SEPTEMBER DATE-LINE

Dear Alumnus:

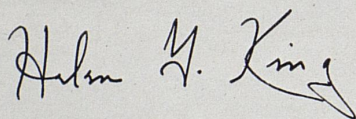

This issue of the KENTUCKY ALUMNUS is the first of a series of four which will come to you this year as an active member of the UK Alumni Association for 1958-'59.

You have demonstrated your interest in and your loyalty to the University of Kentucky and your Alumni Association through your current membership, but we are asking you to go "an extra mile" for us during the next month. In August your Alumni Association is asking men and women in various areas of the Commonwealth and the United States to assist us in a person-to-person solicitation of fellow-alumni, so that our total membership contributions for 1958-'59 will surpass any year in our history. We need YOU to help with this solicitation.

As good citizens of these United States, each one of you gives some of his or her time during the year to various civic and health campaigns in your respective communities. Your University is one of the most important institutions with which you are associated and we need the support of all of the alumni of Kentucky in order to make the University of Kentucky one of the great educational institutions in America. The value of your diploma is gauged by the prestige of your institution; and the prestige of your institution is established through great teaching, great research and fine service to the citizenry.

Assist us in the campaign to enlist new members in the Alumni Association for 1958-'59. Fill out the blank at the bottom of this page and send it in at once. We need you in an all-out volunteer effort to enroll each alumnus of UK, so that the November ALUMNUS will carry an HONOR ROLL of members surpassing all others.

Gratefully,

Director of Alumni Affairs

I will assist in an effort to obtain five new members of the Alumni Association DURING AUGUST. Send me a list of five names.

OUTSTANDING ALUMNUS AND SENIOR GIVEN AWARDS

J. Stephen Watkins, class of '30, and James Urbaniak, Fairmount W. Va., senior were honored at the annual UK Alumni Association banquet as the outstanding alumnus and outstanding senior.

Since 1949 Alma Magna Mater, a group of students whose parents attended UK, has presented an award to the outstanding alumnus of the year. Watkins is past president of the Alumni Association, member of the Executive Committee, and 1948-49 chairman of its Loyalty Fund Drive. He is a former Kentucky State Highway Commissioner and past president of the Kentucky State Chamber of Commerce. He is currently a consulting engineer with offices in Lexington. Mr. Watkins implemented the organization of the Kentucky Medical Foundation and was its first president.

Alma Magna Mater also presented the outstanding senior award. Urbaniak was graduated in June and will enter Duke University Medical School in the Fall.

William Martin, AMM president, made the award presentations.

Robert H. Hillenmeyer, past Alumni Association president, was presented a testimonial certificate by UK President Frank G. Dickey. The certificate read: "The University of Kentucky has approved the issuance of this testimonial to Robert H. Hillenmeyer who has served faithfully and well as President of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association and, by so doing, has given of this time and talents to the promotion of the best interests of the University of Kentucky and the Alumni Association."

A gift was given to Leo Brewer, 1908 graduate of San Antonio, Texas, as the alumnus who had come to the banquet from the farthest distance. Miss Marquerite McLaughlin received a gift as alumnus representing the oldest class present. Miss McLaughlin, a 1903 graduate and assistant professor of Journalism on special assignment, has missed only one reunion in 55 years.

ALUMNI AWARDS GO TO FOUR

Four University faculty members were each awarded $500 by the UK Alumni Association at commencement exercises on May 26 for "achieving distinction in research in their respective fields," between Jan. 1, 1956 and Jan. 1, 1958.

They were Dr. Elvis R. Doll, a veterinarian at the UK Agriculture Experiment Station; Dr. Arthur K. Moore, professor of English; Dr. Carl B. Cone, professor of history, and Dr. Adolph W. Goodman, professor of mathematics.

The awards were presented by Dr. Ralph J. Angelucci, Lexington physician, alumni member of the University Board of Trustees, member of the Alumni Executive Committee, and chairman of the first annual faculty awards program.

Dr. Doll's special contribution has been research findings which have made it possible to control equine virus abortion and influenza as they affect the horse industry. Since 1932 these diseases have been under study at the University.

No one had been able, however, to consistently reproduce the disease or to cultivate the virus causing the disease in an alien host. "Dr. Doll developed ingenious techniques which overcame both of these handicaps," according to the committee's report.

"During these studies another virus causing a similar but distinct disease in horses was characterized, and was shown to be the cause of arteria lesions," the report continued. During the two-year period, Dr. Doll published nine scientific articles reporting his research findings in this field.

Dr. Moore, during the two-year period, authored "Frontier Mind: A Cultural Analysis of the Kentucky Frontiersman." This work, in which Dr. Moore brings his knowledge of the European tradition to the task of understanding the nature of American's first Westerners, has been reviewed as a most significant study of American culture by the New York Times, Saturday Review, Christian Science Monitor, and the Yale Review, among others. Bruce Catton devoted an article to this book in the journal,

"American Heritage," according to the committee report.

The English professor also wrote articles which were published in such scholarly journals as "Comparative Literature." He also is the author of "Secular Lyric In Middle English," a book published in 1951.

