad
I choose to believe the contrary is true, for college is more than a time to absorb facts and figures. It teaches us the highly profitable art of dealing with other people.

Nazi Germany
G. M. S. sends a letter concerning what is wrong in Nazi Germany today but because of the length, only excerpts can be printed.

On Authority
The German people love monarchy. There is little room in the German mind for anything but the old system of emperors. Germany is too dependent upon foreign raw materials and food supplies and too over-populated, per square mile, to be efficiently governed by the democratic system.

What is Wrong
Both democracy and monarchy will work, and well; it is not systems that must be fought, but men, the type of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini.—G. M. S.

Here's How
Charles Peterson, famous billiard expert, appearing at the Union today brings it all up. We mean the origin of the expression "Behind the Eight Ball." It seems that a fellow named Al Flint numbered it as a result of playing Kelly pool with his friends—not so successfully.

Editor Of Sour Mash Is: Bill Costel? Don Irvine?

Tangled Set-In-Humor Mag Editorial Set-Up Refuses To Be Cleared Up

By ANDREW ECKHARDT
A tangled mass of editorial difficulties that has enveloped Sour Mash, campus humor magazine for the past several weeks refused to be cleared up yesterday despite efforts of Kernel investigators.

Don Irvine, editor of the magazine since September, said he had resigned his position on December 26. However, Al Vogel, business manager of the publication, refused to admit that Irvine had quit his job.

Although refusing to admit that Irvine had resigned, Vogel said that Irvine was "highly satisfactory" but that: "Whoever is appointed as editor will be a man who is not in the shoes. Unfortunately for Irvine, he was not indispensable to the staff."

Also resigned was John E. Preece, associate editor of Sour Mash, who said he was in full sympathy with Irvine's move. Claiming to be new editor of the magazine yesterday was Bill Costel, Kernel columnist and University radio station writer.

Not One Case In 2,000 Tests Found At UK In Syphilis Drive

Average On Kentucky Campus Is Much Lower Than Nation As A Whole

In a final tabulation of Wassermann test results last yesterday, Dr. J. S. Chambers, head of the dispensary, reported that not one case of syphilis was found among the 2,000 students tested during the campaign.

The rate of infection for the general population in the age group 15-19 years, based on estimates of the Public Health Service since the year 1926, is about 1.8 per 1,000. The apparently higher colaric system . . . I have first-hand information from army officers who have seen and studied German conditions during, after, and before the War.

Both democracy and monarchy will work, and well; it is not systems that must be fought, but men, the type of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini.—G. M. S.

MURAL BOWLING WILL BE ADDED TO SPORT MENU

Time Convenient To All Men Is Only Hitch To Proposed Sport

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR BOWLING ALLEYS

Time Proposed For League Is Wednesday Night At 8:30

Provided a time convenient to all interested participants can be decided upon, a bowling league will be added to the Intramural program.

Arrangements have been completed with the manager of the Phoenix hotel alleys for the use of their alleys for league play. There are two Lexington alleys already using the alleys on Monday and Tuesday nights.

Plans as drafted so far call for the league to run for nine weeks from February to March. Each organization would be eligible to enter a team of five men and three alternates and the entry lists will close January 19.

The Publicity Bureau is arranging to find for permanent preservation, various football programs issued for some games. However, two numbers, those of the W. M. I. game on September 3, 1936 and the Washington and Lee game on October 15, are missing.

CAT SWIMMERS SPEED PRACTICE

Trips Schedule To Include Years North And South For Pool-less Team

With its opening assignment, extended Southern tour, due early in February, the Kentucky swimming team this week entered into a rapid practice program in preparation for an ambitious schedule.

Although the pool-less Cats have been traveling with borrowed water for rehearsals twice a week since the latter part of November, the number of practice dips will be increased to three or four per week starting Tuesday. Also due Tuesday for the squad are the first time trials of the year.

Death Takes Wife Of Professor Davis

Mrs. Emily Hale Barr Davis, wife of Emeritus Prof. J. Morton Davis, died at her home, 340 Madison Place, yesterday after a brief illness.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Dr. John Henry Davis of Memphis, Tenn., and Gerald Davis of Elizabeth, N. J., and a daughter, Mrs. Dora Williams, Jr. of Tarrytown, N. Y.

