University Band Will Radiocast at WROL

The university band will broadcast a 30 minute program over station WROL, Knoxville, Tennessee, Thanksgiving night following the Kentucky-Tennessee football game. Wesley Carter, head student radio announcer, has been invited to announce the band by the program director of the WROL station, Miss Lelia Hatcher. Chuck Simpson, sports announcer of the University of Tennessee, will have charge of the program.

Kampus Kernels

All members of Suiky circle are to be present at 11:50 a. m., at the Alumni gymnasium today when pictures will be taken for the 1932-33 yearbook.

All Strollers must have their pictures taken for the Stroller yearbook for the 1932-33 yearbook. The photographer will remain in the basement of the gymnasium until 6 o'clock today for junior and senior organizers unable to come during school hours.

The final date for individual pictures for the Kentuckian has definitely been set at Saturday noon, October 8. All juniors and seniors wishing to have their pictures in the 1933 Kentuckian should have their sittings made before 5 o'clock today or before noon Saturday.

Professors are returned two days after pictures are taken and may be obtained in the gymnasium until Tuesday. After that date, they will be filed in the Kentuckian office and may be obtained by a 3 to 5 o'clock daily.

German qualifying examinations for the higher degrees in the graduate school, will be given Friday, October 28, at 2 p. m. in Room 294, Administration building. Graduate students who expect to take this examination should give the department notice as soon as possible.

C. R. MELCHER, Head, German Department.

Aw, Rats! Janitor Is Disgusted

Pierre is disgusted! Pierre, the janitor in the Administration building is one of the most loyal of university trustees and in the same time has become an institution on the campus.

However, Pierre has one weak point. He doesn't like mice. In fact, he has a very pronounced aversion for them. In the past few times when the university cafeteria was located in the basement of the Administration building, mice abounded on those premises and Pierre went through the most harassed era of his existence.

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING
An economic necessity is always a tying bond. History and Literature bear out the issue.

The economic necessity of curtailing expenses among fraternities and societies is in evidence as the result of an action taken by the two college social units—the men and the women—which groups them into a league called the Inter-fraternity Co-operative Buying Association. Steps were first taken in the promotion of such an idea last spring, but final action awaited the opening of the fall semester.

Fraternity and sorority friction is laid aside; competition is forgotten. They work together in a united interest.

Each organization on the campus has its representative. They meet in a business session and hire a student purchasing agent. With their agent, the representatives form their plans, and then approach the various business houses for reduced rates in quantity purchases.

It is obvious that the merchant will meet the association head-on. And it is just as obvious to see that the association can buy large quantities at a cheaper rate than separate organizations can purchase a lesser quantity of the same article or foodstuff.

The co-operative buying move is by far the best step taken by fraternities and sororities to meet an economic necessity. Not only does it lessen the cost of running an organization, but it tends to show a common bond of interest among social groups.

DEPRESSION AND THE COLLEGE STUDENT
When the stock markets crashed in November, 1929, the members of the present senior class had just begun their first year in college. Perhaps only a few students of the class felt the immediate effect of the crisis which six months later revived the word "depression" which had slipped into disuse for a number of years.

From that time on, parents of college students had more difficulty to send their children back to college. College, long looked upon as a luxury by the masses, now is universally considered a luxury. Everywhere parents are being commended, or disapproved, as the case may be, for putting forth the effort to finance their children through four of the most trying years of the twentieth century has witnessed.

Enemies of higher education glide those who are borrowing money or going into debt in order to send others to college.

But what of the college students themselves? They are more fortunate than they realize. They should overlook the inconveniences which a minimum allowance necessitates. They should be glad that low family finances require that they partly earn their own way. They should be thankful that such an economic situation has taken place at a time in their lives when its effects will be most emphatic.

College years are counted among the most impressive of a man's life. During that time his character is undergoing series of changes. He learns quickly, and his experiences are stored away for future reference.

In the future, conditions will gradually become better. Depression will again step into the background. The college students of today will be the older generation of tomorrow. But they will not forget the lessons that the depression of today has taught them.

When the seniors of this year receive their sheepskins, symbolizing of the courses they have successfully mastered a portion degree will have been added to their honors—experience which will not be forgotten by its graduates. They will be thankful of the lesson they have mastered.

THESE BALLOONS

"You know, I think that is just a shame! How grown persons can act so ridiculously childish is beyond me!"

