Talk About Tough

Watch those cleats dig in! No matter who wins the game, the grass gets a terrific beating.

It takes good turf like that of Kentucky's field to survive such treatment. Just any old grass seed won't produce good playing turf. A scientific blend of choice varieties—all first string material cleaned and re-cleaned to remove weeds and chaff—produced the University of Kentucky's fine field.

The big games in the country today are being played on Turf by Scott's.

FRANK L. McVEY, PRESIDENT
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

A HEARTY WELCOME 'GATORS

It is indeed a pleasure for us to welcome to the Blue Grass region the scrappy Alligators from way down in the land of eternal sunshine. It has been a long time—too long in fact—since our Wildcats met you on the gridiron, and we are happy that football relationship between the Universities of Kentucky and Florida have been resumed.

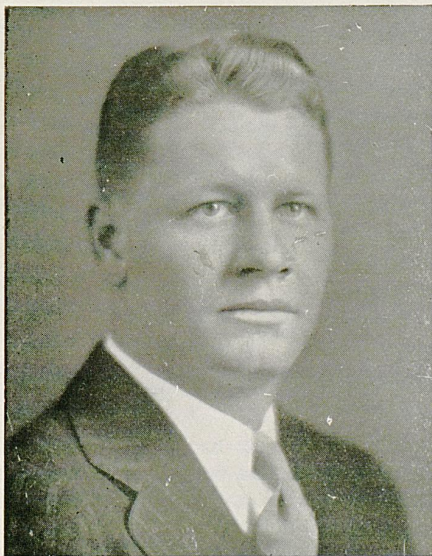

We wish you a pleasant visit to our city but it is only natural that we hope to give you a licking. You know, Alligators, that we owe you some punishment for what your basketball team did to our ambitious basketees two years ago at Atlanta. You might not know it, but the Wildcat basketball team was all set for another Southeastern Conference championship when your pesky giant killers eliminated us from the tournament.

We know that you have a fine football team this year. To be sure, you have lost some games this season; but so have we. A few weeks ago, we believe that you would be easy for the Wildcats. But that was before last Saturday when you held the powerful Georgia Bulldogs to a one-touchdown victory which, with a few good breaks, you might have won.

Now Alabama defeated Georgia and Kentucky by practically the same margin and that might mean that Kentucky is just about as good as Georgia. If that is so, then the Wildcats, if they are able to beat you at all, will have the devil's own time doing it.

We welcome you as athletes and as gentlemen of the deep South, and especially do we welcome our old friend, your president, Dr. John J. Tigert. We feel that he belongs to us almost as much as he does to you, for he taught here for many years. We recall the time when he was head of our Department of Philosophy and Psychology, and we remember that he once coached our football team.

This is our home-coming game. Scattered throughout this stadium are hundreds of graduates and former students of old Kentucky back to their alma mater for a whale of a good time, and you are helping them celebrate. All that would be necessary for these old timers is a Kentucky victory over you. We wish you good luck and may the best team win,

EDGAR CHARLES JONES
Athletic Director University of Florida

DR. W. D. FUNKHOUSER
Chairman Athletic Council

CHET WYNNE, WE SALUTE YOU!

The University of Kentucky is indeed fortunate in having as its head football coach and athletic director the Hon. Chester Allen Wynne, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, and—Doctor of Football—once a great fullback on the gridiron; now recognized as an outstanding football mentor; once a star law student at Notre Dame University, now a barrister at law and former member of the Nebraska State Legislature.

Born in Kansas, Chet Wynne attended the graded and high schools of that state, then enrolled at Notre Dame, where he soon attracted the attention of Knute Rockne, great coach of the Irish, and before long was a regular member of the football team in the halcyon era at South Bend.

Although rather slight of stature, Wynne became a star fullback on the Notre Dame teams of his undergraduate years, playing in the same backfield with such other great players as the immortal George Gipp, and Frank Thomas, who coached Alabama to a Rose Bowl championship last fall.