All-Campus Hop To Be Held Saturday Night

Gene Bryant and his orchestra have been scheduled to play for the all-campus dance to be held from 9 to 12 Saturday night, January 7, in the Union building according to an announcement by Jimmy Wine. The dance will be informal and admission will be 40 cents slag or couple.

Chemical Scientist Will Make Address To Technical Group

Dr. Gustavus J. Eissen, chemical research authority, Boston, Mass., will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Lexington section of the American Chemical Society at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, January 7, in the lecture room of Kastle hall.

A dinner at the Student Union building will precede the meeting. Dr. Eissen will speak on "Ultra-Slow-Motion Photography as Applied to Chemical Engineering Studies."

Author of numerous papers and co-author with C. J. Black in translating the "Textbook of Colloid Chemistry," Dr. Eissen has been a member of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry since 1929. He received his A. B. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University in 1909 and 1912 respectively.

Basketball entries are due February 15 for the preliminary round scheduled for February 14 in the Gym Annex. This year play will be carried on in five leagues, fraternity A, B, C and D leagues and two independent leagues. Each organization is eligible to enter 10 men in each league with the lists to be closed final after the first game. Teams may start January 17 with play to start January 19 in the basement of Alumni gym.

GREEK FORMAL TO OPEN SEASON

Alpha Gamma Rho Dance Is Slated For January 24; 6 Affairs Billed

Alpha Gamma Rho's formal dance will open the social season on January 24 at 8:30 p. m. in the basement of the Union building. Six other dances have been approved. Dean T. T. Peterson will preside.

Four sorority, one fraternity, Scabbard and Blade, and Engineering student council dances are the only dances officially on the social calendar for the year.

The other two sorority dances include the Delta Delta Delta formal on February 19 and the Alpha Xi Delta formal on March 4.

Delta Chi has applied for a formal dance date either February 25 or March 4. Phi Kappa Tau has asked for a dance date either February 4 or 11.

Lawyers To Try Burglary Suspect

Convo Is Called For UK Women Enrolled In '37-'38

A compulsory convocation for the women who are enrolled in the University during the 1937-38 session, has been called for the afternoon of Wednesday, January 11, in Memorial Hall. It was announced by the dean of women.

Dean Sarah G. Handing will preside at the meeting. Any women students who will not be able to attend are asked to report to the dean's office before the date of the convocation.

McVEY REVIEWS EVENTS OF 1938

Tenth Annual Talk Touches International, National, And Campus Affairs

Dr. Frank L. McVey for the tenth consecutive year reviewed the 1938 developments of the University, the world, national and state on New Year's Eve over radio station WHAS.

In speaking of world affairs Dr. McVey discussed the "rumors of war and prophecies of war" which did not materialize in parts of the world. He said that Japan had taken one-fourth of the territory of China, British soldiers were trying to settle the Arab revolt in Palestine, and the Munich Pact prevented a war over the Sudeten question by dismembering Czechoslovakia.

The eighth Pan-American Conference resulted in improved relations between nations of the western hemisphere despite Germany's denial that the Conference accomplished any good. Dr. McVey observed.

In commenting on the arrangement proposed by President Roosevelt, Dr. McVey remarked that the Neutrality Act, now a part of the law, has not been satisfactory. "How it is possible for the world to make any great progress . . . But it may well shudder through and make a little headway."

The state administration has made improvements since its recent defeat in the senatorial election and seems to be entering upon a period of reform. His talk reviewing the year 1938.

Cosmopolitan Club To Hear de Arce At Dinner Meeting

Miss Laura de Arce of Uruguay will speak on "The Pan-American Conference" at a dinner meeting of the International Relations class at 6:30 Monday evening in the Union building.

The dinner will be in honor of the Cosmopolitan Club, an organization composed of students from the University and Transylvania College.

Billiard Champion To Show Crack Shots To Enthusiasts
Peterson To Offer Instruction And Demonstration Today At Union

For the first time the University will witness a former world champion billiard player put on a demonstration of his trick shots and explain how they are accomplished through the recreation room of the Student Union building today.

Mr. Peterson will be on the campus all day today, giving demonstrations and individual instruction. Under the auspices of the National Billiard Association of America he will visit over 170 colleges in the United States this year.

