

Intramural Finals To Be Held February 6 and 7

PRELIMINARIES DISPOSED OF IN RAPID FASHION

Final matches in the wrestling and boxing tournament, being sponsored by the intramural department under the direction of Sid Robinson, will be held in the men's gymnasium the nights of Thursday and Friday, February 6 and 7, according to an announcement yesterday.

Postponement of the finals until the beginning of the second semester was necessitated because of a conflict in dates with the basketball games and examinations.

Preliminary matches and bouts have been clicking off in rapid fashion and the semi-final rounds will be concluded the first of next week, Mr. Robinson said. Final matches were held in the gymnasium Tuesday night with some 500 persons in attendance despite threatening weather.

The intramural department has erected a regulation ring on the basketball practice court for the matches which is a noticeable improvement over the improvised affair of previous years.

Mr. Robinson said that the entrants in the tournament would weigh in each time they fought to keep anyone from going over his class during the intermission between fights.

The grappling match won by Brown from Butler in the 155-pound division was the hardest and most evenly matched of Tuesday's matches. Brown won on the time limit. Other results follow:

Bolsler took a fall from Holt in one minute and 30 seconds in the 135-pound division.

Nesbitt threw Stranahan in two minutes in the 115-pound class.

Iron threw Terry in one minute and 30 seconds in the 125-pound division.

Toth disposed of Ivie in one minute and 30 seconds in the 165-pound division.

It took White two minutes to floor Smith in the 135-pound class.

Crowson won from Owens on default in the 135-pound division.

Price required only one minute to throw Murphy in the 145-pound division.

Anderson won from Riddle on default in the 135-pound division.

Greenfield and Clark fought an exhibition match with no decision.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX BY ROOKS

TO THE LADIES!

We look at the old tin-type pictures of the girls our fathers once courted with a certain mixed feeling of amusement and regret. Surely such clothes (they are costumes now) were cumbersome, but the idea that girls were to be respected—something divine, more or less—at least, feminine and apart from the coarser things of life, retains its appeal.

But along came suffrage, the assault on business, the demand for equality in dress and action—short skirts—short hair—and other evolutionary (or revolutionary) changes.

The most remarkable thing about the mind of a woman is its inconsistency. Why? They are becoming feminine again. Immediately upon gaining the belated freedom they don't want it.

Girl's basketball, which flourished for a number of years, is dying a rapid death. Central Kentucky Conference High schools have, for the most part, disbanded girls' teams for good. A few schools that happen to support stronger girls' quintets than boys' are doggedly continuing, but soon such teams will be in the limbo of the past. The sport is too strenuous for the girls. One young lady dropped dead on a western Kentucky court.

Short hair is no longer the vogue. Long hair, the same troublesome long hair that was clipped by the shears not long ago, has returned. And now, down come the skirts. Modesty? No. Just the old inconsistency cropping out again; just the same unsatisfied woman that once wanted an apple because she had something else.

But no matter what the motive, if any, the appearance is vastly improved.

The co-eds need not be surprised if any man should forget himself and offer them a seat on a street car.

If you think the gentlemen who journeyed to the Blue Grass from Omaha, Nebraska, where they attend Creighton, are taking a trip through the 1929 basketball season with the idea of easy games just take a peek at the schedule after the catholics left Lexington:

January 17—Drake. January 18—Marquette. January 22—Grinnell. January 23—Iowa. February 4—Missouri. February 7—Grinnell. February 11—Missouri. February 14—Washington University (St. Louis). Another game with Marquette and Drake, and February 28—Kansas.

Bolsler can take a rough sketch of how they would stack up against these teams by observing the damage done after Creighton bows out of each gymnasium.

While most of the University of Kentucky students were "to home" Christmas exhibiting what college "done to me," four of the Wildcat football men were at Atlanta, Ga., for the Southern Conference charity football game. Captain-elect "Floppy" Forquer, "Slipstick" Kelly, Howard Williams, and Pete Drury took part in the North's 21 to 12 victory over the South.