"The Chetter," as he was called at Notre Dame, would have gone down in the annals of his alma mater as a great athlete even if he had never touched a football, for he was just as outstanding on the track as he was on the gridiron. Wynne was the greatest high hurdler ever to wear a Notre Dame track suit. He established a new world's record for the 60-yard indoor high hurdles, and the track record which he established in the 120-yard high hurdles at Notre Dame never has been equaled.

After four years at Notre Dame, and with sheepskin in hand, Mr. Wynne set out to face the world. Although an attorney, Chet turned to athletics for a career, and after coaching successfully at a small Kansas college, he was called to Creighton, where he guided the Blue Jays to a Missouri Valley Conference championship.

While living at Omaha, Nebraska, Mr. Wynne was elected to the State Legislature, serving out his term before heeding the call of Alabama Tech (Auburn), to take command of athletics down there. Auburn's football teams hadn't won a conference game in years when Chet went to that institution. An Auburn touchdown was something most unusual.

Taking a green and downtrodden squad of players, Mr. Wynne worked wonders at Auburn. It was not long before Auburn began to loom up in Southern football circles. Old enemies who had used Auburn's team as a door mat began to sit up and take notice. In his second year, Coach Wynne's Auburn team knocked the daylights out of both the University of Georgia and Tulane, both of which had been humiliating Auburn for years. Then, in his third season, he coached Auburn to a Southern Conference Football championship. His team was undefeated that season.

Two years ago, the University of Kentucky, seeking a new deal in athletics, prevailed on Coach Wynne to come to Lexington and assume command of a deplorable situation. Kentucky was slipping backward each year. Wynne stepped into the breach and things immediately began to look up. Although his team could do no better than break even last year, his first at Kentucky, in a ten-game schedule, no team was able to humiliate the Wildcats.

With most of his 1934 team returning, plus a good crop of graduates from last year's freshman team, Coach Wynne now has some fairly good material with which to work. The outlook is encouraging at Kentucky now and Kentuckians see in Coach Wynne a Moses who will lead the Wildcats to the promised land.

Mr. Wynne is married and is the father of two children, Chester Allen Wynne, Jr., and Miss Willow Wynne, who was born last August.

THEY HEAD THE WILDCATS

When Chet Wynne, Kentucky's head football coach and athletic director, took over the reins here just prior to the 1934 season, his first job was to assemble a staff to assist him in bringing Kentucky football up to the level where it belongs. This group was to be the board of strategy and to function as an army's general staff with Mr. Wynne as the chief.

From Auburn, where he coached with great success before coming to Kentucky, the Chetter brought Porter Grant, a great end on Auburn's team for three years, to teach the Kentucky ends what they should know. That his teachings have brought results was shown last Saturday when Ohio State's backs were set back time and again when they tried to circle the Wildcat flanks.

Seeking the best in line coaches, Coach Wynne signed up a big Irishman, Ted Twomey, native of Minnesota, former Notre Dame All-American tackle, who was coaching the line at the University of Georgia while Wynne was at Auburn. Coach Twomey's line can be expected to give a good account of itself against any foe. We again refer you to the Ohio State game when Kentucky's forward wall, vastly outweighed, outplayed the Scarlet wall.

Then there was a brilliant little quarterback who had helped bring fame to the University of Alabama. He is Frank Moseley. Mr. Wynne brought Frank along to assist with the freshman and varsity backs. Bob Davis, Wildcat sophomore halfback, and Elmore Simpson, sophomore fullback, came in for Moseley's attention last year. Look at them now—accomplished players.

Birkett Lee Pribble, head freshman coach, and Bernie Shiveley, freshman line coach, already were here when Mr. Wynne arrived. He saw fit to retain them and they have proven that Coach Wynne's judgment was sound. Pribble is a former Wildcat captain, while Shive was an All-American guard at Illinois before coming to Kentucky as assistant varsity coach in 1927.

IT'S ALWAYS FAIR WEATHER

Come rain, come sleet, come snow or come golden sunshine, it's always fair weather when the Kentucky Wildcats and the Tennessee Volunteers get together.

And the Wildcats and volunteers will get together again right here on old Stoll Field on Thanksgiving afternoon in one of the most colorful games of the country, continuing a rivalry that began with the dawn of the century.

