

Four UK Students Arrested On Narcotics, Larceny Charges

Four University of Kentucky freshmen who boasted they came to college to become "bigtime gangsters" were arrested early Thursday morning in their rooms in the men's dormitories.

Two of them were charged with grand larceny and the sale of marijuana. The other two students were charged with the possession of barbiturates. Two non-students who were living in the dormitory with the four arrested students were charged with loitering and defrauding an innkeeper. Six other students are being questioned.

The police had not released the names of the students at press time.

The arrests followed an investigation which began with the January 10 commode explosion in Bradley Hall. Subsequent events included a similar commode explosion in Kinkaid Hall, the burning of Frazer Hall, 31 coin machine robberies at UK, break-ins in Lexington and Louisville, and the sale and possible use of marijuana and barbiturates.

The first report that University students might be involved in the use and sale of narcotics was received by Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin on January 20. A UK student living in the dormitories overheard the arrested students discussing narcotics and reported it to Dean Martin. The student was warned by Dean Martin not to divulge this information.

University officials notified the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and cooperated with them in admitting an undercover agent who moved into the room of one of the principal suspects.

The Lexington police were already investigating the commode explosions and thefts and participated with the narcotic agents in the arrests.

At a press conference Thursday morning, President H. L. Donovan said, "The University could have sidestepped all bad publicity by easing the young gangsters out of school, but we felt we had an obligation to society to help catch them."

Because the four had repeatedly been implicated in the commode explosions and coin machine thefts, the University had planned to dismiss them at the end of the first semester.

However, after the narcotic threat had been discovered, Dean Martin was authorized by President Donovan to place them on disciplinary probation so that they could be observed by the Narcotics Bureau undercover man.

Donovan stated that the investigation would have been discontinued immediately if any students had been placed in physical jeopardy or if University property had been seriously threatened.

The undercover agent was able to collect enough concrete evidence to arrest two of the students for grand larceny and the sale of marijuana. More charges may be made after the students are questioned.

The students admitted to him that they had looted pinball machines, coin machines, and had robbed bus-juans to the undercover man.

They will be arraigned on this charge before a U. S. Commissioner in Louisville. Two Louisville men also will be arrested for the sale of marijuana.

The Lexington police arrested two other students for the possession of barbiturates.

At least one of the grand larceny charges is based on a recent Lexington hotel theft. An electrical appliance display set up for a convention was looted by the students. Lexington Chief of Police E. C. Hale said many small appliances, including percolators, mixers, radios, and skillets, were found in one of the student's rooms.

The narcotics undercover man said the students told him that they had checked into the hotel, remained for several hours, and then walked out with the loot in their suitcases.

The arrests occurred at 5:30 a. m. Thursday. A Kernal staff member gave the following eyewitness account:

Lexington and campus police converged on the men's quadrangle and blocked the entrances to all the dormitories. Three or four city policemen and a narcotics agent went to each of the student's rooms. The arrested students lived in Kinkaid, Bradley, and Bowman Halls.

The police opened the doors of the rooms with passkeys, switched on the lights, and wakened the students. The warrants were read, and the students were told to dress. After they dressed, they were handcuffed. All the arrested students were very quiet and orderly. One of them asked for a cigarette and a drink of water. He was given the cigarette and told he could have a drink on the way out.

The rooms were thoroughly searched. The stolen appliances were found in one room and loaded into two trunks. Some barbiturates and a pistol were located in another room. The police also confiscated four knives. No marijuana was discovered.

The arrests were made so quietly that the roommate of one of the arrested students did not awaken. The police were gone by 6:15 a. m.

In a written report to President Donovan, Dean Martin said, "It is important to note that the ring leaders in this group of hoodlums are freshman students who came to UK for the first time in September with full intent to carry on their activities of crime. These individuals were junior gangsters who deliberately organized and planned crimes before and after coming to UK and boasted to the undercover agent that they intended to become 'big time mobsters' who would be educated and therefore able to evade the law."

IFC Amends Constitution; Pledge Standing Lowered

By TOM BRABANT

Fraternity pledges who make a "C" standing are now eligible for initiation.

The Interfraternity Council Tuesday night amended its constitution to lower the present grade requirement from a 2.2 standing to a 2. for a pledge to be initiated. The amendment, passed unanimously, is retroactive to the fall semester.

This means that any pledge who made a 2. last semester can be initiated. In addition, IFC ruled, any pledge from previous semesters, if he made a 2. last semester, can be initiated. Although these old pledges must repledge, they don't have to wait for an organized rush period. They must only resign their old pledge card in the Dean of Men's Office.

The amendment is similar to the Panhellenic rule recently adopted. Although it lowers the IFC requirements for initiation, it does not prevent a fraternity from imposing a higher grade requirement if it so desires. Some sororities, for instance, require anywhere from a 2.2 to a 2.5 for initiation.

Dean Martin, who attended the meeting Tuesday night, explained to the fraternity governing body that it was entirely within their power to lower the grade requirement.

"The University faculty," Martin said, "only requires a pledge to make a 2. The 2.2 requirement is an Interfraternity Council ruling."

At the meeting, Dean Martin also talked to the members about general scholarship of the fraternities. He said that only about four fraternities are on social probation this semester because they failed to make the required 2.2 overall fraternity standing.

This compares very favorably with other fall semesters when usually eight or nine fraternities fail to make the required standing.

He informed the group that his office had adopted a new rule to keep the fraternity's standings from being hurt by those pledges who drop out of school. Any pledge who withdraws officially from school before the 12th week of a semester will be dropped from a fraternity's pledge roster and his grades will not be averaged with that fraternity.

"Dec. 10 was the last date a pledge could drop last semester," Dean Martin said, "while April 28 will be the deadline this semester."

AN EDITORIAL

Nation-wide attention will probably be directed at the University of Kentucky because of the arrest of "students" charged with illegal use of narcotics and grand larceny.

Crime inevitably brings bad publicity, and the University may suffer much of the latter. But UK, in the words of President H. L. Donovan, believed that the good of society should be placed above possible bad publicity.

Had the University "taken the easy way out," evidence sufficient for arrest might not have been obtained. President Donovan and Dean of Men L. L. Martin, however, cooperated actively and effectively with the federal and local authorities.

The University made it clear that it would aid in gathering evidence against the arrested "students" only so long as there was no threat of injury to other students and University property.

Only another University president can fully grasp the problem that Dr. Donovan faced so squarely.

It would have been ridiculously easy not to have admitted the suspect "students" back into the University the second semester.

A problem, however, is not solved by running away from it.

