Kernel "College Night" Opens With Picture Starring Muni

Program Starts At 8 O'clock Tonight After Pep Rally, With U. K. Band Playing

Revel of "College Night," which was inaugurated last year by the editors of The Kentucky Kernel in cooperation with the management of the Kentucky theater, will be staged tonight at 8 o'clock following SUKY pep rally, with "The Life of Emile Zola," starring Paul Muni, as the main feature of the evening.

One of the main features of the evening will be the University band, which will march directly from the pep rally to the theater, where they will present a brief program. Also scheduled are sports shorts, a "Betty Boop" cartoon, community song by the dormitories, "The You Know" contest, with a $75 jackpot.

In order to avoid a rush on the door, tickets for "College Night" will be on sale at the Campus Book Store and the Kentucky theater at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and at the SUKY pep rally tonight. Coupons, which can be found on page eight in today's Kernel, must be presented in order to obtain tickets at the matinee price. One coupon will admit two persons.

Doctor McVey Expresses Thanks For French Gift

The University of Kentucky is the recipient of a gift from the French government, made through the French Embassy in Washington. Under the terms of the gift, the University is to have the privilege of purchasing, at a discount to the sum of 5,000 francs. The University greatly appreciates the gift and particularly the kindness of the French government in making it.

The gift consists of a complete set of French textbooks in making it. The books will be of great value to the library.

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

On Obtaining The Band's Finances

TODAY the first step toward the goal must be made tomorrow when the band is sponsoring a dance in Alumni gym.

Since THE KERNEL started the band wagon rolling several weeks ago, the idea of the Boston trip has met with unanimous approval of students and townspeople.

The Lexington Board of Commerce spoke for the merchants when it endorsed the plan.

The Lexington Herald and Leader spoke for the townspeople in an editorial backing the plan.

It is now evident that THE KERNEL speaks for the students. It is no longer necessary to speak, it is time to act!

The first step toward the goal must be made tomorrow when the band is sponsoring a dance in Alumni gym.

The second step is the request of each fraternality and sorority to contribute ten dollars to the fund.

The third step will be in the support of the students of a "College Night" to be sponsored by THE KERNEL for the band in several weeks.

Tickets for this occasion will be sold by members of the band. Announcement of the definite date for this frolic will be made in the near future.

Merchants in town will likewise be canvassed and requested to contribute to the fund.

In no case is THE KERNEL requesting too much from any one person or group. In no case will the contribution be a burden to the contributor.

In no case will any contribution be accepted without the sincerest appreciation of loyal Kentuckians.

We should be proud to be Kentuckians. And we should let as many people as possible know that we take pride in our University.

FOR A NUMBER of years the University of Kentucky has been somewhat criticized for its policy in selecting the cast for its plays.

It must be pointed out in the beginning that although the Guignol Theatre is primarily and definitely a University organization, it is also the servant of the City of Lexington.

At this particular time of the year when white shoe polish begins to disappear from shop windows we like to reflect upon the state of the nation.

Although every possible angle concerning the man who tips his hat and tries to sell you fruit and cigarettes has been exhausted by prospective feature writers, we feel it our duty to tell you that he practically fainted the other day when the band passed.

At this particular time of the year when white shoe polish begins to disappear from shop windows we like to reflect upon the state of the nation.

But it is not only for the purpose of serving capably the University and town that Guignol exists. It is also vitally concerned with the production of plays of superior calibre interpreted by casts of superior calibre.

For this reason, and for the purpose of giving more students opportunity to participate in dramatics, Guignol has this year furthered the laboratory plays inaugurated last season. These plays offer opportunity for considerable intellectual development of students.

In view of this possibility, it is surprising to note how few freshmen have taken advantage of this opportunity for intellectual moulding.

Guignol reports that it needs talent. It is only logical to conclude that in a University of this size talent is available.

The Campus Gossip

By CHARLIE GARY

A man who pays a toll of cash as an entrance fee to Big Apple & Company swing session is inclined to feel perhaps that he's getting his money's worth out of a splendid plunderer.

But tomorrow night at the Hotteries? Hop a man can feel his job on the line and feel that it is almost a cause which drives to make our University nationally famous.

All Hop receipts will be placed in the Band to Boston vault. The dance gives every man a chance to contribute to the musicians' gratification and at the same time enable a guy and his deli to enjoy a swaggy party.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

The instructor who sits after school hours, perhaps ought not to be blamed if many a time he throws down some of them with an exclamation of despair.

Perhaps though, he may have a saving sense of humor, and he will lean back in his chair and laugh until the reaction comes; then he will mark with a more lenient hand and perhaps, he will wonder if the students who have had such an understanding of the information imported to them are altogether to blame.

Earlier in the week the papers carried a report that Father Charles E. Coughlin, the Detroit priest and radio lecturer, had cancelled his series of radio talks which had originally been scheduled over a coast to coast network.