Dr. Cone's principal work during the two-year period was a book, "Burke and the Nature of Politics: The Age of the American Revolution," which is the first of a two-volume study of the life of the great British statesman, Edmund Burke.

This work, published after years of research, principally in materials which have just recently become available to scholars, "presents a new and significant interpretation of Edmund Burke, who has aroused much interest in America recently as the spiritual father of the movement known as neo-conservatism," according to the committee.

Cone recently was elected by his colleagues to receive the Hallam Professorship, an endowed chair of history awarded biennially for distinction in scholarship and instruction. He also has been selected to receive the Hallam award for distinguished research and writing in history during 1956 and 1957 by an off-campus jury of scholars.

Dr. Goodman "is considered to be one of the best mathematicians in the field of geometric function theory," according to the committee's citation. "Many of his papers have inspired mathematicians at other institutions in this country and abroad to do research in his field."

During the two-year period, Dr. Goodman published one major article in "Transactions, American Math Society," and another in "Proceedings of the American Math Society." Also during the period, four additional articles were completed and approved for publication in the same journal.

Dr. Goodman's most outstanding recognition came during 1957 when he was selected as a member of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton.

SPRAGENS ADDRESSES BANQUET CROWD ON REUNION DAY

Memories filled the air—sometimes bringing a chuckle, sometimes a tear—when Dr. Thomas Spragens recalled events and people of his own student days on the UK campus in an address at the annual UK Alumni Association banquet on May 24. The Centre College president, an alumnus of 1938, recalled the late President Frank L. McVey; the late Dean W. D. Funkhouser of the Graduate School, Dr. Amry Vandenbosch, now head of the political science department, "who led me as a freshman to seek to find flaws in the point of view of presumed authorities." He also recalled Prof. J. W. Martin, distinguished professor of economics, and former Dean of Women Sarah Blanding.

President Spragens then turned to more serious issues. "We must see to it," he said, "as did those whose foresight and sacrifice gave birth to our system of higher education, that our University and our colleges, public and private remain strong and creative."

President Spragens said that to keep this system strong the elementary and secondary school system should be made "adequate to its task." "We should be shocked by the knowledge that approximately half the graduates of our universities and colleges going into the teaching profession take up their work not in Kentucky, but in other states who need them no more than we but who are prepared to reward them more generously for their efforts."

President Spragens concluded by saying that the climate of public discussion and action in the political arena must be improved. "In other times, perhaps, we could afford the luxury of bragging that 'politics are the dammedest in Kentucky,' but surely not today," he said.

"Have we been prepared to give credit where credit is due, even though it must go to persons elsewhere than in our own accustomed political camp?" he asked.

Chicago textbook publisher James W. Carnahan, seated, is greeted at Carnahan house dedication by Frank Ogden, director, Mrs. Elmer Gilb and Major William Sellers, Lexington. The house is used as a University staff and alumni recreation center.

University Vice President Peterson was principal speaker at Carnahan house dedication. Others on the platform with him and speaking briefly were: President Dickey, Alumni Association President Hillenmeyer, Dr. Vincent Nelson, James Carnahan and son-in-law Harry Karstens.

CARNAHAN HOUSE IS DEDICATED

Carnahan house, University staff and alumni center, was dedicated in May. About 300 persons attended the dedication including James W. Carnahan, Chicago textbook publisher and alumnus, whose gift of $60,000 made the center possible.

University Vice President Peterson was the principal speaker. Peterson is president of the board of the center, located on Coldstream Farm.

Dr. Peterson also recognized former Coldstream owners Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knight, who recoredated and equipped the house's music room at a cost of more than $35,000 and made a cash contribution of $15,000.

Dr. Peterson said more than $85,000 in gifts and membership dues has been spent on the house, "and we have not finished activating the house in all of its areas."

He said the center has a membership of 550 and is being used by about 1,200.

Peterson said the house had not cost the taxpayers anything.

The vice president called the house "a place where alumni, friends, faculty staff and administration can mix and mingle socially," and concluded, "We are proud to have such a lovely star in the University's community."

Among the other speakers of the day was Dr. Vincent B. Nelson, UK professor of geology, representing the faculty and staff. He said the house benefited the families of faculty and staff members "in that it has contributed to lifting the morale" of University personnel.

Dr. Nelson said "it also is useful for obtaining new faculty members."

Carnahan made a brief statement and was presented a Kentucky Colonel commission by Dr. Peterson.

Others who spoke were Robert H. Hillenmeyer, president of the UK Alumni Association, and UK President Dickey.

Carnahan was guest of honor at a dinner given at the center Saturday night by the board of directors.

Officers of the board were reelected. They are Dr. Peterson, Dr. Morris Scherago, vice president; R. W. Wild, secretary, and Clay Maupin, treasurer.

Alumni Return To Hear Outstanding Lecturers

Several outstanding University graduates who have gained prominence in their respective fields were featured lecturers at the Alumni Association's seminar July 30 to August 2 on "The American Political Tradition."