Thus Dr. Donovan and Dean Martin, already in positions of heavy responsibility, assumed heavier loads to help make the arrest.

Gangsters in the guise of students are not a part of UK. University officials were not, as the suspects believed, ignorant of the criminal activities. They would have been dropped from the University long ago but for the fact that more than ordinary college life was affected.

The University has become the victim of a shocking incident, but the capable, prudent handling of the affair by the administration testifies that UK is indeed a great institution, dedicated to more than the sounding of public opinion.

State Budget May Include Med School

By MARNEY BEARD

When the third special session of the Kentucky General Assembly meets, Gov. A. B. Chandler will present the budget for the next fiscal period. In all probability this budget will include a proposed appropriation for establishment of a medical school at the University of Kentucky.

The idea behind this proposal was conceived in 1952 when the General Assembly directed the Legislative Research Commission to look into the "desirability and steps necessary" for the establishment of a state-supported medical school at UK.

This Commission appointed an Advisory Committee consisting of five Kentucky physicians to advise and assist them in the undertaking. This committee, working in cooperation with the Medical School Committee of the University of Kentucky, came to the conclusion that Kentucky does need another medical school for the following reasons:

- (1) There is a definite statewide shortage of physicians which, by 1965, could reach 1,800.
- (2) There has been a persistent downward trend in physician trends since the turn of the century in Kentucky.
- (3) The current rate of supply of new physicians is inadequate to maintain pace with the increasing population.
- (4) Kentucky depends heavily

Louisville Symphony Orchestra

Farrell, Louisville Orchestra To Appear Here Monday

Eileen Farrell will appear as soloist with the Louisville Symphony Orchestra at Memorial Coliseum at 8:15 p. m., Monday, March 5. The concert is sponsored by the Central Kentucky Community Concert and Lecture Series.

The Louisville Orchestra, conducted by Robert Whitney, is a classical-sized orchestra of 50 players operating on a budget of slightly over $100,000. In April, 1953, the Rockefeller Foundation awarded a grant of $400,000 to the orchestra for "a project to stimulate, encourage, and foster the creation, performance, and recording of new musical works by living composers."

A program which the orchestra undertook in 1948 led to the idea of the project commissioned by the Rockefeller Foundation. At the urging of Charles Farnsley, former mayor of Louisville, the orchestra decided to present a specially commissioned new work at every subscription concert. This placed the chief emphasis on the composer and his music rather than on the performer. Immediately this idea won the approval and interest of the Louisville audience.

Miss Farrell, a dramatic soprano has appeared with Toscanini, Mitropoulos, Ormandy, and Stokowski. She has also sung with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony more times than any other artist in the 114 year history of the orchestra. More recently her voice was on the sound track of the movie "Interrupted Melody" in which Eleanor Parker enacted the role of Marjorie Lawrence.

The program of the concert will consist of "Kentuckiana," a divertissement on 20 Kentucky folk songs, Milhaud; "Symphony No. 4 in D Minor," Schumann; "Wesendonck Lieder," Wagner, with Miss Farrell, soloist; "Vissi d'aria from 'Tosca,'" Puccini; "Un di vedremo from 'Madame Butterfly,'" Puccini; and Pace, Pace, Mio Dio from "La Forza Del Destino," Verdi, with Miss Farrell as soloist; and a suite, "Harry Janos," Kodaly.

WUS Drive Ends Short Of Goal

The World University Service received $502.70 from the drive conducted last week on campus. This was $497.30 short of the $1,000 goal set for UK this year. The figures, however, are not final as contributions are still being made. SGA has planned to give $50 and Civil Engineering, $25.

Contributions already made and the amounts are: all sororities, $66.22, with ZTA leading with a contribution of $17; fraternities, $123.71, Farm House leading with

Concert Series Announces Twelve Attractions For '56-'57

By VIRGINIA SNODGRASS

The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, making their only appearance in the South, will appear here next year as a feature attraction of the Central Kentucky Community Concert and Lecture Series. This orchestra will tour the United States and play in 30 cities from coast to coast.

Twelve attractions will be presented next year by the Central Kentucky Community Concert Association, eight concerts and four forum attractions. Next year's program will include concerts by Marian Anderson, contralto; Richard Tucker, Metropolitan tenor; and Gina Bachauer, Greek pianist. Miss Bachauer is recognized by critics as one of the greatest pianists of our time.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, conducted by William Steinberg, will make their second appearance here. Gregor Platigorsky, cellist, will be the soloist.

The Wagner Opera Company will return next year also. This time they will do "La Traviata" by Giuseppe Verdi. The National Swedish Chorus, composed of 50 male voices will make their first appearance here, and, for the first time a dance group, Jose Greco and his Dancers, will be presented.

The forum attractions will include the Canadian Players who will do either a Shakespearean or an Ibsen play. Alistair Cooke, master of ceremonies for the Ford TV Omnibus, will be the second attraction.

The Deputy Prime Minister of Great Britain, the Rt. Honorable Herbert Morrison will also appear.

Harrison Salisbury, New York Times reporter, will talk about his travels. He is one of the most widely traveled reporters in the Soviet territory and attended three of the Big Four meetings.

The association will also present a concert by the Central Kentucky Youth Symphony. This is the third year that the Youth Symphony, made up of representatives from nearly all the high schools in Central Kentucky, has appeared under the sponsorship of the Concert and Lecture Series.

Dr. Herman E. Spivey, dean of the Graduate School, and president of the Concert and Lecture Series said that the board of directors has appointed a committee to study ways to improve the Museum for concerts. Plans have been drawn up for a permanent stage which might possibly be constructed by next year if funds are available.

An architect from Dallas, Texas, has been on the campus for the last few days studying plans for a contractible band shell which would be suitable for small or large groups.

Guignol To Stage Taming Of Shrew

The Guignol Theater will present "The Taming of the Shrew" March 21-24. The Shakespeare comedy is the third play of the season and is under the direction of Wallace N. Briggs.

The cast includes Gene Arkle as Petruchio and Page Williams as Kate. Baptista's other daughter, Bianca, is played by Mary Ann Stevenson, and Ralph Albers will portray the father. The three suitors for Bianca's hand will be portrayed by Ben Story as Lucentio, Claude Trapp as Gremio and Norval Copeland as Hortensio.

Other members of the cast are Joe Ray in the role of Christopher Sly, Frances Nave as the hostess, David Withers played a lord, Charles Calloway as Vincentio, Fred Sitter as Tranio, John Veltri in the role of Blondello, Jim Hurt as Grumio, and Nancy Niles as Curtis.