Madam Fate, the fickle, smiled most unkindly on Lawrence "Big" McGinnis on the eve of the tilt with Miami December 20. The big back guard was all set for his last and (maybe) the most successful of his college career. A quick turn, a pain, and a spill, and now "Big" McGinnis is watching the games from the sidelines, with an injured tendon in one of his ankles. The tendon improved to the point that Coach Johnny Mauer intended to start McGinnis in the Clemson game and then again on the day before the game, the same quick turn, the same sharp pain, and legs crumpled.

The classes in wrestling and handball instituted into the Kentucky football program will have their results when the Wildcats line up against their opponents next fall. Not only do they serve to keep the men in tip-top physical condition, but they exercise muscles that have been dormant during the grid season. The linemen will wrestle to build strength and endurance. The backfield will play handball to increase speed and warieness.

The boxing and wrestling intramural tournament, which opened last Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, will serve to stimulate interest in the winter sports.

FIGURE THIS ONE OUT!—The directors of Vanderbilt football destined refused to put Kentucky on their football schedule last year because, according to Vanderbilt, Kentucky did not prove interesting enough to draw a large crowd. Now we can impolitely laugh up our sleeves, or publicly when we hear that the Optimist Club of Nashville is circulating questionnaires to determine the cause of the sparse attendance at Vanderbilt football games. The Good Book said there'd be days like this.

KITTENS SEEK STATE CROWN

The University of Kentucky Kittens took a definite grip on the freshman basketball championship of Kentucky by handling the Georgetown Cubs a decisive 34 to 18 lacing Monday night at Georgetown. The Cubs, previously undefeated, kept the game on ice until the closing minutes of play when the Kittens, led by Jackson, pulled away to a safe lead.

Students Are Named For Campus Chapter Of Phi Beta Kappa

Kentucky chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity announced its nominees for this year, yesterday. Those elected were Mrs. Lola L. Robinson, of Lexington, majoring in English with a standing of 3.0; Elizabeth Cramer of Louisville, majoring in Ancient Languages, with a standing of 2.8; Alice Whittinghill, now in the Medical School of the University of Michigan, with a standing of 2.8; Katherine Kinnear Wilson, of Lexington, majoring in Romance Languages, with a standing of 2.8; Rawlings Ragland, of Lexington, majoring in Political Science, with a standing of 2.7; and Roger Smith, of the Arts and Science College with a standing of 2.6.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest Greek letter organization in the world. It was founded in 1776 at William and Mary College. It was first a secret organization among the students, fostering scholarship and encouraging debate and oration. In 1870 the society was thrown open to both sexes with scholarship as its main consideration in selection.

A new by-law has been voted upon in the Lexington chapter which will permit the selection of students from other than the Arts and Sciences College who have met the same requirements as those in this college. However this by-law has not yet been approved by the national chapter.

The examinations in the College of Law will begin January 20, four days before the regular university examinations, Dean Alvin Evans announced Monday. The reason for this change of schedule is the greater length of time which is required by law examinations. Under the new arrangement the law students have two days between each examination in which they can review the semester work.

Football Men Hold Wrestling And Handball Classes in Gym

Most any afternoon you happen to pass the Euclid avenue gymnasium you might glance in to see what all the commotion is about.

Some 40-odd Kentucky football players will be doing their daily dozen on the wrestling mats and handball courts that have been opened for their special benefit. The new pastime was inaugurated two weeks ago.

Coach Bernie Shively, who coached the line which won fame on the gridiron last season, and who once held a wrestling championship in the mid-west, has ordered all his linemen to report each afternoon for the grappling exercise, and failure to be there without a legitimate excuse may bring more than a frown when spring football pops up the middle of next month.

The linemen will wrestle to strengthen their arms and legs as they did last year. The backfield men, who engaged in boxing last year, will do their bit on the new handball courts each afternoon.

and if you think it's child's play, drop around sometime. Two courts have been built in the basement of the men's gym and trunks issued to the men.

The llemen are entered in the wrestling tournament which opened Tuesday night at 7 o'clock and the backs will take part in an elimination handball tournament to be staged early in February.

The following boys have been ordered to report for handball games: Urbanik, Colker, Kelly, Meyers, Toth, Richards, Tom Phipps, Jack Phipps, Boardman, Woodridge, Frye, Ellis, Tucker, Baker, Murphy, Hoffman, Hines and Coffman. There are 18 in this bunch, which, together with Spicer, Ellis Johnson, and Foster, out for basketball, give damage nearly two dozen backfield men to work with next fall.

