New Library Building to Be Dedicated

The following invitations, beautifully printed have been sent to alumni and friends of the University:

The University of Kentucky requests the honor of your presence at the dedication of the library building Friday afternoon, October twenty-third at three o'clock nineteen hundred and thirty-one Lexington, Kentucky people connected with the university and is directly due to the wisdom and far-sighted policy of our chief executive. The total cost of the building was $450,000; it has a book capacity of 250,000 volumes and seats for over 700 persons. The library has a staff now of fifteen full-time employees and over twenty student assistants.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, President of the University, will have charge of the program which is as follows:

The new building faces north, looking toward the stadium and Stoll field. It stands on a hillside, its east windows overlooking Maxwell Place, the home of President McVey. The building itself is a dignified example of the Georgian Colonial type of architecture, with a wide brick and stone terrace at the entrance. The building material

Four o'clock The Library Open House

The new university library, first occupied in June, 1931, is a building of which all alumni of the University of Kentucky may justly feel proud. Its completion is the realization of the dreams of many used is brick with trimmings and facings of cut stone, thus harmonizing with the older group of buildings on the campus.

A modern university library has many uses and many purposes. It must serve the casual reader who drops in to look at the morning paper or a new magazine; it must give full assistance to the undergraduate in assigned class work; and it must endeavor to furnish the materials for research to the faculty and to graduate students. Provision for all of these various fields is made in the new building.

When you enter the building from the north, or main entrance, you find a spacious lobby in which are museum cases where exhibits of various kinds are displayed. On the west side of the building is the Reserved Book Reading room, in which

HOME COMING

By NORBERT CAMPBELL

Welcome back to the best University in the South old grads! Coming home is something that has come to mean more than just a joy trip or an excuse to "get away from it all." Coming home, to the "ole boys," has taken on a new meaning; it means to come back once again and renew the old acquaintances, to revisit the past halls of learning, to get back again into the old "bull sessions," and most important of all to cheer the Wildcats on to victory. This is the spirit of Homecoming. We, the present student body, extend the heartiest of "Ole Kaintuck" greetings to "you all" alumni.

This year a great football game has been scheduled for the Wildcats. Duke University, one of the strongest in the South, will meet the Big Blue in their own back yard. This game with the Blue Devils of Durham, starting at 2:30 Saturday November 7, will be sufficient justification for all the spirit that the Alumni can muster. Why shouldn't it? Duke will bring a strong aggregation here; a team that defeated the Wildcats last year by the score of 14 to 7. With Wallace Wade at the helm, the Blue Devils are sure to have a team that will be knocking at the Conference championship doors.

The team that represents the University of Kentucky this year is a mystery team. On Saturday, October 3, the Wildcats had a tough afternoon overcoming the small team from Maryville 19 to 0. On the following Saturday the same Wildcats ran rough shod over the Washington and Lee Generals to the tune of 45 to 0, showing a complete reversal of form. At this writing Coach Gamage has taken his boys to College Park, Maryland, where they will meet the Old Liners. There is no doubt in the minds of every one here in the University of Kentucky that the 'Cats will come back the victors.

Our football stadium is one of the best in the South, and the playing field is called by some "the mattress of the South." The seating capacity of the stadium is in the neighborhood of 11,000, which will have to have an addition of some 8,000 bleacher seats to accommodate the capacity crowd that is expected. It would be safe to say that all of the 3,700 students will attend the game and give vent to their lusty cheers. The best band in Dixie will be on hand for the edification of all visitors. For your benefit there will be loud speakers erected. So there will be no need of asking your neighbor who that oversize giant is down there playing tackle.

The main attraction on Homecoming day will be the present edition of Wildcats cavorting about the field. We have the best team in the Southern Conference, and whoever thinks differently see me. "Shipwreck" Kelly and the rest of the 'Cats will work on the Demons from Durham until they are no more. Whether we win or lose, the team that represents the University on Homecoming day will still be considered as the best team. That is the spirit of "ole U. of K."

The activities of Homecoming day will come to a close with a dance in the Alumni gymnasium. All who have attended them need no other reminder, except the time which will be from 9 to 12.

UNDERWOOD IS RE-APPOINTED TRANSY COACH

Lovell Underwood, graduate of College of Arts and Sciences of the university in 1926, recently has been reappointed as head basketball coach for Transylvania and the College of the Bible for the coming season.

While at the University Underwood was a member of the varsity basketball squad for three years and a member of the championship team of '26. He coached the Transylvania quintette last year, winning four games and losing eight. Of the eight lost, four were by the margin of one point.

Underwood plans to start a new style of basketball for his Pioneers this season which will have the best features of the Pittsburg and Wisconsin system. The Wisconsin style of play embodies a low, criss-cross offensive and was used to some extent by former University of Kentucky net coach John Mauer.

