My Dear Sir

The enclosed letter is from Miss Susan Cook, a relation of yours. She applied to me for advice upon the subject of it; but the state of her information was not such that I could give her any, but that of writing to you. If you can send her I hope you will do it. She is poor but a worthy person, and if she can get any thing from England it will be very acceptable.

I am faithfully Yrs

H. Clay