The following linemen will report for wrestling: Cutler, Broecker, Vonderheite, O'Rourke, Chapman, Morrison, Tuttle, Skinner, Abley, Baughman, Gentile, Morgan, McEroy, Wilder, Wright, Rose, Johnson, John Drury, Kipping, Forquer, Clark, Blevins, Engles, Greathouse, Hunter, Goggin, Montgomery, Hill, R. Clark, and Hawkins. Seven other linemen out for basketball, both varsity and freshmen, will not be required to take part in the wrestling routine. The handball instruction will be taken care of by

Pipes save no midnight oil

IF PIPES made the man, anybody at all could rise in the world just by smoking a few pounds of Edgeworth. But pipes do not make the man.

Men make the pipe—most men do. Somewhat depends on the individual, more on the pipe, and the tobacco is most important of all. Things must be congenial.

Edgeworth is a congenial tobacco, cool, slow-burning, fully flavored. Edgeworth has poise, kindly good nature, real tobacco personality—Edgeworth welcomes new friends. Many a good man has been pledged to pipes by Edgeworth alone.

Like to meet Edgeworth? Just ask with the coupon—and the postman will bring your first few pipefuls of the genuine, three years seasoned if it's a day. Our treat, if you please. Others have found Edgeworth and quit their discontent.

So may it be with you!

EDGEWORTH

Edgeworth is a careful blend of good tobaccos—selected especially for pipe-smoking. Its quality and flavor never change. Buy it anywhere —"Ready Rubbed" or "Plug Slice"—the pocket package to possess hand for tin.

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va.
I'll try your Edgeworth. And I'll try it in a good pipe.

THE COLLEGIATE MYTH

Do you remember the last college moving picture you saw that disgusted you with its misrepresentation of campus life and campus kings? We hereby are presenting an appeal to the movie magnate, wherein we beg them to realize that only after at least a year or so of hard practice does one reel off yard after yard for the winning touchdown; that the average college revue does not attempt to outdo Ziegfeld; that not every boy on the campus drives an expensive sport car, and so on indefinitely. In other words, we would like to explode the Great Collegiate Myth as popularly portrayed in Hollywood.

The situation is growing serious when you realize that the average audience, composed largely of parents, is more than half willing to accept the moving picture version of life on the campus. Thus, many who are not in direct contact with university students have built around the young people who attend college a false that is hard to live down. And it is these people who raise scandalized eyebrows and exclaim: "This modern generation!"

As a matter of fact, quite a noticeable number of girls and boys who are working through school compose the members of honor fraternities and are well-known in campus activities. One does not have to look further than our own university to prove that. Nor do the "campus queens" spend all their time dating and dancing, believe-it-or-not.

In New York this season, two young college men, who objected to the college plays of the screen and stage, have written and produced a drama about college in which there is not a flapper nor even a football game. People are flocking to see the play which dares to tell the truth about something that has so long stood as fact, and is only today being revealed as a myth.

Perhaps the success of such an undertaking will prove to the moving picture producers that audiences will attend a show that gives a real picture of campus life just as readily as they would the lurid type. At least it will be a novel idea to Hollywood.

APPROPRIATIONS AND THE UNIVERSITY

The University of Kentucky has asked for an appropriation from the state budget committee, an aggregate sum of $554,000. This amount is to be used in connection with the university, and also its allied activities at Princeton and Quicksand. The main part of the fund is to be used in connection with the university proper, which embraces six colleges, an experiment station, the bureau of school service, the bureau of extension service, the extension department, the department of agriculture, and the department for the extension of agriculture.

Although the amount asked by the university, in comparison with its activities, is proportionately less than amounts asked by other state departments, the total sum is not likely to be appropriated for the university because other state departmental activities are asking for funds far in excess of those requested for 1929. University officials realized that in order to receive the amount requested it would be necessary to make an economical request comparable with its needs.