The purpose of these visits is to stimulate the growing interest in billiards, which already appears to be surpassing ping-pong as an indoor sport. Since the opening of the Student Union last May 14, the recreation room has been one of the most popular places on the campus with the men, but as yet the women have failed to realize that the room was planned there for their enjoyment as well as for the men. It is not a "pool hall" but a billiard room and student operated recreation center.

C. W. Hackensmith, director of this student center, will announce the University studies, will announce the program.

Susan E. Jackson, Lexington, student of Prof. J. E. Murray psychology, advertising and selling class, has been awarded three prizes at the University studies. The program then goes back to Louisville for the negative radio.

Cincinnati Madrigal Singers Will Give Sunday Musicales

Dr. John Hoffmann To Lead January 8 Concert In Memorial Hall

Dr. John A. Hoffmann, director and dean of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music, Cincinnati, will conduct the Cincinnati Madrigal Singers in the first Sunday Afternoon Musicales of the year at 4 p. m. January 8 in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Hoffmann is the originator of the Madrigal Singers' group and has guided and directed the organization since its beginning. As a connoisseur of repertory, Dr. Hoffmann is recognized as pre-eminent and his research in song literature has been extensive.

With two years of experience the repertory of the Madrigal Singers has expanded until now it includes representatives of various periods of madrigal writing from the earliest to the latest.

Miss Vivian Harvey, pianist, also of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, will be the assisting artist on the program. The concert is open to the public.

JEANNE BARKER TO ATTEND MEET

UK Student Will Represent University Women At Patriot Conference

University women will be represented at the 14th Annual Patriot Conference January 24-26 at Washington, D. C., by Jeanne Barker, Louisville, Arts and Sciences Junior, according to an announcement received from officers of the conference this week.

Miss Barker was chosen from a list of nominees from various schools to represent university women. She will make a 30 minute address on "A Girl's Review of the R.O.T.C." at the conference to be attended by 1,000 delegates from 400 colleges.

She will be introduced by Mrs. James Morris, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary. Junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, Miss Barker was last year's State of Tennessee and is president of the Alpha Gamma Delta chapter at the University.

She will be a guest at the Mayflower hotel in Washington during the conference and will have as personal escort two men representatives from southern colleges, one a C.M.T.C. cadet from the University of Tennessee and the second a representative of one of the R.O.T.C.

Lieut.-Col. Ralph C. Bishop, secretary of the Civil-Military Education Fund and Mrs. Bishop will meet Miss Barker on her arrival in Washington.

Be It Resolved That—

In 1939 THE KERNEL shall endeavor through its editorial and news columns to promote the following:

An Adequate Health Program

By continuation of the anti-syphilis campaign and cooperation with the United States Public Health Service and the American Social Hygiene Association, it should be evident that there is a definite need for the inclusion of blood tests for syphilis in the examinations of entering freshmen. To aid in bringing this about and in educating the student body, it is hoped that campus organizations will cooperate by including in their programs for the year a study of syphilis as related to their particular fields. These programs should have as their focal point, National Social Hygiene Day, February 1, 1939.

Criticism has been directed at the modern tendency to lay stress on matters of sex education and the venereal diseases. It is true that they are but parts of the general subjects of health education. But their significance lies in the fact that they have been uniformly disregarded in the past. Until they have been brought on a par with other phases of health education, little progress along the whole line can be expected.

Better Student Welfare

Primarily, this deals with the subject of housing conditions. To say that housing conditions are not all that they should be on this campus is something of an understatement. The two women's dorms at present house about 220 women. Fortunately, the number will be increased with the completion of the new Boyd hall addition. The three men's residence halls house approximately 260 students. The fraternities and sororities take care of about 642, and around 800 students are residents of Fayette county. Out of an enrollment of over 3,600, that leaves approximately 1600 students who are forced to stay out in town. Although many of the rooming houses maintain high health standards, it is known that a great many students are staying in unhealthful quarters. The scattered student body is difficult to supervise. Very little unity of spirit or purpose can be achieved.

Unfortunately, the University has practically no way of controlling these conditions until it can offer better rooms on the campus at the same prices.

