Ad Libbing

By Betty Tevis Betty Lee Fleishman

Keeping up with the times, our political science class wondered about the validity of the talk about the unusual amount of corruption that occurs during Kentucky elections.

At recent state election we counted the polls at all sections of the city—and were certainly not disappointed in what we saw. The traditional Kentucky politics with its "divertilleries on wheels" at most polls came through just as expected.

In last week's Kernel Pfc. Saul Halpert mentioned the "GI Joe and his live-day-old bride"—the only comment we can make is: Boy is that robbing the cradle!

excitement of a big-time sports encounter. A few heads bashed in, a few arms broken, a couple of legs bent backwards—what more can one desire?

The old "Brother, can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee" is gone and almost forgotten. A new era, sponsored by your humble journalists, has begun.

A new element has come in to the process to satisfy the egos of your humble journalists, who have tossed away their last nickel on a Grape-nut will approach you and say in one of those pseudo-logic ways: "Will you lend me a dime 'til Monday—I wanta get my name in the paper."

GI Joe Owes A Great Deal To Fighting Men Of Russia

When barrage balloons cluster around a coastal war production center, they serve a useful purpose—To a Hitler and Co.—for they belated the fundamental issues of this war.

This week marks the tenth year of Soviet-American diplomatic relations, a good time to deflate some of the myths that still obscure our view of our Russian ally.

Russians Spring Surprise
Another myth was that the Russians could conduct an offensive only when aided by "General Winter," as if only the Germans were affected by the cold.

Coed Corner...

By Mary Jane Gallaher
Saturday night at the Cottage was like one big happy reunion—more of the fellows home on leave. Everybody giving everyone else the glad hand—scraped almost like old times—Ah, nostalgic! Also signs of the times (as he hit earth with a bump) we noticed joys and lots of newly-weds among our friendly circle. Let that be a lesson to you women—it can and does happen on UK's campus.

Jewelry Today
Thought we'd sit along on the subject of jewelry this fine day—junk jewelry especially. We are tired of seeing good suits and smooth dresses overlying with too much clanking metal. We are about to give vent to our emotions. The line and idea always was, ladies, simplicity minus. And I do mean minus those arm loads of bracelets and those pet, flaring lapel pins. Collections of bracelets were once the fad we admit, but no matter what the fad, one goodlooking piece always has had a whole counter of them best. If you take one slick outfit and put with it one chic silver or gold pin, bracelet, or necklace, it adds to the occasion. Femmes, take a lesson from the chous girls—it's what you take off that matters! The less jewelry the better. Put more money into one good necklace which can be used with several costumes, rather than buying numerous articles that are faddish and will look cheap a month or two later.

Unusualness, still keeping it simple, is an idea not to be overlooked. Try first to be classic and in good taste with your purchases, but after that look for pieces that will be distinctive. Antique shops are fun for this if you have good ideas, and the combining of unusual colors in dress and accessories is splendid if you keep it within reason.

Experiment with the necklaces and earrings you have on hand, and see if you can't dream up some new sparkle into that old glad rag. If in doubt about what goes with who, always stick to pearls. They are classic and will do for any occasion. Ours, you do not wear earrings which are combining sports clothes with dress accessories, and they are as far apart as the poles. The bangles on your shell pink lobes are lovely for dates and would be fine for school if you just didn't have to look at those anklets. Try to get the distinction between what does fit dress-up occasions and what's for the campus, and you'll find half the battle won.

Walking Frankfurter Brings Story Of Pathos To Coeds

By Myrtle Weathers
All of you have noticed the filthy little dog that has been hanging around the campus. Not much larger than a good sized frankfurter, this fugitive from a bun and mustard is claimed by neither "wire haired" nor "mongrel," so it just shivers and shivers, but still hangs around.

The sad plight of this four-legged "what's it" made absolutely no difference to the average "hard-heated Hannah" co-ed, for when two of these despicable specimens spied said hound, a villainish plan took shape in their cruel minds.

In voices coated with the sweet stuff bees will sting to protect, they took time off from polishing each other's horns and discussing which furnace they were to occupy in "your" place" to lure Bruno into the Union building.

The prospect of people scolding, rebuking, and making fun of the miserable mutt, made them droop in dejected delight.

Then, as we are never proud of the "lower case" activities we perpetrate, the gals did a disappearing act that would make Heidi blush.

The little creature looked bewildered, then spied, over in a lonely

UK 4-H Club Will Sponsor Thanksgiving Party

The University 4-H club is sponsoring a Thanksgiving party for the faculty and students of the agriculture college Saturday evening, November 27, in the Stock Judging pavilion. This party will compensate for, though not replace, the usual Fall festival.