Money is sought to erect four buildings on the campus that are considered necessary for its program of development. Under conditions such as over-crowding of class rooms, there seems to be little cause to fear that the appropriation will not be granted. However, those acquainted with the task of financing the university realize that, as this institution has taken care of its program of expansion virtually by itself in the past, it may be considered capable of satisfactorily directing affairs of this nature in the future. It follows that the appropriation requested for the year 1930 represents a sum essential to the maintenance and progress of the school.

LET'S GET TOGETHER

We have been impressed during the year just gone by that there a false note of some kind that despoils the cooperation and commendable spirit that ought to exist between the student body and its paper. We've been accused of many things, in the main, a palpable perversion of student sentiment. Irrespective of the impression that has appeared to permeate the entire campus, our policy for all time is to work for a bigger and better University of Kentucky.

We would appreciate comments from students as to how we can best advance the interests of the University of Kentucky. We are seriously interested in the development later of a daily paper than can be more nearly expressive of the current student sentiment. We believe in the development of all phases of intramural sports as a means of getting students together.

We would be in favor of a Pan-Hellenic round robin, wherein the members of a particular fraternity would visit all the other chapters on the campus during the course of a year. But most of all, we are interested in publishing the kind of a paper that is most acceptable to the students of the University of Kentucky.

There is no reason to believe that students of valid interest are not continuing to seek the college. The decrease in university applicants may be a rather happy indication that the intellectually unfit have at last decided in favor of the country club as a more likely center of social activities.

Cornell University recently received an anonymous gift of $20,000. The fund was received in a typewritten letter addressed from New York. The donor evidently foresaw the stock market gamble.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL

Among other things of interest at the University, the Kentuckian Beauty Contest this year has settled the controversy within co-ed ranks about the most beautiful girl on the campus, from an artist's viewpoint. The Kernel felicitates the winner and her seven attendants on the honor that has come to them. The standards and conceptions of beauty vary in direct proportion to the tastes of the individual, there is no possible way to select the beauty queen of a school as large as the University of Kentucky except by reference to an expert with wide experience in judging standards of beauty in women. Such procedure was adopted by the beauty editor of the Kentuckian. Announcement of the winners has been made and the decision is accepted without question by all members of the student body.

It is essentially feminine to want to be beautiful and to have that beauty accepted as such by associates; it is feminine to be pleased with admiration. The Kentuckian beauty winners, then, ought to be in a pleasant frame of mind these days with the plaudits of their friends being showered upon them. The Kernel joins all those who are congratulating the most beautiful girls on the campus and expresses sincere admiration of the charms that have been recognized throughout the nation.

COMPLIMENT TO MR. GRIFFIN

The Kernel is pleased to find in the editorial columns of a recent issue of the Louisville Times a commendatory observation upon the reportorial work done by Mr. Gerald Griffin, correspondent for the Times and Courier-Journal in the Blue Grass and neighboring counties.

Mr. Griffin, as a former editor of The Kernel, has much to do with the promotion of its growth. He is now a part time instructor in the University department of Journalism. The Times lauds his work as more worthy than many a four-act drama; as more realistic than a carefully worded murder story; and as more ingenious than a marvel of fiction.

Mr. Griffin is proving to be one of the best reportorial writers of the south, and his success is largely due to his quick grasp of minutes details, his vivid expressions of facts, and his characteristics of a thorough newspaper man.

COLLEGE COMMENT

According to President Lowell of Harvard University the younger a boy is when he goes to college the less likely he is to be influenced by the immoral and harmful conditions he may find there. We are not right sure that we would entirely agree with Doctor Lowell. We have an idea that if a college student is reasonably mature he will appreciate the utter futility of excessive indulgences, whereas, the younger fellow would probably not be so likely to be appreciative of consequences.

From 'way down in Texas comes a hearty protest against the use of the word "collegiate." We understand that it means everything that the average student is not. We join with them in protesting that there is nothing particularly glamorous about the average college man—he is just an average sort of fellow who is today making himself fit to face the trials and opportunities of tomorrow.

The McGill Daily has just completed a most interesting survey of the various activities of the students during the holidays. An imposing list of vocations has been compiled. Practically every profession of note was entered by the personnel of the university. Not many students were fortunate enough to enjoy a period of rest during the days that were designed for that particular purpose.