Off-campus lecturers were: Dr. E. V. Murphree, '20, president of Esso Research and Development Co. and former chief of the U.S. Guided Missile Program; Dr. Forrest Pogue, '32, director of the Marshall Research Center, Lexington, Va., and author of "The Supreme Command;" Dr. Jesse W. Tapp, '20, chairman of the board of directors, Bank of America, Los Angeles, Calif.; William H. Townsend, '12, Lexington attorney and Lincoln historian—author; and Dr. Richard M. Weaver, '32, University of Chicago English professor and author of "Ideas Have Consequences" and "The Ethics of Rhetoric."

Purpose of the seminar was to provide a stimulating experience for returning alumni and to reacquaint them with some of the University activities they want to know about.

DEGREES AWARDED 1,065 AS 6,000 WATCH GRADUATION

Degrees were awarded to 1,065 students at the University of Kentucky's 91st commencement program on May 26. Among the degrees were 12 doctorates and 155 masters and professional degrees. Graduates were from 11 of Kentucky's 120 counties, 26 other states and six foreign countries.

Included in the crowd of about 6,000 spectators were 26 of the 50 graduates of the class of 1908 who received Golden Jubilee certificates from President Dickey and Alumni Association President Robert Hillenmeyer.

Four native Kentuckians and a former Californian who was reared in Lexington were awarded honorary degrees. They were: Stith Thompson, internationally known folklorist who was born in Bloomfield, Ky.; William D. Salmon, native of Cork Ky., who is now research professor of animal nutrition at Alabama Polytechnic Institute; Samuel M. Cassidy, vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., and native of Lexington; William Arnold Hanger of Richmond, president of Silas Mason Co., Mason and Hanger Co., Construction and engineering firms; and Joseph R. Roberts, vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, who was born in California and moved to Lexington as a youth.

Dr. Theodore A. Distler, executive director of the Association of American Colleges, was the commencement speaker. Dr. Distler urged the graduates to give the financial assistance for which education is begging. "More important than financial aid," he said, "teachers need prestige."

Deans of the different colleges presented the degrees to their graduates. After the ceremony, the Lexington Chamber of Commerce was host at a dinner for recipients of honorary degrees.

Dr. Denver Sloan, director of school services and home study at UK is author of a bulletin titled "The County School Administrator in Kentucky" which was distributed recently by the University Bureau of School Service.

3,204 Enrolled For Summer School

A total of 3,204 students enrolled on the Lexington campus of UK for the summer session.

Dr. Charles F. Elton, dean of admissions and registrar, said this figure did not include enrollments in 96 scheduled short courses which last summer swelled the total enrollment to 3,581 and is expected to do the same this year.

The University Graduate School has the largest enrollment, 1,251 students. UK colleges and their enrollments are: Arts and Sciences—605; Agriculture and Home Economics—122; Engineering—502; Law—40; Education—408; and Commerce—273.

CREATE NEW DIVISION

A Division of Accounting and Budgetary Control was recently created by the UK Board of Trustees. The division is headed by O. Clay Maupin, formerly chief accountant for UK.

Other action taken at the June board meeting included the elimination of the office of the comptroller and establishment of the position of associate business manager. The post is filled by George R. Kavanaugh, past comptroller. Kavanaugh will handle auxiliary and service enterprises and other phases of UK business.

Dr. John Hamblen was appointed to head the new computing center, serviced by an electronic computer manufactured by IBM. Hamblen, who directed a similar center at Oklahoma State University, is serving also as associate professor of statistics in the College of Commerce.

The computer will be used chiefly to solve research problems at UK.

Dedication Held For UK Pharmacy Building

Transfer of the College of Pharmacy to Lexington is "another milestone in the development of the University," UK President emeritus Herman L. Donovan said at dedication ceremonies for the UK pharmacy building last spring. Donovan spoke at a luncheon preceding the dedication program.

Dr. Richard A. Deno, professor of pharmacognosy at the University of Michigan Pharmacy College, was the principal speaker.

At the dedication exercises, highlight of a meeting of the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association, UK President Dickey received a gilded key to the new building from Earl P. Slone, dean of the Pharmacy College. An open house, laboratory demonstrations and a reception sponsored by the Blue Grass Drug Association were included in the program.

President Dickey said that the building is not only to be used for classes but "as the center of service to the pharmacists throughout the entire Commonwealth."

Others featured on the program were Harry A. Smith, Charles T. Leschafft, Jr., and C. A. Walton, all of the UK pharmacy staff, Dr. I. H. Slater of the Eli Lilly Co. and Dr. Joseph B. Burt, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Pharmacy.

TALENT VS OPPORTUNITY REPORT RELEASED

An effort is being made to bring deserving but needy Kentucky High school graduates and Kentucky colleges together through a report prepared by the University of Kentucky Bureau of School Service and the Kentucky Association of Colleges, Secondary, and Elementary Schools.

The report entitled "Talent Versus Opportunity," contain names of 1958 graduates in the top 10 per cent of their classes who do not plan to go on to college and the reasons they give for not going. Thirty colleges in Kentucky, both public and private, also are listed, together with scholarships which these institutions offer to worthy students.

MRS. HOLMES HONORED AT DORMITORY DEDICATION

Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, UK dean of women emeritus for whom a new $1,131,000 residence hall for women was named, was guest of honor at dedication ceremonies on May 25.

During the ceremonies tribute was paid Mrs. Holmes by President Dickey, Vice President Frank D. Peterson and Elgan B. Farris, UK chief engineer.