It has been a mighty long time since the Wildcats defeated the Vols in football, although on three occasions in recent years the Kentuckians, playing magnificent football, knocked the Volunteers right out of the National championship picture. The Kentuckians, even then, were unable to whip the Vols but they refused to allow Tennessee to win either and so these games ended in tie scores.

One of the greatest upsets of Southern football took place in 1929 on Stoll Field when Tennessee, undefeated up to that Thanksgiving Day and with sails all set for a trip to the Rose Bowl, brought a great football team to Lexington to crush the Kentuckians. They brought three of the greatest backs the South ever saw. They were Eugene McEver and Buddy Hackman, halfbacks, and Bobby Dodd, quarterback.

It was a bitter cold day. In fact, it snowed so hard that the turf soon was covered with a blanket of white. The Vols were favored to win by a big score but found the 'Cats very tough customers indeed. In fact, Kentucky stole the show and led by six points until the last minutes of the game when Dodd got off a long pass to Hackman, resulting in a touchdown. Neither team was able to convert the extra point and it went down in history as a tie. We like to remember that battle. It was magnificent and the 20,000 fans received their money's worth that day.

From all indications, the coming Wildcat-Volunteer battle will be just another such game as that of 1929. Both teams have tasted defeat more than once and both are rated about on the same level. Another great crowd is expected and if you fail to be in that crowd you may miss one of the most thrilling gridiron battles ever fought on any field.

TENNIS

Under the expert tutelage of Coach H. H. Downing, the University of Kentucky tennis team experienced another successful season in 1935, winning four matches and losing two. Four other matches were scheduled, but inclement weather would not permit the playing off of these.

One man on the squad was lost by graduation, and with this same combination back next year, Kentucky is sure to have another cracker-jack net team. The scores of the five matches are as follows:

Kentucky 7, Berea 2; Kentucky 6, Berea 3; Kentucky 6, Vanderbilt 3; Kentucky 0, Alabama 6; Kentucky 7, Auburn 2; Kentucky 0, Georgia 9.

Eight received varsity K's. They are: Charles Randall, Dave Randall, Capt. Jas. Moore, Elvis Stahr, Alt. Capt. George Tullock, Lawrence Jenkins, Marion Brown, and George Skinner. James Moore and Elvis Stahr were elected co-captains for 1936.

Since its formation in 1922 the tennis team has participated in 118 dual meets, winning 76, losing 39, and tying 3.

President Tigert of Florida University Was Football Star

Thirty-two years ago John J. Tigert was selected as an All-Southern halfback. He had played brilliant football in every game for Vanderbilt. Shortly thereafter he was elected to captain the 1904 team but did not serve. In August of that year he was chosen the first Rhodes Scholar from the State of Tennessee, and went abroad before the start of the football season.

John Tigert's vigorous football days were enjoyed at the turn of the present century, years before any of the University of Florida coaches or players of this season made their bow to the world. It is of interest that upon entering Vanderbilt in 1900 he won a fifty-dollar prize for the best entrance examination in Latin and Greek; that he was active in student life; that he played on the basketball, track and baseball teams, captaining the varsity five the year he was an All-Southern football selection; that he maintained a scholastic average well above 90 for four years; that among his many honors and rewards was election to Phi Beta Kappa, the richest scholastic tribute that can be paid to any honor student by any college or university.

John Tigert was active in athletics while at Oxford, England. A decade after his return to this country he served for three years as Director of Athletics and Head Coach of Football at the University of Kentucky. For a number of years he was considered an outstanding athletic official. Relationships with athletics as a participant, coach, official, provided a valuable and important connection in rounding the life of a man who in 1921 was called to Washington to the highest educational post in the Federal Government, and whose achievements added national distinction and lustre to an outstanding career. And Floridians know well the accomplishments of Doctor Tigert since he assumed the presidency of the University of Florida in 1928.

But this is football season, and we may with approximateness turn from the academic and the administrative to look back upon some of the gridiron exploits of President John.

It was after the 1901 season, that Capt. J. E. Edgerton, who has become one of America's foremost industrialists, wrote:

"Tigert, the man who says little and does much, showed that his prowess in the class room was not excelled by that on the gridiron . . . he really seemed at a loss what to do until he could get about three or four men hanging to him, then he would truly move off. I venture the assertion that his equal at backing up the line has never been seen on Dudley Field."