As a start, perhaps 60 men could be accommodated if the present basement rooms of the men's dormitories were made into living quarters. An additional 80 could find places if rooms were constructed under the north side of the stadium on Stoll field, a method of housing which has proved satisfactory at Louisiana State and other universities. Rooms in both places could be built and rented cheaply, yet would be adequate and healthful.

Under the topic "Student Welfare" would also come any matters concerning study loads, outside work, or general health and living conditions. In all of these matters THE KERNEL will endeavor to further the best interests of the students and the University.

Better Understanding of the Union

As a whole, we thing of the Union merely as a place of recreation, but the original plans also included the idea of promoting a friendlier and more civic-minded attitude among the students. The chief purpose is to bring about a more unified student body—one that is not segregated into various cliques with conflicting purposes. It is the aim of THE KERNEL to encourage these high ideals of the Union in 1939.

It is also important for every Union member to know and understand the financial affairs of the building—where the money of the organization goes and for what purposes. And in connection with this phase, it is necessary that we know and understand the management of the Union. THE KERNEL will try to present these facts in a clearer form than heretofore.

A Better University—

By expressing student thought and unifying ideals and objectives.

By creating a wholesome school spirit and supporting the best traditions of the University.

By promoting and encouraging worthy activities.

By encouraging the ideals of true sportsmanship.

By providing an organ in which may be given general and specific forms of information pertaining to the University and its needs.

By encouraging moves to beautify the campus and discouraging vandalism and thoughtlessness.

By promoting cooperation between taxpayers, parents, the University, and its students.

To Interpret and Inform

By bringing to the students in concise, readable form, the latest developments and advancements in education, science, and contemporary thought.

And by interpreting the significance of national and international events in the light of college conditions.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

The editor says that we must write something to appease Delta Delta Delta, a sorority. It seems that when the editor went home Christmas he met numerous Tri-Deltas, they are called Tri-Dels we believe, who were sorely irked and vexed by an item we carried the other column concerning the clan.

Now for the members of Delta Delta Delta everywhere we wish to state that the editor was in no way responsible for our recent item. He gives us a great deal of leeway in this column; what we write is our personal opinion and is to be taken in no way to be representative of the opinion of the editor or THE KERNEL.

Not only that, the editor thinks that members of Delta Delta Delta, a sorority, are wonderful—told us so himself.

Personally, we have no desire to quarrel with Delta Delta Delta, a sorority. We really feel that we have done them no harm. Undoubtedly Delta Delta Delta, a sorority, will be able to stagger along despite our recent item. Their renown on the UK campus has been done no irreparable harm.

Delta Delta Delta, a sorority, is an ancient and honorable institution, and we have for it only the respect that is due venerable institutions such as Daughters of the American Revolution or the Order of the Garter.

"Peace, its wonderful!"

 —Headline in Cincinnati News-Record.

While rummaging through some old copies of The Emory Phoenix, a magazine published at Emory university, Mr. Al Wathen came across a poem which he passed on to us.

Written by one William Rawlings and entitled "The Professor Speaks," the poem is as follows:

My voice drones on. Dull eyes upon my notes.
 I hear the tired class twisting in their seats.
 I need but raise my eyes to see them stare
 With gleams in hungry blurs of weary flesh
 To where a mottled road winds into shades.

My voice drones on. The yearning eyes turn back.
 Bitter with silenced curses and contempt,
 They look at me. I, stolid, nerveless grim,
 Drag forth the lifeless lecture endlessly,
 I know they hate me and my musty terms.

My voice drones on. A soft breeze stirs my hair.
 Desires awake within my shrivelled frame
 To hurl my mildewed notes afar and chase the breeze—
 But foots pay folks to talk of tiresome things,
 And I must live; and so, my voice drones on.

The Man From Mars

CAMPUSCENE

- Joe College
- Goes Home
- For Christmas
- By JIM CALDWELL

REGARDLESS of how sophisticated the college student may outwardly seem to appear, the two weeks known as the Christmas Holidays never fail to bring out the little boy traits found in even the most bored-looking of the lot. This fact was very much in evidence during the long, dreary week just preceding the "go" signal. The fruit-donkey, egg-noggy days at home further proved the return to childish joys. And when the kids come back and start asking each other if Santa Claus had been good to them, the observer begins to wonder if he hasn't accidentally wandered into the Fifth Grade at University High. By now the vacation belongs just as much to history as, say, Little Joe Wenton; simply because it is over. But a backward glance at the holiday proceedings reveals one fact: all were so nearly alike as to appear almost standardized. So here is an attempt to guess how Little Joe bided his Yuletide.