Reese, Shelton, and Miller, outstanding players of the Transylvania net organization of last year will return this year and the former university athlete feels confident of a successful season. A spring basketball practice of two weeks was held for the Crimson basketballers and it is expected that, having brushed off the rough spots in the spring, a smooth team can be developed early in the coming season.

The University of Kentucky Law School has been highly honored by being elected to membership in the Order of the Coif, which is the Phi Beta Kappa of the law school world. Thiray of the leading law schools of the country share in this honor. The installation of the local chapter will be held in Lexington October 17th and Dean Ferson of Cincinnati University Law School will be the principal speaker. Twenty-four students who have graduated "with distinction" during the last fifteen years will be initiated. Among the honored guests will be Frank L. McVey, President of the University of Kentucky, Chief Justice Priest Dietzman of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, President Charles J. Turck of Centre College and Hon. John V. Conner, President of the Kentucky State Bar Association.

RESEARCH WORKER ADDED

Miss Margaret Barger, Columbus, Ohio, has been added to the staff of research of the College of Commerce as executive secretary to Prof. James W. Martin. Miss Barger obtained her Master's degree at Ohio State University and will continue her studies here this year. She was a teacher in Florida last year.

NOVEMBER SEVEN

November the seventh has been set aside by the executive committee of the alumni association as homecoming day for Kentucky graduates and former students. It will be a great day for all those that return to their alma mater.

A day to witness the Wildcat team of 1931 in action against another great team coached by the South's outstanding coach, will be a feature; a day to enjoy meeting former acquaintances, and making new ones of the present student body so faithfully following in your footsteps; a day to stop in and chat at the frat house, sing a few songs and take part in another, almost forgotten "bull session;" and lastly, and of the greatest importance, see again the university that mothered you and the one that is today so well serving the youth and state at large in this commonwealth.

Since your day many changes have been wrought, the campus has improved, new buildings have been added, laboratories enlarged, and faculties increased all to bring our school to the highest degree of efficiency in serving the people. You will glory in the growth of the university and will go home with renewed interest and enthusiasm looking and waiting for an opportunity to serve in any capacity our school.

Homecoming, let us all try to come early and stay late with our university November 7.

SETTLE THE AFFAIR

For two years now the newspaper men and women of the state, clubmen and alumni of both institutions have been talking the renewal of the old feud between Kentucky and Centre. To us it seems that enough time has elapsed to settle the affair. It amounts to nothing more than a football game between Kentucky gentlemen, and we believe it should not cause such a commotion.

We are sure that many of the alumni of our university would like to see relations renewed between the two schools, yet there are probably others who think Kentucky should let things remain as they now stand. In any case, there is nothing we can do as long as we stay inside of our fence, for alumni have bigger problems than a football game to worry about, if they are interested to the nth degree in their institution, although we are interested and want the Wildcats always to have a team that is a credit both to our school and our state.

The athletic council has made the break in relations, we will deplore the fact, as most alumni seem to, or be glad of their actions. What ever the situation let the bigger and greater thing, the university, have your most loyal support.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY LEAGUE

Letters, authorized by the executive committee of our association, are in the mail proposing to graduates and former students living in Kentucky, the forming of a State League of the University of Kentucky students. What do you think of the plan? Has it any possibilities as a supporter of the university, it's administration, in making problems affecting the university its problem? This letter is not reaching all alumni in the state and none living out side the state lines, but your support and your comments in effecting such a league are invited.

It is proposed that the league will take its membership from those interested and will give a few minutes' times each year to problems, social, political, financial, or what ever may arise affecting the school of which alumni are an integral part. Three or more faithful league members in each of our many counties will be of untold value to the university as representatives in their particular community, not as solicitors for students or money, but as friends, as buffers for any that may not as yet realize the purpose and state wide beneficial work of our school.

The executive committee is asking that the recipient of the letters send in the name of three or more interested alumni in their county that will take part in such a league; if you are called on, won't you respond, pledging your hearty cooperation and support and trying to bring others in line with the plan?

A league organized as this one is proposed, furnished with the latest news of happenings at the university, aligned with the university's state wide program of service would be an agent of good will both to the university and the life of which the members are now a part. Direct contact between the executive committee which has been elected by alumni, and the alumni themselves would then be established, and contact for any cause is the surest way of getting results. Let us all respond to the call of our executive council.

