LEXINGTON, KY., DECEMBER, 1941

NUMBER 2

Inauguration Of President May 6

Formal inauguration of Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, sixth president of the University of Kentucky, will take place Wednesday, May 6, 1942, according to the recommendation that will be made to the institution's board of trustees by the committee appointed by Governor Keen Johnson to prepare plans for the inauguration as well as the celebration of the University's seventy-fifth anniversary. The anniversary celebration will be planned apart from the inauguration.

Invitations for the inauguration event will be extended to all institutions of higher learning in the United States, and representatives from these, as well as other leading educators who will attend, will probably mark the largest concentration of educators ever to convene in Lexington.

Plans for the day will include a noon luncheon for the University's guests, the induction program in the afternoon, and a banquet open to the public in the evening. Weather permitting, the afternoon ceremony will probably be held on Stoll Field.

The general committee in charge of arrangements includes Dean Thomas P. Cooper, chairman; Ezra Gillis, Marguerite McLaughlin, Dr. Leo Chamberlain, E. F. Farquhar, Dr. Statie Erikson, Dr. Frank Murray, Dean James H. Graham, R. D. McIntyre, Judge Richard C. Stoll, R. P. Hobson, Dean Sarah B. Holmes, G. Lee McLain, and E. G. Sulzer.

Class Reunions Follow Dix Plan

Seventeen Classes To Plan Program

Seventeen classes will return to the campus in June for their reunion, according to the Dix Plan, which was adopted at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in 1941. In addition to these seventeen classes, A. M. Kirby, '07, is arranging for a special reunion of his class, inviting also the classes of '06 and '08 to join in this special occasion. The committee designated by Mr Kirby is: Major Don P. Branson, Louis E. Hillenmeyer, Elizabeth Wallis, Charles A. Mahan and A. M. Kirby. Letters are going to all the members of the Classes of '06, '07, and '08.

The regular reunion classes are "'79, '80, '81, '82, '83,"; "'97, '98, '99, and '00"; "'16, '17, '18, and '19"; and "'35, '36, '37, and '38". This plan was voted upon by the Association and carried overwhelmingly. It calls for the reunion of class groups, permitting those who were in school at the same time but in different classes to renew their old friendships, and form working groups to further the University's program.

ALMA MAGNA MATER

Alma Magna Mater Elects Officers

Alma Magna Mater, a club for the sons and daughters of former students of the University, boasts of a membership of 405 for 1941-42, according to Lida Belle Howe, newly elected president.

Sponsored by the Alumni Association, the club was founded on the University campus in 1922 by Mrs. Frank L. McVey. Activities of the organization for the coming year will start with the sponsoring of an informal dance, a military hop, Friday, December 5, in the University armory. Tickets may be purchased at 25 cents each from any of the club members.

Club officers, and parent or parents who attended the University, are: President, Lida Belle Howe, Louisville, daughter of Benjamin D. Howe, '16; Vice-president, Sarah Anderson, daughter of M. W. and Martha McCauley Anderson, former students; Treasurer, Jack Kelley, son of Clement F. Kelley, '10; Historian, Richard Stofer, son of R. T. Stofer, Ex., and Rebecca Cockrell Stofer, '31; and Publicity Director, Donald Lail, son of Webb Lail, '16, all of Lexington.

Miss Howe, president and an Arts and Sciences senior, is a member of the student government association; basketball manager of the Women's Athletic Association; member of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary; Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges; and a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

Retiring officers of the club are Miss Billy Jackson, president; Charles Burton, vice-president; Julia Bryson, secretary; and Betty Mitchell, treasurer.

H. D. Palmore, '14, Heads Drive

Goal Set At 1,000 Additional Members

H. D. Palmore, chairman of the Alumni Membership Committee, at a recent meeting of his committee, outlined a program calling for 1,000 additional members of the Alumni Association. The members of this committee, in addition to Mr. Palmore, '14, are: Mrs. E. D. Shinnick, '27; Miss Lulie Logan, '13; Robert Heath, '16; James Park, '15; Bernie Shively, '36; and Marshall Barnes, '24.

