Death makes student regretful

Sentence: LCC student receives 6 months in jail after being convicted of DUI, reckless homicide

Patrick Thurston will always remember April 27, 2001.
That was the day the LCC student crashed his Volkswagen Jetta into a tree after leaving Keeneland one afternoon. He was convicted of driving under the influence. Because of the accident, Jared Garner, a good friend of Thurston's, died. His girlfriend, Leigh-Ann Mims, and another passenger, Taylor Papania, were injured. Thurston's neck was also snapped. He was found guilty of reck-

Thurston will serve his sentence in the Fayette County Detention Center at a later date. Thurston expressed his remorse for the accident in court. "I wake up every day, every moment of my life, thinking about what happened." Thurston told Payne. "I took someone's life, and I have to face the consequences. I can't go back and change it."

Payne said he felt regret for Thurston's circumstance. "He was a good kid. He just made a big mistake," Payne said. "He has to suffer the conse-quences."

ful for — including a new lease on life.

During August 2000, Kristy and Kelly Congleton, family studies seniors, were in the hospital recovering from an organ transplant procedure.

Kristy was diagnosed with developmental kidney failure. Her twin sister, Kelly, donated one of her kidneys to Kristy.

"I was immediately willing to donate my kidney to Kristy. I was mentally prepared ... I felt like I always knew something would nappen, and Kristy would need my help." Kelly said.

After the experience, the twins realize the importance of organ donation. Both have signed the back of their licensees and notified their family of their intent to donate their organs.

"If you can donate when you are alive, think about how much more you can offer when you are gone and do not need your organs anymore," Kristy said.

The cause of Kristy's kidney failure is unknown. Doctors believe it may have been related to complications she had at birth.

Both women recovered completely within one month of the procedure and live normal lives. Janie Morrison, deputy director of the UK Organ Transplant Center, said people don't donate their organs because of an unwilliangess to accept dying.

Amelia Brown, a family and consumer science sophomore, is awaiting a liver transplant after being diagnosed with immune acute hepatitis the week before she began her freshman year.

"I am counting on having a live doner but I hone that if "I am counting on having a live donor, but I hope that if I need an entire liver enough peo-ple will have signed to be a donor and give me the gift of living a normal life." Brown said.

Brown will be traveling to Pennsylvania in December to begin the process of finding a donor.
"I can't understand why anyone would refuse the opportunity of life to those who are in need of an organ. It breaks my heart that people would want to take something like an organ with them and not leave it here for someone that needs it to live." Brown said.

There is a shortage of organ and tissue donors in Kentucky and the United States.

Brown and the Congletons said donating an organ is overwhelming, but giving life back to a person far outweighs the negative aspects.

Women's commission meets for second time

The President's Commission on the Status of Women is asking UK to implement procedures that would guarantee university employees with same sex partners the right to purchase health insurance for their partners and children. But Carolyn Bratt, chairwoman of the commission, said that's just one of the issues the commission is examining. Bratt said the group is still "at the very beginning of deternining what focus the commission is going to take" after a meeting held last Friday.

While the forerunner to the commission, the Ad Hoc Committee on the Status of Women, focused its efforts largely on UK faculty and employees, Bratt said the new group is looking to gain student input.

The commission is planning public forums in January.

'It doesn't matter what's brought up as long as it has a gender hook. 'Bratt said of the forum.' 'We'll do then lin a variety of locations and at different times of the day to make use we get as many students as possible.

UK trustees invest $3 million in venture funds

UK trustees invest $3 million in venture funds

The investment committee of the UK Board of Trustee's placed $8 million into two venture capital funds Friday to aid start-up companies and small businesses in Kentucky.

"Instead of paying a company to move into the state of Kentucky, we can help to create new companies that will employ the residents of the state," said Billy Joe Miles, chairman of the Board of Trustees. The committee required the investment companies to have offices in the state.

Lexington-based Limestone Capital L.P. received $2 million, and the other $1$ million was invested with the Louisville-based Chrysalis Ventures, LLC.