VOTE

Final ballots for the election of the alumni member to the board of trustees have been mailed out, by the secretary of the board, and the alumni executive council urges you to send in your vote and to urge others to do the same. The Alumnus

CLUB NEWS

MINUTES OF THE MEETING LOUISVILLE ALUMNI CLUB

First meeting, of the fall months, was held at the University club which is located in the Brown office building at 321 West Broadway, Monday evening, October 12, with Ben Garr King, Class of '28, president of the local group, in charge. Attendance was small there can be seen some ray of hope for larger numbers at future meetings in that three "showed up" who have not attended any previous meeting. The Courier-Journal the Louisville Times and The Herald-Post; all local papers, "ran" news items concerning our meeting that the writer prepared and carried down to them.

It has been decided to change from dinner-meetings to luncheons. Ben Garr stated that he would investigate dates and announce later, since he thought that Friday would be suitable day of the week but he would have to check up and determine whether there are any of the business men's luncheon clubs of Louisville meeting on Fridays. The fact that we are on 85 miles from Lexington makes a great difference to us down here. However, a strong effort will be made to overcome that; to a great extent.

Those present: Misses Margaret Gilhan Arnold and Dorothy Tileston Arnold of 2329 Glenmary avenue. Mrs. Ruby Arnold Dennis, 1916 South Second street; Ben Garr King, Travelers Insurance Co., 1252 Starks building; Jim Darnell, life insurance, 529 Y. M. C. A.; John B. Hutchings, engineer, 1708 Heyburn building; and the writer, whose address is 727 West Broadway.

The Misses Arnold and Mrs. Dennis were the ones who were referred to as being the "first timers." Miss Margaret Arnold is of the Class of '29, but Miss Dorothy Arnold and Mrs. Dennis are pursuing work during Summer School terms toward their degrees.

Dean Anderson will be in Louisville, October 30, and if he will have time it will be a pleasure for us to arrange a little party for him. I hope that we can.

hopes the time will come when we can get the 100% vote of our alumni. This may be the year if you will cast your vote and remind others to do likewise.

STUDENT PROGRESS

It is gratifying to know the student paper, The Kernel, at the university is sponsoring a cooperating buying plan for university student organizations. Such a step on the part of the student body is very significant, as it points to the great strides of progress our school is making.

We congratulate The Kernel on promoting the system, and express the hope that the system will soon be instituted.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON MUSICALES TO BE RESUMED IN NOVEMBER

The Sunday afternoon musicales, formerly known as Vesper programs, will be resumed on November the first at four o'clock in the new Memorial auditorium. These musicales are planned with the idea of giving the university community an hour of fine music each Sunday afternoon by artists of known ability.

The program on the first Sunday in November will be presented by a world famous musical organization, the details of which are in the nature of a surprise and further announcement regarding the program cannot be made at this time. President Frank L. McVey will give a short address of welcome.

On November the eighth the Heermann Trio from Cincinnati consisting of Emil Heerman, violin, Walter Heerman, cello, and Thomie Prewitt Williams piano, will present the program. This is one of the finest musical ensembles in the middle west and their program should be an outstanding event.

Lawrence Cook, talented organist from Louisville will present the first of two recitals, which he is to give during the season, on Sunday, November the fifteenth.

November the twenty-second brings Hans Merx, baritone, in a program of German lieder. Mr. Merx is recognized as one of the foremost interpreters of the lieder appearing on the concert stage at the present time.

The University Philharmonic Orchestra with Professor Carl Lampert conducting will make its first appearance of the season on November the twenty-ninth. Professor Lampert reports that he has one of the best orchestras in years, so this program should be of unusual interest to alumni of the university.

R. D. McINTYRE, Chairman,
Musical Committee.

AGRICULTURE WORKERS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

The annual conference of county agents, home agents, and agricultural extension workers will be held at the university October 28 to 31. Approximately 200 county agricultural workers are expected to attend. Among the speakers for the occasion will be Dr. C. B. Smith and George E. Farrel of the United States Department of Agriculture.

All plans have not been announced regarding Lewis of the College of Agriculture, the meetings for the women will be held in the agriculture building and those of the men in the livestock pavilion.

The first of a series of Sunday afternoon services at Memorial Hall on the University of Kentucky campus will be held Sunday, November 1, with Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University as the speaker. The program will be in the form of musicales beginning November 8 and will bring to the University and Lexington many prominent soloists from various parts of the country.

McDonald-Niser

Of much interest to students of the university was the wedding of Mr. Arno Niser and Miss Marie McDonald, which was solemnized in Flemingsburg at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of the bride's father, T. H. McDonald by the Rev. E. B. Bourland, of the Christian church.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McDonald and is a popular member of Flemingsburg society. Mr. Arno Niser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arno Niser, Newport, and is connected with the state highway department. Following a motor wedding trip the young couple will return to Flemingsburg, where they will make their home.