For the first time since 1919, the agriculture college will not be able to hold its Fall festival. This annual affair began as a livestock show sponsored by Block and Briddle, animal husbandry honorary, and later grew into the festival through the co-operative effort of all the agriculture clubs on the campus. However, this year the war has so depleted the ranks of Block and Briddle that the custom of the festival will be temporarily interrupted.

Lovens-Fanelli

Miss Mabel Frances Lovens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lovens, Lexington, became the bride of Major Richard Vincent Fanelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Fanelli, Anchorage, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Second Presbyterian church with Dr. Joseph Herrmann officiating.

The bride is a graduate of the University where she was a member of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority.

Major Fanelli is a graduate of the University where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is a pilot in the United States Army Air Corps troop carrier command.

'Daisy Mae' Is Found At Last

Selection of Elizabeth Allen Thomas as "Daisy Mae" of the University, at the Saddle Hawkins dance, was the final fanfare heralding the outgoing of the "girl pay" week.

The contest was based on costume and general likeness of the contestants to Al Capp's comic strip character.

L. J. Horbacher, assistant dean of the agriculture college, and two army representatives chose a group of girls from among the dancers, and applause of the crowd decided the winner.

Elizabeth Thomas, blonde, arts and sciences freshman, was photographed in her Daisy's red polka-dot blouse and black skirt, with feet bare, hill-billy fashion, for the Herald-Leader. She was also posed with two soldiers and two sailors for College Humor magazine.

"I never dreamed that there were so many splinters in the ballroom floor," said Daisy, when interviewed.

She is planning to become a languages major. She is a pledge of Chi Omega sorority.

Can You Believe It Now? They Rush To This Class

By Casey Goman

One class on the campus to which students rush, and from which they have to be pushed when the hour ends is—Orientation 82.

The prof responsible for this phenomenon? Dr. Alexander Capurso, executive director of the music department.

Dr. Capurso captures and holds the interest of his students by various methods. Take a typical Tuesday for example.

Roll is taken and class is well under way by the time the bell rings. On this particular day, the agenda calls for an oboe solo, played by the one and only oboeist at UK, Jane I. Campbell, who is a member of the class. She is accompanied by Ann McBrayer, another student.

Dr. Capurso, with several well-aimed references, introduces the guest speaker for the day, Frank Fowler director of Guilford. Not an eyelid droops during his discussion of the theatre—or during his reply to Capurso's introduction, either! He packages his information so cleverly in fun that the students never suspect how much they are absorbing.

After Mr. Fowler expounds his theories, the class is turned loose with questions, each student asking about the particular phase of the theatre in which he is interested.

The class has heard Blaine W. Schick speak on romance languages. Miss Helen King on Journalism, and

UK Instructor Is Reported Ill

Technical Sergeant Elmer O. Kinker, instructor in basic ROTC, who is critically ill with cerebral spinal meningitis, reported as slightly improved, according to the military department.

In an effort to save Sergeant Kinker's life, Col. B. E. Brewer procured penicillin, latest discovery for combating meningitis, from the Lawson General hospital, Atlanta, Ga.

Sergeant Kinker has been an instructor in ROTC at the University since 1939. Enlisting in the Army in 1916, he saw service in six major engagements in World War I. At the conclusion of the war, Sergeant Kinker remained in Germany with the occupational army, serving in the courier service.

He was admitted to St. Joseph's hospital November 9.

Capurso To Talk On Tchaikowsky

Dr. Alexander Capurso, executive head of the music department, will speak on "The Music and Romance of Tchaikowsky," at 8 p. m. today in the Music room of the Union building.

He will illustrate this talk on Tchaikowsky's romance with the woman he never met and its effect on his music with recordings.

Civilian and soldier students on the campus are asked to attend this lecture sponsored by the Fine Arts group.

Lost Any Ribs Or Fingers? Warren's Mortuary Has 'Em

By Adele Denman

Yipe! Where is my hand? Say, whose head is this? Yours? Then, where's mine? Have you seen my third toe on the left foot lately? Hey, gals, catch Dugan—she's got my last rib!

Ah, yes, this is the new lingo that reaches the ear of the brave soul who visits the second hour gym class. The University, in addition to requiring an I. Q. of 200, would like for you to be able to walk with both legs over your head, sit down and balance for four days on the hange-nail of your little finger, or lift yourself over three hurdles by your hair.

The delightful little exercises that all University freshmen and gym majors have been required to do, commonly referred to in polite language as the grapevine, top, Russian dance, full right turn, etc., are "easy, simple, elementary," say the instructors, who can swim the Atlantic ocean, lift the Union with one hand, and by means of the friction kick, fly around the gym three times, respectively.