Mr. Palmore emphasized the necessity of a large active membership in order that the University might receive all the benefits in the promotion of its program. Emphasis was placed upon the opportunity of service to be rendered by a large Alumni Association. If the needs of the University are to be obtained it is necessary for every alumnus to affiliate himself with his organized group.

The University program, calling for increased appropriations for maintenance and operation, for adequate building, including a field house and facilities for health instruction, will be obtained by the Board of Trustees and the University administration much more easily when backed by several thousand Kentucky alumni.

On the back page of this issue of the Alumnus Magazine you will find a membership blank to be filled out. If you have not paid your 1941-42 dues, now is the time to take advantage of this opportunity by using this form and enclosing a check with it, addressed to the Office of the Alumni Secretary.

Kentucky Alumnus

Official Organ of the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky published quarterly on the campus of the University, at Lexington. Subscription to non-members, $1.00. Membership (Type A) in the Association includes subscription to the Alumnus.

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at Lexington, Ky., May 22, 1929, under the act of March 3, 1879.

ARE YOU LOYAL TO U. OF K.?

"Loyalty should be a natural, normal by-product of education. If it doesn't exist, the educational program is at fault. The cure must be effected at the source. After Commencement is apt to be too late. To fashion good alumni we must begin at the campus gate." This is a quotation of Harold O. Voorhis of New York University. We have had, in the past, all of those things which when placed together should build a loyal alumnus—excellent University policies, a progressive organization, modern buildings and equipment, scholarship of high standing, and instruction in the different colleges that cannot be surpassed by any other University of a like nature.

There are at present 3,271 students enrolled at the University of Kentucky. The least that should be expected from the alumni of an institution, which is now rounding out its 75th year, and which is the only state-owned University in Kentucky, is an active membership in the Alumni Association equal to the number of students enrolled on the campus. In other words, if there are 3,271 students enrolled, there should be 3,271 alumni enrolled as active members of the Association.

That loyalty, which is a natural, normal by-product of education, has certainly been made a part of every graduate and ex-student of your University. There are times when negligence, procrastination, oversight, and seeming lack of interest sit at the conference table where Loyalty, by rights, should preside.

The University, under the leadership of the new president, with a new administration, is building upon a solid foundation of the past. The Alumni Organization, if it is to function at all, is to function as a cooperative unit in promoting and furthering this outstanding progressive program which has been outlined by President Donovan and the Board of Trustees. The program of the Alumni Organization calls for, first—the interpretation of the University to the alumni and the alumni to the University; and second—intensive cooperation, as extensively as possible, in the furtherance of the program of the University. There must be back of this a large, active Alumni membership.

1,000 Additional Members Needed

H. D. Palmore, chairman of the Alumni Membership Committee, and his committee, have outlined a program calling for a thousand additional members of the Association. Alumni Contact Men have been appointed in more than sixty counties in Kentucky. There are sixteen active alumni chapters in cities out of Kentucky. There are, on the campus, nearly 400 boys and girls, members of Alma Magna Mater, whose parent or parents have attended the University at some time in the past. If you are to let Loyalty sit at the conference table—as the normal by-product of education—that is, a part of the training which you received while a student on the campus—then you will affiliate yourself with your Alumni Association by the payment of your 1941-42 dues.

For your information, your Association is self-sustaining except for a small appropriation made for the purpose of keeping a card record of all graduates and former students. If your alumni organization does not pay its proportionate part in furthering the University's program, it is the fault of none except those alumni who should be active members. This is your opportunity.

1941-42 to be Outstanding Year

This is the year during which the sixth president of the University will be inaugurated—during which the 75th anniversary

Club Activities

The Franklin County Chapter of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association entertained at an organization dinner at the Capitol Hotel on Tuesday evening, November 25. The president, Bob Heath, presiding, introduced Governor Keen Johnson, Class of '22, who in turn presented President Donovan, class of '14. Among other prominent alumni present were Lt. Governor Rodes K. Myers, Class of '25; Judge James W. Cammack, Class of '24; Clyde Reeves, Class of '33; Bob Hensley, Class of '36; W. Arch Bennett, Class of '27; Tom Cutler, Class of '03; all of whom are members of the "official family" at Frankfort.

