Procter & Gamble Mentioned in Amortization.

Among the corporations mentioned in a report on war amortization presented to the U. S. Senate by a majority members of the Investigating committee, Monday, are the Procter & Gamble company, $3,330,936, and the American Rolling Mill company of Middletown, O., $1,470,210. Additional strictures on the income tax unit of the Treasury were presented in the committee reports and point out that more than $100,000,000, or deductions for war amortization have been allowed by the Internal Revenue bureau, which committee states was "not based on the solicitor's rulings."

Officials of the Procter & Gamble company said Tuesday that the law provides for an allowance of expenditures made by the corporations of war materials and essential war supplies. It was pointed that the Procter & Gamble company made large expenditures and additions to meet the war-time demands of the Government. The demand stopped overnight, it was pointed out, and the extra buildings and equipment were rendered useless.

Herbert G. French, vice president of the Procter & Gamble company, said that the deductions never have been allowed and merely appeared on paper. "Our claim was filed in accordance with the law and regulations under the war amortization act," he said. "The amount mentioned in the report is only a portion of the claim made to the Government."

'Miserable, Overworked' Horses Apparently Unavailable In City

There apparently are no miserable horses on the streets of Lexington.

At least none were brought to light yesterday during a hearing on the "ambiguous" will of Mrs. Mary E. Stevenson, who died March 6 and left a trust fund to care for Lexington's overworked and mistreated horses.

The First National Bank and Trust Co., executor of the $84,790 estate of Mrs. Stevenson, has asked Fayette Circuit Court to construe several points in the will, among them the "miserable horses" clause.

Mrs. Stevenson listed several bequests and then specified that the residue of the estate be held in trust for 10 years for the Lexington Humane Society.

"I suggest," she wrote in December 1953, "that it be used to hire a competent agent to work on the streets of Lexington and try to relieve the condition of the miserable horses allowed to be overworked or mistreated."

Mrs. W. A. Hifner, treasurer of the Humane Society since 1930, introduced three photographs of horses yesterday in an effort to prove that the devise was valid and the society should receive the money.

The horses, photographed on Campbell, Kenton and Fourth Streets, were those of Julius Burton, 936 Georgetown Road, who operates a vegetable wagon; J. C. Snowden, Newtown Pike, and Reese Miller, 1532 North Limestone Street, both of whom Mrs. Hifner said do general hauling.

Mrs. Hifner testified that these are the only three horses she has been able to find working on the streets of Lexington, and she readily admitted that they are not miserable, overworked or mistreated.

On the contrary, she said, they are in excellent condition. However, she asserted, the Lexington Humane Society would be the agency to care for them should they become miserable.

She described the agency's facilities to care for such animals and noted that several times during the past few yers, the society has been called by city or county police to care for a stray horse until its owner is found.

In introducing the testimony,

Angus McDonald, attorney for the Humane Society, noted that he would contend that in order for the devise to be valid, it is not necessary that the horses in question be miserable, overworked or mistreated, since they might potentially be so.

In his questioning, he also brought out that horses are in the city each year for the trots and the Lexington Junior League Horse Show. (The trotting track lies partly in the city).

Henry Duncan Jr., attorney for two persons named as heirs in the will, was called as a witness by McDonald and introduced a photograph he said he took of a team of horses pulling a mower on a lot on Chinoe Road.

He said he had seen the same or a similar team on the Richmond Road "which is a street of Lexington."

C. W. Swinford, who represents eight heirs to the estate, called Sgt. William B. Davis and Patrolman Harrison Sallee, who testified they knew Julius Burton and that his horse was not miserable or overworked.

Davis said he had seen another horse-drawn wagon but other than that, neither knew of any horses worked on the streets of Lexington.

The only other witness heard was E. Martin Jessee, photographer who took the pictures Mrs. Hifner referred to.

Attorneys in the case will have three weeks in which to submit briefs to Judge Joseph J. Bradley.