Ronnie Boyd will be seen as the pedant, Irvin Pickett as the haberdasher, Jane Perkins as the widow, and Alec Murphy will portray the page.

Religious Convocation To Be Held Wednesday

The all-campus University Convocation for Religious Emphasis will be held Wednesday, March 22, at 9:50 a.m. in the Memorial Coliseum. Regular classes will continue at 11 a.m.

Dr. Vin White, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Lincoln, Neb., is to be the speaker for the convocation. His topic for the address will be "Let's Face It," the theme of the 1956 Religious Emphasis Week.

Other religious leaders who will be heard at various times and places throughout the week are Dr. C. J. Eliezer, professor of mathematics at the University of Ceylon, and his wife Mrs. Mary Eliezer; Dr. Bernard W. Fuhr, associate professor of education at Miami University (Ohio); Father Elmer Grosser, Rector of St. Plus X Seminary in Erlanger; Rev. James W. Gunn, pastor of United Presbyterian Church in Lebanon; Rev. T. O. Harrison, chaplain at Good Samaritan Hospital; Dr. Paul L. Holmer, professor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota.

The Rev. Frank R. Knutti, rector of Immanuel Episcopal Church in Winchester; Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Mert Lampton, staff chaplain at Ft. Knox; Dr. Earl A. Moore, professor of English at Western Kentucky State College; Dr. Howard E. Short, professor of church history at the College of the Bible; Rev. William D. Swift, director of the Methodist Student Movement at Southern Methodist University; and Rabbi Herbert S. Waller, rabbi of Temple Adath Israel in Louisville.

Seminars will be held at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday in the Music Room of the Student Union Building. Worship services to which all denominations are invited will be held in the Y Lounge of the SUB each afternoon at 5 p.m.

In addition to these events there will be speakers in various college assemblies, classrooms, sororities, fraternities, clubs and other organizations on the campus throughout the week.

Books concerning religion and religious thought will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday in the Y Lounge of the SUB.

A program similar to the present RE Week was held on campus for the first time in 1939. That year, the Federal Council of Churches, now the National Council of Churches, chose UK as one of the few schools to have a University Christian Mission. The Council sent in 18 noted speakers from various parts of the nation to participate in the mission.

Some of the past themes for RE Week have been "Religion in the Modern World," "Take Time to Look at Life," "God on the Cam-

THE CARE AND FEEDING OF ROOM-MATES

Today we take up room-mates, a delightful phenomenon of American college life. Having a room-mate is not only heaps of fun; it is also very educational, for the proper study of mankind is man, and there is no better way to learn the dreams and drives of another human being than to share a room with him.

This being the case, it is wise not to keep the same room-mate too long, because the more room-mates you have, the more you will know about the dreams and drives of human beings. And that's what we're all after, isn't it?

So try to change room-mates as often as you can. A recent study made by Sigafos of Michigan State shows that the best interval for changing room-mates is every four hours.

Now let us discuss how to go about choosing a room-mate. Most counselors agree that the most important thing to look for in room-mates is that they be people of regular habits. This, I say, is arrant nonsense. What if one of their regular habits happens to be beating a gong from midnight to three a.m.? Or growing cultures in the tooth glass? Or reciting the Articles of War? Or peanut brittle?

Regular habits indeed! I say that beyond quibble, far and away the most important quality in room-mates is that they be exactly your size. Otherwise you will have to have their clothes altered to fit you, which can be a considerable nuisance. In fact, it is sometimes flatly impossible. I recollect one time I roomed with a man named Tremblatt Osage who was just under seven feet tall and weighed nearly four hundred pounds. There wasn't a blessed thing I could use in his entire wardrobe—until one night when I was invited to a masquerade party. I cut one leg off a pair of Tremblatt's trousers, jumped into it, sewed up both ends and went to the party as a bolster. (Incidentally, I took second prize. First prize went to a girl named Antenna Wilkins who poured molasses over her head and went as a candied apple.)

But I digress. Let us get back to the qualities that make desirable room-mates. Not the least of these is the cigarettes they smoke. When we borrow cigarettes, do we want them to be harsh, shoddy, and disdainful of our palates? Certainly not! What, then, do we want them to be? Why, we want them to be gentle, delicately-reared, and designed to suit the tempo of today's broader, easier life! And what cigarette is gentle, delicately-reared, and designed to suit the tempo of today's broader, easier life? Why, Philip Morris, of course! (I'll bet you knew it all the time!)

To go on. In selecting a room-mate, take great pains to find someone who will wear well, whom you'd like to keep as a permanent friend. Many of history's great friendships first started in college. Are you aware, for example, of the remarkable fact that Johnson and Boswell were room-mates at Oxford in 1712? What makes this fact so remarkable is that in 1712 Johnson was only three years old and Boswell had not been born yet. But, of course, children matured much earlier in those days. Take Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart who wrote his first symphony at the age of four. Or Titian, who painted his first masterpiece at five. Or Hans Otto McGrath, who was in many ways the most remarkable of all; he was appointed chief of the Copenhagen police department at the age of six!

(It must be admitted, however, that the appointment was less than a success. Criminals roamed the city, robbing and looting at will. They knew young McGrath would never pursue them; he was not allowed to cross the street.)

The makers of Philip Morris, who sponsor this column, cordially invite you and your room-mate to try today's new, gentle Philip Morris. It's always welcome!

Med School Needed

The fate of the University of Kentucky Medical School will probably be decided within the next four weeks. A special session of the Legislature will meet during this time to set up the state's budget for the coming two years. Part of their debate will center around the medical school and Kentucky's health problems.

Here are the facts that face the lawmakers:

1. Kentucky has a shortage of about 1,400 doctors, and the supply of new physicians is inadequate to overcome the critical shortage.
2. Kentucky's physician-population ratio is one physician to 1,240 persons while the national ratio is one to 842.
3. Forty three per cent of Kentucky's doctors are trained in out-of-state medical schools.
4. The rural physician-population ratio in Kentucky is one to 1,976, one of the lowest in the nation.
5. Adequate medical care for the state's indigent population is practically non-existent in most areas.

These facts show that Kentucky's most urgent needs are for more doctors and better distribution of doctors. The state needs more clinics and hospitals, but first there must be doctors to staff these facilities.

Most people realize this, but the state is sharply divided on whether a new school should be built or the University of Louisville Medical School should be expanded.

The University of Louisville proponents say the cost of expanding the present school would be much less than building a new one.