A lady at the Kentucky-Sewanee football game Saturday made the remark. And we believe that she had good reason for the criticism; what else could one think after seeing the balloon-anchoring antics of would-be funsters?

Not only during last Saturday's game, but at practically every game where an attempt has been made to distribute a little school spirit in the form of balloons, certain thoughtless individuals have disrupted the idea entirely. If as much enthusiasm were shown in cheering as is displayed in the mad scramble for one of the gas filled balloons, Kentucky would be famous for her iron lunged rooters.

Our suggestion is, present each spectator with a balloon as he passes through the gate, and in so doing, specify that they are not to let go until Kentucky scores her first touchdown.

Jest Among Us

The Jester, through a little observation about the campus recently has discovered that "Nature in the Rain is seldom Dry."

Speaking of the current wet and dry topics, we are reminded of the "illuminated" vagabond who, when he espied a car passing through town with a sign reading, "Hoover for Ex-President," wrapped up his mouth in a contenting razzberries and yelled, "Roosevelt, Repeal, and Rootbeer."

The other day a stude was overheard greeting another as Number 972. Only those who listen to Amos 'n' Andy can appreciate this.

An ad which recently appeared in a newspaper read like this, "If Mr. Brown, who left his wife and baby twenty years ago, will come home his baby will kick 'el out of him."

Famous last words: "Hold these balloons 'till Kentucky makes her first touchdown."

Add simile—As generous with compliments as the Quiz Vadit columnist.

It was recently announced that Al Smith's pronunciation of radio (radd-i-o) is grammatically correct. Evidently the precise former candidate would rather be right than a president.

The Jester advises SuKy, if they cannot get proper support from the student body, some electrically transcribed applause from political orations now bombarding the ether.

The writer who predicted that the next president is certain to have a double "O" in his name must have forgotten that the presidential bee is still buzzing around the hat of Andy Gump.

DOTES AND ANTI-DOTES

By LAWRENCE HERRON

Typewriter clicks: Alfasigs and Alfataws are at it again...a frosh showed up at an Alfataw pleb gathering...wearing the buttons of each leg...Prof. V. R. Portmann wears shirts and ties that match. Alfatam ladies telephone the Maxwellton Football Manston late at night. Signabastee Gene Miller has lost his Eversharp pencil. Statisticians report that women who rate over 90 percent intellectually marry less frequently than those who don't. Tridlets believe in substitutes...phone call for one of the ladies was answered with, "Won't someone else do?" Alfatags go to sleep in bath-tubs. Straw vote of freshmen awards the punch-making trophy to the Zetawats by a staggering majority. The same is passing hat brims this fall. Triangle Ben Harrison breaks into print...won a College Humour baner. Mel Flammer walks back...had the gas stolen from his car the other night. Chief Jean Chamberlain likes members of the Liberal club.

Passing portraits: "That Old School Spirit"—Ed walking about the campus Thursday with SuKy's rally tag, "Beat V. M. L." fluttering from his lapel.

Chalk one up for the Kappasigs. C. O. Wallace and other eds, financing a football trip, placed white chalk and one marked piece in a hat; the one drawing the marked chalk was to get the ride. Wallace held the hat, gets the ride.

And the Trowlites and the Chloes rushed an ette who couldn't decide. Chapters agreed to flip a coin. Chlo president did the tossing. The ette's a Chlo pleb.

And do I get fan mail? Just received a notice of the Thomas-Ing President club meeting. And me for Andy Gump.

The Hercules who walked off with the office dictionary doesn't need to both about it. I have another one. It's older, and softer, and makes for better sitting than the other.

No folks, this is not a valentine. It's only an old tintype of a famous journalist that we snatched from the family album. He hails from Yap's Crossing, Minnesota; but you would never know it unless you asked him; for he loathes to mention the name of his native state.

He began his journalistic career as a printer's devil in his father's print shop. They cleaned up when he printed the New York city directory on a hand press. Much to the delight of everybody in Yap's Crossing (150 persons, counting those in the cemetery), this man published a weekly paper. And it was indeed a weekly one. All the people bought it because it made such lovely wall paper. Nevertheless, it was in this paper that he displayed his mastery of the English language when he wrote that famous editorial, "If You Have Halitosis, Don't Breathe It to a Soul."

At last he got a break—in fact he crumbled. He came to Kentucky to work on the Kampus Kat. And did he work on it? Ask the man who owns one—if you can find a man who bought one. He wore out 17 blue pencils censoring the first edition. Now he is teaching young journalists to use their rhetorical instincts to uncover dirt on the campus. Why uncover it when there is enough showing already? "Another showing the next rainy day!"

