

Who Will Reign As Homecoming Queen—Amonda Mansfield, Julie Wardrup, Sharon Edstrom, Pauetta Owens, or Joni Jameson?

UK Homecomings Lack Traditions

By BEV PEDIGO, Assistant Managing Editor

Most college homecomings ooze with tradition—well, not UK's.

Occasionally an idea will catch on and stick around for a few years. But these are doomed to die either of their own accord or by official declamation.

One custom which persisted several years was the one of getting out of school a day early if Kentucky beat arch-rival Tennessee. This "tradition" ended in about five minutes during a Faculty meeting in 1959, when the holiday was refused.

In protest, students took matters into their own hands. A dummy labeled "the Faculty" was burned in a demonstration in front of the Student Union Building and a two-day riot was underway.

During the 30's, Homecoming weekend was launched with a gigantic pajama and nightgown parade which would wind around campus and through downtown Lexington. How this idea got started and why it was discontinued is left to speculation.

The alums can always be counted on to provide a few colorful incidents during Homecoming weekend. At the alumni banquet in '39, Gov. Keen Johnson was the main speaker. Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler led the group in some "good ol' songs;" then soloed on "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The Kentucky blue and white is one tradition that has stuck around many years. In 1890, a group of UK football stalwarts got together to choose the school colors. "Let's have blue and white—blue like the necktie Dick Stoll has on," one of them suggested. Dick Stoll was later to become Judge Richard C. Stoll, for whom Stoll Field is named.

Umpteen years ago the head of the military department described the UK defeat of Illinois by saying the Kentucky team "fought like Wildcats." The name caught on and has been the nickname of University athletic teams ever since.

In 1952, the students must have had dim outlooks for the Homecoming game because the coeds, decked in practice jerseys and blue jeans, staged a female gridiron battle at half time. The referee was Adolph Rupp, the downs were marked by past president Donovan, and the water boy was Gov. Lawrence Wetherby.

Even if few traditions have stuck around, Kentucky has had some colorful homecomings. Wonder what'll happen this year?

Full Weekend Ahead For Alumni, Students

Grads Start With Brunch

University alumni will be rushed around in various Homecoming activities tomorrow like newly-oriented freshmen in September.

The Alumni Association has announced alumni activities for Saturday. Registration will be from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the Student Union Building, and also at several Lexington hotels and motels.

A brunch, from 11:30-1:30, will be offered for all alumni and their families, in the SUB Ballroom.

President and Mrs. Frank G. Dickey will host a reception to be held after the game in the Music Room of the SUB.

The climax of the day's events will take place in a dance to be held from 8:30-12 p.m., in Convention Hall of the Phoenix Hotel.

Eric torch lights . . . screaming students . . . general chaos. No, hell hasn't broken loose—it's just Homecoming.

The festivities begin at 6:30 tonight with a torch parade and pep rally sponsored by Suky, the student pep organization.

The torch parade will begin at Holmes Hall, and will proceed east on Euclid Avenue and south on Rose Street to Wildcat Manor. Coach Charlie Bradshaw will be introduced during the pep rally.

Group participation in the "Yell Like Hell" contest will be judged on originality and enthusiasm.

The activities Saturday morning will begin at 10:30 with the Homecoming parade, which will circle from Limestone Street through downtown Lexington, south on Rose Street, then west on Euclid Avenue.

The 28 Homecoming Queen candidates will ride on floats featuring song title themes.

The five finalists for Homecoming Queen are Amonda Mansfield, representing Delta Gamma; Julie Wardrup, Alpha Delta Pi; Sharon Edstrom, Men's Residence Halls; Pauetta Owens, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Joni James, on Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Marching 100, the Lafayette High School Band, the Henry Clay High School Band, Pershing Rifles, and the Air Force ROTC Cadet Police will also march in the parade.

The Homecoming game will begin at 2 p.m. at Stoll Field. Half-time activities will feature Gov. Bert Combs crowning the 1962 Homecoming Queen.

To round out the day's activities, the Interfraternity Council and Student Union Board will sponsor the Homecoming Dance from 8-12 p.m. in the Ballroom. Little Hiawatha, from Cincinnati, will play.

ODK Tag Sale

The Kentucky Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's honorary, will hold a tag sale today and Saturday on campus.