The UK school would cost the taxpayers between $11,000,000 and $16,000,000 depending on federal grants. Exact figures can't be quoted for the expansion of Louisville.

There are several good objections against expanding the University of Louisville. For one thing, it is unconstitutional to use state funds to build a wing on a municipal medical school. Secondly, a new, modern plant at Lexington would have much better training facilities than the University of Louisville, even with the addition of a new wing.

Also the University of Louisville's tuition is one of the highest in the country. Louisville charges $800 a year while the national average is $623 a year. The UK med school would charge $350 a year.

Finally, a very low percentage of Kentuckians graduating from Louisville remain in the state. Between 1940-1951 less than 35 per cent of the doctors graduated from Louisville remained in the state. This can be compared to a nation-wide average of over 57 per cent. Whether this deficiency can be blamed on the University of Louisville is debatable. Nevertheless these are the facts.

Kentucky also needs to remedy the doctor-distribution problem. The state has 76 counties with 2,500 or more persons for each general practitioner.

The lowered tuition at UK med school might help the problem some. A good many young men who would like to go to med school can't because of finances. An enlarged state loan fund to medical students would greatly help. Under the present plan students can borrow enough money to pay their way through medical school provided they agree to practice in a rural area for five years. They also must pay the money back. Perhaps it would be more of an incentive if the money were a grant instead of a loan.

Finally, rural counties should provide a clinic and housing for doctors who would agree to practice in their communities.

No matter what plan is approved, Kentucky must do something. After reviewing the possibilities, the most reasonable solution would be the establishment of a medical school at the University of Kentucky.

Lowered Standing

This week the Interfraternity Council lowered the standing required for initiation of a pledge to 2.0. The previous requirement was 2.2.

The lowered standing ruling, which was retroactive to last semester, is wise from several standpoints. An independent need only make a 2.0 standing to stay in good graces with the University and ultimately graduate. It is unfair to ask more of a student simply because he is a fraternity man.

It should also be remembered that the majority of fraternity pledges are freshmen who often find it difficult to "settle down" the first semester and make a higher than "C" average standing.

Male students at UK have much more freedom and leeway than do the coeds. They are not required to keep dormitory hours, and thus many freshmen, away from home for the first time, do not manage their time as wisely as possible. By their sophomore year, these men are more adjusted to college life and are consequently more able to make better grades.

Of course fraternities are still required to maintain a 2.3 overall, under penalty of social probation, for all actives and pledges, during the year. It is still the fraternities' duty to see that their pledges are impressed with the importance of making good grades.

The lowered standing may take a certain degree of incentive from fraternity pledges, and thereby may lower the fraternities' overall scholastic standing. Fraternities also may now pledge men with "minimum" standings, rather than with the 2.2 past requirement.

Fair Weather Fans

Kentucky has lost five games and borrowing the words of Thomas Paine, "these are the times that try men's souls."

One might also think of Paine's condemnation of the "summer soldier and the sunshine patriot." For though basketball hardly resembles war, one might readily compare the UK fair weather fan with Paine's sunshine patriot.

It is the fair weather fan that blasts the Wildcats for their loss to Alabama. He is the one that doffs school spirit as easily as he would shed a moulting fur piece.

Sadly enough, UK has all too many fair weather fans. When the Big Blue is "riding high" on a winning streak—as the team has been for years—this type of fan is always ready to identify himself with the University of Kentucky.

But when Kentucky loses, well, that's another story. The fair weather fan turns his once booming cheer to a malevolent hiss. He is quick to ridicule, quick to offer his armchair advice concerning "the ills of the team."

Like the sunshine patriot, the lukewarm Kentucky fan is willing to cast his lot with a team only in victory. He shrinks from the scene when the going looks rough.

Actually the Wildcats have had a good season. The competition has been rough, and the impressive wins outweigh by far the scattered losses. If Kentucky does not finish the king of the Southeastern Conference, it will at least be in the royal court. The Wildcats are no cellar-ranking team.

Other colleges this year, which are much larger than UK, have basketball records that do indeed look hopeless. But the students and fans of these institutions still back their squads with the same fervor as though they were champions.

Fair weather fans would do well to throw away their crying towels and their not-so-sterling hindsight advice and begin considering the real values of a top-grade team. Whether the losses are five or five times five, Kentucky deserves more than some of its sunshine patriots have to offer.

Dames Club Speaks

WIVES OF UK STUDENTS:

If you are the wife of a UK student you may become a member of the Dames Club, a National organization of wives of University students.

Began in 1946, at the request of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Donovan, and sponsored by the University Woman's Club, the UK Chapter of Dames has developed into an organization with a variety of different programs. In 1946 it became a member of the National Association of University Dames, and at present there are over 70 chapters representing nearly all of the States.

The purpose of the Club is of a social nature, endeavoring to make your stay in Lexington more pleasant. You have the opportunity to meet girls whose interests are similar to your own, and to become a part of campus life as well as maintain or develop interest in bridge, swimming arts and crafts, and the newly established exercise group. Having a good time is foremost in the minds of Dames but we are also interested in various service projects.

If Hubby gets a degree so do you! A PhT (putting hubby thru) is given to the wives of graduating students in May.

In addition to the individual meetings of the activity groups, there is one major meeting the first Wednesday of each month in the music room of the student union building at 7:30. This is your Club! It is your participation that gives it warmth and purpose. Be our guest March 7th and see for yourself if you would like to become a Dame.

Cordially yours,
Vivian Acton, President
UK Chapter, NAUD

Short Shift

The long Christmas and mid-term vacations are merely false fronts for the long, tedious spring semester. Nearly all universities in the nation have an extended spring vacation. Could it be that UK is behind times?

The person who continually cuts his classes thinks he is really getting away with something. He is like the man who cut off his nose to spite his face.

Some students scoff at extra-curricular activities. But isn't it strange that employers generally ask about them before hiring?

Many campus organizations which advertise their activities as being for "charitable means" often fail to publicize where the money goes after the event is over. Is it the activity or the charity that counts?

Most people seldom recognize a typographical error until they see their name spelled incorrectly in print.

Walking 'Peace Pilgrim' Visits Kentucky Campus

By JOE GOODMAN

With three fourths of her 10,000-mile journey behind her, the walking "Peace Pilgrim" tarried for a few moments last Monday morning to speak to a Journalism class in news-writing. She restated her petition for world disarmament and told how she became dedicated to the cause of world peace.

When the Peace Pilgrim walks 2,125 more miles, she will have come to the end of her journey. She began in 1953 in Los Angeles and walked a direct 5,000 miles to New York City on the second half of her jaunt she will walk at least 100 miles in Canada, Mexico, and all of the 48 states winding up at the capitol of each.

