Wethington named interim president

By TOM SPALDING
Managing Editor

UK Student Government President Sean Lohman didn't really think David Roselle was serious when the 50-year-old indicated last month that he might quit as UK president.

Weeks later, however, when Roselle resigned to take the top position at the University of Delaware, a depressed Lohman saw his worst fears come true.

"I finally came to the realization that he (was) going," Lohman said.

Roselle resigned Dec. 14, and 14 days later the Board of Trustees replaced him with interim President Charles Wethington, chancellor of UK's community college system.

Roselle cited the NCAA's investigation into the UK basketball program as one of the many reasons for leaving. He said that being "so closely identified" with cleaning up the basketball program would hurt his ability to run the University.

Ironically, it was Roselle's handling of the investigation that earned him respect from faculty and higher education circles across the country.

Roselle was selected from among 150 candidates for the Delaware job, including seven from the University of Delaware.

"To have him leave after two years ... is going to hurt morale," said Janet Elkred, an assistant professor of English. "There's a burst of energy that will go."

UK administrators say they hope that Roselle's enthusiasm will remain at UK. Roselle, who "spent a long time trying to bring as much good as" possible out of the budget, was cited as one of the main reasons faculty stayed at UK despite low pay.

With him gone, some fear there might be an exodus of top faculty.

With that in mind, UK Chancellor for the Lexington Campus Robert Hemenway sent out a one-page memo to faculty and staff, saying that it "is natural to be depressed, maybe even angry, at a loss. But David Roselle has said many times that it is the institution which is important, rather than a single individual."

The selection of Wethington at a special BOT meeting on Dec. 28 sparked the next controversy.

Wethington, 53, was runner-up to Roselle in 1987 and was an administrator in UK's community college system for 22 years, first as director of Maysville Community College, then as the system's deputy chief for 10 years and its head since 1982.

Wethington's name was submitted to the board by a selection committee, which met only an hour before the BOT meeting. Wethington was chosen by the committee over Chancellor for the Medical Center Peter Bosomworth by a 4-3 vote.

The board voted 14-5 for Wethington and it also struck down a motion by trustee Larry Forgy that would not have allowed the interim president to be a candidate for the presidency.

Forgy, whose term as a trustee ended Dec. 31, said allowing Wethington to be interim president and a candidate for president would be a serious mistake and would make it "almost impossible to conduct a competitive, open, unbiased national search" for the next president.

Allowing the interim president to be a candidate for president would give the appearance that the search is tainted with politics, Forgy told the board.

Wethington's relationship with Kentucky Gov. Wallace Wilkinson is different than Roselle's, which may have influenced the board's decision.

Both are Casey County natives and friends. With Wethington as president, some feel UK might get more funding from the state.

Wethington said that he did not campaign for the interim post, saying that "from day one I would abide by the wishes of the board and go forward serving the University."

Roselle appeared at the board meeting but left before Wethington was picked.

He told board members they should remember faculty when making their decision, prompting a round of applause from about 100 people, mostly faculty, sitting in the background at the meeting.

UK's search must be immune from state politics

ALAN HAWES/Kentucky Staff

One of David Roselle's trademarks while president of UK was the excellent relationship he enjoyed with faculty. After suffering through the years of the Singletary administration in which many faculty perceived that athletics was considered to be more important than academics, Roselle was an instant favorite among faculty.

During his first year when an anemic budget proposal from Frankfort caused concern in the higher education community, Roselle called a meeting at the Otis A. Singletary Center for the Arts and was greeted by several thousand supportive faculty.

But when he announced last month that he will leave UK by July 1 to become president of the University of Delaware, some faculty have to feel that they were betrayed by their savior.

To many faculty, Roselle's departure, and the manner in which Charles Wethington was named interim president, is the last sign they needed to leave UK.

C. A. DUANE BONIFER

Although Roselle said that the NCAA probe into the men's basketball program prevented him from implementing some of his programs, an underlying force behind his decision to leave UK was the lack of political and financial support he received from Gov. Wallace Wilkinson.