Of course, no club of Kentucky alumni in Franklin county would be complete without the presence of H. D. Palmore, chairman of the National Membership Committee, and Ada Dougherty, secretary of the Franklin County chapter.

In addition to these, nearly every member of the Executive Committee, including E. C. Elliott, president of the National Organization, was in attendance. The members of the Executive Committee were guests of H. D. Palmore.

After the address of Dr. Donovan and

Way Back When...

To give you an idea of what some of the University students of the past years have experienced during their school days, here are a few incidents, as related by the Alumni themselves.

Bayless Introduces Frosh Cap

T. G. Bayless, class of 1924, tells of the starting of the wearing of the freshman cap. "When I entered the University in the fall of '19, it was a custom of long standing to clip freshmen's hair. The result was not only temporary embarrassment to the freshman but a permanent record in the annual, as pictures were taken in October, that made the freshmen look more like inmates of an institution of correction than of an institution of higher learning."

Any alumni who would like to contribute any interesting, amusing, noteworthy, or touching incidents of student life at the University, to be included in this column in the future, may write to the Alumni office on the University campus. The following incidents were taken from records filed by Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, whose research work along this line is featured in another story in this issue.

Continuing, he said, "I don't remember that I resented the hazing any more than anyone else but I did feel that something could be done about it. I set about the matter quietly and carried on a propaganda campaign."

"In my senior year I served as president of the Men's Pan-hellenic Council and under my sponsorship and with the aid of the other members of the council we were able to secure the cooperation of all the fraternities. All the fraternities pledged themselves against the practice of cutting freshmen's hair. We put the matter up to the Freshman class of that time. The majority were in favor of abolishing that form of hazing but wanted something to take its place."

"I had spent the previous summers in California where I had come into possession of a freshman cap of Stanford University. It was like the overseas cap of the American soldier except that it was in the school colors. The council approved this cap with the addition of KY on it and so did the freshman class. The caps became a badge of pride and that first year the freshmen wore them proudly. With policing by the sophomores and the fraternities, all male freshmen were forced to purchase and wear them."

Weaver's Embarrassment

Rufus Lee Weaver, Class of 1895, recollects an occasion when the president of the University asked him to go up to the second floor of the "Main building" and get his hat. "After a hasty and anxious search," said Weaver, "I did not find it." Much to my humiliation and embarrassment which I still feel, I came back and reported. So he went up that stairway with his ease and my pain, and got his hat. Then he lifted my spirits by cheerfully explaining it by saying, 'It takes a man without a hat to find a hat.'

CAMPUS CLUB MEETING

The recently organized University of Kentucky Campus of the Alumni Association met on November 23, with Dean William S. Taylor, Class of 1912, presiding as president. The other officers of this club are: H. H. Downing, Class of 1908, vice-president and Dr. G. Davis Buckner, Class of 1908, secretary.

Dean Taylor, in introducing Dr. Donovan, who addressed the club, said that by loyalty to the University, closer, friendlier association among faculty members and pride in the good work done by members in other departments, by working sincerely and continuously in their separate departments, each member would render a greater assistance in the administration of the affairs of the University toward the attainment of higher standards.

President Taylor introduced Dr. Donovan, who outlined the following four points as the foundation upon which this club should build its program:

1. Building the morale on the campus, not only among the faculty, but also among the students. He thought the morale was good but there is always a chance for improvement.
2. Financial—He said the educational program of the University was good but there was great need for more adequate financial support of research and other departments of the University.
3. Interpretation of the University to the public—that is to say, its real value to the public should be known best by such a group as we have, for example, through the efforts of the Experiment Station and the Extension group, the use of lespedeza on farms has been of greater financial value to the State than the cost of running the whole University from its beginning.
4. Athletics—while not the major purpose of any University, there is great interest in the athletic program, particularly football and basketball. He felt that it was highly advisable for all persons to encourage good students to come to the University but it is also their duty to encourage athletes interested in the development of what one might term the social sciences.