Mrs. Holmes said she wanted to share the honor of having the dormitory named for her with her husband, the late Dr. P. K. Holmes, who founded the UK Health Service out of which grew the new Medical Center.

She added:

"Since 1929, I have dreamed of a day when we might have adequate housing for women students. I can think of no more important people on the UK campus than the head residents, housemothers and commissary staff members who work in these halls."

She thanked Dr. H. L. Donovan, president emeritus, for appointing a person "with untried qualifications for dean of women when she was named to the post." Mrs. Holmes was appointed assistant dean of women in 1929 and became dean of women in 1941.

The Rev. William V. Gardner, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, blessed the building, and Miss Betty King, who will be one of the first students to live in the new dormitory when it opens next September, made a brief talk.

Seven-month-old Meredith Sallee was presented to the dedication audience as the first woman resident of the dormitory. The child is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sallee, who lived in the dormitory until it was ready for occupancy by the students. She was born after the Sallees moved into the new building.

Mrs. Holmes' two granddaughters, Betsy Holmes of Louisville and Anne Bennett Broadbent of Cadiz, unveiled a plaque showing the name of the new residence hall.

Her grandsons, John Holmes, Jr., Louisville, and Robert and Smith Broadbent, Cadiz, placed a box in the dormitory cornerstone.

A reception in the dormitory lounge and conducted tours of the building were held after the dedication.

College Of Diplomacy Now Being Planned for UK

A proposed College of Diplomacy and International Commerce may be opened at UK by the fall of 1959. Plans for the establishment of such a college are now being drafted by a committee, President Dickey recently revealed.

The committee is headed by Dr. Amry Vandebosch, head of the UK Department of Political Science.

The school was made possible through the will of former UK President James K. Patterson. In a declaratory judgement to be signed by Circuit Judge Adams, UK could begin receiving money from Patterson's estate when the trustee of the estate—the Security Trust Co.—is notified that the William Andrew Patterson College of Diplomacy and International Commerce has been established.

The school is to be named after Patterson's son.

Under terms of the will, the estate was to be held in trust for "40 or 50" years, or until interest had accumulated

The Humanities Club of the University of Kentucky, an organization with no formal membership but attendance from throughout the Central Kentucky area, will observe the tenth anniversary of its founding this fall.

Lecture and workshop subjects for the sessions included everyday legal problems in banking, a bank's investment in municipals, management of bank funds, bank records and internal operating procedures, business development, customer relations, analysis of financial statements, use of credit files, loan cases and a country banker's experience with electronics.

to "seven or eight" times the original trust sum.

The Security Trust Co. sought court approval before releasing the money.

Dr. Dickey said the committee has been drafting tentative plans for the past "several" years, in anticipation of the availability of the money. He said the committee is now mapping details of the plans.

Vandebosch said the school will carry courses not now in UK's curriculum; that additional professors will be required, and that some professors now at the University will teach in the new center.

He said it is hoped by the committee that special lectures, seminars and conferences can be arranged for the school. He said there are no immediate plans for a new building to house the school.

The school will offer undergraduate courses, although it will be primarily a school for graduate students. Vandebosch said he does not know whether UK will offer masters or doctorate degrees in the specialized field.

Tibetan Block Books Are Acquired By UK

In an exchange with the Mongolian National Library, five Tibetan block books have been acquired by the UK library.

The books are exceedingly rare in the United States, according to Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, UK library director.

Block books were produced in Tibet until quite recently because of a lack of movable type, but the University's acquisitions are the only block books which have reached this country in recent years, Dr. Thompson stated.

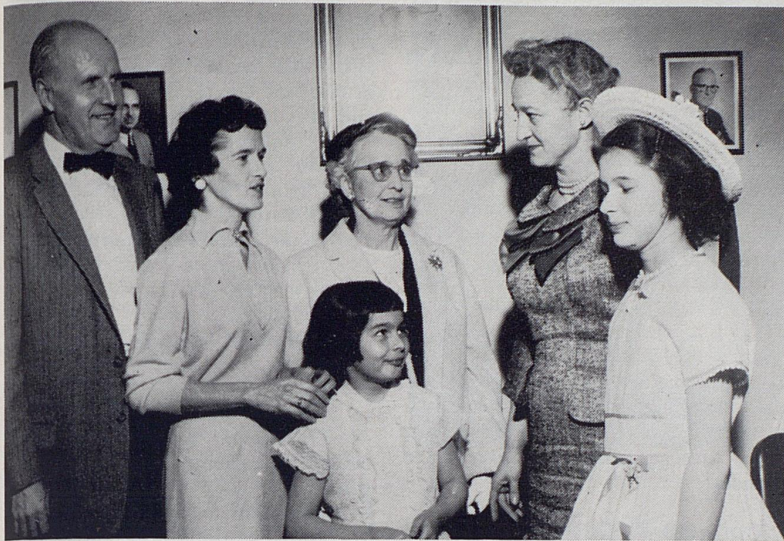

From a wood block an entire page is printed at one time. This method of printing was used in Europe before the invention of the printing press.