An Illinois court recently ruled that fraternities are charitable institutions and therefore exempt from taxes. That ought to bring a sigh of relief from the Greeks in Illinois.

Debater's League Sets Tournament Date For April 10

The first round of the Kentucky High School Debating League has been concluded and the second round is scheduled to be finished by January 20. It has been announced by Louis Clifton, assistant director of the extension department of the University, which sponsors the League. The subject this year is "Resolved: That a Substitute for the Present Jury System Should be Found."

At present, 292 high schools in Kentucky are registered with the extension department for debates. A tournament will be held in each of the 16 districts into which the state has been divided, the winners of which will compete in a state tournament to be held at Memorial Hall on the night of April 10.

The district winners of the tournament will receive handsome trophies and the team winning state honors will be presented with a large cup which has been in circulation since the formation of the League in 1921.

ENGINEERS ARE GIVEN INSIGHT INTO INDUSTRY

The senior engineers of the University of Kentucky were given an insight into the processes, cooperation, and problems of a large industrial organization when they visited the plant of the Indian Refining Company of Lawrenceville, Illinois, through the courtesy of Col. James H. Graham, president of the company. Col. Graham, who is a graduate of the College of Engineering of the University of Kentucky, class of 1900, planned and sponsored the trip as a token of his affection for F. Paul Anderson, Dean of the College of Engineering. Chartered pullmans, meals, and entertainment were furnished free of charge to the engineers by Col. Graham.

After breakfast at the company's cafeteria at Lawrenceville on the morning of January 11, the inspection of the plant was begun. A member of the engineering department of the company was assigned guide to each six members of the University party and each man was presented with a folder of maps and blow sheets to be used as references on the trip and to be retained for his future information. These maps were prepared by Dave Browning, Kentucky '26, who also acted as one of the guides. H. C. Thompson, another graduate of the University, College of Engineering, class of 1920, is Safety Engineer of the Indian company.

Inspect Pipe Stills

Each inspection party began its tour at the pipe stills where Kentucky-Midland and Mid-Continent crude oils are of paraffin base.

The products of the pipe still and its accompanying Mid-Continent gasoline, kerosene, gas oil and fuel oil. The crude benzine is the first product to be distilled off the bubble tower. This occurs at about 350 Fahrenheit. It is then treated with sulfuric acid and sweetened by a mixture of caustic soda solution and litharge. This mixture, known as the "doctor solution" eliminates all disagreeable odors. The fraction is then filtered through fullers' earth to improve its color, after which it is ready to be sold as white gasoline.

The water white distillate (Kerosene) which is distilled off the bubble tower at about 460 Fahrenheit is somewhat similarly treated, after which the product known as kerosene is obtained.

The gal oil, obtained from the bubble tower at about 500 Fahrenheit is then conveyed through the usual pipe lines to the Cross Furnace for destructive distillation; known as the "cracking process." The object of this process is to crack heavy hydro-carbons of high molecular weight to form low ones of low molecular weight. The Cross process, which employs a pressure of about 650 pounds per square inch, is considered by many to be the most efficient known system of liquid phase cracking. The main product of this still is then treated and sweetened as previously explained for white gasoline, and is then taken through the return still. To readily distinguish it from the less expensive white gasoline a very small amount of coloring matter is added, after which it is put on the market as Indian red gasoline.

The Mid-continental base product obtained from the primary bubble tower is run through the Dubbs still which employs a pressure of about 300 pounds. The Dubbs process as explained above for the Cross process has as its object the cracking up of heavy hydro-carbons. Some of the products of this process combine with the products of the Cross process to become red gasoline while others become fuel oils of various grades.

The Kentucky-Midland base obtained from the bubbling tower is first taken to the primary vacuum units which were designed by Dr. Gover of the Indian Refining company to utilize diphenyl as a heat transfer agent. This is the only process in the world known to use this substance. Diphenyl is an organic compound, derived from coal tar, and with this substance high heats may be obtained at comparatively low pressures. Using diphenyl, it is possible to obtain a temperature of 700 Fahrenheit with 115 pounds pressure on the boiler. Diphenyl is manufactured by the Federal Phosphorus company of Birmingham, Ala.