Here are the answers Hollywood would give if asked the questions about the bits of gossip in Tuesday's column:

Chauvette Colbert is the girl who develops into a siren in DeMiller's "The Sign of the Cross." This will bear watching.

Jean Harlow's husband is alleged to have committed suicide—sure they had been married scarcely two months!

Rudy Vallee wants to become a criminal or corporation lawyer in years to come when his crooning days are over.

Frank Buck, whose "Bring 'Em Back Alive" is coming to the Kentucky Saturday, believes that "all women like jungle pictures—if they are brutal enough." He must have had that in mind when he filmed his picture.

Greta Garbo may return to play the title role of "Christina," a yarn based on a historical character—a Swedish queen who renounced her throne for love.

John Barrymore says that brother Lionel is his favorite actor, while sister Ethel is his pick of the actresses on the screen. Keeping it all in the family saves so much confusion.

At a luncheon table not far from Times Square an agreement was made between a famous movie magnate and an equally famous big game hunter: Frank Buck, long accustomed to hunting down and trapping wild animals for zoos and circuses, was to undertake something new; this time he was to capture these weird and fantastic beasts, not in cages, but on film. He was to "Bring 'Em Back Alive" into the whirlpool of New York. did. His film-cage are to be presented to Lexington beginning Saturday at the Kentucky theater.

—and through all the long years, when the clouds shed their tears, those two eyes of blue came smilin' through at me." All the pathos of the play that captured the heart of the world not so many years ago throbs in these familiar strains. The transient, yet ever-potent, charm has been recaptured in the screen version of "Smilin' Through," with Norma Shearer as Kathleen and Fredric March as Kenneth Wayne. You will learn to thrill anew to the exquisite beauty of this Irish romance Sunday at the Ben All.

New York City is said to be the adopted home of most of its citizens. "Big City Blues," the feature for Sunday at the Strand, is the story of another small town boy who adopted the metropolis for his home. The boy, Eric Linden, and a city-wise chorus girl, Joan Blondell, are thrown together by chance into the whirlpool of New York, and things begin to happen.

McVey Tea

Pres. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey received friends, students and faculty members from 4 to 6 Wednesday afternoon at their home on the campus.

Fall flowers formed the decorations, and tea and sandwiches were served in the sun room. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. Howard Rodman, house mother of Alpha Xi Delta, and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Alpha Gamma Delta house-mother.

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Alexander Bruce, Eleanor Hiltmeyer, Mary Ford Offutt, Rebecca Van Meter, Elizabeth Nichols, Florence Lewis, and Helen Morrison.

Entertain with Dinner

Dr. and Mrs. George H. Wilson entertained members of the executive committee of the University Alumni Association at dinner Monday night at the Lafayette hotel. A business session followed the dinner, at which time plans were made for the annual homecoming dance to be given November 12 after the Tulane game.

Coming Wedding

Many friends on the campus are interested in the coming marriage of Miss Elizabeth Regenstin, Fort Thomas, to Mr. John Starrett, Chicago, which will be solemnized Saturday evening, November 12, at the St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Fort Thomas.

The bride's attendants will be her sister, Miss Marion Regenstin, Mrs. Ewart Kinney, and Mrs. Gaston Beckett Hannah. Gishop H. P. Almon Abbott will read the ritual, assisted by Rev. J. Wilson Hunter, rector of the St. Andrew's church.

The bride was graduated from the university two years ago, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. Since finishing school she has traveled in Europe extensively.

Club Elects President

The initial meeting of the Scribblers' Club was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Johnstone, Second and Market streets, at which time Miss Ann Callihan was elected president for the coming year. A delightful buffet supper was served by the hostess and Miss Callihan. Following the supper, Dr. J. T. C. Roe and Mrs. Sally Bullock Cave read some of their original poems, and Professor Knight told of his preparations to write a book on the life of James Lane Allen.

Board Meeting

The advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. held an enjoyable meeting at 4:00 o'clock at Maxwell Place. Miss Augusta Roberts, executive secretary of the group, presided at the business session, which consisted of the formulation of plans for the student convention of Y. W. C. MAYBE "YES" AND MAYBE "NO"...
Wildcats Will Win By Small Margin. Seven Conference Games to be Played. Tulane-Georgia Game Tops Southern Conference

By LENNER

The University of Kentucky Wildcats will have a mighty big afternoon with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets in Atlanta this Saturday. We predict the Wildcats to come through by a few points, both teams will score. The Yellow Jackets have a much larger team than heretofore and have a crack sprinter in Chick Calloway, who will make trouble for any team.