Besides McDonald, Swinford and Duncan, other attorneys in the case are John L. Davis for the First National Bank; Charles Robertson of Louisville for the Defenders of Fur Bearers (who are to get half the trust fund or its income if the Humane Society declines the bequest); Frank McCarthy for two more devisees, and Donald Moloney for the Catholic Bishop of Louisville, representing two Catholic orphanages in Louisville, one or both of which probably will receive some money.

Death Claims Harrison Foster

Retired Lumberman
Succumbs At Hospital

Harrison Gardner Foster, 73, of 343 South Broadway, retired lumberman, former Republican party leader in the State of Washington and descendant of a Massachusetts Colonial family, died at 8:10 o'clock last night at St. Joseph's hospital.

Mr. Foster's daughter, Mrs. William G. Pettit, and son, Addison Gardner Foster, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, who now resides in Washington, D. C., were present at the time of his death. His son, Hart G. Foster, also of Washington, D. C., was notified.

Mr. Foster's death was due to complications which resulted after he had suffered a fractured hip Jan. 24 when he fell at the corner of South Broadway and Maxwell streets when making a characteristic gesture of waving at a friend with his cane.

Mr. Foster had been a resident of Lexington since 1919. He came here with Mrs. Foster, who before their marriage in 1889 was Miss Elizabeth Dunster Gibson, daughter of the late Hart Gibson and Mary Duncan Gibson. They resided at Ingleside, the Gibson family home, until after Mrs. Foster's death 14 years ago. Mr. Foster was instrumental in the development of Gibson Park subdivision later.

Mr. Foster had enjoyed a widely varied and colorful life including his participation in the lumber business of the Western states where he assisted his father in organizing what was then the largest lumber mills in the world at Tacoma, Wash. He also was instrumental in the election of his father, the late U. S. Senator Addison Gardner Foster, to the United States Senate in 1899. Becoming himself a leader in the Republican party in the State of Washington, Mrs. Foster at the same time became active in Democratic politics, being a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1916 and a member of the committee of notification to Vice President Thomas Marshall in that year.

Took Trip On "The Bear"

In 1900 as the guest of Captain Bertholf he went from Puget Sound to Nome, Alaska on the Arctic ship, "The Bear," which Admiral Byrd now has at the South Pole. At Nome, the "Bear" took on a herd of reindeer to relieve whalers ice bound in Siberia.

A son of the late Senator Foster and Martha Wetherbee Foster, Harrison Gardner Foster was born at Wabasha, Minn., March 8, 1866. He descended from Reginald Foster who settled at Ipswich, Mass., in 1633. The Wetherbees were a colonial family of New Hampshire. The feudal stronghold of the Fosters, Bamborough Castle, still is standing in the north of England.

Mr. Foster was reared in St. Paul, Minn., and went to school in New York to prepare for West Point, his inclination toward a military career having been encouraged by association in the family of General John Gibbon, the great Indian fighter. He later entered Yale and, following his marriage in 1889, he and Mrs. Foster moved to Tacoma, where he joined his father in the lumber business. After 11 years of active business there, he returned in 1901 to Minnesota as eastern representative of the St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber Company. In 1912 he became vice president of the company and returned to Tacoma.

Resided At Ingleside

Soon after the World War in which both of their sons were captains, Mr. and Mrs. Foster returned to Lexington and lived at Ingleside until it was sold in 1930.

Mr. Foster was a member of the Congregationalist church and was a 32nd degree Mason.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. William Pettit, two sons, Hart G. Foster and Addison Gardner Foster II, both of Washington, D. C.; a brother, Charles Addison Foster of San Francisco, Calif., and four grandchildren, James Campbell Foster, a student at Centre College, and William G. Pettit Jr., Harrison Foster Pettit and Dunster Gibson Pettit, all of Lexington.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed and will be announced later.

Fracture Fatal To H. G. Foster

Widely Known Citizen Had A Colorful Career

Harrison G. Foster, 73, of the Britling, 343 South Broadway, retired lumberman and widely known citizen, died at 8:10 o'clock Monday night at St. Joseph's hospital as a result of injuries received Jan. 24 when he fell on an icy street and suffered a fractured hip.