The products obtained from the vacuum stills after the various subsequent operations such as acid treating, sweetening, dewaxing, filtering, etc. are the five grades of lubricating or Havoline oil finished with and light asphalt are also obtained from the residue of the primary vacuum units.

ROAMIN' THE RIALTO
WITH Thomas L. Riley

This week we had an interesting rialto with "Rio Rita" and "The Taming of the Shrew" as the headliners. Next week's attractions embrace a musical extravaganza, the first Zane Grey novel to be "talkiezed" and another story of stage life with the stars of "The Broadway Melody" and "The Hollywood Revue," two of last year's best pictures, in the principal roles.

In spite of the good music in "Rio Rita" it appears that we still have any number of people declaring vocally that they are dreamers while many continue to plead for a talking picture or somebody else. The effects of "Sunnyside Up," I suppose.

"Chasing Rainbows" is the third title that has been given the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production opening at the Strand with a 10-15 premiere tomorrow night. The first number was "Road Show," the second, "Happy Days," and when the picture was released (a very short time ago) the title appeared as "Chasing Rainbows." This has nothing to do with the value of the picture which I think you will enjoy. Charles King and Bessie Love head the impressive cast while Jack Benny, the whimsical master of ceremonies in "The Hollywood Revue," Marie Dressler and Polly Moran come in for their respective shares of credit. The story concerns a traveling show and is said to be replete in dramatic and humorous sequences.

Simile: As worthless as the average Warner Brothers Vitaphone short subject.

The Kentucky, beginning tomorrow, will house the new Show of Shows, the first effort of the other producers to imitate "The Hollywood Revue." This Warner Brothers picture is built on the same lines with no story being the key-

SQUIRREL FOOD

C. E. BARNES

After having all our witless wisecracks for last week so thoroughly squelched, we must admit that we endeavor to force our copy to the editor's desk with fear and trembling. However, we must practice in the main the art of self-expression else the growing collections of rejection slips from current magazines will surely suffer.

We've been curious to see whether our own ideas of New Year's resolutions would match up with those of other people and despite all the unique resolutions that we've heard, we believe that we're still original. Our only resolution is not to write 1929 when we mean 1930!

One can hardly begin the new year without considering some of the things that he ought to worry about. Now consider the things that a young man has to worry him. When he gets out of high school, he must decide whether he is going to college or whether he has had enough education. If he decides to go to college, he has nothing to worry him, if he goes to college, he still has two things to worry him whether he shall drink, or whether he will not. If he decides not to drink, then of course, he has nothing to worry him. If he decides to drink, he must worry about whether he will drink good liquor or bad. If he decides to drink good liquor, then he has no worry, but if he decides to drink rotten liquor, he will worry about whether he will live or die. If he dies, then of course, he has nothing to worry him, but if he lives, then he has to worry about whether he will go to heaven or Hades. Gotta life!

The chief topic for current conversation is the choice of beauty queens for the Kentucky. We wouldn't attempt to put all the remarks into print that we have heard, but some of them are not too complimentary. One little lady, with a Cincinnati lisp says, "Oh, Goodness, this is terrible. Thurely thith editor thon't appreciate beauty." And so on far into the night. Of course, we wouldn't disagree with the estimable editor (not much) but our idea of a beauty queen would be a girl possessed of the following characteristics: Jane Hamilton's hair, Betty Board's eyes, Sunny Allen's smile, LeRoy's complexion, Mary Armstrong's lips, Frances Baskett's hands, Evelyn Ford's figure (pardon please), Lucy Davis's personality and Julia Marvin's sophistication. If you don't agree with us, we'd appreciate your own ideas as to the most desirable attributes.

Well, if you haven't worried just a little bit about the finals, you just don't belong. Even a satisfied friend of ours, who is hoping that he will flunk out at the end of the semester so that his family will take him out of school, has begun to wear a worried look and burn a little of the old midnight oil.

Thomas L. Riley is Chairman of Committee; Dinner and Dance Planned

The cast and the assistants in the production of "Local Color," musical comedy recently presented by Strollers will be entertained with a dinner-dance at the Lafayette hotel, from 7:00 to 10:45 Friday night, by the members of Strollers.

