Her topic will be "The Future of Children's Services in Public Libraries" and will discuss a study of the goals, trends and innovations in children's services in public libraries as seen by children's coordinators and outstanding practicing children's librarians in fifty of the largest cities in the country. The findings should have implications for all who offer library services to children.

SENATE NOTES

On March 21, the University Senate convened at the Law School. It was announced during the meeting that:

1. The campus-wide retirement dinner will be held April 4.
2. Pre-registration will be held on the dates announced in the official university calander, April 11-20.
3. Ad hoc committees have been formed to study the numbering of 400- and 500-level courses and to study academic ethics (cheating).
4. The decision to establish a master's degree program in Planning has been postponed.

The most heated debate occurred in connections with proposed changes in the University Withdrawal Policy. A procedure was finally adopted that a student may withdraw from a course during the first quarter of a term with no record of enrollment appearing on the student's transcripts. Thereafter, a student may withdraw only upon petition and only after securing the approval of his/her advisor, instructor, and dean.