The tags are paper badges indicating support of the Wildcats over their Homecoming opponent Vanderbilt.

Proceeds from the tag sale will go for the various service projects of ODK.

ODK members will have tables in various places on campus where students may purchase their tags.

Cooke To Speak In Lecture Series

Alistair Cooke, longtime narrator of "Omnibus," will speak tonight at the Coliseum, sponsored by the Central Kentucky Concert-Lecture Association.

The topic of the speech will be "American Politics in the Nuclear Age."

Cooke is best known for his work in the production of "Omnibus," a weekly public affairs program on television. He is currently the chief American correspondent for the Manchester Guardian in England and since 1938 has broadcast regularly over the British Broadcasting Company on United States affairs.

Born in Manchester, England, he came to the U.S. in 1932 to do research work at Harvard and Yale. Cooke has lived here almost continuously and has become an American citizen.

He is the author of "One Man's America," "A Generation on Trial," and "Christmas Eve."

SAM

The Society for the Advancement of Management will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 128 of the Student Union Building. Mr. Joseph Amwake from American Telephone and Telegraph, who graduated from the University in 1950, will speak on how to give an interview. All members are urged to attend.

Dr. Clark Contributes To Encyclopedia

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, professor and head of the Department of History, is among the new contributors to the 1962 edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

A resident of Lexington, Prof. Clark wrote two articles, "Ashland" and "Louisville," and collaborated with other authorities to revise an article on Kentucky.

In his article about Louisville, Prof. Clark summarizes the history of the largest city in Kentucky and provides up-to-date information about its industry, culture, and recreation.

After relating the history of Ashland and describing its early industry, he notes that Ashland today is still one of the state's most important industrial centers.

His revision of the article on Kentucky not only records the history of the Blue Grass State and describes its physical geography, but also supplies information about its government, population, education, health, welfare, and economy.

The articles written by Prof. Clark are among 3,849 which were reviewed for the 1962 edition as part of the continuous revision policy of the Encyclopedia Britannica. Many articles have been added or revised to incorporate pertinent information made available by the 1962 census reports.

Prof. Clark was one of almost 1,000 contributors who were directly involved with the 1962 edition.

Come one, come all to the big celebration!

The University of Kentucky is having its Homecoming this weekend. Haven't you heard? Everyone probably knows this all ready but I thought I'd be the 1,936th reminder.

The spirit of Homecoming has certainly descended upon us in an array of floats, queens, crepe paper, chicken wire, and Scotch tape. Suddenly the aroma of tobacco that usually prevails over the campus has been replaced by a fresh, intoxicating Homecoming breeze.

Everyone is celebrating. The dogs are happy, and that seems to be an important factor to be considered lately. The M&O men are happy—the poster season is over. The dime stores made a million selling all that crepe paper—they should be happy. The alums are happy, they are coming home to their old Alma Mater. And all the students are down with Mono.

The big problem tonight will be what to wear to the "Yell like H---" contest. I could say hell but then people would think I swore a lot, or something, but back to the issue at hand.

What is the appropriate dress for tonight's big blast? Naturally, the Kappa Delta's will be out in full array—green pleated skirts, white blouses, and hunter green cardigans.

The Kappa Kappa Gammas will wear their navy blue skirts and powder blue momogrammed blouses and the Alpha Delta Pi's will of course go in their A-line skirts, madras cumberbunds and white collar blouses.

And what would Homecoming be without the Phi Delt's with their hooded sweatshirts, or the Kappa Alpha's in their beards and sneakers. The independents who will attend tonight's orgy will of course dress independently. Anything from bermudas to tails are in order. The Sigma Chi's have spread the word around that derbies are the proper head attire for the evening.

But the main thing to remember is not to wear the best items in your wardrobe. Save these for the mud, rain, and snow tomorrow afternoon. And above all, dress with sufficient clothing to keep warm and prevent arrest.

Holmes Hall is starting off the weekend Friday night with a dance at 8 p.m. Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma have joined forces to sponsor an all-Greek jam session at the Phoenix Hotel Saturday morning. Breakfast with the "Big B" to the sounds of the Torcastons at 9 a.m. and lunch with the Watusi at noon. All the Greeks will be there in their Grecian urns. Just be sure no one sneaks a freshman in, because IFC frowns upon such intermingling.