When Father Coughlin first announced his intention of repeating his addresses again this year, severe pressure, political and otherwise was brought to bear upon him.

RUBBING shoulders for a day with the Vanderbilts, Whitneys, Wideners, Ainsworths, Masons, and others of their lofty ilk, collegians and Lexingtonians this week attended the sale of a thoroughbred horse held in the pastoral paddock on the Paris pike.

It was a day of the most interesting and amusing of the kind, and the cooperation of student organizations in this program will make it a very interesting event.

By ELEANOR SNEDEKER
The archery tournament will begin at 3 p. m. Monday, October 13. All girls must shoot in the tournament to receive their points. As archery is a minor sport, fifty points are given towards numerals or that much priced "K" that you hope to wear someday. The winner of this tournament will receive an engraved arrow.

Hockey games have started and as yet no serious injuries have been reported although we have had a few cracked shins.

Our membership drive started this Wednesday and will run until October 20. Nat Dye and Jane Chase are in charge of this campaign. Cards are being sent to all new students asking whether or not they are interested in joining the W. A. A. and what sports you wish to participate in. All answers are to be left in the W. A. A. box at the post office window.

Next Thursday a mass meeting of all W. A. A. paid up members will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the gym. It is to be a very important meeting and all girls are urged to attend. The program for the year and the part that we will have in the Middle Eastern conference to be held at Tallahassee, Florida, will be discussed.

Don't forget about our "University Singing Session," the first of which we are going to hold November 13 at the Alumni gym in cooperation with the boy's organization. The admission to the dance is only $75, so tip the current boy friend off that you want to lend this big swing.

Shop Sights

By MARJORIE RIESER

Men's clothes in a style column other than Esquire! That's deep water for anyone to be in, especially when one knows so little about it. But the majority cannot be neglected and with all the money someone must have won at Knottland this should be a good time to talk about shirts, studs and snap brims.

Graves-Cox have the new edition of the very same shirt that your Dad wore when he went acournt! The detachable collar that necessitates a collar button and double cuffs. These come in all sorts of wares and fantastic combinations such as gray with dark red, navy and light blue stripes, tan with white and dark green, white with dark green and dark red and a sort of grayish tan with white. Arrows completes this last one with a same colored handkerchief and a dark white dotted tie.

The collars and cuffs are often white but sometimes come in the same stripe as the shirt. Or again the shirt might be white with a striped front that requires studs and, incidentally, a corset.

Speaking of studs there are some dark red ones whose color would remind one of the antique ruby glass into which the glassblower dropped liquid gold to obtain the color. Of course Swanik didn't do it but it is suggestive of them. And red goes with gray and blue as well as white.

The weather being so wet and soggy maybe some heavy lisle socks would like to avert a cold. At Kaufman's they are in almost every conceivable color—black with red, yellow and white stripes, navy with green, red and light blue, brown with orange, yellow and tan. The lightly woven top can be worn either up or down.

Along with the socks, but not quite as radical, is a convertible sweater. That is you can wear it inside out if you want to. The brown has a tan lining, red with gray and navy with light blue. Long sleeves and V-neck.

If you prefer a crew neck the straight across kind, that is obtainable in wine, brown, London tan, royal blue and dark green.

If you are still dissatisfied then R. S. Thorpe and Sons might do the trick with a McCreger DePaca. Or, in other words, a shirt with the front of fine ribbed corduroy and the sleeves and back of a chambray-like material. This can easily be worn under a coat or over a shirt or a thin sweater. And the colors will blend with most any suit—brown, maroon or green with natural.

For colder days, McCreger also sponsors a chestnut suede jacket that is the regular coat length, zip up the front to form a shirt collar. So far there isn't a thing unusual about it, but, then, there are the four patch pockets, one of which is lined with rubber and zips across the top. Some might call it a built-in tobacco pouch. And, believe it

FUNKHOUSER USES NEW SYSTEM IN PERUSING MARINE STUDIES

"Around the Bay of Naples With Your Head in a Beer Barrel." No, you're wrong, it's not a sentence to "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," but just another of the adventures of the eminent Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, professor of zoology at the University.

Doctor Funkhouser explained that he was really not on a "tear," but that the whole adventure was in the interest of science. He was vacationing in southern Italy where the clear blue water of the Mediterranean Sea offers an excellent field for the study of marine life. Generally it is the custom for the scientist, the visitor, or the just plain curious, to view the beautiful scenery of the deep sea through the glass-bottomed boats that are for rent at various points along the shore. Dr. Funkhouser added, however, that the most of renting these boats is almost prohibitive, and that right away his inventive brain picked up an idea of availing renting one of the boats.

First, he secured an empty beer keg. Then he rented a common skiff which costs practically nothing, and attached the beer barrel securely to the prow of the skiff. Then hiring a native to paddle the skiff, the cost of which is insignificant, he lay down in the skiff and with his head in the beer barrel he enjoyed to the fullest the many and varied scenes which can be seen in the waters of the beautiful Mediterranean.