The department of archaeology jovers like a mighty vulture over the gym, looking for specimens. If some kind soul would, it would be nice to tell them that the so-called piecewise dinosaur bone they found over there was only Shirley Meister's old, forgotten elbow, left from last year.

Confidentially, all people who try these exercises, don't pull through, and the bodies are sent by means of the water cooler to the Maintenance department, which relays them to the cemetery behind Guilford, where all of the unfortunates are crying for a fourth for bridge.

Alas these strenuous exercises sometimes affect the mind. If you want to know who got the worst end of the deal, just call the Lydia

Sadie Hawkins Week Over, Gals Still Wolfing Around

By Wanda Lee Spears

Yes, Sadie Hawkins week is over, but still some of us gals are willing to wolf around. Now, the old question arises—where to meet the boys? But first, who to meet? ROTC and ASTP and ASTRP. Yes, yes, yes!

This could go on forever, but for a little down to earth advice. All of the places presented are well tried and tested. Having interviewed those cute coeds who seem to be just too, too successful and a few soldiers and men-about-the-campus who hope a few more girls will be equally successful, we come to the following conclusions:

Try The Grill

The grill is swell. Method—sit around, stand around, and wolf.

Just a G.I. Seamstress?

If you're forever getting out the needle and thread, here are some tips:

When a button comes off, sew it on well the first time. A slipshod job just means you'll have to do it over again soon.

Make your next shirt an Arrow. Arrow buttons are attached with a patented stitch, which "anchors" them to a shirt.

Cheek your size—you may be wearing too small a shirt and therefore causing too great a strain on the buttons and seams. The Sanforized label in an Arrow shirt guarantees shrinkage no greater than 1%—no danger of an Arrow ever getting too small!

Needin' Some Bridge Lessons?

An ace counts one, king-jack-ten the same, and king-queen-jack in the same suit equals two." These words, accompanied by such sage advice as, "Never trump your partner's ace," marked the first in a series of bridge lessons sponsored by the Union activities committee.

The sessions last from 6:15 to 7:15 p. m. on Mondays and are held in the Card room of the Union building.

Coshed in the fundamentals of the game by Pat Wallace, co-winner of last year's bridge tournament, over fifty civilian students and soldiers practice honor-counting, bidding, and playing.

Marie Cottingham, Henderson, is chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the bridge lessons. Other members are Betty Jane Pail, Isabel Michelson, Billie Jeanne Clift, Bernice Lewis, Emily Plock, and Evelyn Kaufman.

Persons interested in either learning the game or in improving their playing are invited to attend. Miss Cottingham stated.

BSU To Hold Party Tomorrow

A Baptist Student union party will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Calvary Baptist church, High and Rhodes streets.

The advertising scheme will be carried out throughout the party, according to Evelyn Greene, social director.

Catherine Rigby, president, urges that all Baptist students and soldiers attend as it is primarily a "get-acquainted" party.

Business Staff

Members of the Kerneel business staff will meet at 3 p.m. today in the Kerneel Business office, according to Betty Bohannon, business manager.

Latin American Collection Now On Exhibit In Library

By Patricia Pollack

Venezuelan newspapers, official publications, letters, mps, and material from the scrap book compiled by Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey on their recent trip to Venezuela form the basis of the Latin American display on exhibit now in the library.

Attractive colored posters portraying the five different sections of Latin America, its peoples, and industries have been lent to the University by the Library Service division of the United States Office of Education, who, in cooperation with the Office of Coordination of Inter-American Affairs, assembled this Latin American series for school use throughout the country.

Bulletins Shown

Among the cases of material are various bulletins of the Venezuelan university, and facsimile reproductions of Gaceta de Caracas, the first Venezuelan newspaper. Editions of the Correo del Orinoco are also included in the collection. These works, which were presented to Dr. McVey by the Venezuelan Academia Nacional de la Historia, are now the property of the University through the former president's donation.

127 Soldiers Accept Offers

One hundred and twenty-seven ASTP-ASTRP men of different religious denominations have accepted offers for a Thanksgiving Day dinner, which is being planned by the churches of Lexington under the sponsorship of the Union War Efforts committee.

The names taken from the replies, have been divided into three different groups: Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic. These lists were turned over to the various churches, where hostesses will be contacted accordingly. After completion of arrangements, the soldiers will be notified about further details.

Applied Music Classes Present Recital Monday

Members of the applied music department will present a recital at 4 p.m. Monday, in the Music room of the Union building.

Vocal students appearing on the program will be Laura Jeanne Blake, A. N. Scott Maher, Bety Harris Russell, Joan Neil, and Margaret Gooch. Piano students presenting selections will be Leota Meade, Beth Caddy, Mildred Williams, and Alice Dean.