Funeral services will be held at the W. R. Milward chapel at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Robert W. Miles officiating. Accompanied by members of the family, the body will be taken Thursday to Louisville for cremation. Committal services, to be held Friday morning, will be private.

Mr. Foster had been a resident of Lexington since 1919. He came here with Mrs. Foster, who before their marriage in 1889 was Miss Elizabeth Dunster Gibson, daughter of the late Hart Gibson and Mary Duncan Gibson. They resided at Ingleside, the Gibson family home, until after Mrs. Foster's death 14 years ago. Mr. Foster was instrumental in the development of Gibson Park subdivision later.

SENIORS WIN IN SOCCER

The 1910 Soccer team had little difficulty in defeating the 1913 team yesterday afternoon by a score of 3 to 0. In the first half the Seniors kept the ball almost entirely in their opponent's territory, and pressed the Junior's goal hard, scoring two of their goals in this half, 1913 rallied somewhat, but not enough to break through 1910's strong defence. Look, Tree and Price excelled for 1910, while Moon, Cooley, and Carlos played well for the losers.

BRANDON WINNER IN NET TOURNAMENT

Jenkins Tennis Player Captures Sowards Cup in Match at Pikeville, Ky.

The Eastern Kentucky Open Tennis Championships, which were played on the courts of the Pikeville Tennis Club, Pikeville, Kentucky, came to a successful close.

The Sowards Cup and the title in men's singles was won by C. E. Brandon of Jenkins, Kentucky, after what was probably the hardest match of the tournament with the runner-up, H. D. Shanklin, of Ashland, Kentucky. Shanklin won the first two sets and the count was 4-1 in his favor in the third set when Brandon staged a remarkable come-back and won the set together with the following two sets. Shanklin was not to be denied however, as he, with his partner, J. R. Means, won the Doak Cup and the championship in Men's Doubles in straight sets from Harry Laviers and H. G. Foster of Paintsville, Kentucky. The play was closer than the score indicates however.

The woman's events were both won by members of the Jenkins team. The Williams Cup and the Championship in women's Singles was won by Margaret Perkins. The Pauley Cup and the championship in women's Doubles was won by Miss Perkins and Fay Moore. These events were not won without difficulty by any means, as Nancye Morgan played Miss Perkins a very good match in the Singles Finals and Miss Morgan and Margaret Cornett forced the count up to 6-4 in the second set of the Doubles Finals.

The tournament just completed is the first tournament ever played in Eastern Kentucky under the auspices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association and met with marked success for an opener. There were entries from nearly every town in Eastern Kentucky. It is regretted that the Hazard, Kentucky entry was forced to withdraw at the last minute. Favorable action was taken at this meeting, however to make the tournament an annual event to be played in the different towns. The cup must be won three times, consecutively or otherwise, to become the personal property of the winners.

John A. Sowards was Chairman of Committee of Pikeville Club which conducted the tournament just finished. W. Paul Bolton of St. Paul, Virginia, the official referee, was responsible in no small degree for the success of the tournament.

Following is the list of entries together with results of matches:

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Sept. 4., (Special to The Herald-Dispatch)—The fourth annual Eastern Kentucky open tennis championships, which were played on courts of Pikeville Tennis Club was by far the most successful ever conducted in every respect. There were players present from practically every town in Eastern Kentucky, and a number from the towns in Kentucky and from out of the state. Beside the actual playing of the tournament there were a number of things which contributed to the enjoyment of the affair. On the evening of the 29th there was a Tennis dinner at Pike Hotel which was attended by the players and their friends and members of Pikeville Tennis Club and their friends. On this occasion the Eastern Kentucky Lawn Tennis Association was formed, and the following officers elected: Francis L. Rice, Pikeville, president; Jack Bruce, Wolfpit, vice president; F. C. Rockwell, Pikeville, secretary. The Eastern Kentucky Open Tennis Championships will be controlled by association just formed, and voting power of association will be vested in an executive committee composed of one member from each club in Eastern Kentucky. The association has been assured of a charter from the United States Lawn Association just as soon as the association is complete, which means that the association will have a real voice in the tennis affairs in the United States.