Mr. Niser is a graduate of the university, receiving his degree in 1928. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

U. K. Alumni Dinner

The executive committee of the University Alumni association met for dinner October 5 at the Chimney Corner. This was the regular monthly meeting of the group, whose members are Dr. E. C. Elliott, host at the dinner meeting; Dr. George Wilson, Messrs. L. K. Frankel, Maury Crutcher, Wayland Rhoads, Walter Hillenmeyer, Col. W. C. #### BOOK IS REPRINTED

Prof. Grant C. Knight of the department of English has received word from his publisher that his latest book, "The Novel in English," went into a second printing during the past summer. "The Novel in English" was published in January of this year in a textbook edition for general trade. As a college textbook it has received adoptions numerous enough to warrant its reprinting within a year of its first appearance.

PLAN ENTRANCE IN SCHOOL MEET

Plans for the participation of the Fayette county schools in the rural school tournament to be held at the University of Kentucky November 13 and 14 were made yesterday at the first faculty meeting of the semester of Fayette county teachers.

The teachers decided to enter a glee club in the rural school competition this year, along with the scholastic and athletic entrants. After making plans for the rural school tournament, the teachers were divided into study groups according to the subjects which they teach, and made plans for the month's work.

Literature on fire prevention week and on temperance day, October 23, has been distributed among the county school children, County School Superintendent D. Y. Dunn stated. Mr. Dunn presided at the meeting yesterday. Dr. T. C. Ecton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, led devotionals.

U. K. TAX STUDY GETS FAVORABLE RECEPTION

A recent publication of the bureau of business research, University of Kentucky, "Personnel for the Administration of State Income Tax Laws," prepared by Prof. A. J. Lawrence, of the College of Commerce, has received an enthusiastic reception at the hands of tax officials of the various states, according to letters received.

A letter received at the university from the office of the franchise tax commissioner of California stated, "You may be interested to know that the former commissioner, Mr. Albert A. Manship, found your article of such importance that he had a number of photostatic copies made of it for the use of the state offices."

FROM STUDY CLASS PRE-SCHOOL AGE CHILD

A class for the study of the pre-school and kindergarten child has been organized at the University of Kentucky training school under the sponsorship of the Parent-Teacher association. ### GUIGNOL PLAY DATE POSTPONED TO NOV. 2

The opening date for "Let Us Be Gay," this year's initial Guignol theatre presentation, has been postponed until Monday, November 2, according to an announcement by Director Frank Fowler.

The postponement was made because of the appearance of Sir Phillip Ben Greet, actor and Shakespearean producer, and his company of English players, who will give a performance Tuesday, October 27, in Memorial hall, under the auspices of the Women's club of the University of Kentucky.

The performance of "Let Us Be Gay," will continue through the week of November 2.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING

are placed the books for required reading. There are usually from 4,000 to 6,000 volumes on open shelves, and students are allowed to use them in that room without restriction. This is one of the most used rooms in the building. On the east side of the first floor is the Periodical Reading room in which are kept all the current numbers of the general periodicals and ten of the best daily newspapers. The university now subscribes to about 800 periodicals, and more than 400 are to be found in this room.

On the second floor is a spacious hall in which are located the general loan desk and the card catalog. Opening from this circulation hall is a most attractive room, furnished with leather chairs and divans, informal tables, and wall cases where many attractive books are provided for the leisure hour reading of students. This Browsing room is greatly appreciated by the students and by visitors. Alumni are invited to use and enjoy it whenever they are on the campus.

On the west side of the second floor is the General Reading room, or Reference room. In this room are found the standard reference books, such as dictionaries, encyclopedias, manuals, yearbooks. One-half of this room has on its shelves bound volumes of the most commonly used periodicals. At the north end of the room is a very pleasant alcove, with individual work tables and low windows, perhaps the most attractive place to work and study on the campus. cases, high windows and shaded reading lamps, is an ideal place for concentrated mental effort.

On the east side of this second floor is a group of offices and workrooms for the various departments of the library organization, the librarian's office, the Order department, the Cataloging department, and others. One of these rooms, the Bibliography room, is used by the faculty and students as well as the library assistants. This room contains books which give information about books, such as prices, publishers, editions, sales catalogs, catalogs of other libraries, and so forth. Here are shelved also the theses written by the graduate students of this university—a very popular collection with advanced students.

On the third floor, which is only on one side of the building, is a classroom where classes in library science are held, and adjoining it a study for the students in library science, with thirty individual study desks, typewriters, and other materials for instruction. This is the laboratory for those in training to become high school librarians.

The fourth floor is devoted almost entirely to advanced work. The large room in the center is the Graduate Reading room, and grouped around it are a series of smaller conference or seminar rooms, which are allotted to various departments doing work with graduate students. Two important department libraries are also on this floor, the Art library and the Medical seminar.

