FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Yes, it's true. I'll be staying on another year as editor of the Green Bean.

As you may have noticed on the calendar, September 16 is the birthdate of Anthony Panizzi, the "Prince of Librarians." The seems that, according to Chase's Calendar of Annual Events (where I get all this neat stuff), Mr. Panizzi has the dubious honor of being the only librarian to be hanged in effigy. Panizzi's checkered career began in 1820 when he was tried in absentia and hanged in effigy for belonging to a forbidden Italian political party that called for the ouster of Austrians from Northern Italy. He fled to England in 1823, learned English, and became employed by the British Museum in 1831. Still outspoken on the subject of Italian politics, he was named Principal Librarian of the British Museum in 1856. He was later described as the "Prince of Librarians." And who said that librarians aren't interesting??

On a more serious note: The Director's Office is trying to obtain a list of people interested in taking the van to KLA in early October. Later on in this issue is a form to fill out and send to the D.O. by September 12.

Happy reading!

-KK

P.S. Welcome back Scott Lutz, Ace Typist!

ABOVE AND BEYOND.....

It's been a busy summer, and a number of the staff did such a good job that the Director's Office received the following thank you letters:

Dear Paul Willis:

August 24, 1986

I wish to thank you, the University of Kentucky, and particularly Cathy Hunt, Music Librarian, for the very fine research that went in to the paper which was delivered by Dr. Ron Monsen at the 1986 International Clarinet Society Congress Friday, August 1st at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Titled "Library Holdings (United States) of Published Editions of the Music of Robert Stark, Compiled from OCLC Online Catalog and National Union Catalog Pre-1956 Imprints", this undertaking did much to show the audience just how vital these library research tools have become.

The ICS owes Cathy Hunt and Dr. Monsen a debt of gratitude for sharing with us their work.

Sincerely,

Jerry Pierce
President, International
Clarinet Society

Dear Bill Marshall:

August 12, 1986

Just a note to thank you for all the help during our stay in Lexington. You and Ms. McCann and all of the staff were most gracious. I was most impressed by the efficiency and hospitality of your facilities. We have a ton of material to keep us busy this year and will probably need your help again. The Gibsons are a fascinating family.

Thanks again for the assistance.

Sincerely,

Mary G. McBride
Dean
College of Liberal Arts
Louisiana State Univ. in Shreveport

Dear Mr. Willis:

August 21, 1986

I often fail to take the time to express more fully my appreciation to those who have contributed in my efforts here at the University.

In light of that I would like to compliment the business library and Judy Wiza in particular for a job well done. Judy has in my opinion gone the extra mile in helping me as well as my students in making their educational experiences more productive. When I asked for a "tour" of the business library Judy organized a very thorough presentation geared specifically to my students. She provided detailed lists of materials available and demonstrated how others had used them in research. Several students commented how they regretted not having the presentation before other classes they had taken. In addition, Judy not only assisted the students, myself included, find "where" the various research materials are but can and does show them how they are useful in their study. Students have found her to be very approachable and helpful which in turn has encouraged them to do better and more extended work.

It would be hard to overstate how valuable a good and productive library experience is in the development of good investment skills. I appreciate those who have been responsible for providing just such an experience for my students.

Respectfully yours,

Kyle Mattson
Instructor
College of Business and Economics, UK

SOMETHING INTERESTING ABOUT...

Rob Aken and Laura Olson Rein have published an article entitled "Application Report: Computer-Assisted Instruction in Academic Libraries," Journal of Computer-Based Instruction, 13 (Summer 1986), 94-97. This article describes the four CAI packages (computer-assisted instruction) that are used to supplement the 175 library instruction presentations given every year by the Reference Department Staff. These classes are given to students enrolled in freshman English, business English, scientific and technical writing, and experimental psychology. Rob and Laura will also present this paper at the upcoming KLA conference in October, including the new packages that include LS/2000.

Lillian Mesner, Agriculture Library, is the new Bulletin Editor for the Kentucky Chapter of the Special Libraries Association. The Bulletin, published quarterly, features SLA news, committee reports, a jobline, and usually at least one article. Lillian, an active member of SLA, took over her editorial position from Toni Powell, another very active member of SLA.

LS/2000 SUPPLIES

Bar codes, printer paper and ribbons have been purchased for the Lexington Campus LS/2000 installations for 1986/87. When you need supplies, please submit the usual supply order form to Administrative Services. Please try to watch your LS/2000 supplies and send your order to Pat Lloyd by the end of the month along with your other supply orders.