Let Me Out Of Here

The week before the jubilee was one of torture for the poor soul. Time dragged on and the various jam-sessions and classes got duller and duller. The obliging proctor tried to break the monotony by a succession of difficult and irritating quizzes. But they didn't work. Little Joe one bit. He spent hours and hours every night studying—about what to buy his heart-throb. In the day-time he would go to class and think some more and chew his pencil and hand in dreams and reams of blank quills. They came back marked with zeros, but they only looked to him like little pieces of paper. He didn't care any more.

Home Sweet (?) Home

The day came and he wished 3000 people a Merry Christmas, climbed on a train and went home. There he was received by the several members of his family with varying degrees of affection. Having performed this duty, he rushed down town to the old high school hang-out to see how many of his old high school chums had hit town yet. He finds the whole gang, shakes hands all around and sits down to compare notes. It doesn't take him long to find out that college has changed everybody and his close friends are no longer close. Going to different schools has given them all different outlooks on life. They have nothing in common. They don't know the same places, the same people, and they haven't been doing the same things. Consequently they can't talk with a mutual understanding, so Joe soon gets bored. He begins to notice how late that afternoon when Hitler buried words through the air of defiance and threats but did not declare war.

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy continue into 1939 their popularity led of sixteen months followed closely by Pannie Brice and Baby Snooks. Laurels for the outstanding commentary of 1938 go to Hans V. Kaltenborn of CBS, for his long hours in front of the microphone during the European crisis, keeping the American public in constant touch with European events, and for his quick, accurate interpretation of happenings which distinguished his ad lib work.

President Roosevelt has added two "fireside chats" to his record. On April 14 he chatted coast to coast from the White House, and on June 24 he returned to the White House for a chat assailing the defeatist attitude of Congress. Altogether he was on the air 32 times in 1938, 137 times since his inaugural in 1933.

Foreign 'Ism's' Felt Mainly In Eastern Portion Of U.S.

Student Opinion Surveys Show South And West Central Colleges Suffer Less From Propaganda

By JOE BELDEN

Student Opinion Surveys of America, Austin, Texas, Jan. 6.—Communist, socialist, and fascist propaganda among college students is being felt mainly in the East Central and Middle Atlantic states. This is shown by a nation-wide poll taken by the Student Opinion Surveys of America just as the Dies committee ended its investigation of un-American activities and is making preparations for another.

The committee questioned professors of a New York college and other witnesses when it directed its search for propaganda to the college and university ranks of the nation. When those people have been and heard went into the record—but what about the views of the students themselves who are now supposedly being besieged with a multitude of "isms"? The Student Opinion Surveys of America for the first time point out what the colleges have to say in all sections of the country. Although when the results are taken nationally one student in every ten says there has been some attempt to influence him, the poll reveals that student bodies in the West and South are being sorely approached with such propaganda.

A staff of interviewers have asked this question in a carefully selected cross-section of students of all descriptions: "Has any attempt been made to influence you to influence you with communism, socialism, or fascism?" By geographical sections, they have answered.

Yes	No
New England ... 8.2% 91.8%
Middle Atlantic ... 12.5% 87.5%
East Central ... 12.2% 87.8%
West Central ... 4.2% 95.8%
South ... 5.2% 94.8%
Far Western ... 5.8% 94.2%

In the West Central, Southern, and Far Western areas, the poll indicates that the influence of "isms" is almost negligible. But when all the results are pooled for the entire country, the sections with much higher percentages raise the total figure of "yes" answers to 10.5 percent.

And how are these students being affected? They name personal contacts with other students as the most frequent way, and in addition name class discussions, invitations to meetings, printed material, and professors who, as a University of Minnesota freshman put it, "are so busy with their own work that they tend toward Communism."

This poll, like all others conducted by the Student Opinion Surveys, is usually a carefully selected student thought. Perhaps students are unaware of propaganda. Perhaps they are not interested in the "isms" differ. But their answers represent what American college youth responds to the question, and should not be construed to mean that one-tenth of the students have actually been influenced. The survey points out only that one-tenth has felt attempts of propaganda.