Georgia, beaten by Virginia Poly on Saturday, finds Tulane's mighty championship array next in its path. Their meeting at New Orleans tops the Southern Conference schedule. Other conference games include Auburn's tangle with Duke and the Clemson-North Carolina State, Sewanee-Florida, Tennessee-Vanderbilt.

University Hi Plays Falmouth Hi Today

University High will play its first home game this afternoon at 2:30 when they meet Falmouth on Cassidy field. As this is one of only two home games, a large crowd is expected to witness the contest. Although little is known about University High is confident of breaking into the win column.

The only casualty of University High squad is Captain Cecil Hillard, who suffered a back injury in practice. If he improves enough to start it will greatly aid University High's chances. Coach Kemper may start the following lineup: Bishop and C. Hillard, ends; Longley and Barr, tackles; Steers and Keller, guards; Wideman, center; Platt, Huston, V. Hillard and Broking, backfield.

You'll Want to Know

One of the first things you college fellers coming into Lexington will want to know is where to get good ice cream, the real Kentucky kind made of pure sweet Blue Grass cream and fresh fruits and not more than 24 hours from the freezer. After you've been here a few days you'll know it's Dixie you want and that it's easy to find.

THERE'S romance in a Chesterfield—the romance of fine tobaccos from all over the world. The search begins in far-off Turkey where Chesterfield buyers visit every important tobacco-growing section... and continues throughout our own Southland where buyers inspect every crop. Year in and year out Chesterfield gives to its smokers the "pick" of all these fields.

Gamagemen Leave On Southern Trip

The Wildcats showed flashes of power on the offense Wednesday and it may take a hard assignment to bring this latent energy into full play. With Captain Bud Davidson back in the fold the line is in pretty good shape. Duff, Aldridge and Drury are a bit under the weather, but all will be able to see some service against the Techmen. The Wildcat mentor probably will start Rupert at one end and Dutch Kreuter at the other flank. These boys are fast and tough and will give the Tech backs a very unpleasant afternoon. "Red" Parrish probably will see service if anything happens to either of the starting men at the terminals. Red is the fastest lineman on the squad and can really catch passes.

John Drury, suffering from a knee injury, is much improved and will be ready for the battle Saturday. Alternate Captain George Skinner will be in his accustomed place at the opposite tackle. Both of these men are inexperienced at the tackle posts but are learning rapidly and will be as good as any in the south before two more weeks have passed.

The morale of the team is excellent; the boys are not afraid of the powerful team they must face, neither are they confident of victory. The coaches think the boys have a fair chance of winning, but are asking only for a team that will be in there battling from opening whistle to closing gun. This year's team is a better spirited team than any that has represented the university in several seasons. They are a fighting bunch of gladiators and will be hard to lick. "Big" Seale has about recovered from his lacerations and bruises and will fill the center of the line with his ponderous girth. James and Luther, who are able at any time to take his place and carry almost as much trouble to the opposition.

At blocking back all three of the men who will make the trip for the Big Blue are in tip-top physical condition, and have all improved in their blocking and their defensive abilities. Tom Cassidy will probably be the choice for the Jacket game as he is about right, and in addition to his blocking can run, pass and kick. Jim Darnaby, who was moved from a guard post to the backfield, can block and is a fairly fast man and a smart football player. Bob Goodman, the other blocker is a good man, and reminds one of Dick Richards when he stands behind the line on the offense. Goodman is perhaps the best defensive man of the lot.

At quarterback Ralph Kercheval will again direct the team, with "Pug" Bach and Darrell Darby beginning at the halfback posts. "Cuzey" Foster, Asher and Ellis Johnson may see service in the backfield and if he is capable, John Vey will start in place of Darrell Darby.

The Wildcats took a light workout before leaving Lexington yesterday and will probably go thru some more maneuvers this afternoon in Atlanta.

The following men made the trip for the Wildcats: Seale, Jones, and Luther, centers; Blevins, Gibson, Davidson and Aldridge, guards; Montgomery, Skinner, Wagner and Drury, tackles; Rupert, Duff, Kreuter, or some one borrowed, a sunde jacket in basement of Mr. Vey hall. Please return to Bill Jobe, 120 Bassett Court.