And to many faculty, if the leader of their state does not respect the needs of higher education, then there is not much of a reason for them to stay in Kentucky either.

But to others, Roselle's decision to resign could just as easily be seen as someone getting out while the getting was good.

This is not the first time that money has been tight around UK

— higher education in Kentucky always has been in desperate need of funds. And although the budget woes Roselle had to deal with during his brief 2 1/2 years at UK certainly made life difficult for him, it was nothing terribly unusual for higher education.

Education in Kentucky has always come after sports and politics, and when Roselle was interviewing for the UK post he had to be aware of that.

The immediate concern of UK officials, especially interim President Wethington, is to convince the rest of the nation that UK is not a place where good people are chased away if they do not agree with the governor.

Wethington has been applauded for the job he has done with UK's community college system. During the 1980s, enrollment at community colleges increased almost 100 percent.

Had he and Wilkinson been not so close, Wethington might have been a good choice for an interim president. He knows the halls of Frankfort very well and he is a good administrator.

But with Wilkinson being unpopular with faculty, Wethington is perceived as one of the governor's good boys.

Wethington could allay concerns of faculty and staff by saying he will not make himself a candidate for the presidency, but that may not be easy for him to do since he was considered by the University three years ago to have the credentials to run the place.

The UK Board of Trustees has pledged to keep an open mind in conducting a nationwide search to find a permanent replacement for Roselle, but convincing someone that they have an equal chance with someone who has been president for several months will take a slick advertising campaign.

Officials hope Add-drop runs smoothly

By C.A. DUANE BONIFER
Editor in Chief

Add-drop usually is not a pleasant experience for students, but Registrar officials are hoping that it is not too hairy for those who go through it tomorrow.

Decentralized Add-drop was held for the first time last semester at individual colleges, and although it was not as successful as Registrar officials had hoped, they said the process ran a bit smoother.

One encouraging sign for the way things might go tomorrow is the number of graduate and College of Arts & Sciences students who went through early and finals week Add-drop last fall.

796 graduate and Arts & Sciences students went through early Add-drop, and 343 students went through finals week Add-drop.

"People are becoming more sophisticated and becoming more aware of the new system," said

Lisa Collins, registration coordinator. "It's good to know your schedule before you go home for vacation. ... And that's what we're trying to encourage with students."

One of the changes in this semester's Add-drop is the order in which students will go through the process. Last semester, seniors and graduate students were first in line and freshmen had to wait until the end of the day.

Tomorrow, however, freshmen will be the first group to add classes and seniors and graduate students will have to wait until the end of the day.

The change was made so freshmen would have more selections at with 100- and 200-level courses, Collins said.

Last semester many lower-division courses were closed by the time freshmen went through Add-drop, leaving them with few options, Collins said.

"Freshmen go last in everything, and we've decided to let freshmen go first," Collins said. "It's a behavior thing that we're not going to be able to assess until we go through it one time."

Collins said that it should not be difficult for seniors to find upper-division electives to fill their requirements.

More student workers also have been added to help this year, Collins said, and Registrar officials will work closely with officials in UK's computer services to deal with any problems that arise.

University Registrar Randall Dahl said that Add-drop tomorrow should run smoother than last semester, but the ultimate success of the day depends on students.

"I guess there's a limit to how efficient you can be at the beginning of the semester," Dahl said. "One thing we can't do with the system is create (more) space" in classes.

Students should be flexible in scheduling their classes and come prepared with alternatives tomorrow, Dahl said.

"What slows (Add-drop) down is when people have to stop and think, 'Gee, what do I do next? We have to do business on the spot,'" he said.

Registrar officials said they want students to get the classes they are interested in, but in going through Add-drop students must be realistic.

"If you didn't get the schedule you wanted ... chances are you are not going to get what you want" tomorrow, Collins said.