Seems like everyone decided to roll out the red carpet for their alums! Now the only problem is to be sure they're in shape to enjoy it.

Brunches before the game will be served by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Alpha Theta. After the game, Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and Phi Gamma Delta will have a buffet. The Deltas and the SAE's will hold an Alumni Reception at the Phoenix Hotel, and both fraternities will have open dances for the alums at their chapter houses that night. The FIJI's, Sigma Chi's and KA's will also have a jam session Saturday night. The Student Union Building and IFC are jointly sponsoring a dance, with Hiawatha playing, in the SUB.

The only problem with Homecoming is that it just doesn't last long enough. I think next year we ought to have an all-Sunday recuperation session and sell tomato juice, spiked with aspirin.

What Is Homecoming?

Once again the University community is preparing itself for Homecoming weekend.

Notably absent in this year's pre-weekend planning is the feeling the student body should go overboard to make this Homecoming one of the "biggest and best in the history of UK." Numerous students have commented during the past week concerning this apathetic and lethargic attitude which seemingly prevails. Generally, we would question the source of such a charge, but in this instance, we too agree with the students making this observation.

There has been an absence of that expected preweekend spirit which generally surrounds the days leading up to the weekend festivities. However, unlike those who bring this to our attention, we cannot become so concerned about the situation that we feel it necessary to ask the student body, "What's the matter?" Instead, the Kernel welcomes the fact that Homecoming is finally being put into its proper perspective.

What is Homecoming? What does it mean to the student, the University community, and the alumni? Is it a weekend of ballyhoo, merrymaking,

Call Off The Cats

Theologians will be interested to learn that a new deity has descended, in this case to enlighten the world of Southeastern Conference football. Miami coach Andy Gustafson has seen fit to extend his omniscient spirit to the SEC officiating ranks.

Last Friday night Gustafson phoned George Gardner, who was to officiate the Miami-Kentucky football game, and asked that a close watch be made during the game for unnecessary roughness.

SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore said Friday that this was "not normal procedure" and that he would talk to Gustafson about the matter this week.

Gustafson did very well for himself Friday night. He barely pulled his team, one that's probably headed for the Orange Bowl, past Kentucky's tired thirty. He brazenly broke SEC precedent in taking the action that he did. He insulted the conference, its officials, and its members by his action. Finally, he committed an affront to the University of Kentucky, Charlie Bradshaw, and the Kentucky Wildcats.

It's obvious why Gustafson wanted a soft game when one considers the fact that Miami's success rests comfortably in the arms of one player, George Mira. With Mira out or in-excessive drinking—by alumni and students alike—floats, dances, parties, and the traditional football game, or does its meaning have a somewhat deeper significance?

Some students have bemoaned the fact that there will be only a limited number of floats in this year's parade and even less displays exhibited by the various Greek organizations and dormitories. We do not feel this to be so unfortunate but only an instance of the proper perspective into which student energies should be funneled with relation to the weekend.

We are inclined to believe the weekend has a deeper, more sober meaning. Numerous alumni with whom we have spoken have said Homecoming meant nothing to them while they were students. They say the significance of the weekend only becomes apparent after one leaves the University. This declaration is one which we have suspected for some time, thus our difficulty in immediately sitting down to our typewriter and berating the student body for their apathy.

The weekend is designed primarily for the University's alumni. When kept in this perspective the obligations of the student body are minimized in comparison with what they have been in the past. We feel the students' obligations should not exceed courtesy and respect, both of which the present undergraduate will appreciate when he returns to campus as an alum.

As a rule Homecoming is scheduled in the vicinity of the weekend in which mid-term examinations are given. The demand upon the student's time is at a maximum without the added demand that his efforts be lent to other activities.

jured appreciably, the Hurricanes would soon blow themselves out to sea, and out of the bowl picture.

However, it's hard to understand why Gustafson broke the rules of common fair play, unless he feels himself of superior judgement and ability to SEC officials. He should have known that the conference wouldn't be willing to accept anyone's advice, especially when it's given with such a clandestine air.

It has been suggested of late that Miami would be a natural for admission to the SEC, should the conference wish to expand. It is doubtful that conference schools will be ready to gleefully accept Miami now.