Doctor Funkhouser explained that it is necessary to have the sides of the barrel protrude several inches out of the water to shut out the sun light, which playing on the moving water, would hinder the vision.

"It makes one homely to sleep with the moon shining in her face," he says, "but that's all right." "It is well for an aviator to wear a lady's stocking around his neck." So he won't ascend to high altitudes.

"If you have cold blisters, kiss a dog's forehead and they will get well." But the dog? "To cure the gripe, hang your hat on the bed post and drink whisky until you see two hats." And we didn't know until now that the University was in the midst of a gripe epidemic.

Some Have Hard Time Getting To School

By LOUISE CALBERT
Thursday was "Kappie's" first day in class, not that Kappie hadn't been on the campus, but he just hadn't been as yet. He came to school last year and has been the only male living at 179 East Maxwell street since then. But Kappie couldn't seem to make up his mind for a higher education until Thursday morning.

Kappie hurried along the campus walks, panting just a little from hurrying so fast.

"Mr. but it's hard to get to class on the dot these cold mornings!" he thought as he hurried to catch up with Wilma Bush.

Kappie cast a longing glance toward a stray head as it slid past him and Wilma turned to say something and he followed her into the Museum and down the stairs to hygiene class.

"It's no wonder the girls all flock around Kappie. He's a popular male anytime, but in a girl's hygiene class he had to stretch his head way up in order to see and hear all that went on. It was hard to catch the drift of all Mr. Hinz was explaining about germs, toxins, anti-toxins, bacteria and so forth.

Kappie sat very still when Mr. Hinz marked the roll. During class he had to stretch his head way up in order to see and hear all that went on. It was hard to catch the drift of all Mr. Hinz was explaining about germs, toxins, anti-toxins, bacteria and so forth.

Kappie looked around to see if any one noticed and then vigorously scratched his ear. It always made him feel "itchy" to hear someone talk about bugs and germs, and parasites of any kind. Power of suggestion made him feel like scratching, but other people called the reason other names.

When class was dismissed Kappie made one grand leap for the door. "Art! Art!"

Kappie bounded past Wilma's side and hoped she wouldn't attend any more classes. He was anxious to get back to the Kappie house at 179 East Maxwell where he is chief mongrel, poodle, and mascot. Kappie "tramped" in last winter and made the house his permanent abode when the girls fed and sheltered him. He spends his summers with Miss Wilma Bush.

But college finally got him!

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES BUILDING ENDS CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

A yearling sap in the earth opposite McVey and Kessle halls indicates that the massive new biological sciences building will soon be looming among the other structures of the campus.

Last of the University's million dollar building program, the sciences building will be a three story brick structure. It will contain the classes and laboratories of all the biological sciences departments.

Costing $100,000, the structure will be completed about February 1. The contract was awarded to the J. A. Jones Construction Company, Charlotte, North Carolina.

When the biological sciences building takes place on the campus, it will find the other four structures of the million dollar program already finished.

Three sides of the huge engineering quadrangle are already completed and in use. Work on the fourth unit, the west side of the quadrangle, is rapidly progressing.

The center heating plant with its gravity ash collector, is already in operation, furnishing heat for campus buildings.

Already completed as far as construction concerned, is the squat, sturdy law building. Furnishing and decorating of this modernistic building is now being done.

The massive bulk of the student union building towers higher as each day finds this structure nearer completion. It is hoped that the building will be finished by January 1, 1938.

Yet on the plans of the University's program of a field house. However, this structure is still in the visionary stage, as no appropriations have been made for its construction.

Home Economics Answers Many Everyday Problems

Do you know what Home Economics is? The popular conception in Mr. Average Man's head is that it is cooking and sewing, or, in other words, the development of manual skills. As a matter of fact, it is neither, but development of a subject matter to give only faint information. It is a subject at all. It is a field of training. Of course you are of a trying vague idea, let us explain.

Home Economics is the study of a community as a reflection of the standards of living of its families. Training, therefore, that tends to direct and improve standards of living is important to the culture of people both as individuals and as social, economic and governmental groups.

What does such training include? First of all it necessitates training in making wise choices. For instance, how wise would your choice be today if you had a good fortune to be able to choose what kind of a house to live in? What kind of air conditioning would you install? What kind of a heating system would you use? What kind of floors, shades, draperies, rug or terra, down to the last paring knife, would you spend your money on? How wise would your choices be and what kind of training have you had in making them? A host of questions can be applied to clothing, food, to a choice of recreation, in short to all the activities and goods that are concerned in living together in a community.