"We're never going to be able to do away with (Add-drop) ... because of the nature of student life. ... All we can do is try to make it as pleasant and efficient a process with the vast numbers we have to serve," she said.

If students cannot make their assigned times, the Registration Center, 230 Student Center, will remain open until 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Here's Your First Lesson In College Economics.

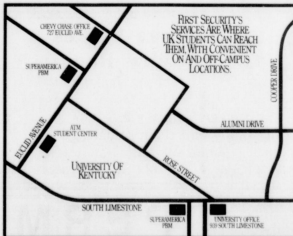

A quality education costs a lot of money. We're sure you already knew that. First Security Bank has a lot of money. You probably already knew that, too. But maybe you didn't already know that First Security Bank considers a college education to be a great investment, and that maybe we'd like to invest in yours.

NOW YOU KNOW.

If you need money for college, come see us. First Security has lots of ways to help college students, including a number of student loans with some very attractive terms.

But loans are only one way First Security

can be a help to you. With an office just a few minutes away from the University, and several QUEST®/CIRRUS® Automatic Teller Machines directly on campus, First Security's services are always within easy reach of UK students. We offer a wide range of checking accounts, savings accounts, and a great deal more.

IT PAYS TO BANK WITH FIRST SECURITY.

Open a First Security Basic Checking Account now, and you'll have your checks and your account ready for you just a few days later. It's an account with no monthly service charges. And no minimum balance requirement—you pay only for the checks you write. You'll also have unlimited use of over 40 First Security QUEST®/CIRRUS® machines in Lexington and hundreds more all over Kentucky and beyond.

Bring this coupon to any convenient First Security office and you'll get a $5 discount from the nominal initial charge—and an "A" on your first lesson in college economics.

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW AND SAVE $5.

Present this coupon at any First Security office and receive $5 off the cost of a Basic Checking Account. Or if you already have a Basic Checking Account, use the $5 savings toward the purchase of your next order of checks. Offer expires Feb. 28, 1990.

Wethington named interim president

By TOM SPALDING
Managing Editor

UK Student Government President Sean Lohman didn't really think David Roselle was serious when the 50-year-old indicated last month that he might quit as UK president.

Weeks later, however, when Roselle resigned to take the top position at the University of Delaware, a depressed Lohman saw his worst fears come true.

"I finally came to the realization that he (was) going," Lohman said.

Roselle resigned Dec. 14, and 14 days later the Board of Trustees replaced him with interim President Charles Wethington, chancellor of UK's community college system.

Roselle cited the NCAA's investigation into the UK basketball program as one of the many reasons for leaving. He said that being "so closely identified" with cleaning up the basketball program would hurt his ability to run the University.

Ironically, it was Roselle's handling of the investigation that earned him respect from faculty and higher education circles across the country.

Roselle was selected from among 150 candidates for the Delaware job, including seven from the University of Delaware.

"To have him leave after two years ... is going to hurt morale," said Janet Eldred, an assistant professor of English. "There's a burst of energy that will go."

UK administrators say they hope that Roselle's enthusiasm will remain at UK. Roselle, who "spent a long time trying to wring as much good as" possible out of the budget, was cited as one of the main reasons faculty stayed at UK despite low pay.

With him gone, some fear there might be an exodus of top faculty.

With that in mind, UK Chancellor for the Lexington Campus Robert Hemenway sent out a one-page memo to faculty and staff, saying that it "is natural to be depressed, maybe even angry, at a loss. But David Roselle has said many times that it is the institution which is important, rather than a single individual."

The selection of Wethington at a special BOT meeting on Dec. 28 sparked the next controversy.

Wethington, 53, was runner-up to Roselle in 1987 and was an administrator in UK's community college system for 22 years, first as director of Maysville Community College, then as the system's deputy chief for 10 years and its head since 1982.

Wethington's name was submitted to the board by a selection committee, which met only an hour before the BOT meeting. Wethington was chosen by the committee over Chancellor for the Medical Center Peter Bosomworth by a 4-3 vote.