All students taking applied music courses are required to attend, unless they have another regularly scheduled University class at this time, and the public is invited.

Benefit Game Set Thursday

The Ashland Tomcats and Highlands High school of Port Thomas will play a benefit football game at 2 p.m. Thanksgiving day on Stoll field.

Adolph Rupp, who is in charge of arrangements for the game, announced this week that the admission for all University students will be 50 cents. Receipts from the game, which is sponsored by Oletha Temple, will go to the brace fund of the Shriner's Crippled Children's hospital.

Ashland, which claims the state high school championship, has in its backfield Kennard, who is generally recognized as one of the best backs in the state this season.

K-Dets, University women's drill team, will parade between halves.

Co. C Wrestlers Make Challenge

The wrestling team of Company C challenges any other team on the campus to a match. Intercollegiate or interscholastic rules will be followed.

Arrangements can be made by contacting Pfc. J. L. Whitbeck, Patterson hall, PO Box 1543.

Hockey Team Plays Centre

WAA's Glamour Cats will try to score their second win over the Centre college hockey team at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow on the field behind Patterson hall. The UK team defeated the Centre group, 6-1, when they played in Danville two weeks ago.

University team members who will participate in the match are Lucille Clarke, Bety Fleischman, Jane Oldham, Pat Shely, Hazel Kennedy, Ellabeth Faulkner, Zell Goldenberg, Jeanne Bureau, Anne Hayhurst, Jean Crab, Mary Jane Dorsey, Garnett Gayle, Helen Davila, Marjorie Palmer, Sally Lindberg, and Alice Freeman.

For several years, the Glamour Cats have scheduled matches with Transylvania, Georgetown, University of Louisville, Ursuline, and Centre. The team tied the University of Louisville and defeated Ursuline to win the state hockey match at Louisville last year.

New Psychology Course Has Been Added To Curriculum

An entirely new professional field will be opened to University students beginning with the winter quarter, when a training program in industrial psychology will be added to the curriculum.

Heretofore, industrial psychologists and personnel men have learned their jobs through experience. Dr. Henry Beaumont, creator of the course, pointed out, "The training program, he stated, will be the only one of its type in the country, with the exception of a graduate course offered by Radcliffe college, an eastern girls' school."

Demand Great

The war has created an unprecedented demand for men and women trained in industrial psychology. Dr. Beaumont explained, "This demand, he said, may be intensified greatly when the country faces the problem of rehabilitating millions of people to civilian pursuits. Workers must be chosen and placed in jobs in accordance with their abilities, experience and interests; adequate training for skilled occupations must be provided; unnecessary strain and fatigue must be eliminated, and morale must be built up and maintained.

Employers Eager

So eager are firms and government agencies to employ trained psychologists, Dr. Beaumont stated, that they are hiring college students from the classrooms—not giving them time to finish their degrees. An associate professor of psychology at the University, Dr. Beaumont conceived the idea of offering a course in industrial psychology during the last quarter.

The course, he said, had an enrollment far beyond his expectations. This led to the development of the training program to be inaugurated next quarter.

In the training program as outlined by Dr. Beaumont, related courses in different departments of the University provide the background; essential skills and techniques are developed in the laboratory through try-out experiences, while co-operating firms and public agencies offer opportunities for practical experience by providing part-time temporary employment.

Electives Offered

In addition to the courses which are required of all students enrolled in the program, electives may be chosen in accordance with each person's interests and needs. Academic credit for work experience is given on the basis of a detailed report submitted by the student and the quality of job performance.

Supervised industrial work experience will be gained by the students through part-time employment provided by co-operating firms. Since there are few factories in the Lexington area which a class may visit to learn techniques of job analysis and reports, motion pictures will be used extensively in the program.

Firms Will Aid

Firms which have agreed to aid in the program to date include Archer and Smith, Trust National Bank and First National Bank, Kentucky Utilities company, S. S. Kresge company, Lexington Telephone company, Office of Price Administration, United States Employment service, University of Kentucky Personnel office, Walgreen drugs and the Wolf-Wile company.

ZTA's Honored

Mrs. Edward Warner, Quoque, N. Y., entertained with a luncheon Saturday in the Thoroughbred room of the Phoenix hotel in honor of Alpha Chi chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha society.

Skating Party

An all campus skating party, sponsored by the Outing club, will be held from 8 to 7 p. m. Saturday at Scott's rollarena.

Following the taking of the pleasure for the Kentucky at 4:15 p. m. in front of the Union building, the party will proceed to the rollarena.

All students and soldiers on the campus are invited.

Professor and Mrs. E. A. Bureau will chaperon the party.