The second item of training concerned with fine standards of living deals with the selection of people to either with in the group. How are you trained to make the choice of a life partner and how good will your adjustments be to the new situations that arise from that choice after the first glow of romantic adventure has faded? Have you even as good a training for entering upon that kind of partnership as you have for that kind of a business partnership? Can you make the social and mental adjustments that are necessary to be as efficient and successful in a business or professional life as in business or a profession? Should failure in living carry less opprobrium than failure in art or science.

What does all this have to do with Home Economics? Just this: The purpose of Home Economics is to provide training for fine management of family living, providing it is well done, is one of the most complicated jobs in the world. It requires diplomatic ability of a high order, executive ability, a knowledge of money and of the value of goods, a knowledge of nutrition, a knowledge of child psychology, and a knowledge of psychology. Preparation for such a job is given by means of courses in art, science, English, the social sciences and the many home economics courses of food preparation, meal planning and service, textiles, clothing, marketing, child care and home management.

For most college women, however, the importance of home economics training lies in the fact that it is a training in the habits of good earning, working, positions are to be found in teaching, in home demonstration, in social work, in dietetics in institution economics such as cafeteria and restaurant management, in home economics positions as demonstrators of sales promotion, in home economics journalism and in research. The choice of vocations is very broad in this field of training.

MANY 'FREAK' ORGANIZATIONS HAVE GRACED FORMER KYIANS

Have you ever heard of the "Ever-empty Wake 'Em Up" or the "Order of the Bald Heads"? Probably not, and they may seem curious to the college students of today, but they are the kinds of clubs that our mothers and fathers took delight in organizing and in taking to litter up the yearbook.

Nevertheless, whether they exist or not, it is interesting to muse over these old annuals and remember some of the unusual organizations that knew such popularity back in the days when the coeds wore ankle skirts and the freshmen boys no hair.

One of the most outstanding of this type were the Tau Beta Kakes whose motto was "Be Better To Have Come and Leave Than Never To Have Come At All." Their flower was the "Touch Me Not," and they emblem the wreath. The Omega chapter of Tau Beta Kakes was established on this campus in 1906 and stayed in existence longer than most of these freak societies.

The next year, 1907, saw the organization of the "Ever-empty Wake 'Em Up." To become a member, the student must have an abnormal capacity for pie the ability to maintain life on a twelve hour a week sleep basis with the working knowledge of at least 20 culinary departments, here, there, and over town. Their motto was "No Feeds, No Playes," the three members of the club having claimed talent in guitar playing which they so willingly bestowed on the fair co-eds.

The high officers of this club carried the titles of Lord Grand Gruber, High Chief Putter Downer, and Lord Grand Purveyor of Superfluous Beatings. Their constitution was as follows:

1. No member of opposite sex may ever hope to be aroused in the wee small hours of the morning, who has not a speaking acquaintance with at least one member of the organization, and who will not, with her right hand, on Kings name translation and forfeiting all hope of future salvation, if she falls, affirm that she will clean with the eatings.

2. No person who shows a disposition to throw dynamite or sticks on the members of the organization, shall be admitted to membership.

3. Every friend of the club must understand that she is immune from being eaten by the members of the above mentioned organization only during the period of the two weeks following Easter. Past experience with hard boiled eggs necessitates this innovation.

4. Anyone showing an inclination to flirt with a member shall be punished with a serenade the next night with (A song if offense is flagrant enough to warrant it.)

Each year this club increased its membership by one person, but for some unknown reason, has passed into extinction.

Along about this time there was also the "Chain Swaggers" which was composed mainly, if not wholly, of those lazily inclined individuals who attended college primarily for the purpose of loafing. They had as a motto "We flit no longer, carry this title and at present is not a fully organized group, although they meet regularly in the University post office.

Earlier than all of these previously named groups, was organized a club which they called the "Black Cat." That was in 1903 and these girls or black kittens, had a yell that went something like this:

"Batter, Scatter, Scatter, Batter, Fu, Fu, Fu, Black Cat, Black Cat, Ra! Ra! Ra!"

It is rumored, but not definitely known by the writer, that this Black Cat group was the beginning of the present Kappa Delta social group which is the University of Kentucky campus.

There were many W. C. T. U. times all meaning different things.

Postoffice Proves To Be Haven For Loafers

Thousands loaf in pool rooms, hotel lobbies, depots, ten-cent stores and on park benches in every section of the country, but our own University post office is a haven for the scores of idling students who daily make it their refuge from the classroom. At all times of the day, they may be seen slumped on their backpacks, loitering in the ecstasy of their ease.

There are those who read those who sleep, those who gossip, those who whistle at passing coeds, and then those who simply sit; but the lot of them may be divided into two distinct classes called the casual and chronic loafers.

The chronic loafers begin to struggle in early in the morning, even before eight o'clock, especially on the days of Kernel publication. Very often these individuals recline from hour to hour, seemingly unconcerned of class bells and with little indication of any intention to move. On up until the noon hour, these habitual stragglers sit, their faces are hidden by the discarded paper, others, asleep, with their heads on their feet.