Kentucky plays rough and tumble football, that's for sure. But is there any other kind? Didn't Gustafson expect to play football when he scheduled the University of Kentucky? Certainly Kentucky is no rougher than other SEC teams such as Alabama and Louisiana State. If Gustafson wants some variation of touch football he should change his schedules and pirouette with the Ivy League.

A very fine coach once said of football, "The name of the game is knock. You play it jaw to jaw." Say this for Gustafson, he does put a lot of jaw into it.

A Different Slant On Homecoming

Homecoming is a big fake. It makes no difference who is kidding who, but there is a heavy fog of falsity in the air. Read the newspapers, look around the campus, or talk with anyone in the area—they will tell you the same thing, Homecoming is a fake.

Talk and interest center around the football game, "we've gotta win," or the best fraternity display, or who is going to be the 1962 Homecoming Queen; but the astute observer will see they are trying to bring you into their delusion, or is it a disguise?

Of course it is a disguise. No one is really coming home. No one is coming home because this is not the University home that the UK graduates attended. The physical plant is different—fraternity row, the Sports Center, a parking lot where the old psychology building used to be, the new Physics Building, the reactor, and the addition to the library. It is not the same campus.

The people are different—familiar teachers have been replaced, the football coach has changed (at least once), and the dear classmates are scattered. There is a painful sting of loneliness caused only by the passing of time. The customs are different—the Twist, the Holly-Gully, and the Push and Kick are "in" while the Lindy, Jitterbug, and the Big Apple are passe!

So why do these graduates return? Surely Homecoming is more than an excuse for the undergraduates to feast with all of the appropriate tribal customs.

Homecoming 1962 is going to be a time for listening. Graduates will tell of their undergraduate days, appraising the successes and the failures, and will describe the roads which follow graduation. They will share stories among themselves and develop a warm comradeship. Undergraduates will listen. While some of these will snicker, most will take the philosophy of their elders and give it some sober thought.

The undergraduates will boast of their feats . . . how they know the Homecoming Queen personally, or have the inside dope on the football team, or describe in detail the tactics which they plan to use to subvert a professor. Graduates will smile from the sidelines reassured by the honesty, hope, idealism, and drive of the young. It surely will take them back and refresh their thinking.

Yet through it all, this is going to be a fake. No one really cares about the football game itself, or the displays, or the queen. All of the undergraduates, graduates, and outsiders will be interested in each other; which after all is what we believe Homecoming to be. This is the home they return to, and we welcome them.

John Donne captured this idea when he wrote his lines:

"No man is an island, intire of it-selfe; every man is a peece of the Continent, a part of the maine; if a Clod bee washed away by the Sea, Europe is the lesse, as well as if a Promontorie were, as well as if a Mannor of thy friends or of thine owne were, any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankinde; And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."

COMMODORES FACE CATS

Kentucky's continually outweighed, but never outplayed Wildcat line will yield 11 pounds per man in tomorrow's Homecoming battle with Vandy. The starting line will average an even 200 pounds. Starting are Dave Gash, 6-2, 190 pound senior end; Herschel Turner, 6-3, 220 pound junior tackle; Jim Foley, 6-0, 205 pound sophomore guard; Tommy Simpson, 6-0, 194 pound senior center; Vince Semary, 5-10, 182 pound junior guard; Junior Hawthorne, 6-1, 222 pound senior tackle; Tom Hutchinson, 6-2, 189 pound senior end. The starting backfield will average 186 pounds. Starting are Jock Steward, 6-1, 195 pound senior halfback; Perky Bryant, 5-9, 190 pound junior fullback; Jerry Woolum, 6-2, 186 pound senior quarterback; and Darrell Cox, 5-8, 172 pound junior halfback.

Winless Vandy Is Opponent In Tomorrow's Grid Tilt

By RICH STEVENSON
Kernel Daily Sports Editor

Vanderbilt's winless Commodores furnish the opposition for coach Charlie Bradshaw's hard luck Cats in tomorrow's 2 p.m. Homecoming battle.

Kentucky's "thin blue line" needs a victory over Vandy for the ole grads and a chance at a 500 season in Bradshaw's first year at the helm.