Of the five books at the University, all printed in the Tibetan language, one is a religious ritual book read in the funeral liturgy, one is an astrological medical work of the 17th Century, two are legends and the fifth is the biography of a poet.

Only ordinary duplicates of books in the UK library were sent in the exchange, Dr. Thompson said.

STUDENT NOTES

KERNEL GOES TO FOUR TIMES A WEEK

The Kentucky Kernel, 43-year-old UK student newspaper, will begin four times-a-week publication this fall. The increase in publication frequency was authorized by the Board of Trustees.

UK vice president Frank D. Peterson said the action has been studied the past two years because of the difficulty of getting all the campus news in each weekly issue and the problem of running all the advertisements which have been requested.

The change also is expected to greatly increase the opportunity for journalism students to receive practical experience in the field and will increase by about ten the number of part-time positions which will allow students to help pay their way through school.

Financing of the increased number of issues will come through an increase of $1.00 a semester in a student activity fee.

The first issue of the Kernel appeared at the University on Sept. 23, 1915 and it has been issued weekly since then except for a short period in the early 1920s when it was published twice a week.

Student Engineer Develops Photo Transmitter

Copthorne MacDonald, a 1957 UK graduate, has developed a photograph transmitter that can be operated from a short-wave car radio. Macdonald developed the television-type pickup and reproduction equipment as an engineering student.

He is investigating the possibility of patenting the system, which he believes to be the first of its kind using radio rather than telephone line transmission.

His paper describing the system has been selected for a number of honors including first place in student paper competition in the Southern district of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

Take an abundance of youth, add ability, instill a desire to learn and aggressiveness, mix with plenty of hard work and you have the formula that Kentucky Football Chief Blanton Collier is cooking up for 1958.

Just how potent the mixture will be probably won't be known before the youth-dominated Wildcats are at least half way through the obstacle course of 10 difficult games this fall. There are no indications that Kentucky will be coming up with a championship contender in 1958, but the chances for improving on last season's luckless, 3-7 record should rate classification in the "better than an outside possibility" category despite heavy graduation losses, greenness of replacements and another back-breaking schedule.

At least hard working Coach Collier is not pessimistic over the outlook and tempers his judgement of the bad situation with hopes for quick learning on the part of the youngsters and improvements in both individual veterans and various phases of team operations.

"I can promise only that we'll put a hustling, aggressive team on the field," Collier says. "We will have sixty percent—37 out of 65—sophomores who will have an awful lot to learn and that fact speaks for itself. If these young boys, who have a lot of potential talent, mature faster than is normal and if the breaks fall our way, we might do better than last year. Otherwise, we'll have to be content with building for the next season."

Graduation hit the Wildcats hard, with two-time consensus All-American Lou Michaels and 11 other valuable lettermen lost, but the lack of a sound red-shirting (holdout) program hurts even worse as all but a small handful of the upcoming sophomores will not have had the benefit of an extra year of seasoning which most opponent newcomers thrive on. The problem dates back to 1954 when Collier inherited a squad minus 23 lettermen and not a single new face from holdout ranks.

The 23 letter winners returning for the coming campaign reflect another problem besetting Collier. With a numerically small squad last year, he was forced to play many men who should have been held out a year. The result sees the lettermen group as a whole sporting an average of only 18 minutes a game of action for 1957—not much experience to count on against high-rated foes dotting the 1958 schedule.

The Wildcat Chief points out that he is hopeful for improvement in the backfield where the big man on the scene is swashbuckling halfback Bobby Cravens, a prime prospect for All-American honors after a banner season in 1957. "Cravens is as good a back as there is in the South," his coach avers. "He's a fine runner who has a somewhat unique knack of being able to gain more ground sideways and backwards than most do in the conventional manner." The flat-footed but fleet Owensboro, Ky., senior led the Southeastern Conference in ground gaining until the final week of last season when idleness caused him to be beaten out for top spot. As it was, he finished with 669 net yards from scrimmage for a 4.7 average and the second best yardage total in the SEC. He also was fifth among league pass receivers, grabbing off 15 aerials and picking up 143 yards. Cravens already has been picked on advance All-Conference teams by several selectors.

Cravens will have help of varying degrees from several of his mates in the Kentucky backfield, chief among them junior quarterback Lowell Hughes—fourth best passer in the SEC last year. Starting all but one game and going 60 minutes in the Wildcats' near-upset of eventual national champ Auburn, Hughes overcame sophomore inexperience by displaying exceptional level-headedness under pressure of a tough schedule and bad breaks. He completed 40 out of 83 attempts for 447 yards and demonstrated fine running ability as well as proving himself a good defensive back.

Hughes likely will inherit the duties of punting and extra point kicking relinquished by Michaels and its more than likely that the kicking game will suffer by comparison. The powerful Michaels, national Lineman of the year to stand a close second in the league. He was successful on 12 of 13 tries for point after touchdown.

There will be little change in the appearance of Kentucky's overall attack as Collier sticks with his own particular brand of Multiple T Offense.

The fact that two valuable pass receiving ends were lost via graduation will not help the Wildcats' aerial game. Co-Captain Doug Shively, a regular except for a few games in mid-season when he was hurt, is back on the left side but the other flankmen are generally inexperienced and Hughes is the only quarterback with game experience under his belt.

