

The Bear of Dr. E. Guentz, residing in Louisville in K. has established a Classical School in that City, at which he receives a limited number of Students. The Dr has acquired deservedly a very high reputation for the excellence both of his discipline and instruction, and engagements have been made several years in advance to place students under his care.
During a vacation in his school this summer, he proposes to visit some of the Universities and Colleges at the Eastward.
I recommend him to the Presidents and Professors of those institutions as a thorough and finished scholar, and as a man of honor and probity.

J. H. Clay

Ashland July 1851.