The winners in tournament just completed were as follows: The Sowards Cup and title in men's singles went to Joe Nathan, jr., Ashland, Ky. He defeated A. E. Lewis, Pikeville, in the finals. Lewis started out rushing the net and pulled out the first set. After that he resorted to back court tactics a large part of the time at which game he was no match for Nathan, who was a general in the back court.

LUMBERMEN IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

WELL MERITED PROMOTION.

TACOMA, WASH., Jan. 27.—The affairs of mortals seem to run in cycles, and in the case of Harrison G. Foster, these cycles are not of the ordinary 7-year period, but eleven years is their duration. It was along in 1888 that forbears of Maj. Everett G. Griggs, the present president and manager of the St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., and of Harrison G. Foster and their associates went to Tacoma and established the company, but it was in 1890 when Harrison G. Foster closed up the affairs of his father in St. Paul and went to the "City of Destiny" on Commencement Bay. For 11 years he remained there, then he went east to market the output of the company's large mill, where he remained 11 years. Now he is back in Tacoma, where he hopes to remain 11 years or more, if the fates are kind to him.

After two years in charge of the Chicago office of the St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co. Mr. Foster moved to Minneapolis and took charge of the company's office there, although residing in St. Paul. This was in 1903. When it was decided recently that he should leave Minneapolis to go to the general offices of the company at Tacoma his old friends in the lumber trade in Minneapolis, representatives of West Coast concerns in that market, gave him a dinner and presented him with a loving cup. Over in St. Paul, his home, a day or two later he was invited to another dinner and was given a pitcher—not an ice pitcher at that.

On January 24 he arrived in Tacoma, and at the annual meeting of the St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., held this morning, Harrison G. Foster was elected second vice president of the company, his father, former United States Senator Addison G. Foster, being the first vice president, and Charles A. Foster secretary and treasurer. Hereafter Harry Foster will be part and parcel of the concern at headquarters, and his many friends in the trade in the East wish him all kinds of success. Mrs. Foster and the children, who are in school, will remain in the East until spring.

SUCCESSFUL UTAH LUMBERMAN.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 29.—In attendance upon the sessions of the Utah Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, held here last week, was William Jex, probably the oldest active lumberman in the state today. Notwithstanding his more than 80 years, Mr. Jex is head of the firm of Jex Lumber Co., of Spanish Fork, Utah. The firm includes, besides Peter Jex, four of his sons and two sons-in-law.

William Jex was born in Norfolk, Eng., in September, 1831, emigrating to the United States in 1858. In 1878 he began the manufacture of lumber, establishing a sawmill in the timbered mountains surrounding Spanish Fork. He has remained in the lumber business at the same place 34 years, his modest beginning capital of $4,000 now representing more than $25,000.

Mr. Jex is president of the company, and maintains an active superintendence of the affairs of the firm, although his son, John W. Jex, is manager.

At the left are Misses Nanye and Thelma Morgan, who won the women's doubles. Miss Nanye Morgan also won the women's singles. They are daughters of Mayor Morgan of Pikeville. At the right are H. G. Foster of Lexington, Ky., and Joe Nathan of Ashland, who gained the men's doubles title. Nathan won the men's singles crown.

WASHINGTON PRODUCTS.

Harry Foster having left town we have taken some friendly advantage of his absence as will be seen by the above engraving. This is a case of clear shingles and clear boy. Some of these days the boy will have his father sitting on the bunch of shingles and he will be off touring in the east. This is a rapid nation and some morning the parent will go down to his office and read a new sign in the door to-wit:

GIBSON FOSTER & FATHER,
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN LUMBER AND SHINGLES.

Verily, to be a father of a fine boy is a compensation for being put on the tail end of the firm.
