

Court on the 3<sup>o</sup> of Ulla
I fear I shall miss him

Last week I went over to Worthing against the advice of Dr Smith.
There paid for it rather dearly. Mr Britton
went with me for some
as I got through my argument I he brought me home then kept
me in the house since.
This "grip" is about as hard to shake off as a
ky aque smoke, one
feel just about as unwieldy. When I get through at Worthing

Dear Major I hope you have had a good time on your game hunt. I wish I could have been with your party although the slightness of Frost's doesn't satisfy my thirst for game. I am much obliged by your note
telling me of Thurby's coming. I will look out for him I hope to get him to dine with us, though as I must be at the Supreme