The board voted 14-5 for Wethington and it also struck down a motion by trustee Larry Forgy that would not have allowed the interim president to be a candidate for the presidency.

Forgy, whose term as a trustee ended Dec. 31, said allowing Wethington to be interim president and a candidate for president would be a serious mistake and would make it "almost impossible to conduct a competitive, open, unbiased national search" for the next president.

Allowing the interim president to be a candidate for president would give the appearance that the search is tainted with politics, Forgy told the board.

Wethington's relationship with Kentucky Gov. Wallace Wilkinson is different than Roselle's, which may have influenced the board's decision.

Both are Casey County natives and friends. With Wethington as president, some feel UK might get more funding from the state.

Wethington said that he did not campaign for the interim post, saying that "from day one I would abide by the wishes of the board and go forward serving the University."

Roselle appeared at the board meeting but left before Wethington was picked.

He told board members they should remember faculty when making their decision, prompting a round of applause from about 100 people, mostly faculty, sitting in the background at the meeting.

UK's search must be immune from state politics

ALAN HAWSE/Kernal Staff

One of David Roselle's trademarks while president of UK was the excellent relationship he enjoyed with faculty. After suffering through the years of the Singletary administration in which many faculty perceived that athletics was considered to be more important than academics, Roselle was an instant favorite among faculty.

During his first year when an anemic budget proposal from Frankfort caused concern in the higher education community, Roselle called a meeting at the Otis A. Singletary Center for the Arts and was greeted by several thousand supportive faculty.

But when he announced last month that he will leave UK by July 1 to become president of the University of Delaware, some faculty have to feel that they were betrayed by their savior.

To many faculty, Roselle's departure, and the manner in which Charles Wethington was named interim president, is the last sign they needed to leave UK.

C. A. Duane BONIFER

Although Roselle said that the NCAA probe into the men's basketball program prevented him from implementing some of his programs, an underlying force behind his decision to leave UK was the lack of political and financial support he received from Gov. Wallace Wilkinson.

And to many faculty, if the leader of their state does not respect the needs of higher education, then there is not much of a reason for them to stay in Kentucky either.

But to others, Roselle's decision to resign could just as easily be seen as someone getting out while the getting was good.

This is not the first time that money has been tight around UK

— higher education in Kentucky always has been in desperate need of funds. And although the budget woes Roselle had to deal with during his brief 2 1/2 years at UK certainly made life difficult for him, it was nothing terribly unusual for higher education.

Education in Kentucky has always come after sports and politics, and when Roselle was interviewing for the UK post he had to be aware of that.

The immediate concern of UK officials — especially interim President Wethington — is to convince the rest of the nation that UK is not a place where good people are chased away if they do not agree with the governor.

Wethington has been applauded for the job he has done with UK's community college system. During the 1980s, enrollment at community colleges increased almost 100 percent.

Had he and Wilkinson been not so close, Wethington might have been a good choice for an interim president. He knows the halls of Frankfort very well and he is a good administrator.

But with Wilkinson being unpopular with faculty, Wethington is perceived as one of the governor's good ol' boys.

Wethington could allay concerns of faculty and staff by saying he will not make himself a candidate for the presidency, but that may not be easy for him to do since he was considered by the University three years ago to have the credentials to run the place.

The UK Board of Trustees has pledged to keep an open mind in conducting a nationwide search to find a permanent replacement for Roselle, but convincing someone that they have an equal chance with someone who has been president for several months will take a slick advertising campaign.

Officials hope Add-drop runs smoothly

By C. A. DUANE BONIFER
Editor in Chief

Add-drop usually is not a pleasant experience for students, but Registrar officials are hoping that it is not too hairy for those who go through it tomorrow.

Decentralized Add-drop was held for the first time last semester at individual colleges, and although it was not as successful as Registrar officials had hoped, they said the process ran a bit smoother.

One encouraging sign for the way things might go tomorrow is the number of graduate and College of Arts & Sciences students who went through early and finals week Add-drop last fall.