LOUISVILLE

The Greater Louisville Alumni Chapter, with Grover H. Creech as president, entertained with a dinner meeting on November 19. This meeting, in addition to starting its membership campaign in Louisville and Jefferson County, was entertained over the radio by the delightful young lady from the University Campus, Miss Betty Roberts, who, chosen by the student body, appeared on Fred Allen's program on the same date.

The Louisville Club, headed by a corp of hard-working officers, has mapped out a membership campaign, setting as its goal, 300 active alumni members in Louisville and Jefferson county.

Prof. Gillis Director Of Interesting Department

Few men have made as interesting a contribution, or have had as long and mutually helpful association with the University of Kentucky, as has Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, who came to the University in 1907 as assistant professor, and who served from 1910 to 1937 as registrar.

Professor Gillis has probably more contacts among the alumni of the University than any other member of the staff, having, through his 27 years as registrar and member of the committee on scholarship and attendance, listened to the problems and complaints of hundreds and thousands of former Kentucky students.

When Professor Gillis reached the age of 70 in 1937, he was, according to the rule of the University, given a change of occupation, which usually carries with it the opportunity of lessening the academic burden. However, with the assignment of Professor Gillis to the position of director of the, at the time, newly created Bureau of Source Materials in Higher Education, the energetic former registrar simply underwent the process of moving from the Administration building to the Library, in which new location he still works with the limitless energy for which he is noted.

Organizing and outlining the processes of a new bureau, the ramifications of which reach out to every alumnus of the state institution, was in itself a tremendous task, and Professor Gillis has gone about the work of organization with meticulous care, with the result that in the bureau he is fast building up a record of Kentucky and of University alumni which is as available as any historical data in the University's possession.

The history of the University of Kentucky, a record of its achievements and that of its alumni and faculty is a phase of the work being done by the Bureau of Source Materials, which includes a complete record of its connections, both traditional and historical. To obtain this material, Professor Gillis has of the University will be observed—during which additional funds for buildings, maintenance and operations will be requested of Kentucky's Legislature. The President of the University is of the Class of 1914. The Governor of Kentucky is of the Class of 1922. The Lt. Governor is of the Class of 1924. The Junior Senator from Kentucky is of the Class of 1924. In the many fields such as those of Education, Agriculture, Engineering, Law, Journalism, Commerce, Industry, and in the great field of state, community and home leadership, you will find graduates and former students of your University as leaders. All of these facts lead us to the conclusion that our University is "Old in Tradition—New in Vision". Your Loyalty to and your pride in your Alma Mater should find expression through membership in your Alumni Association. On the back page of this magazine is an application blank for membership. Fill it out and mail it to the Alumni Office immediately, indicating the type of membership which you may desire.

Class Reunions

This announcement of the class reunions is being made early so that the secretaries of the different classes may start making their plans to return in June. Secretaries of the classes preparing for their reunion are:

- Special reunions—Classes '79, '80 '81, '82, '83.
1897—(Clara Brooke Gunn) Mrs. W. A. Hifner, 360 Transylvania Park, Lexington, Ky.; 1898—Professor Job D. Turner, Experiment Station, U. K.; 1899—Professor Carter C. Jett, U. K.; 1900—L. K. Frankel, 572 McClelland Building, Lexington;
1916—Elsie B. Heller, P. O. Box 339, Tullahoma, Tennessee; 1917—(Carrie Blair) Mrs. Arthur Keeton, 232 Irvine Road, Lexington; 1918—Mrs. Allene Kavanaugh Boggess, Lawrenceburg, Ky.; 1919—C. E. Planck, 3234 North Pershing Avenue, Arlington, Virginia;
1935—J. D. Palmer, Providence, Kentucky;
1936—Mrs. A. E. Barnes, Jr. (Frances Kerr) 511½ Bolivar Street, Owensboro, Ky.; 1937—Mrs. W. R. Engle (Mary Edith Bach) Psychology Department, U.K.; 1938—Mrs. Wallace K. Reese (Mary Lou Stark) Boone Avenue, Winchester, Ky.