When cast is the casual type of loafer. These persons only stop in the postoffice long enough to buy a cigarette or to gather the latest news. The casual loafers, at this time and it is now safe for a modest coat to pass through without attracting the attention of the postoffice executive ability. The casual loafers would very easily become chronic loafers were there more lounging space to permit it; but with the limited number of benches, they find it necessary to indulge in their nap on the back row of some discarded publication of a sporting press.

There have been many protests made and solutions offered to the problem of perpetual loafing in the postoffice but all attempts along such lines seem to be futile. Like Stepin Fetchit and Old Hunch, loafing is an inborn trait and cannot be changed, so we might as well let these Stepin Fetchits have their own way and go on loafing, sitting, and sitting.

Hot, glaring lights. A feeling that all the world is watching you. Sweat dripping from a moist brow and running down your collar. The haunting sensation that your clothes should have been sent to the cleaners last week. Spectators gasping from the aperture to the right.

"Turn your head this way, please." This is dulcet tones. A swift yank, and you feel as if you had just been decapitated. "Hold it, please." An eternity of heat and arrested motion. A sly feeling, like a college boy caught stealing gum drops from the candy counter. Gosh, but that collar is willing. Well, no wonder, with all this heat and dirt. An open door, and a scented zephyr rushes in. Oh, yes, that's the date of the week. Golly, but you shouldn't let her see you now. What are you going to do about it?

Public Knows Little About Many Publications at U. K.

Publishing the largest amount of educational material issued in the state of Kentucky is a part of the work carried on at the University that is little comprehended by those not directly connected with the publications. A series of bulletins, monographs and reports, as well as small pamphlets, are released at frequent intervals by the various colleges and departments under the auspices of the University.

The bulletin of the Bureau of school service published by the College of Education, presents specific problems together with their solutions for the benefit of instructors throughout the state. Reports of investigations and comprehensive survey programs are also included in the bulletins which are bound into volumes from time to time.

The Kentucky Law Journal, official publication of the Kentucky State Bar association contains student notes, articles and book reviews of interest to lawyers and students alike. The Journal is prepared four times a year by the College of Law.

Medical Service in Kentucky is the title of the booklet issued by the department of hygiene and public health. Another departmental publication is Reports in Archaeology and Anthropology, written by W. D. Funkhouser and W. S. Webb and published by the department of archaeology and anthropology. These reports are issued from time to time and are pagged and bound into regular volumes. The department of University extension dispatches bulletins monthly. Subjects such as drama, music, gardening, birds, and child health interests the wide variety of interests treated. Some of the most extensive publications are those issued by the College of Agriculture, Department of Agricultural Extension and the Experiment station.

Publications partially or wholly directed by students are The Kentucky Kernel, student newspaper, issued twice a week, The Kentucky Year Book, the K book, published by the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. and Star Mash, but more numerous publication, issued monthly.

Political Science Prof. Heads Annual Meeting Of Kentucky Academy Of Social Science To Be Held Here

Dr. J. W. Manning, Political Science will preside over the discussion and business session of the Kentucky Academy of Social Science which meets in the University Museum on Saturday, October 30, at 10 a. m.

Current State and National Problems" will be discussed at this annual meeting. There are two chief problems to be considered. The first, "Significance of the Proposed Amendment to the Kentucky Constitution," is particularly timely because two proposed amendments will be voted upon by the people of the state at the regular November election.

The second problem to be discussed will be the proposals made to reorganize the national administration. The discussion will center about the reports of the President's Committee on Administrative Management and the report of the Select Committee of the Senate on the Reorganization of the National Administration.

The discussion on these two problems will be led by Dr. K. P. Vinzell of the University of Louisville, Prof. Virgil Burns, of Eastern State Teachers College and Dr. J. B. Holtzclaw, of Morehead State College.

Minimum Of 'Cold' Checks Indicates Students' Honesty

"It is remarkable—the record of honesty that the students have made for themselves in their association with the campus book store," stated Mr. James E. Morris, manager of the University Book Store in the basement of McVey hall.

Out of the $150,000 worth of checks that are cashed annually, only five or six out of that number prove to be losses, reported Mr. Morris.

An all time record was set last year when during the months of September through January, over $50,000 worth of checks were cashed and only two out of the entire group were found to be "cold," both of which were made good after the holidays.

During an entire school year there is a total of about 300 questionable checks written, an average of about two per day, 98% of which are made good.

These questionable checks are usually the result of errors in making them out," said Mr. Morris, using as an example a student who wrote the name of her bank as "Applied Harmony," evidently thinking the check called for "the name of your bank."

Students Wonder At Accuracy Of Lie Detectors

By JAMES R. BANNAHAN Students at the University who have classes in Psychology and have studied the different types of lie detectors used by this department, and have wondered at their seeming accuracy, would be even further amazed at the super lie detector built by Mr. Ralph Brown, psychologist at the University of Kentucky Health Service Hospital.