Kentucky's defense should feel at home tomorrow afternoon as the Commodores' Hank Lesesne is the sixth top notch passer the Cats have faced this year.

Lesesne has been hampered by injuries most of the season. He set several passing records for Vandy's Dudley Field last Saturday, and he only played three quarters. He connected on 21 of 41 attempts against Boston College in the 27-22 loss. He has passed for 395 yards and two touchdowns this season.

Vanderbilt, winless this year in seven starts and losers in their last 15 outings, is in its last year under head coach and athletic director Art Guepe. Guepe resigned at midseason under increasing pressure and unrest among Vandy supporters. Last year, the Vandy student council called for his resignation but no action was taken then. No successor has yet been named.

Tomorrow's expected 33,000 homecomers will see Kentucky attempt to start anew the Homecoming victory string that Tennessee stopped with their 26-16 victory last year. Kentucky had won 13 straight before last year. Vandy fell before UK in Homecoming battles in 1960 by 27-0 and in 1956 by 7-6. The Cats ruined the Homecoming festivities in Nashville last year by topping Vandy by 16-3.

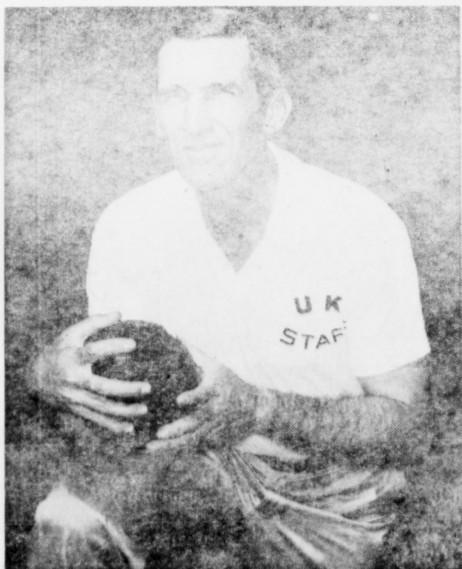

Vanderbilt has been almost unbeatable in past meetings with the Wildcats. Vandy won the first 16 meetings, 12 by shutouts, in the series that started in 1896. The Commodores have won 23, the Cats eight, and three games have ended in ties.

Jerry Woolum, after overshadowing the great George Mira last week, will attempt to direct the Cats to their first SEC victory of the year. Kentucky has lost conference games to Mississippi, 14-0, Auburn, 15-8, and Louisiana State, 7-0, while being tied by Georgia, 7-7.

Last Friday night against Miami, Woolum completed 18 of 31 attempts for a spectacular 274 yards and one TD. For the year he has completed 38 of 102 for 676 yards for two touchdowns. He has hit on 54.9 percent while having only six intercepted, one for the tying score against Georgia.

Tom Hutchinson, Wildcat All-America candidate, was on the receiving end of six of Woolum's tosses. He gained 92 yards on his catches and scored the game's first touchdown on a 34-yard pass from the "Richmond Rifle." He has now caught 22 passes for 347 yards and ranks a close second in SEC statistics.

Coach Guepe has three turncoats, all sophomores, on the Commodore squad. The Kentuckians, all from the Western part of the state, are Joe Graham, Dave Malone, and Wilford Fuqua.

New Staff Due Credit For Shifts

By MIKE SMITH
Kernel Daily Sports Editor
The new look that Kentucky's Wildcats are displaying on the gridiron this season is partially due the assistant coaching staff, most of which has been revised from last season.

The first aide ever to hold the title here of assistant head coach is Matt Lair, a native of North Middletown. He brings to the UK staff a background of 13 years coaching, his previous college experience coming from Texas A&M and Texas Tech. Lair played for UK as a guard and blocking back in the early forties and later in 1946-47.

Homer Rice comes to Kentucky as an offensive coach after seeing his high school eleven win 101 games over an 11 year period. His most noted accomplishments include a state championship, seven "Coach of the Year" honors, and several undefeated teams. Rice was a Little All-America quarterback during his college days at Centre. Bob Ford, defensive coach, is from Wynne, Ark. His college coaching experience includes a stint as freshman coach at Memphis State and a line assistant under Paul Bryant's crew at Alabama.