Along the rest of the forward wall, Collier fears the replacements might not be mature enough to take over and do the job in the way it will need to be to stop nationally-ranked foes like Auburn, Ga. Tech, Ole Miss and Tennessee. Sorely missed will be left tackle Michaels, a vital cog last season with his leadership and ability to handle roving assignment of up to five different defensive positions.

Co-Captain Bobby Lindon, a starter at right tackle last year, may move over to fill in bodily for Michaels, but Wildcat coaches hopes are high on 190-pound guard Jim Miller as possibly the best lineman in camp by pre-season reckoning. He's hardly in the same class with Michaels and may never be his equal. He's never received the publicity buildup, either last year when he was a late season starter or when he was here before as a freshman starter in pre-service days of 1953.

Whether the presence of a handful of really experienced veterans can offset the problems of too many inexperienced sophomores, too much need to depend on them and too much schedule makes for interesting speculation. Kentucky partisans are sure of one thing, however: If anybody can do, Collier can.

ANNUAL REPORT TO THE ALUMNI

The annual meeting of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association was held in conjunction with the Alumni annual picnic, May 24, 1958 at Carnahan House, the newly acquired alumni-faculty house on Coldstream Farm. Mr. Robert Hillenmeyer of Lexington, out-going president of the Alumni Association, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Hampton C. Adams of Lexington made a motion that the minutes of the 1957 meeting of May 25th, be filed as published in the August 1957 ALUMNUS magazine. Seconded by Mrs. Elmer Gilb of Lexington, the motion carried unanimously.

Miss Helen G. King, Director of Alumni Affairs at UK gave the director's report as follows:

For the past eleven years I have stood before you in similar meetings to present to you the annual report of your Alumni Association, but never, in more than a decade, has a report given me as much personal satisfaction, as the one I will present to you today.

The underlying reason has nothing to do with the amount of the contributions you have made to the Alumni Fund. Neither does it concern itself with the number of alumni who have participated in our program during 1957-'58, although both of these results have had a striking impact upon what we have been able to accomplish.

Rather, it is a report of your Alumni Association coming of age; a summation of its thinking as the inanimate organization which represents an animate, dynamic group of men and women who have come to know and love their University, and through that knowledge have been able to do something tangible and constructive in its over-all program.

"Years ago Dr. Hu Shih, the scholar who was then Chinese Ambassador to the United States, said "America's greatest contribution to education was its revolutionary concept of the alumnus; its concept of the former student as an understanding, responsible partner and champion."

Your alumni executive committee, the group of men and women who represent you throughout the year in making policy decisions and in administering your Alumni Association cannot be given too much credit for the role they have played in this "coming of age". Selfless, capable, busy men and women, they have given unstintingly of their time and thought to the program of the University and the Alumni Association with the result that we are prepared to present to you today a resume of the year's activities which boast distinction and achievement.

Your treasurer will report to you today on the financial condition of your Association at the completion of business on April 30, 1958. A total of 5,200 members contributed $16,904.25 in dues, $2,793 in funds for special projects, $1,483.13 to the Alumni-Faculty House fund and $2,325 to scholarships. In addition, we turned over to Carnahan House a $15,000 check from Mr. J. W. Carnahan. The total monies, including capital gifts in the amount of approximately $6,600 has enabled us to initiate some very worthwhile projects, but the total number of members participating is discouragingly small.

We have discovered over a period of eleven years in the organization that no matter how many mailings we send out, no matter how many visits we make to Alumni Clubs and individuals, it takes the concentrated effort of each one of you to get the job done. It is part of your responsibility as an alumnus of this institution which you love to see your classmates and schoolmates or at least, to contact them for us, and to see that each one becomes a contributing member of the Alumni Association. To this end we are urging you today to assist us this summer in doing some personal solicitation in your area or among your classmates and to that end we are preparing materials which we will send to you upon request, describing how you may set up such solicitation.

Your Alumni Association has initiated two projects this year of which we are exceedingly proud. At commencement Monday the Alumni Association, through Dr. Ralph Angelucci, alumnus member of the Board of Trustees and chairman of the project, will present to four members of the faculty checks for $500 each for distinguished achievement in the fields of writing and research in the period January 1, 1956 through January 1, 1958. These four faculty members were nominated and selected by their associates on the faculty, and represent their choice and judgement. We have initiated this program this year in an effort to encourage more research and creative work among the faculty and at the same time to furnish an impetus to our faculty members to remain at the University and continue to contribute to her program.

We hope that you will contribute financial aid to this project during the coming year so that such a worthy cause may be continued. It is with considerable pride and gratitude that I report that this year's gifts to the faculty, totaling $2,000, have been made possible by Mrs. Ben H. Collings, Louisville alumna, R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield, Ky., alumnus, and a friend of the University, Mr. Jack Whalen of Louisville.

The other project which has reached fruition this year is the Alumni Seminar which we are sponsoring on campus July 30 and 31 and August 1 and 2. The May ALUMNUS magazine detailed this program for you, which will have a distinguished faculty of University staff and alumni.