It is customary for any classes, not in this group, that may want to have special reunions to do so. If the secretary or president of any other classes has planned a reunion it will be well for them to contact the Alumni Office at the University in order that the necessary arrangements may be made. This will be the first reunion of classes under our President, Dr. Herman L. Donovan, class of '14, and special preparations are being made for a very delightful program. The Reunion Committee of the Alumni Association is: Dr. G. Davis Buckner, Chairman; Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, H. C. Robinson, Mrs. T. R. Underwood, Grover H. Creech, Louis E. Hillenmeyer and Earle Clements, who, with the secretaries of the several classes, and the Alumni Office, will arrange an adequate program, which will be announced at a later date.

Tennessee Game Closes Grid Season

On the first Thanksgiving of this year Kentucky again faced Tennessee in their season's football finale—and lost 20-7.

It was a fairly typical Kentucky game. The Wildcats fell before a team that did not have just a handful of men fighting a gallant, if futile, fight; they lost to a team that was strong in every position, not only in the first line but in the second and third.

That Thanksgiving Day annual cemented the 1941 record of the Wildcats. They had five wins and four losses.

Kentucky had whipped every team it was supposed to whip—V. P. I., Southwestern, Xavier, Washington and Lee, and West Virginia. On the other hand it was whipped by every team it was supposed to be whipped by—Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Alabama and Tennessee.

And the fans and the alumni weren't overly happy.

It is unfortunately true that only unbeaten teams at Kentucky go uncriticized. It is also unfortunately true that Kentucky hasn't gone undefeated since 1898. Nevertheless Coach Kirwan and his staff, finishing their fourth year here, are bearing more than their share of the blame.

This is unfair. Kirwan, Shively, and the entire U.K. staff have in our years with them proved themselves honest, sincere and conscientious men, trying their hardest at what is at best a thankless job.

Then who does get the blame for Kentucky's nothing-to-get-excited about football records?

That's a tough one to answer. But the gist of the trouble was pointed out by Basketball Coach Adolf Rupp, who recently remarked "the trouble with Kentucky's football team is not that they don't have good football players but that they don't have enough of them."

A backward glance at the games this season will prove that. Most of the ones the Wildcats lost came as a result of lack of substitutes, good reserves who could fit into the breach without destroying the team's mechanism. Injuries never failed to play hob with the team's chance.

"Then," you ask, "why doesn't the team have more reserves?"

We'll let you alumni, out in the state where you can see the high school stars as they spring up, answer that one.

Clubs In Distant Cities

PHILADELPHIA

A very active chapter, under the direction Harold H. Gearing, Secretary and Treasurer, at Philadelphia, has announced that they will have more than 75 active members belonging to this chapter.

NEW YORK

The Kentucky Alumni Association of New York has as its president, H. M. West, with F. A. Kaempffe, Jr., as secretary. They have no definite time and place for their meetings.

Basketball Prospects

"Toughest in any man's league!"

Laconically speaking, that's what Baron Adolph Rupp says of his 1941-42 hardwood schedule, slated to dribble into action December 6, when the 'Cats blast the lid by engaging Miami's Redskins in Alumni Gym.

Quintets representing six major conferences and two perennially tough Independent clubs are included on the 18-game schedule that the Bluegrass outfit has been matched against in recent years.

The Big Ten, the Big Six, the Southwestern conference, the Southern conference, the Ohio conference, and unregimented Notre Dame and Xavier—a suicide list if there was ever one conceived.

From the Big Ten comes the mighty Ohio State, the Southwestern conference is represented by the Texas Aggies, the Big Six by Nebraska's Cornhuskers, Miami's Redskins slip in from the Ohio conference along with the traditional Southeastern rivals—Tennessee, Alabama.

Affable Adolph has really carved himself out on this season, but don't worry this Mr. Rupp is a very cagy gentleman, quite capable of taking care of his share on a hardwood court.

To answer this list of basketball mighties, the Baron will have his best five since the glorious days of '35 when the Kentuckians went undefeated and reigned as Southeastern conference champions.

Two potential—very potential, Marv Akers, a sensation as a sophomore, and Milt Ticco, both return as junior warriors, determined to make this "Kentucky's Year."

Other hoop members who are being counted on heavily to describe, pass and shoot the Kentuckians to fame, glory, and championship are Mel Brewer and Jim King at the