Dave Hart has been coaching high school ball in Pennsylvania since 1950, his teams compiling a record of 86-18-3. In 1958 his Johnstown High team wound up unbeaten in 11 games, giving Hart the title of Class AA "Coach of the Year." He is backfield coach under Bradshaw.

Chuck Knox, a holdover from the 1961 staff, continues as offensive line coach. After coaching in Pennsylvania high schools for five years, Knox became an assistant at Wake Forest in 1959.

The end coach is George Sengel, another holdover from last season. He joined Blanton Collier's staff a year ago.

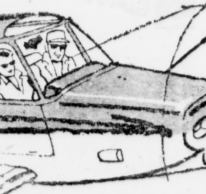

Bradshaw, Staff Plan For Vandy

Grad Remembers Old School Songs

By ELIZABETH THURBER, Assistant Campus Editor

The color, the spirit, the familiar but long-unseen faces—another Homecoming is upon us, the time for all good grads to come to the financial aid of their alma mater.

Golly, it's good to get back to the campus, to the old frat house, and see all those boys. Too bad, though, things have calmed down. Why, these guys don't know how to party! I'll never forget Wally and that . . . Just goes to show you how things go to pot when you leave.

But, you know, the thing I really love best about Homecoming is the game, when we get out and sing all those old school songs. You know, the band marches out with the flag, and we sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." I never did learn all the words to that one, because it always came when I was trying to get the coke boy. I remember it went something like "YAAAAA" at the end, though. Real dramatic finish.

About the best song for spirit, though, is the "Weep No More" song. The one that goes, "weep no more my lady, oh, weep no more no more." I really liked that one except for that ridiculous last word. I mean, what in the world does "no more" mean? Everybody always kinda mumbled on it, but I guess they were just hesitant about singing something that silly.

Another thing about that song, why did the band insist upon playing about 29 choruses? The words are so short—I just repeated all of them—but the band elaborates something awful on the middle part. You'd think for a ten-word song they'd quit after a couple of times through.

The song that was the prettiest was our dear ole Alma Mater. Who can but get a lump in his throat when he stands up and begins to sing those familiar words . . . when he hears the band play . . . when he . . . well, I always had to take care of the flag, you know, and I was kinda busy when that one came on . . . I did love the tune, though. It sounded like . . . well, the band always lined up facing the other side and I really didn't catch too many of the notes, either.

One song I knew by heart. You can guess what that one was. The one that makes every old grad straighten up and think of those glorious college days in his care-free youth when he was young and foolish. Remember how the band would jump up and the trumpets would blare, "Dum, dum da da, on, on, U. of K., we are tight for the fight . . ."

Plans Made For Alumni Hall Of Fame

The University is establishing a Hall of Distinguished Alumni to pay tribute to those alumni who have distinguished themselves and the University through their contribution to the welfare of the commonwealth and the nation.

Any alumni who has earned an undergraduate or graduate degree or has completed at least 60 hours of accredited work shall be eligible for admission. However, admission is limited to those alumni who have been graduated at least 20 years.

Selection to the hall will be limited to five a year and all nominations must be received by December 1.

Automatic admission is given to all governors, United States Senators, members of the President's cabinet, members of the United States Supreme Court, presidents of colleges and universities accredited by the National Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, generals or admirals in the regular branches of the United States armed services, and winners of the Nobel or Pulitzer prizes provided they meet all other requirements.

Molds and mildews break up dead plants and animals so bacteria can convert them into top soil.

'Thin Thirty' Seniors

Debate Team Participates In TKA Meet

The University debate and discussion teams left Lexington early this morning for the Tau Kappa Alpha Ohio-Kentucky Regional Forensics Conference at Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio.

The tournament which will be held today and tomorrow is open only to Kentucky and Ohio schools. Twelve schools from the two states will be represented.

The topic of the tournament is "Resolved: that the noncommunist nations should establish an economic community."

Debating the affirmative will be James Crockrell, Clarksville, Tennessee; and John Patton, Ashland. For the negative will be Don Clapp, Lexington, and Phil Grogan, Bowling Green.

Debating the affirmative for the novice team are Kevin Hennessey, Lexington, and David McCracken, Paducah. Taking the negative for the novice team are Steve Beshear, Dawson Springs, and David McGill, Maysville.