UK's money will be invested along with other funds in ways similar to mutual funds, which allow for donors to share risk, said Joseph Fink, UK's vice president for corporate relations and economic outreach.

But Jack Blanton, senior vice president for administration, said the returns will be more than just dollars—the university will help to promote business in Kentucky.

Blanton said the investment is modest, since the $3 million is less than 1 percent of UK's $417 million endowment.

"We just want to see how well we do," Blanton said.

UK drops last game to Hoosiers, retains Morriss

UK drops last game to Hoosiers, retains Morriss

BLOOMINGTON. Ind. — UK announced that it will retain coach Guy Morriss next season after the Cats fell to the Indiana Hoosiers 26:15 for the first time since 1994 to finish 29 for the second consecutive season.

In the second consecutive season. In the second consecutive season. In the second half, he moved into fith place on the NCAA's total yardage list, passing Boston College's Doug Flutie.

UK took a 70 lead on its second possession with a 19-yard pass from Jared Lorenzen to Tommy Cook, who fumbled the ball into the end zone where Derek Ahney recovered.

The Hoosiers tied the score on a 1-yard run from Jeremi Johnson, then took the lead on a 30-yard touchdown pass from Randle El to Kris Dielman.

Randle El then connected with Courtney Roby on a 19-yard touchdown pass with 1:06 left in the half to make it 19-7. Indiana sealed the game on Johnson's 27-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter.

UK cut the lead to 26-15 when Lorenzen threw his second touchdown pass, late in the fourth quarter, then completed a conversion pass to Martez Johnson.

Randle El was 15-of-31 for 194 yards, passed for two touchdowns and runshed for 43 yards on 15 carries. He finished five completions short of the school record and 36 yards shy of rushing for 1:00 yards for the second straight season. UK was led by Lorenzen. who completed 26-of-45 passes for 324 yards.

UK announced that Morriss, who had agreed to a five-year contract, would be retained next season Sunday. A news conference is scheduled for 2 p.m. today.

No hope of reunion: Many people had hoped that George, Paul and Ringo would get together for a concert soon, but those hopes are no more

George Harrison, the Beatles' quiet lead guitarist and spiritual explorer who added both rock 'n' roll flash and a touch of the mystic to the band's timeless magic, he died. He was 58.

Harrison died at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at a friend's Los Angeles home following a battle with cancer, longtime friend Gavin De Becker told The Associated Press late Thursday. Harrison's wife, Olivia Harrison, and son Dhani, 24, were with him.

"He left this world as he lived in it, conscious of God, fearless of death, and at peace, surrounded by family and friends," the Harrison family said in a statement. "He often said, Everything else can wait but the search for God cannot wait, and love one another."

statement. He orter said, Everything ease can wan but the search for God cannot wait, and love one another."

A family funeral has already been held, and no details were released. Harrison's widow and son asked divide and bhani linvite you to join them in a minute of meditation in honor of George's journey, wherever you are (today) at 1:30 p.m. PST," a family friend said.

With Harrison's death, there remain two surviving Beatles, Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr. John Lennon was shot to death by a fan in 1990.

"I am devastated and very, very sad," McCartney told reporters outside his London home Friday. "He was a lovely guy and a very brave man and had a wonderful sense of humor. He is really just my beby brother."

"We are deeply touched by the outpouring of love and compassion from people around the world. The profound beauty of the moment of George's passing—of his awakening from this dream — was no surprise to those of us who knew how he longed to be with God. In that pursuit, he was relentless," wife Olivia Harrison and son Dhani Harrison said in a statement released Saturday.

The intensely private and spiritual Harrison was known as the quiet Beatle. In 1998, Harrison disclosed that he had been treated for throat cancer. 'It reminds you that anything can happen,' he said at the time. The following year, Harrison survived an attack by an intruder who stabbed him several times. In July 2001, he released a statement asking fans not to worry about reports that he was still battling cancer.

Local Beatles fans seemed to take the news a bit timg cancer.

Local Beatles fans seemed to take the news a bit hard.

"I still can't believe it," Heather Dykes, a history sophomore said. "I always thought the Beatles would never die."