"Students" at the seminar will be housed in the men's and women's residence halls and food will be served on campus at nominal fees. There will be no charge for the seminar itself and notices of the program, together with application blanks for rooms and attendance will be mailed out early in June to all alumni who were active members of the Association in 1957-'58 and all of those who became active members before the closing date of the seminar registration, early in July. We hope that many of you will take advantage of the opportunity to participate in a few days of study and contemplation with some of the country's leading authorities in their fields. Dr. Carl Cone, distinguished professor of history at UK has served as coordinator for the seminar and we are deeply grateful to him.

This year saw the activation of the beautiful building and surrounding grounds here—known as Carnahan House—and dedicated last May 11 to James W. Carnahan, distinguished alumnus from Chicago who, through a large gift made activation of the house possible. This Alumni-Faculty house has long been the dream of your Alumni Association, and may be chalked up as another achievement of your Alumni Executive Committee during the past two years.

For the past several years the Fayette County Alumni Association has sponsored a spring sports banquet honoring all athletes participating in spring sports as well as the debate and discussion teams. This month the Fayette County Club recommended to the Alumni Executive Committee and received approval for a new plan beginning next year. Instead of having a banquet for these young men and women annually, the Alumni Association and the Fayette County Club will jointly sponsor a freshman tuition scholarship each year on a rotating basis, so that each sport and group formerly honored will be able to bring a new student to the University on a free tuition basis at least once each decade.

This last fall saw the formal inauguration of our young, dynamic and capable new president, Dr. Frank Graves Dickey. Four representatives of the Alumni Association were official delegates to the inauguration, and ten others were special guests for the occasion. The delegates were: Dr. E. V. Murphree, New York City; Mr. R. R. Dawson, Bloomfield, Mrs. Ben H. Collings, Louisville and Miss Margaret Ingels, Lexington.

A year ago in February your Alumni Association with the approval of the President of the University, invited the presidents and alumni secretaries of all the state supported colleges to meet with us here on campus, and to form a Joint Kentucky Alumni Council for the purpose of working together for the betterment of the institutions and for public higher education in the commonwealth. The first project which we are sponsoring is a joint booth for all five colleges and the University at the Kentucky State Fair in September.

I hope all of you saw the May ALUMNUS magazine, which carried a 32-page supplement on American Higher Education-1958. It was prepared by the top alumni magazine editors in the nation and is a fine exposition on the problems facing colleges and universities today and our obligations as alumni. This year we have been fortunate in obtaining the services of Mrs. Betty Wiggs, former editor of the Southern Illinois Alumni Journal and the State University of Iowa Staff Magazine as editor of the ALUMNUS.

We are sponsoring another innovation this year. When you receive your active membership card in the Association this year you will receive the gift of a decal for your car, designating you as a contributing member for 1958-'59. We hope this will inspire all alumni who see these decals to become active also.

The Alumni Loyalty Fund scholarship winner for 1958-'59 was selected in April. She is Miss Bobbie Ann Mason, of Mayfield, Ky. She will have a $700 per year scholarship for four years provided she maintains a "B" standing.

You who were present last year for reunions know that the class of 1932, celebrating its 25th, reunion, presented a check for $525 to Carnahan House. Since that time the class of 1907, last year's 50-year class, has sent in a check for $1,228.13 to the Alumni Association to assist in the activation and decorating of Carnahan House. We are most grateful to these two classes for their interest and loyalty.

The Alumni Association was proud to present to the College of Engineering a check for $1,000 this spring for freshman scholarships in that college, the gift of J. Carlisle Myers, Sr. and J. Carlisle Myers, Jr. Mr. Myers, Jr., is a member of the Alumni Executive Committee and made the gift through our Association.

Homecoming this year has been set for Saturday, November 1, the date of our game with Mississippi State. We will have the usual registration at down-town hotels, the coliseum, Campbell House and Student Union; the brunch in the Student Union Ballroom; the president's reception following the game and the annual homecoming dance in Convention Hall at the Phoenix Hotel that evening at which time we will have an eight piece orchestra. The dance will be free to the ladies and $1.00 each for the men.

The Association has sponsored its usual events during the past year, including football and basketball banquets and homecoming and the reunion program today. In addition your director has visited clubs in Atlanta, Ga., Nashville, Tenn., Monticello, Ky., Cleveland, Ohio, Henderson, Madisonville and Owensboro and has attended meetings in Pasadena, Calif., Murray State College, Williamsburg, Va., and KEA at Louisville. While in Pasadena we implemented the organization of a Southern California Alumni Club. Chattanooga, Tenn., has also organized during the past year.

I wish to express your appreciation and that of the Alumni Executive Committee and its officers to the following University officials, staff members and alumni who have given so much of their time and interest to our work this year. President Frank G. Dickey, without whose encouragement we would not have made such progress; Frank D. Peterson, vice president and president of Carnahan House; Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, who has administered our scholarship program; Mr. Clay Maupin, our indefatigable auditor without whose help we could not operate; President Robert H. Hillenmeyer, his officers and the members of the Alumni Executive Committee themselves, who are never too busy to give of their heads and hearts to the work of the Association; Dr. Ralph Angelucci who headed the faculty awards committee with such outstanding success; and last, but certainly not least to the members of the Alumni Office Staff—the women who keep the show on the road; Mrs. Olga Varrone, Mrs. Nellie Youmans, Mrs. Mae Montjoy, Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Betty Wiggs and our newest staff member, Mrs. Ada D. Reford, who has helped us during reunions and who will be a permanent staff member after July 1. I also want to say hail and farewell to Anne Law Lyons, former office records clerk, who has left us to join the staff of the dean of women. To all of you, and the many others not specifically named who have done such outstanding jobs, my heartfelt thanks.