In the center of the building, at the back, reaching from the basement to the top floor, is the fire-proof stack, in which the main collection is housed. This is an entirely modern steel structure with accommodations for a library twice the size of our present collection. In this are placed forty-eight individual study tables in cubicles, where a man may carry on advanced work in comparative privacy free from interruption and near to the books with which he is working.

It is a matter for congratulation that at last the University of Kentucky has not only suitable quarters for the work of its students and faculty, but also a fitting place in which to house and safely preserve an adequate collection of books. The library is now in a position to invite and urge the friends of the university to help in the building up of a book collection that will be worthy of our state and of the affection we feel for our alma mater.

Valuable old books, letters, manuscripts and documents may be placed here with full assurance that they will be kept safely and that students and others interested may always have free access to them.

Many and varied are the religious, social and mental opportunities offered women students at the University of Kentucky through the activities of the student Y. W. C. A.

This year marks an innovation in Y. W. C. A. work at the University, with the presentation, under the direction of Miss Augusta Winn Roberts, newly appointed Y. W. secretary, of courses in tap-dancing, etiquette, social graces, ballroom dancing, international relations and varied branches of religious activities.

Tap dancing, the first course to open, is offered women students under the instruction of Georgiana Weedon, Evanston, Ill., sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University, and an expert in the art. It is a six weeks' course as are all the others.

Mrs. Frank L. McVey, wife of the president of the University, will lead a group of young women in a study course on the subject "How To Be Charming," some of the features of which will be a lecture by a prominent beauty specialist, a talk by a stylist and instructions in etiquette.

Mrs. Maury J. Crutcher, will instruct a class in contract bridge, and a class in ballroom dancing will be offered both men and women students.

This year the organization is presenting weekly Vesper services at seven o'clock Tuesday evening in the girls' recreation hall and courses in international relations will be inaugurated later in the season. A course in "How to be Intelligent About the Depression" will also be given. In developing these courses directors of the Y. W. C. A. are attempting to present, through their organization, a program touching on the social, religious and mental activities of student life.

KENTUCKY-MARYVILLE GAME

By RALPH JOHNSON, Sports Editor The Kernel
The Wildcats, in their first start this year, failed miserably in one way—to impress the 5,000 fans who were present in McLean stadium. But the score, 19-0, stands in Kentucky's favor, and that score is a decisive victory.

Only three or four of Kentucky's weakest plays were used against the Maryville team, but those plays gained 14 first downs to three for Maryville. The three for the Highlanders were gained via the forward pass offense and one lucky long run of 12 yards. When that game was played, the 'Cats were very weak on pass defense. They realized it and plenty of work was done on it the following week.

Touchdowns were gained after flashes of power. In the first quarter the Big Blue marched straight to the goal for six points. After that they relaxed and Maryville took heart and attempted several forward passes. To the fans it looked as though the game Highlanders would score. However, in the critical moments the Kentuckians came through with the necessary power to stop them. The three bursts of power and the necessary defensive power proved the 'Cats strong suit.

If there were any stars in the game they were Kelly and Johnson for Kentucky and Calloway for Maryville. Kelly and Johnson made long runs to cause hopes to rise for an instant. In the football programs, edited by Niel Plummer, Calloway was written up as the man who "does every thing for Maryville." And that is what he did. He was responsible for all the passes, the punts and the majority of their gains from scrimmage.

KENTUCKY-W. & L. GAME

For at least three minutes at the start of the Kentucky-Washington and Lee game things looked bad for Kentucky. The Generals opened up their attack with a startling barrage of passes that advanced them within scoring distance of the Blue and White goal.

But versatile "Shipwreck" Kelly lunged into the air and nipped a pass that would have most certainly scored for W. and L. He intercepted the pass on his own four yard line and raced through the entire opposing team behind a perfect wall of interference for the first touchdown. The rapidity with which the whole thing happened took the heart out of the Generals and sent the entire crowd to their feet.

Kentucky then kicked off to the Virginians and they started a second passing attack, but as the first failed so did the second. Kelly took the ball out of Martin's hands and returned it 17 yards before he was downed. On the next play he made 36 yards only to be stopped on the one yard line. In two tries Kelly and Johnson failed to pierce the Virginia line, but on the third down Kelly went through the center for the touchdown.

During the first quarter Washington and Lee scored three first downs to Kentucky's one. The touchdowns were the results of long runs from intercepted passes and one long run from scrimmage.

Throughout the following three quarters the entire second and third teams were put into the game. They continued the good work of the varsity first string. They scored twice in the second quarter.

Jack Phipps, the last of the three Phipps brothers, went into the game as fullback and promptly showed himself to be one of the most powerful backs in Kentucky. The ball was on the three yard line and it was fourth down. Phipps was called on to take it over. He took the ball and hit the center of the line where the entire opposing line was massed. Jack straightened out like spring steel and drove the Generals back across their own goal line for the touchdown. Later in the game he crashed through the center of the line and continued on for 47 yards.