In Kentucky she began in Louisville, walked to Lawrenceburg, Lexington, and then on to Frankfort. Here she told Governor Chandler about her peace pilgrimage.

The Peace Pilgrim is not affiliated with any religious or political organization. She says she will worship with or speak to any group that has a sincere desire to see peace established throughout the world.

In her talk she said "My friends, the world situation is grave. Unless we, the people of the world, awake from our lethargy and push firmly and quickly away from chaos, all that we cherish will be destroyed in the holocaust which will descend."

Three petitions are carried by the Pilgrim, two of which have been granted. The first was for peace in Korea and the second for a Secretary of Peace in the President's Cabinet. The third is for world disarmament.

The Peace Pilgrim said that she has dedicated her life to service with a prayer and a vow. The prayer is for peace. The vow is that "I shall remain a wanderer until mankind has learned the way of peace—walking until I am given shelter, fasting until I am given food, and using money given me to spread the peace message."

A grey haired, ruddy complexioned woman in her forties, the Peace Pilgrim refused to disclose her true identity. She maintained that she wanted people to take interest in her message of peace, not her.

Workshop Proprietor Defends Cocktail Column, Kernel Policies

By RAY HORNBACK

Last week I was approached by a professor who felt that a recent Workshop satire on a cocktail party was completely out of taste in the Kernel.

I had an interesting talk with the professor, but he didn't convince me that he was right. His general theme or line of argument was that a student paper should depict and present the educational and morally acceptable events offered on the campus.

He pointed out that UK students are exposed to the world's finest entertainment as a result of the Community Concert Series. The Blazer Lecture Series, he commented, offers the student a serious, thought provoking insight into contemporary society.

Why not discuss such events, he asked? Why delve into a lowly affair such as a student cocktail party?

I offered the following reasons in defense.

First off, it is the duty of the newspaper to present campus life as a whole. If cocktail parties are given, why try to snuff out all accounts of them?

Secondly, the satirical account definitely did not glorify the party. If anything, it made the participants look somewhat foolish.

Then there is the argument that the newspaper should cater to the whims of the reader. It's a well known fact that students are not going to read a lengthy discussion of concerts and lectures if such discussions are offered week after week.

From this line of reasoning we find justification in running light and airy bits aimed solely at entertainment, even if said bits do depict a cocktail party.

And lastly, we felt hurt when accused of slighting the intellectual, spiritual and educational events on campus. We dispute this accusation by suggesting that critics take a look at last week's front page. One top story was on Religious Emphasis Week, while another concerned the Mozart Piano Festival. The previous week we ran an editorial asking student support for the World University Service drive.

Thus the Workshop Proprietor does not feel the Kernel is presenting a one-sided view of campus life.

But we do agree with the aforementioned professor when he said that both the concert and lecture series are woefully lacking in student attendance. Last Thursday we were able to count only a dozen or so students at the symposium held in Memorial Coliseum.

And we'll be mighty disappointed if there's not a tremendous student turnout at Monday night's concert. Eileen Farrell, one of the greatest dramatic sopranos of our time, and the Louisville Orchestra, one of the finest in the land, will present what should be the finest concert of the year.

Any student who passes up this opportunity is punishing only himself. Just flash your ID cards—that's all you need to get in.

J. Paul Sheedy* Was An Udder Failure Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

The boys were having a bull session in Sheedy's room. "It's no yoke," beeted Sheedy. "Heifer-y girl I ask for a date turns me down flat." Then Sheedy's roommate spoke up: "There's good moos tonight J. Paul. Try some of my Wildroot Cream-Oil on those cowlicks." Sheedy did and now he's the cream of the campus. Farm Implements Now On Display In Ag Building

An exhibit of farm implements used by the pioneers and the latest developments in farm machinery is on display in the Agricultural Engineering Building.

Among things that can be seen is a hay rake which was designed in 1720, a replica of the reaper designed and built by Cyrus McCormick in 1831, a plow presented to Henry Clay in 1845, a plow made in 1795, a mower made in 1876, a hempbreak, a calf yoke, grain drill, wheat fans, and a cradle that came into use during the Revolutionary War.

There are pictures and illustrations of early farming methods and a map of the United States in 1831 when McCormick invented his reaper.

COLONEL of the WEEK

Due to overwhelming public sentiment, the Kernel, violating a long-standing policy of running two consecutive non-journalism majors, is proud to announce the Stirrup Cup's Colonel of the Week, George Spalding.

George is an accounting major in the College of Commerce and possesses a 2.5 overall standing.

His activities include president of Delta Chi Fraternity, Interfraternity Council treasurer, a member of the Newman Club, Delta Sigma Pi, Committee of 240, College Chamber of Commerce, and the United Students Party.

For these achievements, the Stirrup Cup invites George to enjoy any two of its delicious meals.

UK Purchases 202 Acre Farm

The University of Kentucky recently purchased a 202-acre farm on the Nicholasville Road at a cost of $270,000, Vice-President Frank D. Peterson said today.

The land, formerly known as the Hughlett Farm, is located three miles south of the present Agricultural Experiment Station, also on the Nicholasville Road. It will be added to the Experiment Station and will be used to develop basic plot research work.

The first tobacco cultivation was undertaken at Jamestown, Va., in 1612 by John Rolfe.

Officers Elected

Kappa Alpha Theta installed the following officers Wednesday night: Tappie Daniel, president; Elizabeth Davies, vice-president; Bettysue Gibson, corresponding secretary; and Shirley Park, treasurer.

The new president of Alpha Delta Pi is Tamara Thompson; Pat Vay, vice-president; Nancy Taylor, recording secretary; Mary Kenny, corresponding secretary; and Sherrill Cooper, treasurer.

Keeneland Hall elected Sandra Peterson, president; Nell Logan, vice-president; Angela Haick, secretary; Julia Hawkins, treasurer; Susan Goulett, social chairman; and Patricia Blackburn, activities chairman.

Room Judging Contest

A campus wide room judging contest will be held in conjunction with the Keeneland and Jewell Halls open houses Sunday afternoon. Jewell Hall will be open from 2-5 p.m. and Keeneland from 3-5 p.m.

Four awards will be made in the contest, a silver cup for cleanest and best looking dormitory room, a silver cup for the best room in a sorority house, one silver bowl for the dormitory and one for the sorority house with the best overall appearance.

