Alexander Jeffrey Sr. Esq.
Lexington, Ky.

Dear Sir:

Alex. is doing no good for himself in this country, and I think he has better return to Kentucky. and that matters are in such condition that it is my duty to so advise him.

Before I speak to him, however, I write to You, and give You the opportunity to invite and urge him to go back, and to make such preparations to him as You may be disposed to make.

He is not fitted to cope in business with such rivals as he finds here, nor to successfully conduct a business for himself among these people, and, if he was shrewd enough, he has no such business methods and habits as are necessary to succeed.

Under You and with the restraints and influ-
