

Cincinnati, Aug. 13, 1859.

My Dear Wife:

I went aboard the Dunkleith, last night, as she was landing — & learned of your safe arrival, &c. Your letter, just read, gives me the particulars.

I have not time to write you now. Am glad you found all well. Make our little girls write to me; & Lewis, too, if only to sign his name.

Aud denies having received any letter for you from Fanny, as Fanny wrote. He offered to pay me the $1.²⁰, but I refused, as I had directed you to collect of Fanny. Now, as it is Fanny's wish, I will call for it.

No news for you. Love to all & kiss our little ones. It is possible I may not write until Tuesday.

Most affectionately Yours,
Rich. H. Collins