Prof Says Term Papers Need Revision

"The main problem encountered by students in writing a term paper is the selection of a suitable topic," Dr. C. C. Ross, professor of educational psychology, said recently in discussing term reports at the second session of the YM-YW "Study to Study" series at the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Ross recently conducted the second session of the YM-YW "Study to Study" series at the University of Kentucky. He stressed the importance of a term paper as a subject.

"Part of the student's success depends upon his use of the library. He should know how to use the various card catalogues and periodicals indexes and should read current books on the topic," Dr. Ross continued.

In beginning the manuscript, he said that a student should first of all prepare an outline that is wide enough to allow for future additions.

"The body evolving from the outline should be well developed, with a sprinkling of citations to show the professor that the writer is well read on the subject. It is surprising that the percentage of students having difficulty in preparing a bibliography with complete references," Dr. Ross stated.

Bringing out that the major fault of students in preparing term papers is that they allow very little time for actual preparation, he said, "Write it out, let it grow cold for a week or two, and then go back to it, refreshed with new ideas. No person on the campus, a student member of the faculty, can sit down and prepare a paper on the subject."

Seeking to elaborate on the point of revision, Dr. Ross quoted Joseph Conrad on the preparation of manuscripts. "Conrad dictated the story to his stenographer, who triple-spaced all copy, then he would revise it."

University in 1934 to major in music. While a student he became head announcer and music director of the UK radio station. The University inaugurates a new type of program this afternoon from 1:30 to 1:50 over WHAS when two debating teams representing the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville, speaking respectively from their studios in Louisville and Lexington, will discuss the pros and cons of leading questions of the day. The teams will debate this afternoon. "Should the fearful, real, or dramatic be ruled from broadcasting?"

"I'm always behind the eight ball." At least that's how Marvin McCarthy, sports editor of the Chicago Daily Times, explains it.

Name It Brewer

Why not name the new addition to the armory "Brewer hall" in honor of a man who was principally responsible for the work and who gave 6 years of fine service to the University?

L. Col. B. E. Brewer, because of his work at the University, was granted two extra one-year extensions. During his six years here, in addition to his success with the military department as a whole, he was instrumental in securing new uniforms for the band; under his leadership Freshing Rifles won five consecutive drill meets; during the flood he was a driving force in keeping order and supplying provisions for refugees; the athletic council, committees for commencement, social affairs, the McVey plant, and student organizations all received his help; and he worked untiringly on plans for the extension of the armory.

It seems like a good idea to us. So to Press. In response to many requests, the scandal column will reappear on Tuesday. Anyone interested in trying this type of work—and it is work—please see the editor immediately. See the editorial program for 1939, and so to press at 10:30 o'clock.

CLEARING HOUSE

 In the game, then, shooting in rotation, each player seeks to hole out his own Kelly ball before anybody else does. Winner is the one who succeeds. Usually more than eight played in FIN's game, so anyone getting a pill with a number higher than eight had very little chance. Fin consistently got a higher number, so one day he threw down his pill in disgust and exclaimed: "I never have any luck!"

Tumultuous Applause Greet Heifetz's Magnificent Recital

Second Community Concert Includes Selections From Brahms And Mozart
By DON IRVINE
Delighting packed house with the magic of his inspired playing, Jascha Heifetz, world's greatest living violinist, presented a magnificent concert Wednesday night in the Henry Clay high school auditorium. It was the second of the Community Concert series.

Following the Brahms Sonata, Mr. Heifetz played Mozart's Concerto in D Major. After a piano introduction, the violin entered on a series of gay high notes, then merged into a swift stratosphere. The second movement, an adagio, was played with an extreme delicacy of feeling. Heifetz extracted the slowest and more sensitive figures with lovely deep tones. The concerto ended with a sparkling rondo on the violin and piano, rendered with agility. The entire piece was a forceful demonstration of the artist's superb skill and feeling.

Health programs in our institutions of higher learning which frankly and openly recognize syphilis as a communicable disease problem cannot help but have a salutary effect upon public opinion. Widespread knowledge that college students are being systematically tested for syphilis as a routine part of their health examinations, and that both faculty and students consider it just as any other communicable disease will present a practical example of what should be done in addition to delivering more blows at a prejudicial state of mind.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

WHO are the originators of those annual malevolent cruades over the way post season "bowl" games are underrmining and leading to ruin college football?