When Kelly was replaced by Bach, he was replaced by a boy who is to gain a reputation similar to that of Kelly's. He is an understudy of "Shipwreck's" now, and his work against the Generals hails him as up and coming. His 80 yard run through the center of the line differed from the 96 yard run of Kelly's only in its origin and the scant 16 yards difference in distance. His interference was excellent, but his own foot work looked like Kelly.

Urbaniak, Johnson, and Richards played splendid games, even though they lacked the spectacularness of the others mentioned.

In the line they functioned well from end to end. Wright is expected to give all he has, and he does. Andrews and Davidson perform, mechanically perfect, side by side. Gibson is tough and the opponents know it. Duff, Cavana and Kreuter as ends played well even though the Kentucky forward pass offense wasn't being used.

A punt such as has never before been witnessed on Stoll field, according to the old timers, rose off the toe of Ralph Kercheval for 75 yards. It went high, wide, and handsome. The ends were there when it landed, and they nailed the receiver before he could take a step. Kercheval's punts average well over 50 yards.

For the Generals, Bailey and Mattox played well. Martin accounted for the majority of the completed forward passes. But after the first intercepted pass W. and L. resigned to their fate somewhat. Once or twice they roused from their heart failure and attempted to push a score across. Each time the Kentuckians loomed high in their horizon and took the ball away from them for failing to make first downs.

The 45-0 score is the worst whipping the Generals have ever suffered at the hands of a Kentucky team.

ONE GAME TO BENEFIT JOBLESS

Assured already of widespread support from such enterprises as another Army-Navy post-season battle, Owen D. Young today called upon every college and school football team in the United States to help raise funds for the unemployed.

The chairman of President Hoover's committee on the mobilization of relief resources appealed to each college and school to play at least one game for the jobless. Where this can not be done during the regular season, Mr. Young asked that special games be scheduled.

'CAT-COLONEL GAME SOUGHT

Louisville alumni of Centre College adopted a resolution tonight saying they "heartily approve the movement to bring about a game between Centre and the University of Kentucky this season for the benefit of charity."

The resolution asked that "the alumni of the University of Kentucky be called upon to join with us in demanding of our respective schools that this game be arranged and played in Louisville during the month of December."

Athletic relations between the schools were severed in 1929.

This resolution referred to Owen D. Young's request that all possible charity football games be played for the benefit of the unemployed.

Just what the University of Kentucky's attitude toward a football game for the unemployed would be, the athletic council would have to decide, Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the university, said.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the athletic council, said that the council would have to be governed by the action taken in the matter by the Southern Conference, of which Kentucky is a member. The conference has a rule that no post-season games be played. If this rule is waived by the conference this year in order to assist the unemployment committee in carrying out its plan of relief, any member of the Southern Conference could then, if it so desired, play a game for the unemployed, Dr. Funkhouser said.

"As for Kentucky, should the conference permit it, I see no reason why we should not play such a game," Doctor Funkhouser declared.

The university team already is playing nine games this season, its schedule closing December 5 with a game in Florida with the University of Florida. It has no open mid-season dates, the longest period between games being from November 14, the date of the game with V. M. I., and November 26, that of the Tennessee contest.

There have been numerous suggestions that Kentucky play Centre College this year for the benefit of the unemployed. This, however, could not be arranged for a date earlier than December 12 unless it is played in the middle of the week or one of the teams cancels an already scheduled game. Centre plays Louisville on November 21, the Saturday included in the Wildcats' rest period between the V. M. I. and Tennessee game.—Lexington Herald.

FRESHMEN LOSE TO VANDY, 13-0

Coach Pribble's Kentucky Kittens ran into a forward passing offense at the hands of the Vanderbilt freshmen at Nashville, Tennessee, October 10, and when the last whistle had blown, found themselves on the short end of a 13-0 count.

By virtue of an incomplete lateral pass which was tried by the Kentucky freshmen, and which was recovered on the Kentuckian's 30-yard line, the Vanderbilt first year men scored their first marker of the game. On the second play after the recovery of the lateral pass, Scoggins, a substitute Vandy halfback, tossed a pass over the goal line to Spears for a touchdown. Beck's place kick for the extra point was good.

Vanderbilt's second touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a line plunge by Beck. The whole Kitten line stopped Brown at center when he attempted to plunge over for the extra point.

Honors of the game went to Jean and Barney in the Kittens' backfield, while Rupert, Montjoy and Cowherd gave credible performances in the line.

The Kittens threatened to score only once during the game, but suffered a bad break when they lost the ball on downs and the Rats kicked to safety.

