RECIPROCAL FACULTY BORROWING PROGRAM

Because UK is a member of the Online Computer Library Center and the Association of Research Libraries, UK faculty are entitled to participate in the Reciprocal Faculty Borrowing Program. This program allows faculty members privileges from libraries who are also members of OCLC and ARL. Materials may be used on the premises of the owning library or borrowed, depending on the policies of the owning institution. The program applies to main and branch libraries of the main campus of the participating institutions.

Before utilizing this privilege, however, faculty must have a RFBP card which can be obtained from Paul Willis or, in his absence, from Judy Brown, Head of Circulation. Most institutions will also require a photo ID. (Submitted by Judy Brown.)

NEW HOURS IN LAW

Friday night hours in the Law Library have been changed. The Law Library will now be open on Friday from 7:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m. The library previously closed at midnight on Friday.

APPALACHIAN ARTISTS EXHIBIT

An exhibit entitled "Images From The Mountains: A Traveling Exhibit of Appalachian Artists" is currently on view in the Central Bank Gallery. The exhibit is a project of the University's Appalachian Center. The exhibit will be showing until September 23 in the gallery, which is in the second and third floor corridors of Kincaid Towers, 300 West Vine Street. Gallery hours are 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. Monday-Friday.

DISAPPEARING RECORDS

Mini records and MLC records have been slowly disappearing from the LS2000 database over the past two weeks. This is not a bug in the system, but rather a concerted effort by the Cataloging Department to delete these records before September 12, when the "snapshot" of the database was taken in preparation for the reindexing project.

During the reindexing project, no bibliographic records can be changed or deleted from the database. Thus, if a full cataloging record for an MLC or mini item was found in the OCLC database, it could not be downloaded in the system, since the MLC or mini is already attached to the item record.

To solve this problem, the Cataloging Department decided to delete the MLC and mini records prior to the snapshot and then add full cataloging records (the one bib function that is still possible during reindexing) for the items. Due to the number of MLCs and minis in the system and the desire to get full records back into LS2000 as fast as possible, the Cataloging Department targeted certain groups of records for deletion. The collections chosen were all in King, thus insuring the Cataloging Department easy access to the books, and were high on the priority list to receive full cataloging. These included 122 King theses, approximately 1200 circulation minis created by King Circulation, and approximately 300 titles in the King MLC collection.

These books will be worked into the Cataloging Department's regular workflow. The Original and Online Cataloging Units will handle the theses and MLCs, while Cataloging Support will continue to work with the minis. Our goal is to have full cataloging records in LS2000 for all these items by January 1989. (Submitted by Kate Seago and Maggie Douth.)

KENT STATE RECRUITMENT DAY

Kent State University 's School of Library Science will hold a recruitment day on October 14, 1988, to bring together employers of librarians and prospective employees. To be held in the Kent State Student Center, the event will provide an opportunity for employers to meet students, recent and experienced alumni, and friends of the School who are seeking professional positions.

Further information is available from Julie Gedeon, School of Library Science, Kent State University, Kent, OH 44242. Telephone (216) 672-2782.

KENTUCKY ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

The Kentucky Academy of Science has recently added a new section for Library and Information Science and is eagerly recruiting new members.

The section will present its first program on Friday, November 4, 1988, at the Academy's annual meeting in Richmond, KY. The program is entitled "Advances in Information Technology: and will discuss information formats presented via cable, electronically and in print. The program will last approximately a hour and a half and will be followed by the section's organizational meeting.

The Academy currently has nearly 650 members. It publishes the Proceedings of the Kentucky Academy of Science and the KAS newsletter, supports the Kentucky Junior Academy of Science and sponsors an annual meeting at which papers are read.

Membership is $15 a year. Membership forms are available from KAS, P. O. Box 22313, Lexington, KY 40522, or there is a copy in the GB office which can be photocopied. You may also get in touch with either Toni Powell or Lillian Mesner in the Agriculture Library.