Some one should slip a halter on those guys before they get out of control.

Every year, with no exceptions, the selection of opposing teams for the Bowl games is the signal for sport writers of all sections to swing into a lamentation over the menace of the after-hours classes to collegiate football's foundation.

Such pessimistic forecasts are as much out of place as a Marine at a Navy reunion.

So long as the five major Bowl games are able to magnetize better than 22,000 customers through the turnstiles, as did last Monday's presentations, I venture to predict that the football heavens are not too greatly clouded.

In all the Bowl games, the year's bowls were dispensed before regular season play had begun.

There is, however, one cloud in the sky as far as post season games are concerned—the method of selecting teams to participate in contests.

Several years ago the Rose Bowl winner was accepted as the mythical national champion because the opposing teams were selected from among the nation's undefeated eleven.

This season, Southern California a twice beaten team was named Western defender of the Pasadena Rose-garden.

The committee in charge of selection did their choice by saying the Trojans finished the season fast and that their defeats were suffered while the team was developing.

One disputes that the Rose Bowl is to football what the Kentucky Derby is to racing and for that reason so long as so much national prominence is attached to the game, only undefeated teams should participate.

Duke, the Eastern nominee, was of course a logical pick since they carried not only an undefeated, untied record but also an unsearched goal—line. Still much criticism was loosed by the selection of the Blue Devils and the general opinion of West Coast critics was that the Southerners were named, not because U. S. C. regarded them as the best eleven East of the Mississippi river, but because they rated them as an offensively team not capable of generating many points.

Still the game jelled into one of the most thrilling in the history of the sport. A fourth string quarterback rose from the most remote end of the bench to enter the game and write a Frank Merriwell finish to the fray by flipping four passes in the closing 50 seconds to give U. S. C. a 7-3 win. Fans who use game like that whether or not national titles are at stake.

No Relief In Sight

As yet no logical method for selecting teams for the big game has been advanced. The idea of a national tournament involving all teams undefeated at the conclusion of their regular seasons with two survivors meeting New Year's Day for the national title was killed almost before it was thought of because it is not practical.

Meanwhile, as the wise guys are racking their brains for some means of improving this evil, I wouldn't be surprised to see the bowl games survive to attract—25,000 fans will see to that.

In last year's state turnery five existing state records were revamped by the amphibious Cats. The 900 yard medley relay team, which has never been defeated since the team came into existence, reduced the time of that event to 3:37.4.

Ramsey, winner of the Bob Preberg plague presented each year to the team's high point man, was the 100-yard freestyle in the record time of 0:57. Hildestein won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:57.4, bettering his own record. The 400-yard breast relay team established a new clocking of 4:08.6 and Bud Scott for the third time in the year shattered his 150-yard backstroke mark, setting the new time at 1:58.3.

COOPER SPEAKS AT AG ASSEMBLY

Dean Thomas Poe Cooper of the College of Agriculture was the principal speaker at a general assembly of the Livestock Judging Association.

In speaking on "Business Looks At Agriculture" Dean Cooper pointed out that the trend in business and industry circles is to demand higher scholastic standings of the college graduates whom they hire.

The attitude of modern business management is that if a man or woman can conduct his business of studying satisfactorily, he will make a better employee, he said.

Summarizing the recently completed survey of the educational background of 7,500 education workers, Dean Cooper said that the study showed that the most valuable courses in agriculture were those in technical agriculture and home economics with economic sociology and biology ranking next.

He emphasized new and improved methods in agriculture technique and discussed the place which home economics has gained in the modern rural world.

Group singing for the convocation was led by Margaret Gulley, Betty McGregor and Robert Miles accompanied on the piano by Gaynell Motley gave a vocal duet.

Cats Shellshocked As LIU Opens Long Range Guns To Swamp Victory Cruise

Madison Square Garden Tilt Proves Disappointment To Wildcat Supporters In State

By JOE CREASON

In the opening tilt of a two stop Eastern trip, the Kentucky Wildcats, with three men on the battered list, dropped a 52-34 decision to the Long Island University Blackbirds Wednesday night in New York's Madison Square Garden before 13,000 basketball fans.