Grantland Rice, writing in the Atlanta Journal in November, 1903, of his All-Southern selection, said of Doctor Tigert:

"Tigert of Vanderbilt is probably the best all-around halfback in Dixie." Weighing 180 pounds, 6 feet, 3 inches, he is strong on both offensive and defensive work, good at plunging through an opening or making one if necessary and also equally strong on open field work where he has learned the knack through four years of service of never leaving his interference unless a fitting opportunity offers. Tigert is also one of the best punters in the South and could carry the brunt of the kicking game."

Reynolds Tichenor, for many decades a noted football authority, in picking Tigert of Vanderbilt and Anderson of Cumberland for the All-Southern, said:

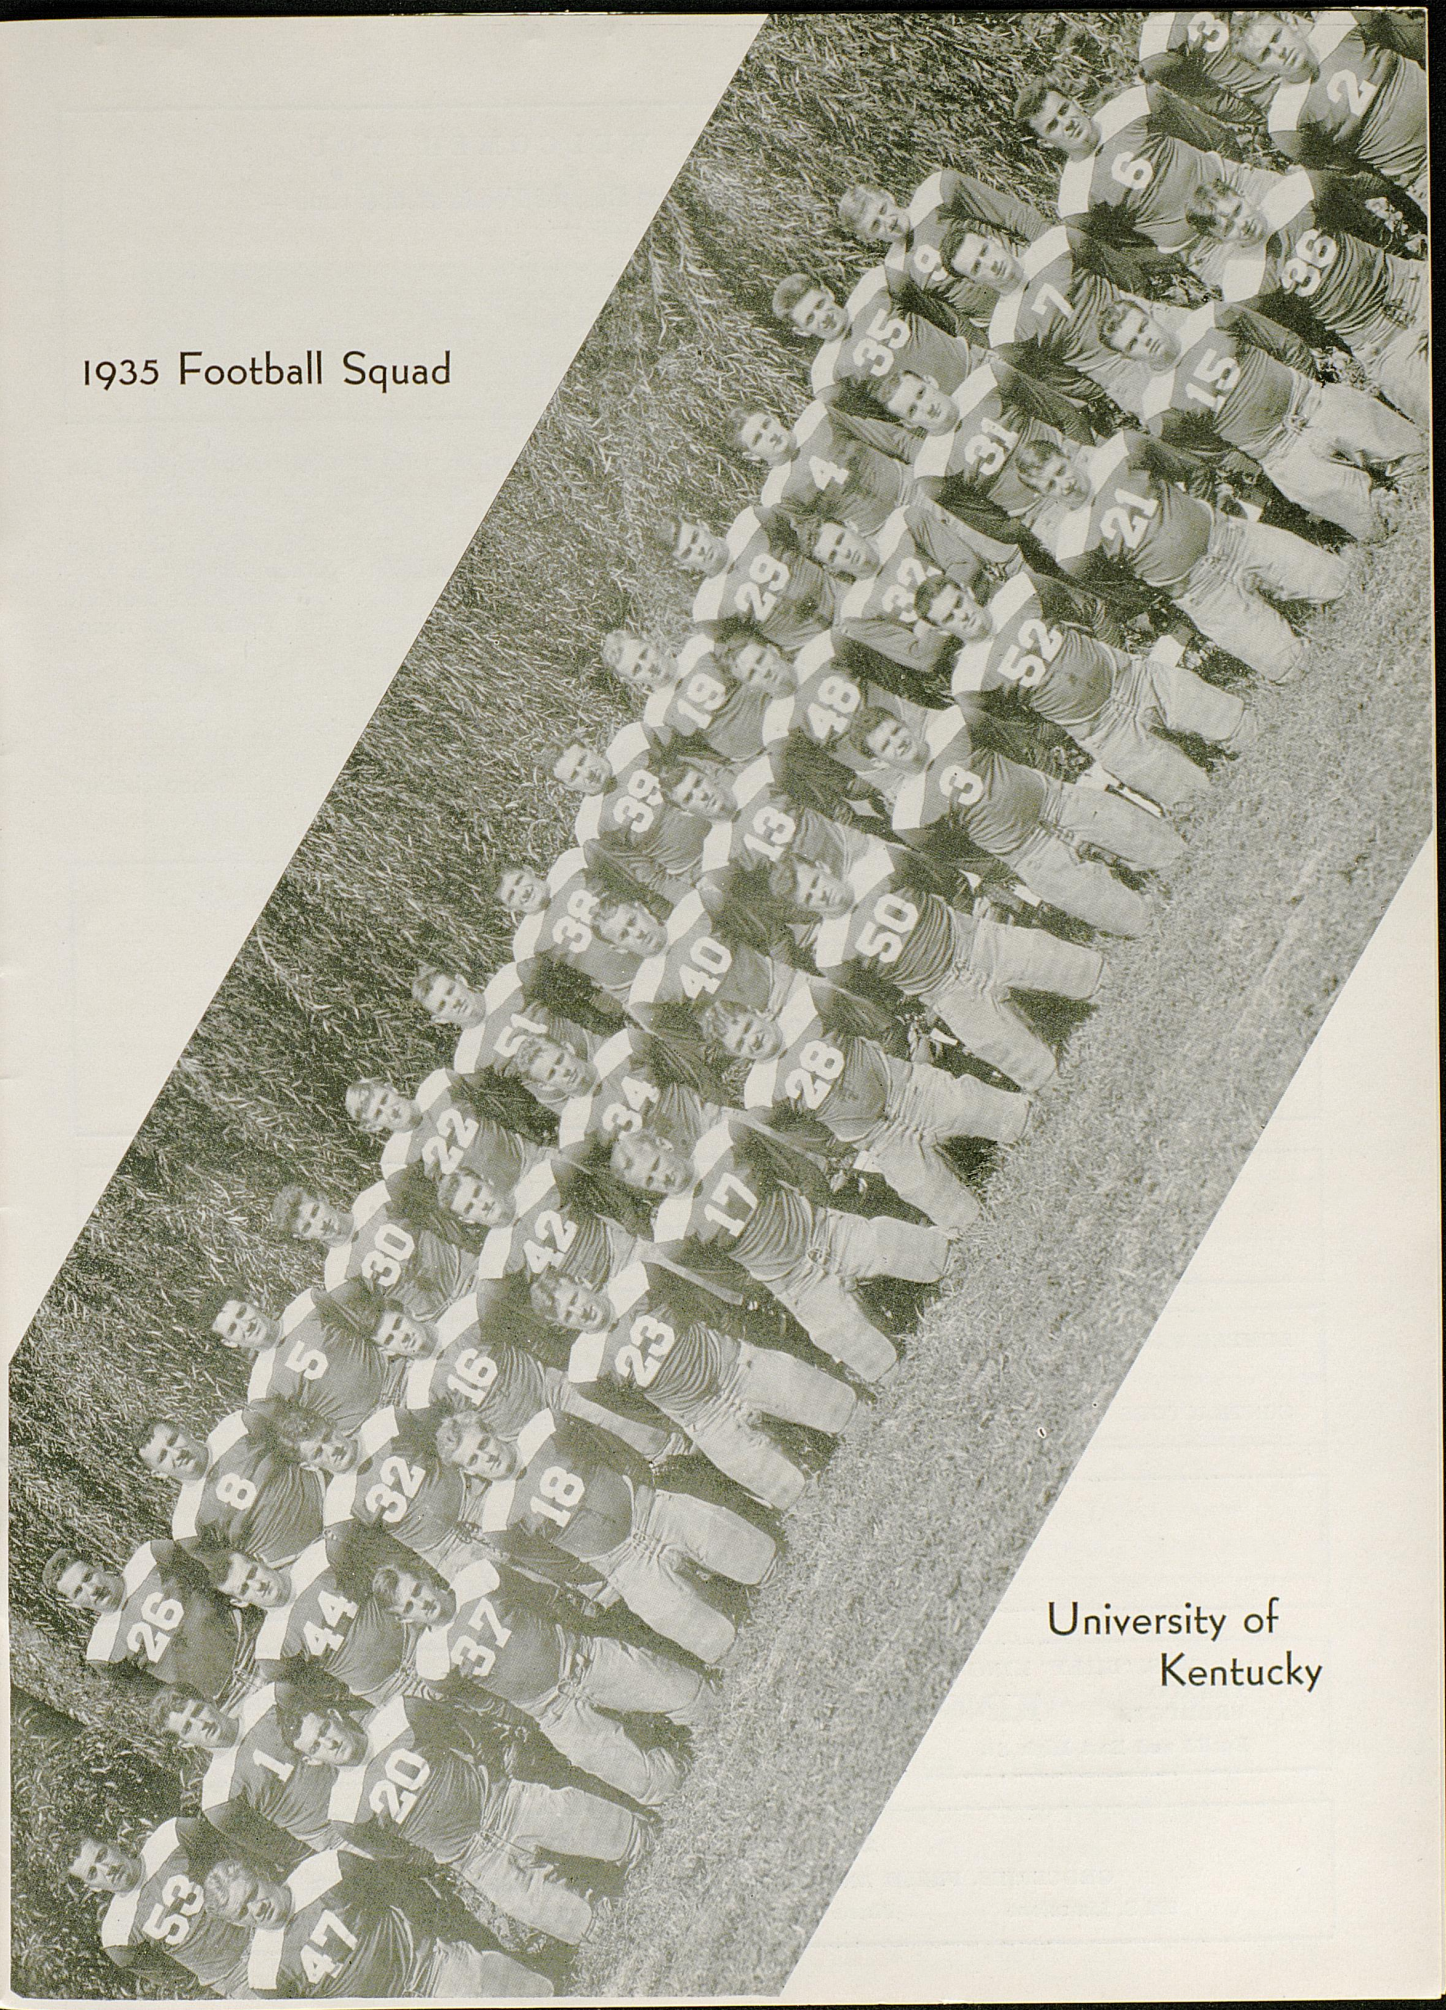

"Both of these men are great line plungers and fast at skirting the ends. Tigert could also do the punting. His kicks are long and high and give the ends time to get down the field and hold the grounds gained by them."

Just before the annual Thanksgiving game with Sewanee in 1903, the Nashville Daily News carried a large picture of John Tigert, halfback, writing:

"John Tigert of Nashville has a record as a football player which is remarkable in more ways than one. Its most remarkable feature is that, in the three years in which he has played he has been out of but one game, and that was the Tennessee game three years ago. At the beginning of this game, in fact on the first kick-off, one of the Tennessee men let his foot slip, accidentally or otherwise, and kicked 'Long John' in the face . . . which put Tigert out of the game.

"Since that incident Tigert has played every minute of every game. If he gets through the Thanksgiving game without accident he will have played all of two consecutive years without having to leave the game. This record would be an unusual one for any player, but it is especially remarkable because Tigert plays behind the line and runs more risks than any of the forwards."

Georgia Tech's great football team of 1928 defeated Southern California in the Rose Bowl. Two things stood out in that game: first of these was the run of Roy Reigles, of Southern Cal, who picked up a fumble and ran THE WRONG WAY; the second was the radio announcing of Bill Munday, an Atlanta sports writer, who continued to refer to the Tech huddle as "that crap shooters' formation."

Gayle Mohny, who quarterbacked the Kentucky team in 1925, '26 and '27, is practicing law in Lexington. Gayle was a great basketball and football player and, in addition, was a Phi Beta Kappa member.

Paul Jenkins, University of Kentucky halfback of a few years ago, is coaching football and basketball at St. Xavier High School, Louisville. He won great success as a coach at Ashland High School before going to St. X.

Three times in past years Kentucky and Georgia Tech have met on the gridiron. On all three occasions Tech was the big favorite although Kentucky won twice and tied once. Now Kentucky probably is given a slight edge over Tech. We hope this is not a bad omen for the Big Blue.

Joe Rupert, who was graduated in June from the University of Kentucky and who now is coaching athletics at his home town high school, Catlettsburg, Ky., took part in two major sports at the University—football and track—and, in his senior year, captained both teams.