At the open house, girls can show their guest their rooms, leave the rooms open for general inspection, or if they don't want to be disturbed they must lock their door, said Mrs. Lewis Harvard, head resident of Keeneland Hall. The contest is sponsored by the House Presidents Council.

Late permission has been granted for the Inter-Dorm Dance to be held from 8:30-12:30 Saturday, March 10 in the Student Union Ballroom.

For the first time the freshman residence halls are participating in the invitational dance. Invitations will be distributed to the girls in the dormitories for them to give to whomever they please. Two additional invitations will be sent to each fraternity and sorority on campus. These will be given to the social chairman and vice-president of the organizations.

"Poppa" John Gordy will furnish the music for the semi-formal dance. Arrangements for the dance were in charge of Mrs. Carolyn Pennington, head resident of Boyd Hall.

Ginger Returns From Conference

Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, dean of the College of Adult and Extension Education, returned last week from the National Conference of Magazine Editors and Educators. The conference was held Feb. 23 and 24 in New York City.

Outstanding magazine editors and educators from all over the nation met to determine how journalists and educators can best work together in the interests of education.

As a result of the conference, many articles on the general topics, "Is Reading Really Here to Stay?" and "Is Our Education Failing to Produce Leaders?" will be seen in our national magazines during the coming year.

The conference was started three years ago with the purpose of bringing educators and journalists together in order to take a positive approach to the problems in education.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the Magazine Publishers Association and the National Education Association.

The Kernel Was There

Five Years Ago (March 2, 1951)

"We have become 180 million worriers here in the midst of the greatest accumulation of material strength the world has ever known," stated John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, at the 86th Founders Day Convention. Dr. Hannah added that the land-grant colleges "must take the lead in restoring faith in America."

Walt Hirsch scored 21 points to help the nation's "Number One" team beat Georgia 88-41. The Wildcats closed their regular season with a 24-1 record as they clawed Vanderbilt 89-57 to remain undefeated in conference play.

Ten Years Ago (March 1, 1946)

Jack Parkinson was Kentucky's leading scorer with twelve points per game through 22 games. He was followed by Wallace Jones, Ralph Beard, Jack Tingle, and Wilbur Schu.

The Wildcats' 83-40 victory over Xavier gave them a record of 20 and two.

Sigma Chi won the intramural basketball championship, with the Gas House Gang second.

Twenty-Five Years Ago (March 3 and 6, 1931)

A Kernel editorial noted the petition signed by ten thousand college students advocating the abolition of compulsory military training on the grounds that the system taught "doctrines contrary to the principles of the American government," sought "to idealize war," and was opposed by "the majority of student opinion." The Kernel thought, however, "that the abolition of the program would be a positive detriment to the progress of the University."

New Dorm To Be Built

Application for a $1,100,000 loan to be used in building a new women's dormitory was recently submitted by the University of Kentucky to the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Atlanta, Georgia, Vice-President Frank D. Peterson said today.

Peterson stated that if the loan is approved, work will start on the new dormitory in March and should be completed in approximately 16 months. He also said that, judging from all indications, the loan would be approved.

The entire loan, Peterson said, will be used solely for construction of the dormitory. It will be carried as a 40-year bond issue at an interest rate of 2% annually.

The dormitory, which will be located on South Limestone Street on the corner of the Avenue of Champions, will be named Holmes Hall in honor of the Dean of Women, Sarah B. Holmes.

Loan Fund Available To All Students

If you're a deserving student and need a loan to help pay your educational expenses while here at the University, the University Student Loan Fund is ready, willing, and able to help you.

These were the words of Dr. C. C. Carpenter, dean of the College of Commerce, and chairman of the Procedures Committee, which administers these loans.

Over the years, especially the past 10-15, it has grown by gifts, fines, and interest income, till it has reached $106,000, an all-time high.

These loans are made to students

Jockey Al Brown tried to gain weight at Nonmouth Park. The 18-year-old rider had to make 105 pounds so he could join the Navy rather than be drafted.

for essential educational expenses, such as registration fees, books, room, and board. They are usually repaid on an installment basis, of $10 or more each month.

The student desiring a loan signs a promissory note, along with a co-signer, who is preferably a member of the family. Simple 4% interest is charged while the loan is outstanding. The average loan is $300, which helps to pay the students expenses for one semester, thus making for better control of the funds.

Loans are not usually given to first semester students because the Procedures Committee wants to see if the student can do successful work. Also, those desiring a loan should have a standing of "C" or better.

Maturity of the loan is usually made to suit the student, and normally that is after the student graduates. Outstanding loans to students at present total $35,000, the balance being invested in Government Bonds.

Under rules of the UK Board of Trustees, $50,000 of the $106,000 may be loaned to deserving students. The board is of the opinion that the remainder should be kept to insure a balance in the future, but Dr. Carpenter hastily added, that it would be increased if there were a demand. He pointed out that only last month it was increased from $30,000 to $50,000.

At present there are 350 outstanding loans, Dr. Carpenter said, as compared with about 200 last semester. Increased cost of living and a decrease in the number of students receiving veterans support were given as reasons for this up-swing in the number of loans.

"We never have turned down a loan for lack of money", Dr. Carpenter said, however, we do decline to make loans to students who are extravagant, not in good standing, or other obvious reasons.

Let's Take A Look At Shakespeare

"If you can't prove Shakespeare wrote Shakespeare, you can't prove that anybody wrote anything."

This is the opinion of Dr. Ben Black, UK Shakespearean instructor, of an article by Calvin Hoffman published in the New York Herald Tribune, Feb. 26.

Hoffman, a long-time advocate of the theory that Christopher Marlowe wrote the works attributed to Shakespeare, plans to attend the opening of the tomb of Sir Thomas Walsingham, Marlowe's patron, which may contain documentary proof that Marlowe authored the works attested to Shakespeare.

Dr. Black said that the alleged Marlowe-Shakespeare hoax would be almost impossible. When a play is produced, for the first time, it almost invariably has to be at least partially re-written. These changes are usually made during rehearsals.

If the plays were written by Marlowe and passed on to Shakespeare as Hoffman believes, then Shakespeare would never have been able to handle the on-the-spot re-writing, Black said.

If the work were sent back to Marlowe, then at least 50 people would have known the secret. That many people could not have kept it a secret, Black added.

According to Hoffman, Marlowe's "murder" was arranged by Walsingham to save Marlowe from a death sentence on a charge of blasphemy. On May 29, 1593, the charge was filed with the Privy Council. Three days later Marlowe's death was announced.