The loss snapped the Cats' win streak that had carried them to four straight victories in as many starts. At no time during the game did Kentucky resemble the powerhouse that was Washington and Lee to please the basketball fans.

Three members of the Kentucky squad, Homer Thompson, Keith Parsley and Lee Huber, entered the game badly battered. Thompson was suffering and Lee Huber had kept him out of practice most of last week while Parsley, regular right forward, was kept on the sidelines most of the game with shin splints. Huber has been handicapped for several days with an injured ankle.

LIU Starts All Seniors

Starting an all-senior contention, Long Island jumped into an early lead that was never threatened.

LIU did not bother to work the ball under the basket for crisp shots, their offense was much less smooth than that of the Cats.

During the first half, which ended with Kentucky on bottom by 10-5, the Cats rang up but five field goals to Long Island's 12. Kaplowitz opened the scoring for the Yankees when he cuffed in on Goodman's foul. Newman then sealed the net with a long shot and Kaplowitz matched his effort from the corner to jack the Blackbirds margin to 9-0 before Curtis broke the ice for the Blues with a foul charge.

In the closing minute of the first half, the Cat attack was temporarily routed and clocked for 7 fast points on two follow-ups by Clugfish, a crisp by Rouse and a foul by Curtis while holding Long Island pointmen.

Second Half Two

The closing half nightmarish with Kentucky passing and shooting wildly from a frontier range. With five minutes to play and trailing by 48-28 the Kentucky offense again received a shot in the arm as Huber, in for Rouse, drove in for two quick chips. Thompson clicked on a rebound and Curtis found the range from the corner. Meanwhile, the Long Island scoring boom had been clocked by Hillhouse and Lobello with deadly long shots.

The Cats will make their final stand on the Eastern swing tonight in Philadelphia's Convention Hall against the powerful St. Joseph College team. Although the Quakers strength is unknown they are reported to have a strong team.

The box score: Kentucky—Parsley (11), Huber (4), Clugfish (8), DeShazo (12), Lobello (8), Brown (12), Sevelin (2), Zettin (2), Schmitt (2), Curtis (1), Goodman (1), Thompson (2), Opper (6), (6) Jones.

Long Island (22) Goodman (1), Curtis (9), Kaplowitz (10), Thompson (2), Opper (6), (6) Hillhouse, Opper (6), (6) Schmitt, Opper (6), (6) Jones.

LIU (22) Goodman (1), Curtis (9), Kaplowitz (10), Thompson (2), Opper (6), (6) Hillhouse, Opper (6), (6) Schmitt, Opper (6), (6) Jones.

Shively And Kirwan Attend Coaches Meet

UK Sport Bosses See Grid Pictures At National Convention

Two Kentucky representatives—athletic director Bernie Shively and head grid coach Ab Kirwan—returned to Lexington Saturday from Chicago where they attended the national football coaches association meeting.

Coaches from practically all the major schools throughout the nation were in attendance at the four-day meeting. Rule changes, trends in the game, and technical problems were discussed and reports from various committees were received and acted upon.

Motion pictures of big games of last season were shown at all sessions of the convention and at the coaches' discussions of technical problems. For the second successive year, the coaches' convention was held at the Lincoln School of Reform.

A total of $29.75 was collected. Of this amount $14.35 came from the finals of the boxing and wrestling matches and $15.40 from the final convention. This money combined with the regular contribution of the Pitkin Club made this Christmas party possible for the Lincoln school children.

The YM also gave a Christmas program and party for 140 boys at the Grenada School of Reform.

Remodeled Paterson residence will be the new home of the University Faculty Club after a formal opening with a tea and reception on Friday afternoon, January 12. Professor William A. Tolman, president of the club, announced.

A reading room, lounge room, dining room, card room, and recreation room equipped with billiard and pingpong tables designed to meet the requirements of the club have been decorated with a color scheme conceived by Professor Edward W. Bannister of the art department.

The building, a historic dwelling of a University president, is furnished by furniture moved from the old Faculty club quarters on the top floor of McVey hall.

Professor Henry B. Moore, chairman of the house committee, will have charge of the tea and reception. Professor Tolman said.