Mr. Brown's super lie detector is a combination of all three of the lie detectors used at the Psychology department at the University. That is, it combines the use of the Polygraph and the Galvanometer. The Polygraph measures the rate of respiration and the increase or decrease of blood pressure. The Galvanometer measures the activity of the sweat glands by passing a small current of electricity through them.

When the sweat glands are stimulated, the current flows more readily through the body which increases the resistance of the Galvanometer. It has been found by experimentation that when a person lies his breathing increases, blood pressure rises, and sweat glands become over active.

In an experiment performed by Mr. Brown with the assistance of Dr. Veech who also on the staff of the hospital, a subject was induced into a state of hypnosis by Dr. Vogel and asked to select a number from one to ten. The subject selected the number four. He was then aroused from his trance and asked what number he had chosen. The subject however failed to remember the number selected. Thereupon Mr. Brown proceeded to ask him if he had selected number one, and so on until he had covered the ten numbers from which one number had been selected. The subject had replied no to all these questions.

When the recordings on the lie detector were studied it was found that there was a marked rise when the subject had been asked if he had chosen four. This indicating that he had lied when he had denied having selected this number. Though the subject's conscious mind could not remember, the subconscious mind did remember having selected number four, and caused the physical reactions which were recorded on the lie detector as indicative of a lie.

PLUMMER SPEAKS Niel Plummer, assistant professor of Journalism at the University spoke to the Henry Clay High School Press club Tuesday afternoon. The club, which edits the school paper, "Hi-Times", is directed by Ralph Edwards a graduate of the University.

Co-ed Betrays Some Secrets Of Feminine Wiles and Ways

By SARAH RANSELLE I bow my head in shame as I betray my sex but I can no longer see the poor gullible males on this campus fall for the tricks that the clever little coeds in Patti Hall play on their dull wits.

The art of "investing," as it is called, has been developed down to a fine point by the young wench who will in the course of feminine pulchritude. It's a game that all women learn to play almost as soon as they learn to play paper-dolls; in fact it is almost instinctive.

The telephone is a very necessary instrument and here are listed some of the more subtle means of hood-winking the glib and glib of the fraternalists.

A clever little mix Miss X, in doubt as to whether she has a date made, in a sudden moment fills out to the utterly innocent recipient of her wiles, "This is Emmy Zulu. Do you remember me? You know you have a date for the hop for tonight?" Whereupon the male who is quite dense but not exactly recalling one, Miss Zulu, declared that he has a date with Miss X, thus committing his neck to the noose and relieving Miss X's anxiety.

Then there is the time worn alibi, "Mary Doe's date went out of town tomorrow or perhaps he brought her tonight?" Whereupon the male who is quite dense but not exactly recalling one, Miss Zulu, declared that he has a date with Miss X, thus committing his neck to the noose and relieving Miss X's anxiety.

Co-Ed Discusses Types Of Library "Stogents"

By JANE LEVI To me the library is what a green pasture must be to a cow. The minute I enter the door and in obedience with the "Quiet" stop working my lips, I let my mind have free play.

The other night having figured out without much trouble that the type that sits with an open book before her and gazes upon the studying multitude, I decided to waste my time usefully and make an analysis of other types present. I got the librarian quickly. "Tough and grim with a face like a bull dog.

To look at that guy with expression of disgust on his face you'd think his ancient history was crumbling in his mouth and leaving a slightly nasty taste.

Boy, there's a Greek God with a black eye who looks ready to fly from his books at any moment and give in graceful attitude to hurt the discus.

Say, pipe the fellow who maneuvers his chair into a thirty degree angle and then absently mindedly pulls the skin of his cheek out about six inches. I hope he hasn't got the place of driving me to the perfect formula for conception.

Over there in a corner is the gal who has to stunkie in every office any pleasure in it. Who does you.

Observatory Has Many Visitors And For Several Reasons

By Joseph Goodman The which is a part of the astronomy department, is to provide a place and facilities for observing the wonders of the heavens. Many of the students also find it a convenient and inexpensive place to do a little romancing or reminiscing. Dr. H. H. Downie, who is professor of astronomy and also coach of the varsity tennis team, is in charge of the Starling.

Astronomy is not the only hobby of the visitors to the observatory. Many of them are also lovers of dogs. This is evident from the large number of these which accompany their masters. Professor Downing also likes dogs, but the two canines, which he possesses, have acquired but little of their master's geniality.

Monday night is open house night at the Observatory, and on that evening many people come from various parts of the state. The largest portion of these come to see Mars, the most notable of the planets. If you are one of these do not expect to see signs of life on this planet for you will be disappointed.

One student suggested that, by placing trained bees on the telescope. Mr. Downing could secure the desired effect for the people.

