THE LIBRARY

Business Library Moves to King

Because the College of Business and Economics is growing rapidly, the space now occupied by the library has been required for offices and/or classrooms.

Perhaps by this time, move of the collection to the "old" Reference Room on the second floor of King South will have been completed. We look to the return of some of old stand-by reference works, and to closer relations with the staff.

THE PEOPLE

Business Coverage

Rhoda Channing is leaving at the end of August to accept a position at Boston College. Any staff member interested in being considered for business reference and collection development work for the coming year should see Faith Harders as soon as possible.

ACTS Meeting

The ACTS meeting is now scheduled for August 31, 9:00 AM - 12:00 noon. The place has been changed to the staff lounge, 3rd floor North, so that we can enjoy coffee and cake, and cookies and _____.

New on the Scene

Judith M. Wiza has joined the Reference Department. She comes to us from the Library School of the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Jan Orf has been appointed as Extension Librarian, a newly created position funded by University Extension. Jan's role will be to plan, design, develop and administer programs and services applying the library resources of the University to the informational needs of extension.

Study of Reference Dept. to be Republished

An article entitled, "Fleeting Encounters--Arole Analysis of Reference Librarian-Patron Interaction" based on research carried out in the reference department of MIK has been selected for reprinting by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Library Science. The reprint will be appearing in a book of required readings for the first year graduate students at UNC. The article appeared in RQ 16:2: 124-29 (1976) and was written by UK anthropologists Benita Howëll, Edward Reeves and John van Willigen.

Organization Structure

The University of Kentucky Libraries Organizational Chart was on the back page of last week's Green Bean. We hope you saw and kept it. If any Department or section is broken further, the Green Bean will be glad to publish the arrangement with persons responsible for specific areas.

How Do We Spell "Relief"?

Agriculture received its new OCLC terminal on July 19. We are calling it ROLAIDS, for "Remote On-Line Access in a Departmental Setting." The name was selected from entries submitted by staff members.

TRY ERIC

ERIC SYSTEM: The Educational Resources Information Center is a national information network which collects, indexes, and distributes educational research reports, conference proceedings, and professional papers from major research centers throughout the United States. Other United States and extensive bibliographies in many subject areas. It publishes both Resources in Education (RIE) and Current Index to Journals in Education (CIJE) as guides to its literature.

RIE and CIJE may be used in both MIK Library and the Education Library so that a manual search may be made by the library patron. Also available are semi-annual and annual indexes. The Education Library subscribes to, and housed, the microfiche edition of all titles available through the ERIC system. Thus immediate access to sought-for material is possible. Microfiche readers and reader-printers are available in the Education Library, MIK Library and many other libraries on campus. The Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors is useful in identifying subjects to be searched.

The College of Education also buys the ERIC tapes which are housed on campus at the computing center. Arrangements for graduate students and Education faculty for ERIC tape searches may be made by contacting the office of Dr. Tom Guskey at 7-3791. This office is now located at 147 Washington Avenue. For students a request sheet signed by a professor is necessary and each student must make an appointment to discuss the search and make descriptor selection. Searches are accepted on Wednesday afternoons and Thursday mornings. They are sent to the University Computer Center and are generally returned on Friday.

Data Services in MIK Library may access ERIC on-line. Trudy Bellardo and other Librarians in Reference need to confer with people who desire a search. A charge is made for this service.

Elementary and secondary teachers in the public schools of Kentucky can call or write to Donna Swanson, State Department of Education in Frankfort for a free computer search of ERIC. Donna will send, upon request, a microfiche copy of the document to the teacher. Written requests should be on school stationery. All public libraries in the state of Kentucky have microfiche readers which may be utilized if the school does not own a reader.