796 graduate and Arts & Sciences students went through early Add-drop, and 343 students went through finals week Add-drop.

"People are becoming more sophisticated and becoming more aware of the new system," said

Lisa Collins, registration coordinator. "It's good to know your schedule before you go home for vacation. ... And that's what we're trying to encourage with students."

One of the changes in this semester's Add-drop is the order in which students will go through the process. Last semester, seniors and graduate students were first in line and freshmen had to wait until the end of the day.

Tomorrow, however, freshmen will be the first group to add classes and seniors and graduate students will have to wait until the end of the day.

The change was made so freshmen would have more selections at with 100- and 200-level courses, Collins said.

Last semester many lower-division courses were closed by the time freshmen went through Add-drop, leaving them with few options, Collins said.

"Freshmen go last in everything, and we've decided to let freshmen go first," Collins said. "It's a behavior thing that we're not going to be able to assess until we go through it one time."

Collins said that it should not be difficult for seniors to find upper-division electives to fill their requirements.

More student workers also have been added to help this year, Collins said, and Registrar officials will work closely with officials in UK's computer services to deal with any problems that arise.

University Registrar Randall Dahl said that Add-drop tomorrow should run smoother than last semester, but the ultimate success of the day depends on students.

"I guess there's a limit to how efficient you can be at the beginning of the semester," Dahl said. "One thing we can't do with the system is create (more) space" in classes.

Students should be flexible in scheduling their classes and come prepared with alternatives tomorrow, Dahl said.

"What slows (Add-drop) down is when people have to stop and think, 'Gee, what do I do next?'" We have to do business on the spot," he said.

Registrar officials said they want students to get the classes they are interested in, but in going through Add-drop students must be realistic.

"If you didn't get the schedule you wanted ... chances are you are not going to get what you want" tomorrow, Collins said.

"We're never going to be able to do away with (Add-drop) ... because of the nature of student life. ... All we can do is try to make it as pleasant and efficient a process with the vast numbers we have to serve," she said.

If students cannot make their assigned times, the Registration Center, 230 Student Center, will remain open until 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Here's Your First Lesson In College Economics.

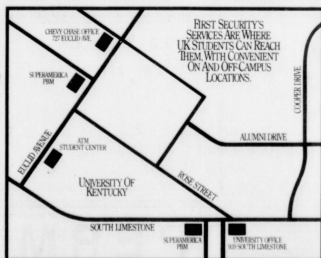

A quality education costs a lot of money. We're sure you already knew that. First Security Bank has a lot of money. You probably already knew that, too. But maybe you didn't already know that First Security Bank considers a college education to be a great investment, and that maybe we'd like to invest in yours.

NOW YOU KNOW.

If you need money for college, come see us. First Security has lots of ways to help college students, including a number of student loans with some very attractive terms.

But loans are only one way First Security

can be a help to you. With an office just a few minutes away from the University, and several QUEST®/CIRRUS® Automatic Teller Machines directly on campus, First Security's services are always within easy reach of UK students. We offer a wide range of checking accounts, savings accounts, and a great deal more.

IT PAYS TO BANK WITH FIRST SECURITY.

Open a First Security Basic Checking Account now, and you'll have your checks and your account ready for you just a few days later. It's an account with no monthly service charges. And no minimum balance requirement—you pay only for the checks you write. You'll also have unlimited use of over 40 First Security QUEST®/CIRRUS® machines in Lexington and hundreds more all over Kentucky and beyond.

Bring this coupon to any convenient First Security office and you'll get a $5 discount from the nominal initial charge—and an "A" on your first lesson in college economics.

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW AND SAVE $5.

Present this coupon at any First Security office and receive $5 off the cost of a Basic Checking Account. Or if you already have a Basic Checking Account, use the $5 savings toward the purchase of your next order of checks. Offer expires Feb. 28, 1990.

One First Security Plaza, Lexington, KY 40507