Music sophomore Britney Cromer said she was hoping the Beatles would have gotten back together to play one last time.

"Even if John wasn't there, it would have been neat to see the remaining ones play," Cromer said. "Now it won't happen, unless they have a big jam session in heaven."

Although his songwriting was overshadowed by the great Lennon-McCartney team, Harrison did contribute such classics as "Here Comes the Sun" and "Something." Harrison also taught the young Lennon how to play the guitar.

After the Beatles broke up in 1970, Harrison had sporadic success. He organized the concert for Bangladesh in New York, produced films like Monty Python's Life of Brian and teamed with old friends, including Bob Dylan and Roy Orbison, to make the band The Traveling Wilburys.

John Chambers, of the Liverpool Beatles Appreciation Society, said Harrison's death was the end of an era for Beatles fans.

"Until now there has always been the hope of a reunion, perhaps with Julian Lennon standing in for his Dad," Chambers said. "It really is the end of a dream."

ONE REALLY GOOD REASON HUMANS SHOULD NEVER BE CLONED...

IN OUR OPINION

It's no dead week

Two weeks from today, the Fall semester will only be a memory. You can travel home to see friends and family, drink your weight in eggnog, or, most importantly, just relax. The semester has flown by in record time, and it is time to rest.

Standing between winter break and students, however, is dead week and finals.

The latter is meant to closely resemble hell, of course, but in recent years the former has taken on many of the same characteristics. With projects due, homework to finish and normal class lectures to attend, some students have trouble finding time to study.

Many professore have provided flexibility in their schedules, such that students.

Many professors have provided flexibility in their schedules, such that students might have the option to take their final during dead week in lieu of finals week. Others set project deadlines on the Friday before and simply allow their students to turn the work in during dead week.

All of these things help, since students can space out their work to accommodate their own time schedules. On the other hand, more and more work is being piled into a week designed primarily for study and preparation.

Quite a conundrum.

Quite a conundrum.

There is no easy way to ease the burden of the last few weeks of school. The best method would be attending class and learning the material throughout the semester. Funny, right?

Even when crammed, though, one should still remember that better and more efficient work is done when one is calm and collected. Take a deep breath and get to slowly, but surely

And it is always important to remember that no matter how hard the test or how unbearable the lecture, the semester will be finished in two weeks. This is not a job where you have to come back day after day for 40 years. The semester will soon be over, and before you know it you will have a degree and actually have to find one of those jobs

So, good luck during the next two weeks, and may all of your finals be non-cumulative.

Everyone is entitled to our opinion

Judging the SUV: Bigger is worse

Sport utility vehicles — kings of urban chaos, leaders of the concrete jungle, commanders of soccer moms' worlds — oh, how I loathe these beasts. One can only imagine my reaction to my dad's proposal to trade one of our vehicles in for one of these monstrosities.

One can only wonder how the SUV market actually evolved. It's not 1 i k e the re was actual demand, it was one of those things and the command, it was one of the command, it was one of the command, it was one of the command.

f r o m
"un-need." Lawn ornaments, bottled water and Ethel, the singing fish, also come to mind
as items in this category.
If there was a need to transport stuff, there was the pickup ruck. If there was the need to transport stuff over rough terrain, there was the off-road pickup. Soccer moms had their wagons and minivans. Combining these two gave you the Subaru Outback, something I don't think any Alustralians drive (correct me if I'm wrong here).

Think the Ford Explorer was I'm wrong here with the provided was the second of the provided was the provided was equivalent. Recent drops in prices have only encouraged the SUV buying spree. What did car companies do? They only made the first successful and the successful

They were making some commitment to the environment. Interestingly enough, the keep pushing for larger vehicles, even having V-10s in some of their SUVs. Of course, the companies have to do whatever is profitable and try to answer to consumers' needs. But note that Swedish companies such as Saab and Volvo are absent from this activity — maybe they know better.

I wonder if people will still be inclined toward these vehicles in the next 10 years. One can be supposed to the such that the supposed in the sup managed to persuade my dad against buying an SUV. For now, he has stopped talking about it and instead bought me a