Be specific. If you need Patron Bar codes, request bar codes that begin with the number 2. If you need book/material bar codes, request bar codes that begin with the number 3. The bar codes come in packages of 1500. If you need printer ribbons, please specify for which model you need the ribbon. We have three models of Epson printers: RX-80, LX-80, and FX-85.

All of the models of Epson printers we have use the same 80 column white paper. When you are ordering paper for the month, remember to check all your printers for need. If you run out of a box on one printer in the middle of the month, you can borrow paper from another printer in your library until we can get more paper to you. If you have to submit an order in the middle of the month, mark it "LS/2000 SUPPLIES--URGENT". We will deliver it as soon as possible. But let's try not to make a habit of this. Administrative Services plans to deliver supplies at the beginning of each month. They have plenty of work scheduled the rest of the month without special deliveries. Your cooperation will be appreciated greatly. (Submitted by Tari Keller)

M. I. KING LIBRARY SYSTEM...MEET THE UNITS

MEET THE EDUCATION LIBRARY (by Mary Vass)

The Education Library serves a diverse group of patrons from six of the departments in the College of Education and has materials covering the wide spectrum of their interests. In addition to our collection of professional literature, the library also contains an extensive collection of textbooks in all major subject areas for the elementary and secondary levels. The total monograph collection is 59,937 (approximately 14,000 of these are children's books or textbooks), and there are 8,415 bound journals. The collection is supplemented by 351,176 pieces of microfiche, most of which are in the ERIC document collection or the William S. Gray Research Collection in Reading.

The staff of the Education Library currently includes Mary Vass, the Librarian, and Linda Raines and Betty Sutton, Library Technicians. Our staff also normally includes anywhere from 6 to 10 student workers, who work between 10 and 20 hours a week each. These student workers are an invaluable resource, keeping the library open on nights and weekends. Our small staff performs most of the functions that the more specialized staffs of larger libraries perform, including collection development, cataloging (of our children's collection), circulation, accounting, online searching, reference, bibliographic instruction, and a variety of other duties.

The Education Library had an 1985/86 circulation of 20,868 with an additional reserve circulation of 8,796 and 2,383 microfiche were used. We maintain a busy schedule year round since our summer school enrollment is quite large because of the number of full time teachers who enroll in the summer to take classes. Because our library is fairly small, we get to know most of our faculty and graduate students. Our primary goal is to help all of our patrons obtain the materials which they need for research and to enhance their preparation for and practice of teaching, educational counseling, and other professions in the field of education.

MEET THE MICROFILM CENTER (by Judy Sackett)

The Microfilm Center, located on the second floor of King South, is one of the four units of the Periodicals/Newspapers/Microtexts Department. Supervised by Lil Blackburn, the Center's staff includes eight Staff Assistants and Library Technicians and numerous student workers.

Since its establishment in 1955, the main purpose of the Microfilm Center has been to preserve Kentucky newspapers on 35mm silver halide microfilm. The Center attempts to obtain copies of all currently published Kentucky newspapers not commercially available on microfilm, and currently films, develops, and duplicates approximately 170 papers on a regular basis. The Center's equipment includes five microfilm cameras, a microfilm processor and a highspeed microfilm duplicator, and in the 1985-1986 FY, 36,984 feet of negative and 88,795 feet of positive film were produced.

In addition to the production of newspapers on microfilm, its major source of income, the Microfilm Center also films books, manuscripts, letters, and other printed materials.

Negative microfilm masters are stored under temperature and humidity-controlled conditions and positive copies are sold to the UK Libraries, to newspaper publishers, to other academic and public libraries, including the Library of Congress and Yale University, and to individual researchers. Proceeds from the sale of its products pays for the Center's supplies, equipment, general expenses, and student wages.

3RD LIBRARY STAFF OPEN FORUM

The 3rd Library Staff Open Forum will be held Wednesday September 24, at 10:00 a.m. in the Gallery - King North. Sponsored by the OPAC Training Subcommittee, the forum will feature a brief system update (Tari Killer) and searching tips (Rob Aken). A question and answer period will follow. Please plan to attend and bring you questions an concerns. (Submitted by Laura Rein)

SPEC FLYERS

SPEC KIT #125, "Technical Services Cost Studies in ARL Libraries," updates a similar 1982 study. While most libraries agree that comparative cost studies would be useful, only 24% have conducted a study in the past 3 years. The kit presents the survey results of 21 libraries, highlighting procedures, rationale, utility, issues, needs, and staffing concerns.

SPEC KIT #126 "Automated Library Systems in ARL Libraries," reports the experiences of 12 ARL libraries with mainframes and minicomputers, administrative arrangements, etc. The data is taken from 2-hour interviews with representatives of 12 libraries.