I pointed out to each of you in an editorial on the cover of the May ALUMNUS that "Alumni of our various institutions of higher education are partners in a great enterprise. It is to each of you that your institutions turn for understanding, for leadership and for financial support. You are responsible partners in the greatest effort ever fostered by the free world—that of producing, supporting and nurturing men of strong moral fibre great imagination and inspiring vision—in short, educated men."

This report, as was the one in the May ALUMNUS, is designed to point up to each of you the responsibilities which are yours as alumni of great educational institution. It is, I hope, a challenge to your loyalties and a tribute to your devotion. It is an invitation to contribute your counsel and your material support to the end that your University may reach the heights.

Again, I would remind you—"It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

Respectfully submitted,

Helen G. King

Director of Alumni Affairs

Mr. Richard Cooper of Somerset, Ky., made a motion that the Director's report be approved as read. Seconded by Mr. Paul Blazer of Ashland, the motion carried unanimously.

Mr. B. A. Shively, treasurer of the Alumni Association, gave the accumulative treasurer's report as of April 30, 1958, which is incorporated in the annual treasurer's report as follows:

June 16, 1958

To the Directors

I have examined the balance sheet of University of Kentucky Alumni Association, at May 31, 1958, and the related statement of income and expense for the fiscal year ended that date. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and the related statement of income and expense fairly present the financial position of University of Ken-

ALUMNI PERSONALITIES

By GILBERT KINGSBURY, '33

A leading Washington insurance company executive pointed to an Air Force colonel at a recent capital gathering and commented:

"That guy could get $50,000 a year in civilian life for what he's doing in the Air Force."

That "guy" was Colonel James Beatty Davis, formerly of Covington and now chairman of the Claims Division, United States Air Force. And a colonel's pay is considerably less than $50,000 per annum.

When an Air Force plane crashes into a farmer's field, or when an Air Force truck rams a telephone pole, or when an airman (GI or officer) causes damage, the claim could ultimately reach the desk of the Kentuckian.

Under his command, however, are offices in far-flung parts of the world and, as the former Covington attorney explains, effort is made to solve the problem without going to Washington.

The Holmes High School and University of Kentucky graduate, class of 1931, entered service during the first years of World War Two.

On his release and return to civilian life, he applied for a regular Air Force commission and got it. His tours of duty have included a stretch in Alaska, in Oklahoma City and at Dayton O., where he contract litigation for the Air Material Command.

Prior to entering the service, Colonel Davis was court reporter for the late Judge Johns T. Northcutt of Kenton Circuit Court. Following graduation from Chase Law School, Cincinnati, he joined the Kentucky Bar Association and continues to hold his membership.

Colonel Davis is the son of the late Dr. James A. Davis, Covington physician, and Mrs. Cora Davis Kingston of Wallace Avenue, Covington.

Mrs. Davis is the former Katherine Ross of Ft. Thomas, daughter of the late Dr. L. L. Ross, for many years mayor of Ft. Thomas, and Mrs. Ross.

Today, while awaiting any new Air Force assignments, the Davises live in Chevy Chase, Maryland, where the two children, Bruce, 13, and Martha, 10, attend the local schools.

As plans for retirement go, Colonel Davis still believes that day is sometime in the future. But when it comes, he insists he's returning home—to Northern Kentucky.

Dear Fellow Alumni and Friends of the University:

I want to express my personal thanks for the honor accorded me as your President and to assure each of you that I realize that I am merely representing you in the alumni affairs and have no individual capacity.

For the past three years, we have made tremendous strides in providing each of you who visit Lexington with the best facilities in the country for your enjoyment. The creation and dedication of Carnahan House—our joint Alumni-Faculty house—is your personal guarantee that your visit to Lexington will be more enjoyable than ever before, that you can meet your friends and associate with our wonderful faculty at Carnahan House and become a more vital and integral part of the University of Kentucky.

It is our honest and sincere intention to work diligently for the next few years to assist those of you who do not get to Lexington often enough to enjoy the campus and the alumni facilities. Your Alumni Association is nothing without members and it is our earnest hope that through your individual aid you will help us double the membership in our Alumni Association, to make possible the many worthwhile projects which we shall attempt, such as faculty awards, scholarships, etc.

We shall continue to strive for a closer relationship between the Executive Committee of your Alumni Association and other individual alumni groups throughout the country. We hope that by utilizing each member individually and by utilizing local organizations, we can bring each of you into a closer contact with our great University.

Again, I would remind you that your Executive Committee is merely a representative group and that you have as great a voice in our alumni affairs as we do. For that reason, we urge you to let us know your wishes, suggestions and desires in order that we might serve you better.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM M. GANT, President