Hoffman said that Walsingham, to protect his friend, "concocted with his employees the murder of someone, an unknown victim", who was buried as Marlowe. Marlowe then left England for the Continent.

Legally dead, he continued writing and sent his manuscripts to Walsingham who arranged to have the unknown William Shakespeare pose as the author.

Hoffman supported his theory that the Shakespearean poems and plays were Marlowe's in several ways. In the first place, Shakespeare made a sudden appearance on the British literary scene only four months after Marlowe's death was reported. Until that time he had been an actor with no literary accomplishments. According to Hoffman there are only three known facts about Shakespeare before his 30th year—his baptism, 1564; his marriage, 1582, and the fatherhood of three children by 1585.

There is no evidence that Shakespeare received even a grammar school education. His manner of writing parallels that of Marlowe, who was an Oxford graduate. Finally, the inquest record of Marlowe's death gave the name of the murderer as Ingram Frizer, an employee of Walsingham.

Dr. Black said, "A certain amount of intellectual snobbery seems to be bound up in this business." People tend to overlook Shakespeare's genius, he added. They don't like to believe that a relatively uneducated man can make such a mark in the world.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Dick Abraham of Bell Telephone Laboratories, here experimenting with closing the loop on a transistor feedback amplifier.

"I'm working with top names and top talent"

That's one of Richard P. Abraham's comments about his career with Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, N. J. "In 1954, after I'd received my M.S. from Stanford," Dick continues, "I was interviewed by a number of companies. Of these I liked the Bell Labs interview best—the interviewer knew what he was talking about, and the Labs seemed a high-caliber place.

"The Labs have a professional atmosphere, and I'm really impressed by my working associates. As for my work, I've been on rotating assignments—working with transistor networks and their measurement techniques, studying magnetic circuitry, and doing classified work on Nike. This experience is tremendous.

"In addition to the job, I attend Lab-conducted classes on a graduate level several times a week. Besides that, the Labs are helping me get a Ph.D. at Columbia by giving me time off to get to late afternoon classes. That's the kind of co-operation you really appreciate from your company.

"What are important to me are the opportunities offered by the job and the work itself. My wife and I own a house near Murray Hill, and we've found a lot of friends through the Labs. All in all, I think I'm in the right kind of place."

Dick Abraham is typical of the many young men who are finding their careers in the Bell System. Similar career opportunities exist in the Bell Telephone Companies, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information about these companies.

Foreign Language Department To Offer Tour To Mexico

Would you like to visit Mexico this summer? Have you ever seen a bullfight or swam in a mountain pool filled with gardenias? These are just two of the activities that students will experience in Mexico by enrolling for the summer session of travel and study offered by the Department of Modern Foreign Languages. The session will be from June 11 to Aug. 5.

Dr. Alberta W. Server, associate professor of Romance Languages, will direct the group.

Approximately 15 cities will be visited, including Mexico City, Veracruz, Monte Alban, and Puebla. At Monte Alban, students will see the remains of civilizations that were there before the Spaniards came to Mexico.

Headquarters for the session will be at Puebla, a colonial city founded in the 16th century.

Six to nine semester credit hours may be taken, and they will be recorded as UK residence credits, which are transferable to other institutions.

April 15 is the deadline for enrollment.

Late Season Starring Role Captured Again By Brewer

By BO GRIFFIN

Clutch player and late-season performer—these are the tags that have been hung on John Brewer since his arrival at the University of Kentucky.

John came to the University after playing three years of basketball at Eastern High School, near Louisville. He was selected on the All State team his senior year. John also participated in the East-West All Star game at Pikeville, and played in the Kentucky-Ohio and Kentucky-Indiana All Star contests. In the Indiana game, held at Louisville, he was selected as the outstanding player of the game.

Last year John got the chance to peddle his wares after Phil "Cookie" Grawmeyer broke his leg in the DePaul game at Chicago. He was a member of the starting five for the rest of the season.

This season Brewer started the opening game against LSU and pumped in 13 points. He has been used primarily in a reserve role since then. However he earned a starting position against Georgia when Coach Rupp changed his lineup.

Brewer is a 6-3, 170 pound junior and is enrolled in the College of Commerce. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

John thinks his greatest thrill in sports was playing in the NCAA tournament game against Marquette last year at Evanston.

Dayton was listed by Brewer as the best team he thinks the Cats have faced this year and ranks Duke as the best defensive club. Ron Sobieszczyk of DePaul got the nod as the best player to perform against the Wildcats this season. John thinks his best game was against Alabama last year when he scored 14 points.

Upon graduation from the University, John has a date with the U.S. Marines where he will serve for three years.

He also has to spend 12 weeks this summer at the Marine summer camp so he'll probably be in good shape when next year's cage season rools around.

Last Week Was Hectic For Cagers

By SCOOPIE WHITE IV

Basketball, Kentucky Wildcat style, went from one extreme to the other during the past week.

Last Saturday night Kentucky dropped the "big one" to the Alabama Crimson Tide 101-77. Then two nights later they came back to set five records and crush the Georgia Bulldogs 143-66 at the Louisville Armory.

The Bama game is one all Kentucky fans would like to forget. Both teams were tense during the first half and at the end the Tide was leading 43-40.

During the first three minutes of the second half, the score remained close with the Cats behind only 51-50.

Then it happened. Everything the Tide did was right, and everything the Cats did was wrong. Behind unbelievable shooting and a collapsing Kentucky defense, Alabama's lead went up to 58-50. And that was the ball game.

Records fell galore at Louisville Monday night. With the first team playing about 15 minutes the Cats tallied an amazing 75 points the opening half to lead 75-32 at intermission.

Coach Adolph Rupp sent in the subs to get experience and that they did. And they were as hot as the starting five, scoring 68 points the second half.

What records fell in the 143-66 victory?

Kentucky's total broke the SEC record of 120 set by Louisiana State University.

It broke the Armory record of 115 set by the University of Louisville.

Kentucky's team record of 116 points against Mississippi in 1952 was shattered. The Cats connected for 60 field goals for a new SEC record.

The 209 total points by the two teams broke the SEC record of 188 points set by Kentucky and Au-

Kickbacks

by TOM PRESTON
KERNEL SPORTS EDITOR

KENTUCKY MUST, if given the chance, pay its debts.

As of now the Cats don't deserve the privilege of a bid for the NCAA basketball tournament. But if tendered, UK must accept with a smile on its face and determination in its heart.

Three debts are standing for Kentucky to settle.

First, the team has to polish up its prestige with Alabama and the SEC. The Cats will be in a reserve roll, playing not just for themselves but for Bama and the conference. They must prove to the SEC and other sections that no one made a mistake when UK received the nod to be representative.