Plans for the dinner were completed at a recent meeting of the organization, and a committee on arrangements appointed by Frank Davidson, president. Mary Virginia Hailey was named chairman, with Dorothy Jones, Roy Owsley, and Clay Rolph as members of the committee.

Invitations have been issued to ninety persons. An orchestra has been arranged for to furnish music for the dancing.

The committee on the selection of the spring play for Stroller production of which Thomas L. Riley is chairman, has announced that several are under consideration and that the name of the one chosen will be released soon.

Press Association
Will Hold Meeting
Friday, January 17

The Kentucky Press Association will meet Friday and Saturday, January 17 and 18, at the Kentucky hotel in Louisville. Saturday morning will be taken up in group discussion of the University Department questions. Professor Victor Port of Journalism will be the leader and principal speaker of the advertising group.

Professor Portmann has divided his speech into the three natural divisions of interest to the editor—classified advertising, display advertising and advertising rates. He will discuss why the classified ad is read and how to get the material for it. He will point out in his speech that some things are seasonal and others are not.

Professor Portmann will discuss what makes a good advertisement. He says that it has been found that 85 per cent of the readers look only at the illustrations and prices in a display ad. He tells how the small community newspaper can buy these mats through agencies. While discussing advertising rates Professor Portmann urges the Kentucky editors to raise the standard of their rates to conform to the national standard.

Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday classes in the afternoon.
Forenoon examinations will begin at 8:30; afternoon examinations, 2:00.

Examinations Rules
The following rules will be in force governing examinations:
1. Graduate students are required to take examinations under the same rules as those governing undergraduate students.
2. A student who has been absent from more than three classes of the total number of class exercises in any course is barred from the final examination in that course.
3. No written examination shall continue longer than three hours. All forenoon examinations shall close not later than twelve o'clock.

WILDCATS WILL PLAY SATURDAY

The Big Blue team is in better condition than it has been in at any time this season. With the return of Lawrence McGinnis and the passing of pre-season timidity and awkwardness, Coach Mauer will put the most representative team of the year on the floor Saturday night.

Carey Spicer and Cecil Combs, Lexington's contribution to the lineup of six-footers, will pair up at the forwards; the unbeatable Stanley Milward, still another Lexington product, will display his wares before Greenblatt; Captain Paul McBrayer, who hails from Lawrenceburg, and "Big" McGinnis, the fourth Lexington boy on the team, will be running mates on the defense. "Little" McGinnis, Bronston Owens and Kleiser have first class options should any of the starting lineup weaken.

The game will be the second Southern Conference tilt for both teams and means that one less team will be among the undefeated.

Catnip or Brickbats?—Ansonia, Feb. 15—"Green Stockings," a three-set play, will be presented in the Immanuel Episcopal Church. Robert Morrey has been directing the cats.—New Haven Register.

Measuring the progress of 75 years

From small shops to vast factories . . . from blacksmith's forge to six-ton electric furnaces . . . from Joule's theory of heat to superheat . . . from guesswork to science . . . from waste to economy—these hint the revolution in industry since 1855.

The growth of Crane Co. through these years is a significant reflection of the growth of all industry. From a one-man shop founded three-quarters of a century ago, it has grown to a world organization, meeting in its own factories the power and production problems that have faced other manufacturers. Supplying the piping materials that have released power, effected economies, and increased production everywhere, it has of necessity met and solved piping problems as they have arisen in all industries.

Now in its 75th anniversary year, it serves all industries with the materials developed, the knowledge and experience gained. To engineering students, its customers of the future, it offers a valuable reference book and research manual on metal reactions under high pressure and superheat: "Pioneering in Science." Write for it.

... and that holds for careers, too!

LOOK where you are going. It's a method that gets the hockey player through—and a business man on the way to success. The fellow who scores consistently is the one who picks his course.

Yet many a man comes out of college, eager to make a name for himself in business, who has failed to look where he is going—who has no definite goal in sight. While you're still in college, study yourself above all else—analyze your interests and capabilities. Get all the help and advice you can from your faculty adviser. Pick the kind of work you'll like best. And after graduation—go to it!