WILDCATS VISIT HOOVER

Hon. Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, today advised The Lexington Leader that he had made arrangements for the University of Kentucky football squad to meet President Hoover while the Wildcats were in Washington for their game with the University of Maryland at College Park.

Wallace Muir, Lexington attorney, proposed the plan to have the Kentucky squad meet the President and Mr. Lucas arranged for the reception.

Mr. Lucas, a Kentuckian, announced the football squad was received by the President at the White House at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. The squad was accompanied to the White House by its coaches and members of the University staff who made the trip with the team.

The visit to the White House climaxed the sight-seeing trip of the Kentucky squad planned for it after the arrival of the Kentuckians in Washington early Friday morning.

The Kentucky squad presented a football to President Hoover for his grandson, Herbert Hoover III.

SPIRIT IS MANIFESTED BY ROSS

The worries of the Wildcat coaching staff probably would be eliminated if every able-bodied male student at the University of Kentucky possessed the same spirit that has endeared Jim Ross to the football squad.

Jim is an engineering student who played prep school football at Randolph-Macon under a big handicap. He is a deaf and dumb and is not a powerful man physically. When the Wildcat football squad began to shrink because of ineligibility and other causes, Jim decided it was time for all good men to come to the aid of the party, so he called for football equipment and presented himself to Coach Harry Gamage.

"I know I can't make the team," Jim wrote to Mr. Gamage, "but perhaps you can use me at practice. You can let the other fellows practice blocking and tackling on me and I can be of some service to the team."

Jim's home is at Ashland.

BAND MARCHES

The University of Kentucky band, 92 strong, boarded a special train at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Union Station, bound for Washington where a busy week-end had been arranged for the musicians in the capital city and at College Park, Md., where the Kentucky football team played the University of Maryland eleven Saturday, October 17.

Eighty-nine musicians, accompanied by Prof. Elmer G. Sulzer, director, their sponsor, Miss Virginia Dougherty, and Drum Major Marion Custard, composed the party.

Immediately upon its arrival in Washington early Saturday, the band went directly to Radio Station WRC from which it presented a half-hour program on a national broadcast, from 9:30 to 10 o'clock (Lexington time). The Kentuckians' program was sent out over the WEAFF network which includes Station WHAS, Louisville.

At the conclusion of the program, the smartly-clad, blue and white Kentucky students staged a parade through the principal streets of the capital. They were transported by bus from Washington to College Park, 12 miles away in time for the game, which was scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock (Lexington time).

Before the contest started and during the half period, the band took the field and executed a series of maneuvers, which included forming the initials to the two schools.

Members of the band returned to Washington Saturday night where they remained until 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon when they again boarded a special train for Lexington.

"On, On, U. of K." the battle song of all Kentucky athletic teams, was the first number by the band on its national broadcast. Eight other selections were played, concluding with "Collegiate Dixie," a medley arranged by Professor Sulzer, composed of the songs of Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, Alabama, Washington and Lee, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Other numbers on the program are: March, "Washington Post March," Sousa; medley, "The Best Loved Southern Melodies," Hayes; march, "Under the Double Eagle," Wagner; spiritual, "Deep River," march, "NC-4," Bigelow; serenade, "A Night in June," Ging.

FORMER WILDCAT ATHLETES GATHER FOR LUNCH, GAME

Tales of gridiron battles in years past and of other athletic crusades of bygone days in which University of Kentucky men have participated formed the principal dish on the menu of approximately 120 winners of the coveted "K" monogram who Saturday observed "lettermen's day" at their alma mater.

The affair was promoted by the university athletic council which invited all lettermen from the school to be their guests for the annual Wildcat-Washington and Lee football game on Stoll field.

The "K" men formally opened their celebration with a luncheon Saturday in the Phoenix hotel. Wallace Muir, Lexington attorney, former Wildcat football star and one of the university's staunchest supporters in its athletic endeavors, presided as master of ceremonies.

All of the letter men were then introduced individually with the years in which they wore the blue and white uniforms. The athletic council was introduced, and Prof. Enoch Grehan, an alumni member, welcomed the former stars back to the school.

The only speech made at the luncheon was given by James Park, Wildcat football, basketall, and baseball hero of 15 years ago. Mr. Park told the lettermen that the entire athletic future of the university depended upon them, that it was their duty to look up the promising high school athletes and send them to Kentucky.

"And no football player who lays down or quits when the game gets hard is half so cowardly or yellow as the alumnus who curls up and stops supporting the Kentucky team when it loses a few games," he continued.

Stars of Other Days

Mingling around the luncheon tables were Wildcat performers of three and four decades ago and athletes who only recently stepped out of the sporting limelight. Rousing cheers and ovations for popular teammates and stars of other seasons became prominent impromptu features on the program.