Seriously though, a trip to the observatory is interesting and worthwhile. One can see craters, celestial mountains and many other things which are not visible to the naked eye. Nearly everyone gets a thrill from the dizzy feeling which results from turning the top of the observatory in order to change the focus of the telescope. But just one warning: if you would like to remain a friend of Mr. Downing or possibly play on his tennis team, don't swing on the telescope, don't even touch this instrument because the focus is easily ruined.

Sara Biggs is lost with the world. She says that when she is with Alvan Vogler, he is the one and only, but then when she steps out with Kap Sig "Olie" Hardyman, all of her affections are for him. When she is with neither of them she dreams of her last year love, Tommy Withers, who failed to return this semester.

The love bug has really bitten Elwood Stephenson and "Red" Batters. For the past week the two have been inseparable, and the Kay Dee's claim that Virginia is really

Georgia Sports Scribes Gave UKy Band Its Title In 1923

By ANDREW ECKDAHL
"Best Band in Dixie"
That name was given the University band in 1923 when it first invaded Atlanta, Georgia, to play for a Wildcat-Yellow Jacket football game. Sports writers on Atlanta papers, after hearing and seeing the band, gave it the title it now has.
On this memorable first trip to the deep South the band was directed by Sergeant John Kennedy. Consisting then of only about 35 men, the band had as drum major, Ed Gans and as sponsor, Martha Carolyn Pate.

Since that time the band has grown to the gargantuan proportions of 100 pieces. The story of the band's growth is one of constant expansion and betterment. Steadily have new men, new uniforms, and more instruments been added.
Records show that the University has had a band off and on for the last 50 years. In the office of the department is a photograph of the band in 1890 showing a 12 piece band of the Kentucky state college as the University was then called.

Nation-wide recognition has been given the University band. In 1931 when the band journeyed to Washington, D. C., the Paramount newsreel took over 600 feet of sound film of the band for national circulation.
At that time this was the greatest amount of footage ever given a college band by a newsreel company. A print of this film is now owned by the University and is shown on special occasions.

While on this trip the band gave a 20 minute concert from the Washington studios of the National Broadcasting Company. This concert was carried by the entire Red network of the NBC.
The band presented, the same several years ago, a radio broadcast from station WHAS, Louisville. Other stations which have broadcast include WROL, Knoxville; WLP, Louisville; and WBBM, Chicago.
In 1896 Elmer G. Sulzer, present head of the University publicity bureau, became director of the band. He continued in that position until the fall of 1923 when he was succeeded by John Lewis, present director.

The size of the band increased from about 35 pieces in 1925 to approximately 90 pieces in 1928. For the next several years the band remained about the same. This year band, boasting of members from 45 cities in 12 states, is the largest in the history of the organization.
Band uniforms were secured for the first time in the fall of 1928. Previous to this the band had been attired in regulation R. O. T. C. dress. The uniforms consisted of regulation American Federation of Musicians dress plus a brilliant blue and white cap.

These uniforms were kept as standard until 1934 when, through the efforts of Col. R. E. Bowers, head of the military department, the present outfits were secured.
During the football season, 1928 the band gave its first continuous musical formation between the halves of a football game. This year was the initial time complete works were played. Last season saw the "Best Band in Dixie" try for the first time script-writing.
Since 1925, motion pictures have been taken of all formations made by the band. These pictures form a complete file of the band's activities and aid in yearping and correcting formations.

Under the direction of John Lewis, the band has become active in many high school and college students in better music. Last year the band gave 15 broadcasts over the radio. With its teaching use of musical instruments. The band also is used for clinic purposes, giving instruction in concert music to the various Kentucky high schools.
A series of spring concerts were given on the campus last year by the band, and it also gave a program for the state high school music contest.
For having the best marching band playing the "Best Band in Dixie" was awarded a trophy at the Kentucky state fair in 1928. This trophy has previously been held by F. R. Lee, University.

In 1928 the band made its first state concert tour, giving a series of eight programs in Southern Kentucky during the spring vacation.
During the past ten years the band has made trips to Charleston, W. Va.; Lexington, Va.; Nashville, Tenn.; Birmingham, Ala.; Evansville, Ill. and Washington, D. C. In addition the band has played in numerous Kentucky towns.

Present sponsor of the band is Betty Bakhaus. Drum majors are Berkeley Bennison and Bruce Sullivan.
Other girls who have been sponsors of the "Best Band in Dixie" include: Margaret A. Smith, 21; Martha Carolyn Pate, 22-23; Helen Lampert, 24; Willye G. Jones, 25; Charley Smith, 26-27; Mary Lewis Marvin, 28; Leura Pettigrew, 29-30; Evelyn Ford, 30; Virginia Dougherty, 31; Elizabeth O. Jones, 32; Margaret Walker, 33 and 34; Rosemary Clark, 35-36.

Photographs of these girls are on display in the hall outside the music office in the Art center.