William Faulkner, Lexington, and Clifford Ishmael, Covington, are representing the University in discussion. The topic is "What should be the role of the federal government in regulating the economy?"

The University won both the novice and varsity divisions of this tournament last year, said Dr. Gifford Blyton, debate coach, who is accompanying the team to Ohio.

Returning Alums Reminisce About The Good Old Days

By NANCY LOUGHRIDGE
Assistant Campus Editor

Once again that time of times and game of games is upon us. Homecoming: the time when the team tries to impress the alumni with how well they can play and the of grads remind themselves how it was in the good old days.

According to them, this generation is a bunch of lazy kids who do nothing but play and never study. But then college is easier these days.

Since it's Homecoming and the of grads will be telling us the hardships of their day, it might be wise to store up a little ammunition about what really went on during the Roaring 20's and Depressing 30's.

Secret sources, namely some of the more gossipy alumni, have let a few of the following facts out of the bag on the ray blades and Betty Coeds of yesteryear.

It seems that many an alumnus will sniff the air with nostalgia tomorrow and find two cents missing from the campus. The old city dump which used to be where Taylor Education Building stands, seems to have really been a fragrant region.

The other is the aroma of fermenting grapes. It seems one of the fraternities made their own during prohibition. Good wine makers were at a premium. But then every thing was hard during the 30's.

The description of a really big date is enough to make the average coed give up that pleasurable habit.

In Mom's day, the average date consisted of going to the movies and then having a couple of cokes at the tavern, the equivalent to the Paddock of today, minus the beer.

If it was really a thrilling evening, you sat on the back row of the movie and held hands. Man, it was the greatest, or so the products of that era say. Of course, there was occasionally an opportunity to ride in a car and to ride in the rumble seat was the greatest thing imaginable.

According to the old graduates they didn't have a community parking spot like the Sports Center. They had to sit in front of the dorms or sorority houses. As I say, things were really hard in the good old days.

But what about dating, aside from where you went? There are several customs of the old days that would drive the modern coed to an early grave.

The average girl had a little black book which listed all her dates. If it wasn't filled at least two weeks in advance, she was a social failure and that wasn't for just weekend dates. This means all through the week also. In fact there were rumors of buying and selling dates.

It wasn't unusual for a girl to have two or three dates in one evening and dash around trying to meet them all and not get caught by any of them. Imagine the UK girl of today trying to manage this. Panic!

Then there was the bit with fraternity pins. You may not know it but your mothers and fathers weren't satisfied with being pinned to one person at a time. They preferred groups of two or three.

Legend tells us there was a coed who used to rent her pin to sisters who wanted to make their boy friends jealous. Couldn't you see this happening today?

There was a coed who had five pins and had them stolen from her suit case on the way home from a college weekend. Wonder how she explained the loss to her pin-mates. Of course, if you had five you'd probably be in a constant state of unrest for fear you'd make a mistake and wear the wrong one.

But the coeds weren't the only ones who played this game. The tale still circulates among the alums about the big man who had a drawer full of pins and passed them out like confetti. Seems that with the depression and all, clothes weren't as sturdy in those days; and it was a common occurrence for a gal to break a slip strap doing the Lindy or the Tango. So, Sir Galahad would offer assistance in the form of his frat pin.

They didn't have treeings in those days, thank heavens, or some boys would have lived at the tree. No candle lights either, so the candle makers really missed out on great profits.

When your parents start talking about how silly you look in sneakers, ratted hair, and short skirts, remind them that Dad thought he looked pretty sharp in bell-bottomed trousers and racoon coat—strumming a uke. As for Mom, well, she wasn't the cat's meow unless she had shingled hair and a yellow oil cloth slicker with college stickers on it.

SU Board Plans Tour Of Spindletop

The Special Events Committee of the Student Union Board will sponsor a tour of Spindletop, the University's million dollar mansion, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Reputed to be one of the most beautiful and historic ante-bellum mansions in the South, Spindletop was recently given to the University, by Mrs. Pansy Yount.

For the annual tour, a guide will be provided who will explain the history and significance of the furnishings and rooms.

Interested students may purchase tickets from the Special Events Committee members or in the Program Director's office in the Student Union Building. The cost for the tour is 50 cents, and transportation will be provided.