The 1890 classes were well represented and these "old heads" had many tales of football in its more brutal and rough-and-tumble days to compare with the scientific exploitations of the game by the younger athletes. Many sections of the country were represented among the lettermen who came here for the occasion.

The record for distance traveled in coming to Lexington was won by Richard Conn, who earned his "K" as varsity football manager in 1926. Conn arrived just this week from Colombia, South America, some 3,000 miles away, where he has been employed for the last five years. He came to spend a three-months' vacation at his home here.

At the conclusion of the luncheon program, the lettermen were assisted in reviving their school spirit to the proper pitch by Bob Creech, dynamic cheer leader through several seasons. Tickets to the game were distributed by Neil Plummer, athletic publicity director, and the "K" men adjourned to their special section in the Stoll field stands where they apparently thoroughly enjoyed the sound thrashing the current football machine administered to their ancient rivals from Virginia.

COOPERATIVE ARRANGEMENT MAY BE MADE

Plans for a cooperative buying system, by which social fraternities and sororities of the university will purchase food and other supplies through a central agency maintained by the university, are at present under consideration. In addition to the buying phase of the plan arrangements may be made for auditing books of the various organizations at definite periods of the year by the university business office.

Details of the arrangement are at present being worked out by university authorities and it is expected that the cooperative system may be put into operation by the opening of the second semester of the 1931-32 school year. If the plan is carried through all organizations will be represented on a board of directors which will cooperate with university authorities in administrative work. It is will be representatives who already have been chosen as members of the Pan-Hellenic council if this arrangement is satisfactory to the fraternities.

Under the plan contemplated all university organizations would purchase food through the distributing agency. The discount thus obtained would bring about a marked reduction in food prices, it is believed. It is possible that the cafeteria and men's and women's residence halls will be in the system.

Pres. Frank L. McVey said recently that he thought the plan a "very good one," but that it is now too late to work it out for the beginning of the fall semester.

The plan is at present in operation in several universities and authorities in those schools report that it is working successfully and it is a most effective agency for reducing food cost to the fraternities.

Ohio State university will begin operation of the plan this fall for the 20 fraternities which are the most financially unstable. The remainder of the Greek-letter organizations probably will be included at a later date.

For the inception of the plan the endorsement of the executive committee of the university will be necessary. Members of the committee have made no official statements regarding their attitude toward the proposal but it is believed that the majority will be in favor of it.

The cooperative system has been favorably considered by the Interfraternity Conference and at the conference of the Association of Deans of Men. At the last Deans of Men Men conference, which was held in April at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, a resolution sponsoring the plan was presented and passed. The same resolution will be introduced before the Interfraternity Conference at the annual meeting in New York City in February.

Alvin E. Duerr, chairman of the Interfraternity Conference, in a letter to university authorities, states that the conference has been much interested in the movement for the establishment of cooperative buying for fraternities and that a great deal of study has been devoted to it. Several institutions which have adopted the system are cited in the letter and assistance in planning a similar arrangement for the university is offered.

A representative of the conference will come to the university in the near future to explain the plan and confer with sponsors of the system here.

Universities operating under the cooperative buying plan at present are: University of Oregon, which maintains its own warehouse and buys, in many cases, directly from manufacturers and producers; University of Minnesota. Ohio State University; Ohio Wesleyan University, and several others.

Developments of the plan will be carried by The Kernel until it is finally submitted to the administration and the fraternities.

KENTUCKY HELD TO 6-6 SCORE BY MARYLAND TEAM

Fumbles at critical moments and Maryland's "hidden ball" forward pass caused the Kentucky Wildcats to be held to a 6 to 6 tie by the lighter and out-powered Maryland Old Liners before a crowd of approximately 10,000 persons, Saturday at College Park, Maryland.

Kentucky had it all over the black and orange Old Liners when it came to gaining ground and making first downs, but the play that beat the Navy the preceding Saturday was used successfully against the Wildcats 15 seconds before the first half ended. This play, employing the hidden ball idea, was a double pass behind the line and then a long forward pass. This play was good for 45 yards. Kelly tackled Norris just as he went over the goal, but it was then too late.

Kentucky came back with a vengeance at the start of the third period, and it took Coach Harry Gamage's Wildcats just five plays after the quarter started to shove across a touchdown. That march started from Kentucky's 30-yard line immediately after the kickoff, and was made doubly sensational by "Shipwreck" Kelley's 49-yard dash around right end.

Davidson, big Kentucky guard, had his opportunity to put victory in Kentucky's lap, but his placekick went wild and the score remained 6 to 6.

Kentucky should have won by two touchdowns for they made 14 first downs to Maryland's six and gained three times as many yards. However, frequent fumbles, dropped punts, 10 and 13 yard punts, and penalties, usually of the 15-yard variety, cost them their chances to win the game.