Outside Employment Helps 900 Students Spare Time Work Helps Over 25 Percent Of Students Through College

Nearly 900 students in the University, 28 per cent of the entire enrollment, are working for the privilege of getting an education. They have sought and found jobs of many varieties all over Lexington, in order to study at the University.
The N. Y. A. provides for the majority of the jobs. There are also 250 other boys are doing various work in Lexington and adjoining communities. A large number have been employed in stores, restaurants, and boarding houses. Ask one of them to go to the races some afternoon and the inevitable reply is, "Sorry, I've got to work." They spend all their spare time, if it may be called spare, in earning their privilege to get an education.

There are 124 girls on N. Y. A. which is quite a decrease from last year. Besides the workers for Uncle Sam there are about 16 girls working in homes as mother's helpers, about ten in tea rooms and restaurants and about ten in stores working part time.

There are also five student girls who are part time secretaries on the campus. Six girls are working in residence halls and 13 in the library that are not on the N. Y. A. Altogether, there are about 300 girls who are working in order to attend the University.

About 250 boys are doing various work in Lexington and adjoining communities. A large number have been employed in stores, restaurants, and boarding houses. Cosmopolitan Club Elects President

Rosemary Taylor, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, was elected president of the Cosmopolitan Club, organization for foreign born students, at a meeting held Friday night in the Y. M. C. A. recreation room. Miss Taylor was chosen to fill the vacancy left by Carl Vertucci, who did not return this semester.

Other officers of the club are: John O'Brien, vice-president; William Mayer, secretary; and Carl Snyder, treasurer. Brad Peak, Y. M. C. A. secretary, presided at the meeting at which games were played and refreshments were served. About fifty members were present.

Anyone who is not a foreign born student but who would be interested in the club, is cordially invited to attend the meetings. Any foreign born students who are new on the campus this semester is also urged to attend.

LEADERS NAMED FOR WAA DRIVE

Dye And Welch Are In Charge As Campaign Managers, Cards To Be Sent Out To Women

The membership drive of the Women's Athletic Association will start this week. Plans for the drive were made at the council meeting held in the Women's gym yesterday afternoon. Nathalie Dye and Jane Welch are in charge of the campaign, and cards will be sent to all new girls asking whether or not they are interested in joining W. A. A. and what they would like to participate in. These cards may be left at the post office in the W. A. A. box.
This is the last week for archery and tournament play will begin next Monday. Every girl out for archery must shoot in the tournament to receive her points and an engraved arrow will be awarded to the high scorer.
Hockey practice will be held every day at 4 p. m. at Pitts hall field. This is a major sport and entitles a person to 100 points towards their awards, if they have participated in enough practices and games. It was announced at the meeting that a letter will be sent to Danville inviting Centre co-eds to play hockey in the near future.
Plans were also discussed for the W. A. A. dance which is to be held November 12th in cooperation with the boys swimming team. A committee was chosen to meet with the boys Wednesday night to make final plans for the dance. Those on the committee are: Rummel Palmer, Frances Laval, Martha Hawkins, Jane Welch and Eleanor Sorensen.

"CAN PEOPLE APPRECIATE THE CHOICER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS?"
A QUESTION FREQUENTLY HEARD...
ANSWER:
THEY SMOKE MORE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE
ALL IN THE WORLD

Men and women respond to the unadorned fact that costlier tobaccos play the most important part in making Camel Cigarettes milder and better

The deeper you dig into the facts—the flatter must be grown into cigarette tobaccos. Nothing man can do to inferior tobaccos can take the place of good tobaccos to start with. As you'd expect, naturally milder, better-tasting tobaccos cost more to buy. And cost pays tobaccos more year in and year out to get the job done. That's why Camels are different — why they appeal more to men and women in all walks of life — why they're the largest-selling cigarette in America... or in the world!

"Camels went round the world with me. I'll bet on them any time," found-the-world-reporter, Miss Dorothy Kilgallen, says. "With Camels, steady smoking's a steady pleasure."

"I'll line up 100% with Camels," says V. F. Gendendorff, class of '40. "Smoking Camels at meal-times and afterwards gives me a mighty swell sense of well-being. Camels set me right!"

"I have a long record as a Camel smoker—I've smoked them for many years," Bill Thilen states. "Here's one big point about Camels—they're the cigarette that I've found doesn't upset my nerves."

"Camels go big out our way," says Charlie Bolden, boss of the Pitchfork Ranch, Wyoming. "Cowboys like that 'lift' they get out of Camels."

"So many girls at college smoke Camels," says Miss Josephine O'Neill, co-ed. "Mental work often affects digestion. I find Camels make food seem twice as good!"

The famous purchase jumper, Joe Crans, says: "I've smoked enough Camels to prove that they don't frazzle the nerves."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND... Camels are a matchless blend of rare, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. Skillful blending brings out the full flavor of these choice tobaccos.