Debt number two is directed toward the thousands of never-give-up fans that have tried to add something to a better season. There is nothing wrong with a 19-5 record, providing Tennessee stumbles this Saturday night. But there is little doubt that the season could and should have been brighter.

There's always room for improvement. This year the room had more space to it.

The final debt must be paid by the players to themselves. Every cager that has donned a Wildcat uniform must have a slightly disappointed feeling somewhere in his mind. There isn't a basketball player on the roster that can truthfully state that he has given all he was capable of throughout the season. There isn't one Cat that can deny that some time or the other he has let down or given up. And there isn't a boy on the team that can honestly say he wouldn't like the chance to make up for something lost.

This column believes in the boys that wear Kentucky blue. But this column is also saddened by the results produced by a gang that could be national champs.

So Kentucky must accept the last challenge, even if they truly don't deserve the opportunity. Fate probably will throw the ticket their way and they will catch it. For when somethings got to be done . . . somethings just got to be done!

THE rule has ended for Adolph Rupp. It has been a long time since Kentucky has had the pressure it has received from conference foes this year. But it's Rupp's fault. And he should be proud.

Because Coach Rupp planted the seed that grew into the tree that uprooted the sidewalk that he's walked upon so long throughout the SEC. It's Rupp's tree . . . no one else's!

A 25 game schedule has been completed for UK's diamond squad. The baseball team has a lengthy trip at the first of the season starting March 26. Their first Lexington game will be April 6 with Georgia Tech. Nine home tilts have been planned for the team. Two are doubleheaders.

FOUR cagers are nesting in the double figures for scoring. Bob Burrow leads his mates with a 20.6 average. Following are Jerry Bird (16.1), Vern Hatton (13.6) and Gerry Calvert (11.6). Burrow also leads in rebounding with 319 for a 14.5 average a game. Bird and Phil Grawemeyer are tied with 248 grabs each.

The first actor of American birth was John Martin who appeared at the Old Southwark Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., 1790 as Young Norval in a play entitled "Douglas."

burn in 1954. SIX Cats hit in the double figures with Jerry Bird and Bob Burrow leading the way with 22 and 21 points respectively. Billy Ray Cassidy was next with 16, followed by Capt. Phil Grawemeyer with 13. Ray Mills and Billy Smith each added 10.

NEW LIGHT WEIGHT CHAMPION — Yes, a new lightweight champion is on the horizon—Bastie Oxford Cloth Shirts. You lovers of oxford cloth shirts (count me among ye!) will really flip over this new light weight oxford, in a variety of colors, with button down collars and barrel cuffs by Manhattan.

THE TREND — For Spring and Summer casual wear will be the return of an old favorite — The Striped Blazer Coat — they are very colorful and perfect to wear with Ivy League Slax. Take note and you will see that all the magazines are full of them and reasonably priced. To really top these blazers off, wear a smart looking "Flip It" cap.

CECIL FANNIN — Our campus representative, was in the store yesterday looking over our spring and summer sportswear. He was quite impressed with the styles and materials we are showing and picked out two of the new "Bernuda" sport shirts for himself. I see that I have run out of space—

So long for now.

Looking For That Trip???

This is a picture of UK's baseball team limbering its arms. It's not a very good picture since it shows only some athletes standing pretty still. Maybe they're thinking about that long southern trip that has been scheduled for them. Or maybe they're as disgusted as we are with this lousy picture!

Big Three End Season

Cats Meet Tennessee In Home Court Finale

By BILL HENRY

Three members of the Wildcats will be playing their swan song tomorrow night when Rupp's unpredictable Raiders tangle with Tennessee's Volmen in the season's finale.

Capt. Cookie Grawmeyer, forward Jerry Bird, and All-American center Bob Burrow, will be making their final appearance on the Coliseum hardwood.

This trio currently comprises the entire front line of the Cats and rank 5th, 2nd, and 1st, respectively in team scoring.

Center Carl Widseth is still leading the Orangemen with his close to 20 point average a game.

Although the Volunteers are having a very poor season, having won only nine games out of their 22 attempts, Widseth has been named to the Atlanta Constitution All-SEC second team at center.

The imported Iowan is also Captain of this year's edition of Coach Emmett Lowery's roundballers.

Other stellar performers for the Volunteers this season are Lewis Neyland, a big six foot plus who, along with Herman Thompson, a pesky guard, are carrying the major share of the scoring honors along with Capt. Widseth.

The last time out the Big Orange were edged by the Southeastern Conference champ Alabama 95-81.

He speaks well of the Tennesseans when this same Alabama team drubbed a hapless Wildcat five 101-77.

Kentucky, after being set back at the hands of the Red Elephants, are now blazing hot and should be able to handle the Vols.

The Cats last time out took sweet, but some what belated revenge on a completely outclassed Georgia Bulldog team 143-66.

Rupp's boys will be making their final home appearance for the season and should, in all probability, give the fans something to remember them by.

This game could also be a final competition tune-up before NCAA tournament play which the Big Blue hopes to participate in.

4-H Theme Is Toward Good Living

UK students will observe National 4-H Week, March 3-11, with the 4-H theme in mind. The theme is aimed toward improving Family and Community Living.

The University 4-H Club has been on the UK campus for more than 25 years. Sixty-one per cent of the students enrolled in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics were, or have been, 4-H club members, while almost 30 per cent of all undergraduate students in all colleges at the University have done 4-H work.

Students elected to lead the group at the University are president, Carl Haunz, Oldham County; vice president, Shirley Ford, Ohio County; secretary, Mary Lou Cooper, Wayne County; and treasurer, Buford Parris, Oldham County.

The first automobile advertisement in a national magazine appeared in 1900 in the Saturday Evening Post. The W. E. Roach Company of Pennsylvania featured their slogan, "Automobiles That Give Satisfaction."

upon the schools of other states for the medical training of its citizens. Forty-three per cent of Kentucky physicians were trained in out-of-state medical schools.

(5) Adequate medical care for the state's indigent population is practically non-existent in most areas.

In view of the above findings and the proposed appropriation, the University of Kentucky has invited Dr. Vernon Lippard, dean of the Medical School at Yale University, and one of the most distinguished medical educators in the country to visit the campus March 12-13 to consult with officials of UK, including the Board of Trustees and interested citizens.

Dr. Lippard will help Kentucky chart its course of action if the appropriation is approved and will recommend possible doctors who might be considered for the deanship of the new Medical School.
